(4) For the purpose of an election under this section, a person's interest in a partnership that owns livestock is treated separately from any other interest that the person has in livestock. Separate elections are required for the person's partnership interest and for their other livestock interests. The person is not required to choose the same valuation method in both cases.

Look-through company owners' interests

(5) For the purposes of an election under this section, a person's interest for a look-through company that owns livestock is treated separately from any other interest that the person has in livestock. Separate elections are required for the person's owner's interest and for their other livestock interests. The person is not required to choose the same valuation method in both cases.

EC 13 Changes in partnership interests

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a partnership owns specified livestock (the old partnership); and

(b) a new partnership is formed (the new partnership); and

(c) at the end of the income year in which the new partnership is formed, more than 50% of the property of the new partnership is owned by persons who, during that income year or in the previous income year,—

(i) owned all the property of the old partnership; and

(ii) derived income in either income year from specified livestock of the same type as that owned by the new partnership.

Valuation

(2) The value of specified livestock owned by the new partnership must be taken into account in the way the old partnership determines the value of livestock of the particular type at the end of the income year in which the new partnership is formed. If the old partnership has no specified livestock of the type on hand at the end of the income year, the value is taken into account as the old partnership would have determined it, had it owned specified livestock of that type.

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 13

Herd scheme

EC 14 Herd scheme

Election to use herd scheme

(1) A person may choose to value specified livestock of any type and class under the herd scheme.

Election of other method

(2) A person who has chosen to value livestock of a particular type under the herd scheme may nevertheless value livestock of that type by another method, subject to the restrictions described in section EC 8.

Election to leave herd scheme

(3) A person who wishes to stop valuing livestock of a particular type under the herd scheme must give 2 income years' notice to the Commissioner in the way described in section EC 11. However, notice is not required if the person values livestock of that type by another method that is available for use in conjunction with the herd scheme.

Defined in this Act: class, Commissioner, herd scheme, income year, notice, specified livestock, type

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 14

EC 15 Determining national average market values

Determined by Commissioner

(1) The Commissioner must determine a national average market value for an income year for each class of specified livestock set out in schedule 17, column 2 (Types and classes of livestock).

Application to income year

(2) The value applies to the income year for which it is determined, whether the income year started before, on, or after the date on which the determination is made.

Secondary legislation

(3) A determination under subsection (1) is secondary legislation (see Part 3 of the Legislation Act 2019 for publication requirements).

EC 16 Valuation under herd scheme

Closing value of herd livestock

(1) The closing value of herd livestock in an income year is either its herd value for the income year or, if a herd value ratio is adopted, its herd value multiplied by its herd value ratio.

Opening value of herd livestock

(2) The opening value of herd livestock in an income year is determined under subsection (3) if a person—

(a) has valued the livestock under the herd scheme in the previous income year; and

(b) has the livestock on hand at the start of the income year; and

(c) has not chosen to value the livestock by a different method for the income year.

Determining opening value

(3) The opening value of herd livestock in an income year is either its herd value for the income year or, if the person has adopted a herd value ratio, its herd value for the income year multiplied by its herd value ratio for the previous income year. This subsection overrides section DB 49(3) (Adjustment for opening values of trading stock, livestock, and excepted financial arrangements).

Defined in this Act: herd livestock, herd scheme, herd value, herd value ratio, income year

Section EC 16(3): amended (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 29 August 2011 (applying for the 2008–09 and later income years), by section 22(1) of the Taxation (Tax Administration and Remedial Matters) Act 2011 (2011 No 63).

EC 17 Herd value ratio

Adoption of herd value ratio

(1) A herd value ratio is available for a person to use in determining the value of specified livestock in the herd scheme. A person may adopt a herd value ratio for herd livestock of a particular type by giving notice in the way described in section EC 11. A person may also adopt a recalculated ratio by giving notice in the same way.

Chatham Islands livestock

(2) Herd value ratios calculated under subsection (5) do not apply to livestock on the Chatham Islands. The Chatham Islands adjustment to the herd value ratio is dealt with in section EC 19.

When herd value ratio applies

(3) When a person adopts a herd value ratio for livestock of a particular type, the ratio applies in the income year specified in the notice and in later income years until—

(a) the income year in which it is superseded by a recalculation of the ratio; or

(b) the income year in which the person stops valuing, under an election, livestock of that type under the herd scheme; or

(c) the income year following 2 consecutive income years in which the person has not valued livestock of that type under the herd scheme.

Assessment of average value

(4) For the purpose of calculating a herd value ratio, a person must obtain from a recognised livestock valuer an assessment of the value of an average animal of that person in each applicable class of livestock. The value is determined as at the 30 April that is closest to the day on which the national average market values are set.

Calculation of herd value ratio

(5) The herd value ratio for livestock of a particular type is calculated by using the formula in subsection (6) and rounding the result of the calculation to the nearest of the following figures: 0.9, 1.0, 1.1, 1.2, 1.3.

Formula

(6) The formula is—

$$\Sigma(\text{average value} \times \text{number}) \div \Sigma(\text{herd value} \times \text{number}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula,—

(a) Σ is the total of the individual calculations for all applicable classes of livestock type valued under the herd scheme:

(b) average value is the average value of an animal in a class as described in subsection (4):

(c) number is the number of all livestock of that class on hand at the end of the income year, including livestock that are not in the herd scheme, but not including high-priced livestock:

(d) herd value is the herd value of livestock for a class.

Defined in this Act: class, herd livestock, herd scheme, herd value, herd value ratio, high-priced livestock, income year, livestock on the Chatham Islands, national average market value, notice, specified livestock, type

EC 18 Inaccurate herd value ratio

The Commissioner may require a person who is using an inaccurate herd value ratio for a type of livestock in an income year to recalculate the herd value ratio. If the recalculation differs from the existing ratio for the income year, the Commissioner may amend the assessment of income tax for the income year and any later income year and may substitute the recalculated herd value ratio for that previously applied by the person.

Defined in this Act: assessment, Commissioner, herd value ratio, income tax, income year, type

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 18

EC 19 Chatham Islands adjustment to herd value

Adjustment for herd livestock on Chatham Islands

(1) A person may adopt an adjustment for herd livestock on the Chatham Islands by giving notice in the way described in section EC 11.

When adjustment applies

(2) When a person adopts a Chatham Islands adjustment as a herd value ratio, it applies as a herd value ratio to a particular type of livestock on the Chatham Islands at the end of the income year specified in the notice and in later income years until—

(a) the income year in which the person stops valuing, under an election, livestock of that type in the herd scheme; or

(b) the income year following 2 consecutive income years in which the person has not valued livestock of that type on the Chatham Islands under the herd scheme.

Setting adjustment

(3) The Commissioner must set and may vary from time to time the level of Chatham Islands adjustment to the herd value ratio that applies in an income year.

Secondary legislation

(4) The instrument that sets or varies an adjustment under subsection (3) is secondary legislation (see Part 3 of the Legislation Act 2019 for publication requirements).

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, herd livestock, herd scheme, herd value, herd value ratio, income year, livestock on the Chatham Islands, notice, type

Average cost

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the determination must establish a process for finding an average cost to be applied to all specified livestock valued under the national standard cost scheme. The process must take into account—

(b) in addition to paragraph (a), the number in each category of livestock listed in schedule 18, column 2 that a person has on hand at any time in an income year, applying to the number the relevant national standard costs determined under section EC 23:

(1) A person may choose to value specified livestock under the cost price method, subject to the restrictions described in section EC 10, or under the replacement price method, or under the market value method.

Changing to cost price method

(2) If a person chooses in an income year to change to the cost price method from another valuation method, the opening value of the affected livestock is the closing value of the livestock at the end of the previous income year determined under the method used in that previous income year.

EC 26 Bailee's treatment of livestock

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, under a bailment, lease, or other agreement,—

(a) a person (person A) has the use of specified livestock; and

(b) person A is required—

(i) to return the livestock to the person who made it available; or

(ii) to pay the person full compensation for it.

Closing livestock numbers

(2) Person A is treated as owning, and must take into account at the end of an income year, the total number for all classes calculated using the formula—total livestock − bailed livestock.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) total livestock is all the livestock that person A has on hand in a class at the end of the income year, including—

(i) the livestock that they own; and

(ii) the livestock that they have the use of under the bailment, lease, or other agreement:

(b) bailed livestock is all the livestock in a class that person A has been given the use of under a bailment, lease, or other agreement that remains in force at the end of the income year.

Result of applying formula

(4) If the result of applying the formula in subsection (2) is positive, person A is treated as the owner of any surplus livestock. If the result is negative, person A must adjust the total number described in subsection (2) by treating it as a negative number.

Defined in this Act: class, income year, lease, pay, specified livestock

Partnerships: cost price and national standard cost scheme

Heading: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2009), on 6 October 2009, by section 114(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EC 26B Entering partners' cost base

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when an entering partner has acquired specified livestock that includes female breeding livestock for which section HG 10 (Disposal of livestock) applies, and the partners use the cost price method or the national standard cost scheme.

Existing cost base

(2) For the specified livestock, the entering partner is treated as having the same existing cost base that the exiting partner would have had for the purposes of the cost price method or national standard cost scheme for an income year, if they had not disposed of the interests.

Addition to cost base

(3) For the purposes of determining the value of the specified livestock at the end of an income year for the purposes of section EC 2, the entering partner must add to the existing cost base, described in subsection (2), the amount for the income year (the current year) calculated using the following formula:

livestock cost base difference × current year count ÷ allowed years.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) livestock cost base difference is the cost base that the entering partner would have for the specified livestock at the end of the income year in which the acquisition of the specified livestock occurred, ignoring subsection (2) reduced by the entering partner's existing cost base for the specified livestock at the end of that year, described in subsection (2). It must be a positive number:

(b) current year count,—

(i) is the allowed years reduced by the number of years between the current year and the income year in which the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock occurred, ignoring years in which the partners do not use the cost price method or national standard cost scheme (for example: current year count is 1, if the allowed years is 4, and the acquisition of the specified livestock occurred in the 2010–11 income year, and the current year is the 2013–14 income year, and the relevant method or scheme was used for all relevant income years):

(ii) may equal the allowed years (for example: the current year is the same year as the income year in which the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock occurred), but must not be a negative number:

(c) allowed years is—

(i) 4, if the partners acquire or dispose of any partnership interests that include any livestock after the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock and before the end of the income year in which that acquisition occurred; or

(ii) 5, if the partners do not acquire or dispose of any partnership interests that include any livestock after the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock and before the end of the income year in which that acquisition occurred.

Defined in this Act: amount, cost price, dispose, entering partner, exiting partner, income year, national standard cost scheme, partner, partner's interest, specified livestock

Person chooses valuation method

(2) A person may choose to use either the straight-line method or the diminishing value method to value high-priced livestock.

Diminishing value method

(3) If the person chooses to use the diminishing value method, they must give notice to the Commissioner that they are using the method at the time of filing their return of income for the first income year in which the value of the high-priced livestock is determined under section EC 34. The person cannot revoke their election to use the diminishing value method for the livestock.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, high-priced livestock, income year, notice, return of income

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 32

EC 33 Determining depreciation percentages

Determined by Commissioner

(1) The Commissioner must determine a depreciation percentage for an income year for each type, class, or category of high-priced livestock.

Purpose

(2) The percentage represents the average percentage decline in the value of livestock of the type, class, or category.

Factors

(3) The Commissioner must take into account—

(a) the average cost of livestock of the type, class, or category; and

(b) the estimated useful life of the livestock; and

(c) the average estimated residual market value of the livestock.

Secondary legislation

(4) A determination under subsection (1) is secondary legislation (see Part 3 of the Legislation Act 2019 for publication requirements).

Defined in this Act: class, Commissioner, depreciation percentage, estimated residual market value, estimated useful life, high-priced livestock, income year, type

EC 34 General rule

Value in income year of acquisition and later income years

(1) The closing value of high-priced livestock at the end of the income year in which it is acquired is its cost price minus the reduction applying in the income year. In a later income year, the value is its opening value minus the reduction applying in the income year until the value reaches or falls below the national average market value for the class to which the livestock belongs.

Straight-line method

(2) When a person has chosen to use the straight-line method, the reduction is calculated using the formula—cost price × depreciation percentage.

Diminishing value method

(3) When a person has chosen to use the diminishing value method, the reduction is calculated as follows:

(a) in the first income year in which the election applies, the cost price multiplied by the diminishing value equivalent of the depreciation percentage for the income year:

(b) in later income years, the opening value of the livestock multiplied by the diminishing value equivalent of the depreciation percentage for the income year.

Meaning of diminishing value equivalent

(4) In this section, diminishing value equivalent, for a depreciation percentage, means the diminishing value depreciation rate in schedule 12, column 1 (Old banded rates of depreciation) to which the amount in column 2 equal to the depreciation percentage is the straight-line equivalent. Two qualifications are—

(a) if no amount in column 2 is equal to the depreciation percentage, the amount closest to it is taken; and

(b) if 2 amounts in column 2 are equidistant from the depreciation percentage, the depreciation percentage is rounded down.

Exclusions

(5) This section does not apply in the cases described in sections EC 35 and EC 36.

Defined in this Act: amount, class, cost price, depreciation percentage, diminishing value equivalent, high-priced livestock, income year, national average market value

EC 35 Livestock reaching national average market value and livestock no longer used for breeding

Livestock at or less than national average market value

(1) This section applies to a person's high-priced livestock whose value at the end of an income year is equal to or less than the national average market value for the class to which the livestock belongs.

Livestock no longer used for breeding

(2) This section also applies to high-priced livestock that, in an income year, a person—

(a) does not expect to use for breeding for that or any later income year; and

(b) does not intend to dispose of to any other person to use for breeding.

Closing value

(3) The closing value of the high-priced livestock at the end of the income year is determined as follows:

(a) when the person values any specified livestock of that type under the herd scheme for the income year, the value of the animal under the herd scheme; and

(b) when the person values all specified livestock of that type that is older than 1 year under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method, the national average market value for the income year of livestock of the class to which the animal belongs; and

(c) when the person values all specified livestock of that type that is older than 1 year under the market value method or the replacement price method, the market value or replacement price of the animal at the end of the income year.

Valuation in later income years

(4) In later income years, the animal that was high-priced livestock is treated as the person's specified livestock and is valued under the valuation method the person chooses for specified livestock of the type to which the animal belongs.

Entry into herd scheme in later income years

(5) This subsection applies if, in a later income year (year A), the person values any specified livestock of the same type as the animal under the herd scheme and, in the next year, values the animal under the herd scheme. The animal is treated as if it were valued under the herd scheme at the end of year A.

Defined in this Act: class, cost price, herd scheme, high-priced livestock, income year, national average market value, national standard cost scheme, specified livestock, type, year

EC 39B Stud-founding bloodstock and related terms

Meaning of stud-founding bloodstock

(1) Stud-founding bloodstock means high-priced bloodstock that a prospective bloodstock breeder owns if—

(a) the prospective bloodstock breeder acquires the high-priced bloodstock before it is 2 years of age; and

(b) within 4 months after the day on which the prospective bloodstock breeder acquires the high-priced bloodstock—

(i) the prospective bloodstock breeder notifies the Commissioner of their intention to use the high-priced bloodstock for breeding bloodstock for profit; and

(ii) information as the Commissioner requires is provided to the Commissioner; and

(c) the high-priced bloodstock is registered in the New Zealand Stud Book or in the New Zealand Harness Racing Stud Book.

Meaning of high-priced bloodstock

(2) High-priced bloodstock means bloodstock that—

(a) is sold, when a yearling, at a premier yearling sale for an amount greater than the relevant national minimum price threshold for the calendar year in which the sale occurs; and

(b) is expected, when sold at the premier yearling sale, to be capable of being used for breeding when it reaches maturity.

Meaning of prospective bloodstock breeder

(3) A prospective bloodstock breeder means a person who acquires bloodstock—

(a) when they do not have an existing bloodstock breeding business; and

(b) with the intention of—

(i) having the bloodstock first raced in New Zealand; and

(ii) using the bloodstock for breeding bloodstock in New Zealand for profit.

Meaning of premier yearling sale

(4) A premier yearling sale means a sale of bloodstock yearlings that is listed in schedule 18B (Premier yearling sales).

Meaning of national minimum price threshold

Defined in this Act: bloodstock, business, Commissioner, high-priced bloodstock, national minimum price threshold, New Zealand, premier yearling sale, prospective bloodstock breeder, stud-founding bloodstock

Section EC 39B: inserted (with effect on 1 January 2019), on 18 March 2019, by section 159(1) (and see section 159(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2018–19, Modernising Tax Administration, and Remedial Matters) Act 2019 (2019 No 5).

EC 39C Setting and publication of national minimum price threshold

Setting of national minimum price threshold

(1) The Commissioner must set a national minimum price threshold for each class of bloodstock set out in schedule 18C, column 2 (Breeds and classes of bloodstock). The national minimum price threshold for a calendar year (the threshold year) must be set at the amount given by,—

(a) for each class of the standardbred breed of horses,—

(i) for each of the 3 calendar years immediately preceding the threshold year, calculating the value at the 97th percentile of sale prices for that class at the premier yearling sales in the calendar year; and

(ii) dividing the sum of the 3 percentile values calculated in subparagraph (i) by 3; and

(iii) rounding the amount calculated in subparagraph (ii) to the nearest multiple of $1,000, with the amount being rounded up if it ends in $500:

(b) for each class of the thoroughbred breed of horses,—

(i) for each of the 3 calendar years immediately preceding the threshold year, calculating the value at the 95th percentile of sale prices for that class at the premier yearling sales in the calendar year; and

(ii) dividing the sum of the 3 percentile values calculated in subparagraph (i) by 3; and

(iii) rounding the amount calculated in subparagraph (ii) to the nearest multiple of $1,000, with the amount being rounded up if it ends in $500.

When national minimum price threshold must be set and published

(2) The Commissioner must set and publish the national minimum price threshold that applies for a calendar year before the first premier yearling sale in that calendar year is held.

Consequence of late setting and publication of national minimum price threshold

(3) This subsection applies when the Commissioner does not set and publish the national minimum price threshold that applies for a calendar year before the first premier yearling sale in that calendar year is held. For sales of bloodstock yearlings at the premier yearling sales that occur before the Commissioner has set and published the national minimum price threshold that applies for that calendar year, the national minimum price threshold for each class of bloodstock set out in schedule 18C, column 2 that has most recently been set under section EC 39C or by section EZ 6B (National minimum price threshold for 2019 calendar year) is, for the purposes of section EC 39B(2), treated as being the national minimum price threshold for the calendar year in which the sale occurs.

Section EC 39C: inserted, on 1 January 2020, by section 161(1) (and see section 161(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2018–19, Modernising Tax Administration, and Remedial Matters) Act 2019 (2019 No 5).

EC 40 Later income years in breeding business

What this section applies to

(1) This section applies to the income years that follow the first income year described in section EC 39.

Closing value

(2) The closing value of the bloodstock is its opening value minus the reduction applying in that income year.

Closing value not previously taken into account

(3) If the person has not taken the closing value of the bloodstock into account in the previous income year, the closing value is the cost price of the bloodstock minus the reduction applying in the income year in which the person makes the calculation.

Determination of reduction

(4) The reduction that applies is determined under section EC 41, EC 42, EZ 5, or EZ 6 (which relate to bloodstock).

Defined in this Act: bloodstock, cost price, income year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 40

EC 41 Reduction: bloodstock not previously used for breeding in New Zealand other than as shuttle stallions

Bloodstock to which this section applies

(1) This section applies to bloodstock that—

(a) was not used for breeding in New Zealand before 16 December 1991; and

(b) before a person (person A) acquired it, was not used for breeding in New Zealand by any other person.

Further bloodstock to which this section applies

(1B) This section also applies to bloodstock that, before person A acquired it, was used by another person for breeding in New Zealand if—

(a) the other person transferred the bloodstock to person A under a relationship agreement to which section FB 18 (Bloodstock) applies:

(b) the other person was a company in the same wholly-owned group as person A at the time person A acquired the bloodstock from the other person:

(c) the bloodstock is a stallion that, for each year in which the stallion was used for breeding in New Zealand before being acquired by person A, was—

(i) owned by a non-resident; and

(ii) removed from New Zealand after the breeding season; and

(iii) not subject to a reduction under this section.

Stallion

(2) For the purposes of sections EC 39 and EC 40, the reduction applying to the value of a stallion is 50% of the cost price of the stallion unless person A chooses to value the stallion by the reducing value method.

Stallion valued by reducing value method

(3) When person A chooses to value the stallion by the reducing value method, the reduction applying to the value of the stallion is 75% of its cost price in the first income year and 75% of its opening value in each later income year. Person A must give notice to the Commissioner of their election in their return of income for the first income year.

Broodmare when first used on or after 1 April 2001

(4) For the purposes of sections EC 39 and EC 40, the reduction applying to the value of a broodmare to which section EC 39(2) applies is calculated using the formula—

$$1.25 \times \text{cost price of broodmare} \div (9 - \text{age of broodmare}).$$

Definition of item in formula

(5) In the formula, age of broodmare is—

(a) 8 years of age; or

(b) the actual age in years, if the broodmare is 7 years of age or less at the end of the income year.

Bloodstock not used in business

(2) If bloodstock used in an income year for racing is not actually used in the course of a business of breeding bloodstock for sale or exchange, the blood-stock owner may apply to the Commissioner to have the use of the bloodstock treated other than under subsection (1).

Use outside business

(1) If a bloodstock owner who is in the business of breeding bloodstock for sale or exchange starts to use bloodstock other than in the course of the business, they are treated as having disposed of the bloodstock. The disposal is treated as having occurred at market value on the day on which they changed the use of the bloodstock.

Use in business

(d) [Repealed]

(e) [Repealed]

(f) [Repealed]

Value of units transferred to person if no earlier emissions unit shortfall year

(2) If an emissions unit is transferred to the person in the income year and there is no earlier income year that is an emissions unit shortfall year for the person under subsections (9) and (10), the emissions unit is assigned a value of zero at the time of the transfer.

Value of units transferred to person in income year after emissions unit shortfall year

(3) If an earlier income year is an emissions unit shortfall year for the person immediately before an emissions unit (the transferred unit) is transferred to the person in the income year, the value of the transferred unit at the time of the transfer is given by the application of the paragraphs in subsection (4) in alphabetical order to transferred units until all the transferred units are assigned a value.

Valuation method at transfer for transferred units

(4) If emissions units are transferred to the person in an income year when there is a unit shortfall under subsections (9) and (10) for an earlier emissions unit shortfall year,—

(a) for each emissions unit shortfall year in date order, transferred units, up to the number corresponding to the unit shortfall relating to the emissions unit shortfall year, are each assigned a value equal to the market value of an emissions unit at the end of the emissions unit shortfall year:

(b) transferred units are each assigned a value equal to zero.

Value of units with zero value immediately before end of income year

(5) If the value of an emissions unit (the revalued unit) held by the person immediately before the end of the income year is zero, the value of the revalued unit at the end of the year is given by the application of the paragraphs in

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula,—

(a) unit entitlement is the total for the income year of amounts, each of which the person would have for the period of overlap between a calendar year ending 31 December and the income year if the period of overlap were treated as a year, of—

(iii) allocation entitlement under section 64 of the Climate Change Response Act 2002 for a removal activity listed in Schedule 4, Part 2 of that Act:

(iv) emissions units corresponding to the actual emissions amount under a supplementary agreement to a negotiated greenhouse agreement:

(v) emissions units corresponding to a rebate, under a negotiated greenhouse agreement, for an indirect emissions charge:

(b) disposals at zero value is the number of emissions units disposed of by the person in the income year that had a value of zero at the disposal.

Valuation method at end of income year for revalued units

(8) If the person holds revalued units immediately before the end of the income year, the units are each assigned a value—

(a) equal to the market value of an emissions unit at the end of the income year:

(b) equal to zero.

Emissions unit shortfall year

(9) If the number of units assigned a market value for an income year under subsection (8)(a) is less than the maximum number given by subsection (6) for the income year, at the end of the income year—

(a) the income year is an emissions unit shortfall year and has 2 numbers (the unit shortfall and the unit shortfall value) associated with it:

(b) the unit shortfall relating to the emissions unit shortfall year is the difference between the maximum number given by subsection (6) for the income year and the number of zero value units assigned a market value under subsection (8)(a) for the income year:

(c) the unit shortfall value relating to the emissions unit shortfall year is the unit shortfall multiplied by the market value of an emissions unit at the end of the income year.

Reductions in unit shortfall and unit shortfall value

(10) When an emissions unit held by a person is assigned a value under subsection (4)(a) in relation to a year that is an emissions unit shortfall year for the person,—

(a) the unit shortfall relating to that year is reduced by the number of emissions units assigned a value in relation to that year:

(b) the unit shortfall value relating to that year is reduced by an amount equal to the number of emissions units assigned a value in relation to that year multiplied by the value assigned to each of those emissions units:

(c) the year ceases to be an emissions unit shortfall year, if the unit shortfall relating to the year is reduced to zero.

Unit shortfall values treated as values of additional emissions units for purposes of adjustments

(11) For the purposes of sections CH 1 and DB 49 (which relate to adjustments for values of excepted financial arrangements), the person is treated as holding at the end of the income year additional emissions units with a value equal to the total of the unit shortfall values relating to emissions unit shortfall years for the person.

ED 3 Part-year tax calculations for transfers: general insurance OCR

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person (the transferor) transfers general insurance contracts to another person (the transferee) in an income year and sections CR 4 and DW 4 (which relate to outstanding claims reserves) apply to either or both of the transferor and transferee.

Transfer from non-resident

(1B) If sections CR 4 and DW 4 apply to the transferee and not to the transferor, the transferee—

(a) does the calculations that the transferor would be required to perform under this section if sections CR 4 and DW 4 applied to the transferor; and

(b) uses the results of the calculations in the way required under this section for a transferee.

Part-year calculations for transfers

(2) A transferor to whom sections CR 4 and DW 4 apply does a part-year calculation immediately before the transfer, as described in subsection (3), for the transferred general insurance contracts, but only for their part-year ending on the day the transfer occurs. A transferee to whom sections CR 4 and DW 4 apply also does a part-year calculation for the transferred contracts, as described in subsection (3), but only for their part-year starting on the day the transfer occurs. The transferee's relevant opening outstanding claims reserve amounts equal the transferor's relevant closing outstanding claims reserve amounts immediately before the transfer, but if the reinsurance associated with transferred policies is not assigned by the transferor to the transferee, the transferee's reserve amounts are calculated without subtracting relevant reinsurance amounts.

Part-year calculations for transfers: description

(3) For calculating their income tax liability for the tax year that corresponds to the income year, the transferor and transferee treat references, in sections CR 4 and DW 4 and in the rules for life insurers, to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years (the part-years) within that tax year.

Part-year calculations for transfers: effect

(4) Transferor's and transferee's part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year, but they do not create any part-year tax return obligations.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, general insurance, IFRS 4, income, income tax liability, income year, insurer, outstanding claims reserve, pay, tax year

Who this section applies to

(1) This section applies to a person who, in an income year (the current year),—

(a) has an excepted financial arrangement, of a type (the arrangement type) described in section EW 5(21) to (25) (What is an excepted financial arrangement?), denominated in a foreign currency; and

(b) has an amount of foreign currency payable or receivable under the excepted financial arrangement (a foreign currency payment) at the end of the current year.

Person may choose valuation timing used for financial statements

(2) The person may choose to value a foreign currency payment at the close of trading spot exchange rate applicable at the end of the current year, if the person, in preparing financial statements, determines values at the end of the income year for amounts of foreign currency payable or receivable by the person.

Consistent valuation timing for excepted financial arrangement

(3) If foreign currency payments under a person's excepted financial arrangement are valued under subsection (2) for an income year, the amounts of foreign currency payable or receivable under all of the person's excepted financial arrangements of the arrangement type are valued in the same way for the income year and later income years.

Defined in this Act: amount, close of trading spot exchange rate, excepted financial arrangement, financial arrangement, income year

Section ED 4: inserted (with effect on 27 September 2012 and applying for a person and an excepted financial arrangement on and after that date, except if the person takes a tax position for the excepted financial arrangement, relying on an election made under section EW 8 before its amendment by the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013, in a return of income received by the Commissioner before that date or under a determination or binding ruling

Introductory provision

EE 1 What this subpart does

Quantifying amounts of depreciation loss and depreciation recovery income

(1) This subpart—

(a) quantifies the amount of depreciation loss for which a person is allowed a deduction if the provisions of Part D (Deductions) are met; and

(b) quantifies the amount of depreciation recovery income that is income under Part C (Income).

When amount of depreciation loss arises

(2) A person has an amount of depreciation loss for an item for an income year if—

(a) the person owns an item of property, as described in sections EE 2 to EE 5; and

(b) the item is depreciable property, as described in sections EE 6 to EE 8; and

(c) the item is used, or is available for use, by the person in the income year; and

(d) the amount of depreciation loss is calculated for the person, the item, and the income year under sections EE 9 to EE 11.

When amount of depreciation recovery income arises

(3) A person has an amount of depreciation recovery income for an item for an income year if—

(a) the person owns an item of property, as described in sections EE 2 to EE 5; and

(b) the item is depreciable property, as described in sections EE 6 to EE 8; and

(c) the item is disposed of or an event of a kind described in section EE 47 or EE 52 occurs; and

(d) the amount of depreciation recovery income is calculated for the person, the item, and the income year under any of sections EE 22(5), EE 38(5), EE 48(1), EE 49(2), EE 51(3), EE 52(3), EZ 23B, and EZ 23BB (which relate to property, and interests in property, acquired after depreciable property was affected by the Canterbury earthquakes).

Amounts of loss incurred and income derived

(4) To avoid doubt,—

(a) an amount of depreciation loss is treated as being incurred in the income year for which it is calculated; and

(b) an amount of depreciation recovery income is treated as being derived in the income year for which it is calculated.

Allocation of deduction for depreciation loss

(5) A person who in an income year uses an item for research or development or for market development that gives rise to a deduction allocated under section EJ 22 (Deductions for market development: product of research, development), and as a result has an amount of depreciation loss for the item for the income year, may choose to allocate all or part of the deduction for the depreciation loss—

(a) to an income year after the income year for which the person has the depreciation loss; and

(b) in the way required by section EJ 23 (Allocation of deductions for research, development, and resulting market development).

Partial income-producing use

(6) Subpart DE (Motor vehicle expenditure) and section EE 50 contain rules for calculating the amount of deduction available for depreciation loss in circumstances in which an item of property is only partly used or available for use in a way that satisfies the general permission.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, depreciable property, depreciation loss, depreciation recovery income, development, dispose, general permission, income, income year, own, property, research

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EE 20

EE 21 Pool method: calculating amount of depreciation loss

Amount of depreciation loss subtracted from pool's value

(1) The amount of depreciation loss that a person has for an income year for a pool of depreciable property is—

(a) first, calculated under subsection (2); and

(b) second, subtracted from the pool's adjusted tax value at the end of the income year.

Definition of items in formula

(3) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (4) to (8).

Rate

(4) Rate is the diminishing value rate. It is 1 of the following:

(a) if the same rate applies to all items depreciated in the pool in the income year, that rate; or

(b) if different rates apply to items depreciated in the pool in the income year,—

(i) the lower of the rates, if there are 2 items in the pool; or

(ii) the lowest of the rates, if there are 3 or more items in the pool.

Starting adjusted tax value

(5) Starting adjusted tax value is—

(a) the pool's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year, increased as applicable by the amount referred to in section EE 22(2)(b); or

(b) zero, if the pool did not exist at the start of the income year.

Ending adjusted tax value

(6) Ending adjusted tax value is the pool's adjusted tax value at the end of the income year before the deduction of an amount of depreciation loss for the pool for the income year. The value is, as applicable,—

(a) increased by the amounts referred to in section EE 22(1) and (2)(a):

(b) decreased by the amount referred to in section EE 22(3).

EE 22 Cases affecting pool

Acquired item included

(1) If a person chooses in an income year to include in a pool an item of poolable property that they acquire in the income year, the pool's adjusted tax value is increased by the item's cost.

Separately depreciated item included

(2) If a person chooses in an income year to include in a pool an item of poolable property that they depreciated separately in the previous income year,—

(a) the pool's adjusted tax value is increased by the item's adjusted tax value on the date it is included in the pool; and

(b) the item's adjusted tax value at the end of the previous income year is included in starting adjusted tax value in section EE 21(5).

Insurance or compensation for damage to item

(2B) If a person in an income year derives an amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation (the compensation amount) for damage to an item included in a pool at the end of the income year and the compensation amount exceeds the expenditure or loss that the person incurs because of the damage, the excess is subtracted from the adjusted tax value of the pool.

Item disposed of

(3) If a person disposes of an item included in a pool, and derives an amount of consideration from the disposal, or derives an amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation to which subsection (2B) does not apply for damage to the item occurring before the disposal, any excess of the amount derived over the expenditure or loss incurred in deriving the amount is subtracted from the adjusted tax value of the pool in which the item was included on the date of the disposal.

All items disposed of

(4) If, on the last day of an income year, the adjusted tax value of a person's pool is positive but the person has disposed of all items that were in the pool,—

(a) the amount of depreciation loss that the person has for the pool for the income year is the pool's adjusted tax value; and

(b) on the first day of the following income year, the pool's adjusted tax value is zero.

Negative adjusted tax value

(5) If, on the last day of an income year, the adjusted tax value of a person's pool is negative,—

(a) the amount by which the adjusted tax value is negative is an amount of depreciation recovery income of the person derived in the income year; and

(b) on the first day of the following income year the pool's adjusted tax value is zero.

EE 23 Combined pools

Combining pools allowed

(1) A person using the pool method may at any time combine any number of pools to form a single pool.

Consequences

(2) When a person combines pools,—

(a) the new pool's adjusted tax value is the same as the sum of the adjusted tax values of the constituent pools; and

(b) the adjusted tax value of each of the constituent pools at the end of the income year in which the pools are combined is zero; and

(c) each of the constituent pools ceases to exist.

Improvement treated as part of item

(5) For the purposes of subsection (3)(a), a person may choose to treat the improvement as part of the item of depreciable property that was improved. They must do 1 of the following for the first income year, after the income year in which they made the improvement, in which they use the improvement or have it available for use:

(a) if they use the diminishing value method for the item, add the improvement's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year to the item's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year:

(b) if they use the straight-line method for the item,—

(i) add the improvement's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year to the item's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year; and

(ii) add the improvement's cost to the item's cost.

Pool method

(6) For the purposes of subsection (3)(b), a person who uses the pool method for the item that was improved must treat the improvement as a separate item of depreciable property. If its cost is equal to or less than its maximum pooling value, they must include it in a pool in the first income year, after the income year in which they made the improvement, in which they use the improvement or have it available for use.

Adjustment of pool's value

(7) When an improvement is included in a pool under subsection (6),—

(a) the pool's adjusted tax value is increased by the improvement's adjusted tax value on the date it is included in the pool; and

(b) the improvement's adjusted tax value at the end of the previous income year is included in starting adjusted tax value in section EE 21(5).

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, building, depreciable property, diminishing value method, grandparented structure, improvement, income year, maximum pooling value, pool, pool method, straight-line method

(i) if subparagraph (ii) does not apply, the total cost for all the items in the group is equal to or less than the threshold value given for the item by subsection (2):

(ii) if the items generally constitute the person's trading stock, the total cost for all the items in the group not treated by the person solely as trading stock is equal to or less than the threshold value given for the item by subsection (2).

EE 45 Consideration for purposes of section EE 44

General rule

(1) For the purposes of section EE 44, the consideration equals the amount that a person derives excluding any GST charged if the person is a registered person, as modified by subsections (3) to (11) minus the amount (the disposal cost) that they incur in deriving that amount, to the extent to which the disposal cost—

(a) is not allowed as a deduction to the person other than as a deduction for an amount of depreciation loss; and

(b) is not counted in "the amount that a person derives".

GST for disposal costs

(1B) All amounts deducted or deductible by the person under section 20(3) of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985 in relation to the disposal cost described in subsection (1) are subtracted from the disposal costs under that subsection.

Consideration may be zero or negative

(2) For the purposes of section EE 44, the consideration may be zero or a negative amount.

Other than market value

(3) If the person has consideration that is not the item's market value, the amount that the person derives is the item's market value. Three qualifications are—

(a) if the person makes a taxable supply, "market value" means the market value minus any GST that would be charged on the supply:

(b) this subsection does not apply to a transfer under a relationship agreement; and

(c) this subsection does not apply in a case described in any of subsections (5) to (10).

Relationship with subpart FC

(4) Subsection (3) does not apply to a disposal of property to which any of sections FC 3 and FC 4 (which relate to the distribution or transmission of property) applies.

Change of use or location of use

(5) The consideration that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(2) is the item's market value. Two qualifications are—

(a) if the person is a registered person, "market value" means the market value excluding the amount of GST that would have been charged if the market value is treated as being consideration received for a taxable supply by the person:

(b) this subsection does not apply to a transfer under a relationship agreement.

Loss or theft

(6) The amount that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(3) is the amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation they receive for the loss or theft (amount A). If the person is a registered person, amount A does not include the amount, if any, of GST charged on amount A to the extent to which amount A is treated as being consideration received for a supply of services by the registered person under section 5(13) of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985.

Unused geothermal well brought into use

(7) The amount that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(6) is the amount of the deduction for depreciation loss allowed under section EE 39(4).

Irreparable damage or damage rendering building useless

Deduction for depreciation loss: formula

(7) In the formula in subsection (6),—

(a) disposal depreciation loss is the amount resulting from a calculation made for the item under section EE 48(2):

(c) base value has whichever is applicable of the meanings in sections EE 57 to EE 59:

(d) adjusted tax value at date is the item's adjusted tax value on the date on which the disposal or event occurs.

When subsection (9) applies

(8) Subsection (9) applies when—

(a) a person has an amount of depreciation loss for an item of depreciable property for an income year arising under section EE 48(2); and

EG 1 Election to use balance date used in foreign country

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a person has foreign source income or foreign expenditure that is taken into account in determining the income tax, not merely the withholding tax, payable by them in a foreign country or territory; and

(b) the foreign source income or foreign expenditure has been included in 1 of their income tax returns in the country or territory; and

(c) the annual income tax balance date that is relevant for them for the income tax return in the country or territory falls in a period that is an income year for them; and

(d) if the person did not make an election under this section,—

(i) the foreign source income would be allocated to their previous income year; or

(ii) the foreign expenditure would be a deduction allocated to the previous income year if the only income of the person were foreign source income to which this section applies.

Election to allocate

(2) If the person has not already included the foreign source income or foreign expenditure in their return of income for the previous tax year, they may choose to allocate the foreign source income or the foreign expenditure to the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c).

How election made

(3) The person makes the election by including the foreign source income or foreign expenditure in their return of income for the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c).

What election applies to

(4) The election applies to all the person's foreign source income and foreign expenditure to which subsection (1) applies, except for—

(a) income or expenditure under the financial arrangements rules, unless the Commissioner notifies the person that the election can apply; or

(b) dividends, unless the Commissioner notifies the person that the election can apply and the person is not a company; or

(c) attributed controlled foreign company (CFC) income; or

(d) foreign investment fund (FIF) income or income derived from an attributing interest; or

(e) in the case of foreign expenditure, foreign expenditure that would be allowed as a deduction if the only income of the person were income to which paragraphs (a) to (d) apply.

Timing of income

(5) The foreign source income and foreign expenditure to which the election applies is allocated to the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c).

Election treated as continuing

(6) An election made by a person under subsection (2) applies for the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c) and all later income years, unless—

(a) the person seeks the Commissioner's agreement to revoke the election, and the Commissioner notifies them that they may revoke the election; or

(b) the person's net income for the relevant income year would be more than $100,000 if their only income in the income year were foreign source income.

Net income of more than $100,000

(7) If subsection (6)(b) applies,—

(a) foreign source income and foreign expenditure is allocated to the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c) only if it was derived or incurred in that year; and

(b) foreign source income and foreign expenditure to which the election would have applied if subsection (6)(b) had not existed is allocated to the previous income year; and

(c) if necessary, the previous tax year's return is amended.

Factors considered

(8) In deciding whether to agree to an election applying to income or expenditure under the financial arrangements rules or dividends, the Commissioner must consider—

(a) whether the person is likely to incur significant compliance costs if the Commissioner does not agree to the election; and

(b) the risk to the revenue if the Commissioner agrees to the election; and

(c) any other factors the Commissioner considers relevant.

Person ceasing to be, or becoming, resident

(9) If the person ceases to be, or becomes, resident in New Zealand, this section applies in the same way as for other persons except that—

(a) it does not apply to income or expenditure that is allocated, other than under this section, to a period when the person is not resident in New Zealand; and

(b) if it allocates foreign source income derived or foreign expenditure incurred while the person is resident in New Zealand to a period after the person has ceased to be resident in New Zealand,—

(i) the foreign source income is assessable income in the income year in which the foreign source income is allocated under this section, despite section BD 1(5)(c) (Income, exempt income, excluded income, non-residents' foreign-sourced income, and assessable income); and

(ii) the foreign expenditure is allowed as a deduction in the income year to which the foreign expenditure is allocated under this section.

(2) If the initial right of use asset under NZ IFRS 16 is $100,000 or less and the remaining term of the IFRS lease under NZ IFRS 16 is 4 years or less initially and immediately after any extension starts, then the person, as lessee for the IFRS lease, is allowed, for an income year, a deduction for a positive amount, and has income for a negative amount, for the total amount recognised by the person through their profit and loss account for the IFRS lease for the income year, if the amount is in accordance with NZ IFRS 16.

Deduction: formula

(3) If subsection (2) does not apply, then the person, as lessee for the IFRS lease, is allowed, for an income year, a deduction for a positive amount, and has income for a negative amount, for amounts calculated using the formula—accounting amount − add-back adjustment + impairment and revaluation adjustment − make-good and direct costs adjustment.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula in subsection (3),—

(a) accounting amount is the total amount recognised by the person through their profit and loss account for the IFRS lease for the income year, if the amount is in accordance with NZ IFRS 16:

(b) add-back adjustment is the total amount of the accounting measures in subparagraphs (i) and (ii), used by the person in accordance with IFRS through their profit and loss account for the income year—

(i) impairment of the lease asset described in paragraph 33 of NZ IFRS 16 arising in the income year:

(ii) revaluation or impairment of the lease asset described in paragraph 35 of NZ IFRS 16 arising in the income year:

(i) make-good costs for the lease described in paragraph 24(d) of NZ IFRS 16:

(ii) direct costs for the lease described in paragraph 24(c) of NZ IFRS 16, if the person chooses to apply this subparagraph, as evidenced by a return of income made in accordance with this subparagraph.

Deduction: incurred

(5) The person, as lessee, is allowed a deduction for the IFRS lease for—

(a) make-good costs, described in subsection (4)(d)(i), for the income year that they incur the costs:

(b) direct costs, described in subsection (4)(d)(ii), for the income year that they incur the costs, if they have chosen to apply subsection (4)(d)(ii).

Wash-up: income or deduction

(6) The person, as lessee, has income for a positive amount, and is allowed a deduction for a negative amount, for the income year in which the IFRS lease ends or does not meet a requirement in subsection (1)(a), (b), or (c), calculated using the formula—

IFRS deductions − IFRS income − expenditure.

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula in subsection (6),—

(a) IFRS deductions is the total amount deducted for the IFRS lease for all income years, including when the person has not applied this section:

retrospective accounting expenditure − retrospective tax adjustments − previous tax deductions.

Definition of items in formula

(9) In the formula in subsection (8),—

(a) retrospective accounting expenditure is the total amount of expenditure or loss recognised under NZ IFRS 16 for the IFRS lease for the income years that the person has applied NZ IFRS 16 retrospectively for the IFRS lease or has not applied this section for the IFRS lease while they have applied NZ IFRS 16 for it, if the amount is in accordance with NZ IFRS 16:

(b) retrospective tax adjustments is the total amount of adjustments and deductions in subsections (4)(b), (c), and (d) and (5) for the income years that the person has applied NZ IFRS 16 retrospectively for the IFRS lease or has not applied this section for the IFRS lease while they have applied NZ IFRS 16 for it, treating subsections (4)(b), (c), and (d) and (5) as applying for those income years:

(c) previous tax deductions is the total amount of deductions not in accordance with NZ IFRS 16 and not provided by this section, for the income years that the person has applied NZ IFRS 16 retrospectively for the IFRS lease or has not applied this section for the IFRS lease while they have applied NZ IFRS 16 for it.

EJ 20B Certain mining expenditure spread over assumed life of mine

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section DU 6 (Deduction for certain mining expenditure spread over assumed life of mine) when a mineral miner—

(a) incurs an amount of mining development expenditure or mining exploration expenditure as described in that section; and

(b) starts to use the mining permit area to derive income; and

(c) either does not meet the requirements to allow allocation of the expenditure under section EJ 20E or, if they do, they do not choose to allocate the expenditure under that section.

Spreading rule

(2) The mineral miner is allowed a deduction for an income year that falls within the spreading period referred to in section EJ 20C calculated using the formula—

$$\text{rate} \times \text{value}.$$

Definition of items in formula

(3) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (4) and (5).

Rate

(4) Rate is—

(a) the straight-line rate set out in schedule 12, column 2 (Old banded rates of depreciation) that is nearest to the rate calculated for the expenditure using the formula in section EJ 20D(2), if the mineral miner chooses to use the straight-line method:

(b) the diminishing value rate set out in schedule 12, column 1 that corresponds to the straight-line rate under paragraph (a), if the mineral miner chooses to use the diminishing value method.

Value

(5) Value is—

(a) the adjusted tax value of the expenditure, if the mineral miner chooses to use the straight-line method:

(b) the diminished value of the expenditure for the income year, if the mineral miner chooses to use the diminishing value method.

Allocation to mines

(6) For the purposes of this section, a mineral miner may allocate expenditure for an income year under this section in relation to a mine rather than in relation to a mining permit area, but only if—

(a) the mineral miner uses IFRS rules to prepare their financial statements; and

(b) the allocation is permitted for the purposes of their statements.

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, amount, deduction, diminishing value method, diminishing value rate, financial statements, IFRS, mineral miner, mining development expenditure, mining exploration expenditure, permit area, straight-line method, straight-line rate

Section EJ 20B: inserted, on 1 April 2014 (applying for the 2014–15 and later income years), by section 50 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Foreign Superannuation, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 4).

EJ 20C Length of spreading period

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section EJ 20B(3) to determine the length of the spreading period for certain mining expenditure of a mineral miner related to a mining permit area.

Start and end dates

(2) The spreading period is the number of income years that represents the assumed life of the mine referred to in section EJ 20D that comprises the mining permit area,—

(a) starting from the later of—

(i) the first day of the income year in which the mineral miner's commercial production of a listed industrial mineral from the mining permit area starts; or

(ii) the first day of the income year in which the expenditure is incurred; and

(b) ending on the last day of the income year in which the expiry of the assumed life of the mine occurs.

Defined in this Act: commercial production, income year, listed industrial mineral, mineral miner, permit area

Section EJ 20C: inserted, on 1 April 2014 (applying for the 2014–15 and later income years), by section 50 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Foreign Superannuation, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 4).

EJ 20D Measurement of assumed life of mine and application to rate

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section EJ 20B(4)(a) for the item rate in the formula that determines the amount of the deduction a mineral miner is allowed for an income year that falls in the spreading period described in section EJ 20C.

Formula for straight-line rate

(2) The formula for the straight-line rate is—

100% ÷ assumed life.

Definition of item in formula

(3) In the formula, assumed life, for an amount of expenditure and an income year, is the period that is the lesser of the following periods:

(a) the period that—

(i) the mineral miner uses for accounting purposes as the amortisation period for the mining permit area; or

(ii) for a mineral miner that is not required to use an amortisation period for their accounts, the mineral miner estimates is a reasonable period for the commercial production of a listed industrial mineral from the mining permit area; and

(b) the period that is not more than 25 years from the later of—

(i) the date on which commercial production from the mining permit area starts; and

(ii) the date on which the mineral miner incurs the expenditure relating to the mining permit area.

Reassessment of life of mine

(4) A mineral miner must reassess the assumed life of the mine for the purposes of this section and sections DU 11 (Meaning of mining development expenditure) and EJ 20C. A reassessment must be made at the end of each income year that falls within the period, and applies from the start of the next income year for all remaining income years in the period in relation to all outstanding expenditure for which no deduction has yet been allowed.

Defined in this Act: commercial production, deduction, income year, listed industrial mineral, mineral miner, permit area, straight-line rate

Section EJ 20D: inserted, on 1 April 2014 (applying for the 2014–15 and later income years), by section 50 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Foreign Superannuation, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 4).

Section EJ 20D(4): amended (with effect on 1 April 2014 and applying for the 2014–15 and later income years), by section 73(2) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

EJ 20E Certain mining expenditure spread on basis of units of production

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section DU 7 (Deduction for certain mining expenditure spread on basis of units of production) when a mineral miner—

(a) incurs expenditure described in section DU 6(1)(a) (Deduction for certain mining expenditure spread over assumed life of mine) on or in relation to their mining operations or associated mining operations in a mining permit area; and

(b) starts to use the permit area to derive income; and

(c) either—

(i) uses IFRS rules to prepare their financial statements; or

(ii) keeps appropriate records that are sufficient to enable the Commissioner to verify the calculations used by the mineral miner; and

(d) chooses to apply this section in the way described in subsection (2).

Election

(2) The mineral miner may make an election to apply this section in relation to the permit area in a return of income for an income year that is the first year in which the miner's commercial production of a listed industrial mineral from the mining permit area starts. The election is irrevocable and applies only to expenditure referred to in subsection (1)(a).

Reserve depletion method

(3) The deduction for the expenditure incurred by the mineral miner and allocated to an income year is calculated using the formula—

(reserve expenditure − previous expenditure)
× reserve depletion for the year ÷ proven and probable reserves.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) reserve expenditure is the total amount of the mineral miner's expenditure described in section DU 6(1)(a) for the permit area for the income year and earlier income years to which this section applies:

Disposal of fully-taxed portfolio: excess amounts released

(2) If the person derives income under the land sales provisions for the current income year or for an earlier income year from the disposal of each of the properties in their residential portfolio, any unused excess amount relating to the portfolio is released from the application of the limited allocation rule in section EL 4(2) for the current income year. However, this subsection does not apply in relation to an unused excess amount transferred from another property, see subsections (5) and (6).

Disposal of incompletely-taxed portfolios: excess amounts carried forward

(3) If the person does not derive income under the land sales provisions for the current income year or for an earlier income year from the disposal of each of the properties in their residential portfolio, any unused excess amount relating to the portfolio—

(a) is an amount to which section EL 4(3) continues to apply for income years in which the person derives residential income; and

(b) is treated as a deduction referred to in section EL 4(1) that is transferred to another residential rental property for an income year in which the person derives residential income.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3)(b), it does not matter whether the allocation of the transferred amount is made on a portfolio basis or on a property-by-property basis.

When subsection (6) applies

(5) Subsection (6) applies in relation to a disposal described in subsection (2) when—

(a) an unused excess amount was transferred to the portfolio from another of the person's properties that was not included in the portfolio; and

(b) the person did not derive income from the disposal of the other property.

Reduction and transfer to another residential rental property

(6) An unused excess amount that would otherwise be released under subsection (2) is—

(a) reduced by an amount equal to the total unused excess amount transferred from the other property; and

(b) to the extent of the amount transferred, is a deduction referred to in section EL 4(1) that is transferred to another residential rental property for an income year in which the person derives residential income.

EL 6 Choosing to apply rules on property-by-property basis

Choosing other basis for calculation

(1) For the purposes of section EL 4, and despite the references there and in the definition of residential income in section EL 3 to residential portfolios, a person may choose to determine the amount of the deduction that may be allocated for an income year under section EL 4(2) in relation to a single property (property A), whether or not—

(a) they own residential rental properties other than property A:

(b) those other properties are included in a residential portfolio.

Property A: income and expenditure

(2) For the purposes of section EL 4(3), both the income derived by the person and the expenditure or loss to which the deduction relates must relate solely to property A and to no other property of the person.

Property A: excess amounts carried forward

(3) An excess amount arising under section EL 4(3) in relation to property A is—

(a) suspended as a deduction for the income year; and

Election requirements

(4) A person makes an election under subsection (1) by taking a tax position on that basis in their return of income for the income year in which the property becomes their residential rental property.

Effect of changes in tax positions

(5) The election remains in effect for income years in which the person continues to take the tax position but if the person changes their tax position, property A becomes a property included in a residential portfolio.

Transitional rule for property acquired before 2019–20 income year

Basis of allocation

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3)(b), it does not matter whether the allocation of the transferred amount is made on a portfolio basis or on a property-by-property basis.

When subsection (6) applies

(5) Subsection (6) applies in relation to a disposal described in subsection (2) when—

(a) an unused excess amount was transferred to property A from another of the person's properties; and

EM 1 Australian non-attributing shares and attributing FDR method interests

Application of this subpart

(1) This subpart applies to determine the income and expenditure for a person's hedges, to the extent to which their hedges have a fair dividend rate hedge portion (see: subsection (2) below, and sections EM 5 to EM 7), and their hedges hedge—

(a) Australian non-attributing shares for which—

(i) amounts derived from disposal would be either excluded income of the person under section CX 55 (Proceeds from disposal of investment shares), or the person's capital receipt; and

(ii) the person determines the market value for each of a number of periods making up the income year:

(b) attributing interests in a FIF for which the person—

(i) calculates FIF income using the fair dividend rate method; and

(ii) uses section EX 53 (Fair dividend rate periodic method).

Specific rules

(2) In this subpart,—

(a) section EM 2 provides rules for who this subpart applies to:

(b) section EM 3 provides rules for what hedges this subpart applies to:

(c) section EM 4 provides rules for elections to choose that eligible hedges are subject to this subpart by applying either a hedge-by-hedge method or the portfolio method:

(d) section EM 5 provides the hedge-by-hedge methods to calculate fair dividend rate hedge portions for a person's eligible hedges:

(db) section EM 5B provides the portfolio method to calculate fair dividend rate hedge portions for a person's eligible hedges:

(e) section EM 6 provides the calculation to determine the income and expenditure for a person's fair dividend rate hedge portions:

(f) section EM 7 provides a quarterly test of the person's fair dividend rate hedge portions, and provides rules that apply if the value of hedge portions to eligible hedged assets exceeds 1.05, including a rule to not apply this subpart:

(g) section EM 8 provides some definitions for this subpart.

Relationship with financial arrangements rules

(3) This subpart, and not subpart EW (Financial arrangements rules), determines a person's income and expenditure for their fair dividend rate hedge portions. However, subpart EW determines a person's income and expenditure for the portion of a hedge that is not a fair dividend rate hedge portion.

EM 2 Who does this subpart apply to?

Who does this subpart apply to?

(a) is listed in schedule 29, part A or B (Portfolio investment entities: listed investors), but is not a life insurer:

(b) is a separate identifiable fund forming part of a life insurer that holds investment subject to life insurance policies under which benefits are directly linked to the value of the investments held in the fund:

Combining people and investor interests

(2) For the purposes of applying subsection (1)(d)(i) and (ii), if a person is associated with another person, they are treated as 1 person who holds their com-

EM 3 What hedges does this subpart apply to?

General rule

(1) This subpart applies to a person's hedge (an eligible hedge) if section EM 1 applies to the hedge, and the hedge—

(a) is a contract to conditionally or unconditionally acquire or dispose of foreign exchange in return for New Zealand currency, or is a swap with one leg denominated in a foreign currency and the other leg denominated in New Zealand currency; and

(b) is not an option; and

(d) has, under IFRSs, a fair value of zero when it is first entered into or is acquired at its fair value; and

(e) is subject to an election under section EM 4.

Exception

(2) Despite subsection (1), this subpart applies and a person's hedge is an eligible hedge, if section EM 1 applies to the hedge, the person has not chosen to use section EM 5(4) and (5) for the hedge, and the hedge—

(a) is a contract to conditionally or unconditionally acquire or dispose of any currency in return for any other currency, or is a swap with legs denominated in any currency; and

(b) meets the requirements of subsection (1)(b) to (e); and

(c) is entered into only to rebalance currency exposures for the person's other eligible hedges.

Defined in this Act: associated person, eligible hedge, hedge, IFRS

EM 4 Elections

Elections

(1) This subpart applies to a person's eligible hedges, to the extent to which the hedges have fair dividend rate hedge portions as a result of an election under this section. The portion of a person's eligible hedge that is not a fair dividend rate hedge portion does not give rise to income or expenditure under this subpart, despite any election under this section for the eligible hedge. To the extent to which this subpart does apply to calculate income and expenditure (see: section EM 6), the fair dividend rate hedge portion does not give rise to income or expenditure under any other subpart of this Act.

Hedge-by-hedge: specific

(2) A person may choose to use a hedge-by-hedge method under section EM 5 for an eligible hedge, if the election under this subsection is made before the hedge and any hedge of the hedge is first entered into or acquired by the person.

Hedge-by-hedge: general

(3) A person may choose to use a hedge-by-hedge method under section EM 5 for all eligible hedges if the election under this subsection is made before the hedge and any hedge of the hedge is first entered into or acquired by the person. The choice applies for all eligible hedges post-election.

Specific: effect

(4) An election under subsection (2) is irrevocable for the life of the relevant hedge, unless the person may choose and does choose, under subsection (6), to use the portfolio method.

General: effect

(5) An election under subsection (3) may be changed before the relevant hedge and any hedge of the hedge is first entered into or acquired by the person, but is irrevocable for the life of the relevant hedge, unless the person may choose and does choose, under subsection (6), to use the portfolio method.

Portfolio

(6) A person that uses a unit valuation period, under section EX 53 (Fair dividend rate periodic method), of 1 month or less may choose the portfolio method under section EM 5B.

Portfolio: effect

(7) An election under subsection (6) is irrevocable for 2 years unless the Commissioner notifies the person that the person may revoke earlier. An election applies for all eligible hedges post-election, but does not have to be made before a relevant hedge is entered into. Also, a new election under subsection (6) cannot be made until 12 months after the end of an old election under subsection (6), unless the Commissioner notifies the person that the person may make a new election earlier.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, eligible hedge, fair dividend rate hedge portion, income

Section EM 4: replaced, on 1 April 2022, by section 90 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2021–22, GST, and Remedial Matters) Act 2022 (2022 No 10).

EM 5 Fair dividend rate hedge portions: hedge-by-hedge methods

Fair dividend rate hedge portions

(1) This section calculates the maximum fair dividend rate hedge portions for a person's eligible hedges on a hedge-by-hedge basis under an election provided by section EM 4, or the minimum fair dividend rate hedge portions for hedges that are a hedge of a hedge.

Choice of fair dividend rate hedge portion: cannot be changed

[Repealed]

(2) [Repealed]

Choice of methods

(3) A person may choose to use either the method in subsections (4) and (5), or the method in subsections (9) to (10D), to calculate the maximum or minimum, as the case may be, fair dividend rate hedge portions for all of the person's eligible hedges when the relevant hedge is first entered into or acquired. They may not choose to use, for example, the method in subsections (4) and (5) for some hedges and the method in subsections (9) to (10D) for other hedges.

First method

(4) The maximum or minimum, as the case may be, fair dividend rate hedge portion for a person's eligible hedge (the calculation hedge) is the lesser of 100% and the amount, expressed as a percentage, calculated, using the formula in this subsection, when the hedge is first entered into or acquired. Subsection (8) overrides this subsection. The formula is—

(1.05 × (eligible currency assets + proxied currency assets) − FDR hedges amount) ÷ calculation hedge amount.

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula in subsection (4), all items are expressed in the calculation currency (see: eligible currency assets), and—

(a) eligible currency assets is the total market value of,—

(i) a person's assets described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b) that are denominated in the same currency (the calculation currency) that the calculation hedge hedges; and

(ii) if the person chooses and is a qualifying hedge fund, their interests in assets that are owned by a multi-rate PIE, described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b), and denominated in the calculation currency:

(b) proxied currency assets is,—

(i) unless subparagraph (ii) or (iii) applies, the total market value of a person's assets described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b) that are denominated in a currency (the proxied currency) other than the calculation currency, if an eligible hedge that is denominated in the calculation currency acts like hedging for the assets due to a relationship between exchange rate movements in the proxied currency and the calculation currency:

(ii) zero, if the person has hedges denominated in the proxied currency:

(iii) zero, if the person has a hedge, denominated in a currency other than the proxied currency or the calculation currency, that acts like hedging for the assets due to a relationship between exchange rate movements in the proxied currency and that other currency:

(c) FDR hedges amount is the amount of calculation currency hedged by a person's fair dividend rate hedge portions, but excluding the portion for the calculation hedge:

(d) calculation hedge amount is the amount of foreign currency that is hedged by the calculation hedge.

Second formula

[Repealed]

(6) [Repealed]

Definition of items in formula

[Repealed]

(7) [Repealed]

Exception for more than 100% non-eligible currency asset hedges

(8) If the amount calculated under subsection (4) or (9) is less than zero, then the maximum or minimum, as the case may be, fair dividend rate hedge portion for the relevant calculation hedge is zero.

Second method

(9) The maximum or minimum, as the case may be, fair dividend rate hedge portion for a person's eligible hedge (the calculation hedge) is the amount, expressed as a percentage, calculated using the following formula when the hedge is first entered into or acquired:

FDR gross amount × apportioned current hedge amount ÷ calculation hedge amount.

Definition of items in formula

(10) In the formula in subsection (9), all items are expressed in New Zealand currency, and—

(a) FDR gross amount is the amount given by subsection (10B):

(b) apportioned current hedge amount is the amount given by subsection (10D):

(c) calculation hedge amount is the amount of foreign currency that is hedged by the calculation hedge.

FDR gross amount

(10B) For the purposes of subsection (10), the FDR gross amount is either—

(a) zero if the formula in this subsection does not calculate, when the hedge is first entered into or acquired, an amount; or

(b) the lesser of 1 and the amount calculated using the following formula when the hedge is first entered into or acquired:

(1.05 × eligible currency assets − FDR hedges amount) ÷ apportioned current hedge amount.

Definition of items in FDR gross formula

(10C) In the formula in subsection (10B)(b), all items are expressed in New Zealand currency, and—

(a) eligible currency assets is the total market value of a person's assets described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b) and, if the person chooses and is a qualifying hedge fund, their interests in assets that are owned by the relevant multi-rate PIE and described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b):

(b) FDR hedges amount is the amount of foreign currency hedged by a person's fair dividend rate hedge portions, but excluding the portion for the calculation hedge:

(c) apportioned current hedge amount is the amount given by subsection (10D).

Apportioned current hedge amount

(10D) The apportioned current hedge amount for the purposes of subsections (10) and (10C) is 1 of the following amounts, expressed in New Zealand currency:

(a) if the calculation hedge is not a hedge of a hedge, or is a hedge of a hedge and paragraph (b) does not apply, the amount is the lesser of the following amounts:

(i) the amount of foreign currency hedged by the calculation hedge:

(ii) the amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's hedges including the calculation hedge less the amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's FDR hedge portions excluding the calculation hedge less the total market value of a person's non-eligible assets, treating a negative result as zero:

(b) the negative of the amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's FDR hedge portions excluding the calculation hedge, if—

(i) the calculation hedge is a hedge of a hedge; and

(ii) the amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's FDR hedge portions excluding the calculation hedge plus the calculation hedge equals less than zero.

EM 5B Fair dividend rate hedge portions: portfolio method

Fair dividend rate hedge portions

(1) This section calculates the fair dividend rate hedge portions for a person's eligible hedges on a portfolio basis under an election provided by section EM 4.

Lowest amount

(2) The fair dividend rate hedge portion is the lowest of the amounts described in subsections (4) and (6).

Period calculation

(3) The fair dividend rate hedge portion is applied for a period of 1 month or less, as chosen by the person, for all of their eligible hedges. The fair dividend rate hedge portion is calculated before the start of the elected period, and the elected period is irrevocable, and is applied for all of their eligible hedges post-election, for the income year.

First formula

(4) For the purposes of subsection (2), the amount is calculated using formula—

$$1 - (\text{non-eligible assets} \div \text{portfolio hedges amount}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula in subsection (4), all items are expressed in New Zealand currency, and—

(a) non-eligible assets is the total market value of non-eligible assets:

(b) portfolio hedges amount is the total amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's hedges.

Second formula

(6) For the purposes of subsection (2), the amount is calculated using the formula—

(1.05 × eligible assets) ÷ portfolio hedges amount.

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula in subsection (6), all items are expressed in New Zealand currency, and—

(a) eligible assets is the total market value of assets described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b) that the person owns directly, and, if the person chooses and is a qualifying hedge fund, their interests in assets that are owned by the relevant multi-rate PIE and described in section EM 1(1)(a) and (b):

(b) portfolio hedges amount is the total amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's hedges.

Defined in this Act: eligible hedge, fair dividend rate hedge portion, hedge, non-eligible assets, qualifying hedge fund

Section EM 5B: inserted, on 1 April 2022, by section 92 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2021–22, GST, and Remedial Matters) Act 2022 (2022 No 10).

EM 6 Income and expenditure for fair dividend rate hedge portions

Using the formula to calculate income and expenditure

(1) A person uses the formula in subsection (2) for each valuation period described in subsection (3)(b) that this subpart applies to them. A positive amount from the formula is a person's income for their fair dividend rate hedge portions. A negative amount from the formula is a person's expenditure for their fair dividend rate hedge portions.

Formula

(2) The formula for determining a person's income and expenditure for their fair dividend rate hedge portions is—

(FDR portions' value + period gain − period loss) × 0.05 × valuation period ÷ days in the year.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) FDR portions' value is the market value of a person's fair dividend rate hedge portions at the start of a relevant valuation period in New Zealand currency:

(ab) period gain is the net gain multiplied by the FDR hedge portion for relevant eligible hedges that are entered into and settled within the preceding valuation period:

(ac) period loss is the net loss multiplied by the FDR hedge portion for relevant eligible hedges that are entered into and settled within the preceding valuation period:

(b) valuation period is the number of days in whichever of the following periods is relevant:

(i) the period described in section EM 1(1)(a)(ii):

(ii) the unit valuation period described in section EX 53 (Fair dividend rate periodic method):

(c) days in the year is the number of days in the income year in which the relevant period falls.

Defined in this Act: amount, fair dividend rate hedge portion, income, income year

Section EM 6: inserted, on 17 July 2013, by section 49 of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section EM 6(2) formula: amended, on 1 April 2022, by section 93(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2021–22, GST, and Remedial Matters) Act 2022 (2022 No 10).

Section EM 6(3)(b)(ii): replaced, on 1 April 2016, by section 130 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 (2016 No 1).

EM 7 Quarterly test of fair dividend rate hedge portions

Quarterly FDR hedging ratio

(1) A person must use the first formula, in subsection (2), on a day (the calculation day) they choose within a quarter of an income year, to calculate their quarterly FDR hedging ratio. The calculation day must be the same day for each quarter within the income year.

First formula

(2) The formula for calculating the person's quarterly FDR hedging ratio is—

FDR hedges amount ÷ eligible currency assets.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2), all items are expressed in New Zealand currency, and—

(a) FDR hedges amount is the total amount of foreign currency that is hedged by a person's fair dividend rate hedge portions:

(1) A person who uses IFRSs to prepare financial statements and to report for financial arrangements must use 1 of the following methods for the financial arrangement:

(a) the IFRS financial reporting method in section EW 15D:

(b) a determination alternative in section EW 15E:

(c) the expected value method in section EW 15F:

(d) the modified fair value method in section EW 15G.

Exclusions

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply in the circumstances set out in sections EW 15H and EW 15I.

Defined in this Act: fair value method, financial arrangement, financial statements, IFRS

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EW 15B(6)

Section EW 15C: inserted, on 1 April 2008, by section 366 of the Taxation (Business Taxation and Remedial Matters) Act 2007 (2007 No 109).

EW 15D IFRS financial reporting method

General IFRS rules

(1) Under the IFRS financial reporting method, a person must allocate an amount to an income year under IFRS rules modified, as applicable, under subsection (2).

Modifications

(2) The allocation is modified as follows:

(a) if the financial arrangement is a financial asset, an amount arising from an impaired credit adjustment under IFRSs is not allocated to an income year. However, when the fair value method is used, adjustments for financial arrangements held by the person are excluded from this paragraph, if the financial arrangements are not derivative instruments and the person's business includes dealing in those financial arrangements:

(ab) borrowing costs are not capitalised under NZIAS 23:

(ac) if the financial arrangement is an interest-free loan, no amount is allocated to equity, equity reserves, other comprehensive income, or profit or loss when the loan is initially entered into, and no interest is allocated subsequent to the initial entry:

(ad) if the financial arrangement is a loan with a fair value (the loan initial value) when the loan is initially entered into that, because of the loan's interest rate, is less than the face value (the consideration initial value) at that time, then no amount is allocated to equity, equity reserves, other comprehensive income, or profit or loss, to the extent to which the amount relates solely to the difference, because of interest rates, between the consideration initial value and the loan initial value. Also, no interest is allocated subsequent to the initial entry on account of a movement in the fair value of the loan, to the extent to which the movement relates solely to the difference, because of interest rates, between the consideration initial value and the loan initial value:

(ae) if the financial arrangement is a foreign ASAP, or is an IFRS designated FX hedge for a foreign ASAP, sections EW 32 and EW 33B apply to value, for IFRS rules, the relevant property or service. Section EW 33B also provides rules for subsequently adjusting the treatment of the relevant hedge:

(b) even though an amount may be allocated to equity, equity reserves, or other comprehensive income under IFRSs, the amount must be allocated to an income year for tax purposes.

Fair value method not used for certain financial arrangements

(2B) A person must not use the fair value method for a financial arrangement if—

(a) the financial arrangement is treated under IFRSs by the person as a hedge of another financial arrangement; and

(b) the person uses for the other financial arrangement a method that is not the IFRS financial reporting method.

Meaning of impaired credit adjustment

(3) For the purposes of this section, impaired credit adjustment means—

(a) for a financial arrangement accounted for under the fair value method, a movement in fair value—

(i) through a decline in the credit quality of the arrangement; or

(ii) through an improvement in the credit quality of the arrangement to the extent to which it offsets earlier movements in fair value described in subparagraph (i):

(b) for a financial arrangement not accounted for under the fair value method, credit impairment adjustments made under IFRSs.

Defined in this Act: amount, derivative instrument, fair value method, foreign ASAP, FX hedge, IFRS, impaired credit adjustment, income year, NZIAS 23, tax

General IFRS rules

(2) The person must use 1 of the following methods modified, as applicable, under subsection (3) or (3B):

When formula applies

(2) The person calculates the base price adjustment for the income year in which section EW 29 applies to them.

(b) dividends derived by the person from the release of the obligation to repay the amount lent; and

Consideration

Consideration when financial arrangement involves property or services

EW 32 Consideration for agreement for sale and purchase (ASAP) of property or services, hire purchase agreement, specified option, or finance lease

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when an original party to an agreement for the sale and purchase of property or services, a hire purchase agreement, a specified option, or a finance lease pays or is paid consideration that includes property or services.

Value of property or services

(2) The value of the property or services is determined by applying, as modified by sections EW 33B, EW 33C, EW 33D, and EW 34 (which relate to certain agreements), subsections (2B) to (6) in numerical order until a subsection applies.

IFRS foreign ASAPs

(2B) If the person uses IFRSs to prepare financial statements or to report for financial arrangements, and the relevant financial arrangement is a foreign ASAP, the value of the property or services is the value under IFRS rules, modified on account of FX hedges as provided by section EW 33B. Section EW 33D applies.

Future or discounted value: foreign ASAPs

(2C) If the relevant financial arrangement is a foreign ASAP, the value of the property or services is the value of the amounts paid or payable under the foreign ASAP for the property or services, but ignoring amounts that are expressly provided in the agreement as paid or payable on account of the future value, or the discounted value, or a combination of both the future and discounted values, on the rights date, of amounts paid or payable. Section EW 33B may apply in relation to FX hedges, and sections EW 33C and EW 33D apply.

Future or discounted value: foreign ASAPs subject to 12 month ASAP

(2D) If the relevant financial arrangement is a foreign ASAP that is a 12 month ASAP, the value of the property or services is the future value, or the discounted value, or a combination of both the future and discounted values, on the rights date, of the amounts paid or payable under the 12 month ASAP for the property or services. Section EW 33B may apply in relation to FX hedges, and sections EW 33C and EW 33D apply.

Express value: foreign ASAPs not subject to 12 month ASAP

(2E) If the relevant financial arrangement is a foreign ASAP that is not a 12 month ASAP, the value of the property or services on the rights date is the value expressly provided in the agreement as paid or payable for the property or services. Section EW 33B may apply in relation to FX hedges, and sections EW 33C and EW 33D apply.

Lowest price

(3) The value of the property or services is the lowest price the parties would have agreed on for the property or services, on the date the agreement, option, or lease was entered into, if payment had been required in full at the time the first right in the property was transferred or the services provided. Two qualifications are—

(a) this subsection does not apply to an agreement for the sale and purchase of property or services that is part of another financial arrangement:

(b) section EW 34 applies if the consideration is in a foreign currency.

Cash price

(4) The value of the property or services is the cash price of the property or services to which the agreement, option, or lease relates, as determined by section 5 of the Credit Contracts and Consumer Finance Act 2003, if that Act applies to the agreement, option, or lease.

Future or discounted value

(5) The value of the property or services is the future value, or the discounted value, or a combination of both the future and discounted values, of the amounts paid or payable on the date on which the first right in the property is transferred or the services are provided, as determined by the Commissioner under a determination under section 90AC(1)(i) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Determined by Commissioner

(6) The value of the property or services is the amount determined by the Commissioner when either party to the arrangement applies to the Commissioner for a specific determination or binding ruling under section 91CC(1)(c) of the Tax Administration Act 1994. Both parties must use this amount.

Exclusion

(7) This section does not apply if the agreement, option, or lease has lapsed or does not proceed.

EW 46C Consideration when debt remitted within economic group

When this section applies

(1) This section applies to the extent to which an amount of debt is remitted and—

(a) the creditor is a member of the same wholly-owned group of companies as the debtor and—

(i) the debtor is a New Zealand resident company:

(ii) the debtor carries on a business in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand and the creditor or an associated person cannot deduct, under this Act or a taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand, an amount in relation to the remission against income:

(b) the creditor is a member of the same wholly-owned group of companies as the debtor and, for the debtor, a group of persons who are New Zealand resident companies (the NZ group) hold, before section YC 4 (Look-through rule for corporate shareholders) is applied to the NZ group in relation to their interests,—

(i) common voting interests that add up to 100%; and

(ii) if a market value circumstance exists for a company that is part of a group of companies to which the debtor belongs, common market value interests that add up to 100%:

(c) if the debtor is a company, the creditor is not a member of the same wholly-owned group of companies as the debtor and the creditor has ownership interests or, as applicable, market value interests in the debtor:

(d) if the debtor is a partnership, the creditor has a partner's interest in the income of the debtor:

(e) if the debtor is a look-through company, the creditor has an effective look-through interest in the debtor.

Some points about this section

(2) For the purposes of this section,—

(a) the means by which an amount of debt is remitted is immaterial:

(ab) the debt includes an amount accrued and unpaid at the time of the remission:

(b) a group of natural persons (the single creditor group) who are creditors or who have interests in the debtor are treated as one creditor holding the total debts and interests of the single creditor group, if each person has natural love and affection for the others. However, a trust may join the single creditor group if—

(i) the trust was established mainly to benefit a natural person for whom each person of the single creditor group has natural love and affection; and

(ii) the amount given by dividing the amount of the trust's debt that is remitted for the debtor by the trust's proportional ownership ratio is less than the amount given by dividing the amount of the single creditor group's debt that is remitted for the debtor by the group's proportional ownership ratio (for example: $100 remitted by the trust ÷ 40% ownership is greater than $100 remitted by the group ÷ 50% ownership, so the trust may not join the group, even if the required natural love and affection exists):

(c) a group of persons (the single corporate creditor group) that are creditors or that have interests in the debtor are treated as 1 creditor holding the total debts and interests of the single corporate creditor group, if—

(i) each person is a member of the same wholly-owned group of companies; and

(ii) the debtor is not a member of the wholly-owned group of companies.

When this section does not apply

(3) This section does not apply if—

(a) the creditor and debtor are members of the same wholly-owned group of companies; and

(b) the creditor is a non-resident; and

(c) the debt has been held by a person that is not a member of the wholly-owned group of companies.

Consideration: debtor

(4) The debtor is treated as having paid the amount of debt on the date on which it is remitted,—

(a) if the relevant debt, creditor, and debtor are described in subsection (1)(a) or (b):

(b) to the extent to which the proportional debt ratio for the amount equals the proportional ownership ratio.

Consideration: creditor

(5) Unless subsection (5C) applies, the creditor is treated as having been paid the amount of debt on the date on which it is remitted,—

(a) if the relevant debt, creditor, and debtor are described in subsection (1)(a) or (b):

(b) to the extent to which the proportional debt ratio for the amount equals the proportional ownership ratio.

When subsection (5C) applies

(5B) Subsection (5C) applies when—

(a) the relevant debt, creditor, and debtor are described in subsection (1)(a) or (b); and

(b) the creditor is a person to which section EW 41 applies in relation to the relevant debt.

Consideration: special case

(5C) The creditor is treated as having been paid, on the date on which the amount of debt is remitted, the lesser of the following 2 amounts, or the first amount if they are the same:

(a) the amount of debt:

(b) the amount calculated by subtracting, from the amount of debt, any impairment of the relevant debt under generally accepted accounting practice at the time the creditor is treated under section EW 41(2) as having acquired their accrued entitlement to receive consideration in relation to the relevant debt.

Some definitions

(6) For the purposes of this section,—

nominal shares are shares held by the trustee of an exempt ESS, or employees or former employees of the debtor, if the total of those shares represent voting interests in the debtor that add up to no more than 3%, or, as applicable, market value interests in the company that add up to no more than 3% proportional debt ratio means, for a creditor and an amount of debt, the percentage that the creditor's amount bears to the total amounts of debt to which this section applies remitted at the time the creditor's debt is remitted proportional ownership ratio means the creditor's percentage of the ownership interests or, as applicable, market value interests, total partner's interests, or total effective look-through interests for the debtor, ignoring nominal shares.

Defined in this Act: amount, consideration, employee, exempt ESS, generally accepted accounting practice, group of persons, income, look-through company, look-through interest, market value interest, New Zealand resident, nominal share, non-resident, partnership, partner's interests, pay, proportional debt ratio, proportional ownership ratio, share, trustee, voting interest, wholly-owned group of companies

(1) This section applies when a guarantor pays an amount under a guarantee (a guarantee payment) for an associated person's debt (the debtor) to the debtor's creditor.

Repayment

(2) For the debtor, the amount of the guarantee payment is treated as consideration paid or payable by the debtor for the debt.

New debt

(3) If the guarantor has recourse to the debtor in relation to the guarantee payment, the guarantor is treated as providing the debtor with an interest-free loan for the amount of the guarantee payment.

No consideration paid

(4) For the guarantor, the guarantee payment is treated as not being consideration paid or payable by the guarantor.

Repayment: income and deduction

(5) If the debtor later repays the guarantor more than the guarantee payment, the excess paid by the debtor is—

(a) income, under section CC 3(1) (Financial arrangements), of the guarantor; and

(b) a deduction that the debtor is allowed under section DB 13(1) (Repayment of debt in certain circumstances).

Defined in this Act: amount, associated person, deduction, income

(4) The distribution is income of the trustee, under section CC 3(2) (Financial arrangements), to the extent to which it is less than or equal to the total amount of the debts of the trust forgiven to it by the creditor.

Distribution subtracted from total amount forgiven

(5) The distribution is subtracted from the total amount of the debts of the trust forgiven to it by the creditor as the total amount stands at the time of the distribution.

EW 53 Adjustment required

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) the terms of a financial arrangement give either party, both parties, or an associated person the discretion to decide on an amount payable under the arrangement; and

(b) it is not generally accepted commercial practice to make financial arrangements containing such terms; and

(c) a change in the amount brought about by the exercise of the discretion does not reflect changes in commodity, economic, financial, or industrial indices, or in banking or general commercial rates; and

(d) the effect of the financial arrangement is to defeat the intention of the financial arrangements rules.

Parties to calculate adjustment

(2) Each person who is a party to the financial arrangement must calculate an adjustment for the income years specified in subsection (3) by following the steps in subsections (4) to (6).

Income years

(3) The adjustment must be calculated for the following income years:

(a) until the person ceases to be a party, the fifth income year after the income year in which the parties entered into the financial arrangement and every fifth income year after that; and

(b) the income year in which the person ceases to be a party.

First step

(4) The first step the person takes is to calculate income or expenditure under the financial arrangement for each income year using the yield to maturity method in the manner prescribed by the Commissioner in a determination under section 90AC(1)(a) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Consideration and amounts to be included at first step

(5) The person must include the following amounts in the calculation:

(a) for every income year for which the calculation is made, as described in subsection (3), the consideration and amounts described in section EW 15 for the period starting on the date on which the person became a party to the financial arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year for which the calculation is made; and

(b) for every fifth income year, as described in subsection (3)(a),—

(i) an amount equal to the financial arrangement's market value on the last day of the income year, as if the person had disposed of the arrangement for that amount; or

(ii) if the financial arrangement has no market value, the amount that might reasonably be expected to be paid on a disposal at arm's length.

Second step

(6) The second step the person takes is to calculate the income tax liability for each income year using the income or expenditure calculated under subsections (4) and (5) in substitution for the income or expenditure previously calculated for the financial arrangement for each income year.

Defined in this Act: amount, associated person, Commissioner, consideration, financial arrangement, financial arrangements rules, income, income tax liability, income year, pay, prescribed

Definition of items in formula

(5) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (6) to (9).

Accrual income

(6) Accrual income is the amount that would have been income derived by the person under the financial arrangement if the person had been required to use a spreading method in the period starting on the date on which they became a party to the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year for which the calculation is made. It is calculated using 1 of the following methods, as chosen by the person:

(8) Cash basis expenditure is the amount that would have been expenditure incurred by the person under the financial arrangement if the person had been a cash basis person in the period starting on the date on which they became a party to the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year for which the calculation is made.

Accrual expenditure

(9) Accrual expenditure is the amount that would have been expenditure incurred under the financial arrangement if the person had been required to use a spreading method in the period starting on the date on which they became a party to the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year for which

Controlled foreign company (CFC) rules

When is a company a controlled foreign company?

EX 1 Meaning of controlled foreign company

Tests of control

(1) A foreign company is a controlled foreign company (CFC) if any of the following tests is met:

(a) there is a group of 5 or fewer New Zealand residents whose total control interests in the company are more than 50% in any one of the control interest categories:

(b) a single New Zealand resident holds a control interest of 40% or more unless at the same time—

(i) the person's control interest is less than or equal to a control interest in the same category held by another person; and

(ii) the other person is not a New Zealand resident; and

(iii) the other person is not associated with the New Zealand resident:

(c) there is a group of 5 or fewer New Zealand residents who can control the exercise of the shareholder decision-making rights for the company and, as a result, control the company's affairs.

Exception

(2) Even if a test in subsection (1) is met, a foreign company is not a CFC if—

(a) the foreign company is a foreign PIE equivalent; and

(b) 1 of the New Zealand residents is—

(i) a portfolio investment entity:

(ii) an entity that qualifies for PIE status:

(iii) a life insurance company.

Status applies for whole accounting period

(3) If any of the tests in subsection (1) is met at any time in a foreign company's accounting period and the exception in subsection (2) does not apply at the time, the company is treated as a CFC for the whole of the accounting period.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, associated person, CFC, company, control interest, control interest category, foreign company, foreign investment vehicle, life insurance, New Zealand resident, portfolio investment entity, shareholder decision-making right

Calculation of person's control interest

EX 2 Four categories for calculating control interests

Separate categories

(1) Under section EX 5(1), a direct control interest in a foreign company can arise in each of 4 separate categories of rights.

List of categories

(2) The 4 categories are—

(a) shareholding in the foreign company:

(b) shareholder decision-making rights for the foreign company:

(c) rights to receive income from the foreign company:

(d) rights to receive distributions of the company's net assets.

Detailed calculation rules

(3) In each category, more detailed calculation rules appear in section EX 5.

Four categories of control interests

(4) Accordingly, the rules in section EX 3 for calculating control interests by totalling various direct and indirect control interests and associated parties' interests are applied on a category by category basis, by reference to those categories of direct control interest.

Defined in this Act: associated person, control interest, direct control interest, foreign company, income, shareholder decision-making right

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 2

EX 3 Control interest: total of direct, indirect, and associated person interests

Calculation of control interest

(1) A New Zealand resident's control interest in a foreign company at any time is the total of the following for the relevant control interest category:

(a) any direct control interest that the New Zealand resident holds in the company:

(b) any direct control interests in the company held by persons associated with the New Zealand resident:

(c) any indirect control interests that the New Zealand resident holds in the company:

(d) any indirect control interests in the company held by persons associated with the New Zealand resident.

Avoidance arrangements: first kind

(2) Section GB 7 (Arrangements involving CFC control interests) may apply to treat a control interest as being held by a group of New Zealand residents in equal proportions.

Avoidance arrangements: other kinds

(3) Any of the following sections may apply to the calculation of a person's control interest:

(a) section GB 9 (Temporary disposals of direct control or income interests):

(b) section GB 10 (Temporary acquisitions of direct control or income interests):

(c) section GB 11 (Temporary increases in totals for control interest categories):

(d) section GB 12 (Temporary reductions in totals for control interest categories):

(e) section GB 13 (When combination of changes reduces income):

(f) section GB 14 (When combination of changes increases loss).

Defined in this Act: associated person, control interest, direct control interest, foreign company, New Zealand resident

Compare: 2004 No 35 ss EX 3, GC 7, GC 9

EX 4 Limits to requirement to include associated person interests

Non-resident relatives

(1) For the purposes of section EX 3, a New Zealand resident is associated with a non-resident relative only if the New Zealand resident holds a direct control interest or indirect control interest in the foreign company.

No double counting

(2) Despite section EX 3(1)(b) and (d), for the purposes of determining whether a foreign company is a CFC, a direct control interest or indirect control interest may be counted only once.

Defined in this Act: associated person, CFC, control interest, direct control interest, foreign company, New Zealand resident, non-resident, relative

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 4

EX 5 Direct control interests

Categories of direct control interests

(a) any of the shares in the foreign company:

(b) any of the shareholder decision-making rights for the company:

(c) a right to—

(i) receive any income of the company for the accounting period in which the time falls; or

(ii) have the income of the company for the accounting period in which the time falls dealt with in their interest or on their behalf:

(d) a right to—

(i) receive any of the value of the net assets of the company, if they are distributed; or

(ii) have the net value of the assets, if they are distributed, dealt with in their interest or on their behalf.

Percentage of total is counted

(2) The direct control interest in each control interest category is the percentage of the total that the person holds.

Measurement of available subscribed capital

(3) When the direct control interest in the category in subsection (1)(a) is calculated, the percentage is the total of the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule of the shares held as a percentage of the total available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule of all shares in the company.

Varying decision-making rights

(4) When the direct control interest in the category in subsection (1)(b) is calculated, if the percentage varies between the rights described in the different paragraphs of the definition of shareholder decision-making rights in section YA 1 (Definitions), the highest percentage is taken.

Income distribution rights: assumptions

(5) When the direct control interest in the category in subsection (1)(c) is calculated, it is assumed that—

(a) the income is distributed on the last day of the accounting period; and

(b) the person's entitlement is unchanged during the period; and

(c) a payment of interest on a debenture subject to section FA 2 (Recharacterisation of certain debentures), FA 2B (Stapled debt securities), or FZ 1 (Treatment of interest payable under debentures issued before certain date) is a distribution of income.

EX 6 Direct control interests include options and similar rights

Entitlement to acquire or extinguish

(1) For the purposes of section EX 5, a person is treated as holding something if they are entitled to acquire it or extinguish it.

Entitlement arises in various ways

(2) A person is entitled to acquire or extinguish something if the entitlement is absolute or contingent and whether the entitlement—

(a) arises under a company's constitution; or

(b) arises under the terms of an option; or

(c) arises under the terms of a convertible note; or

(d) arises under the terms of any arrangement substantially similar to any of those described in paragraphs (a) to (c); or

(e) arises in some other way.

Standard security arrangements

(3) Despite subsections (1) and (2), a person is not treated as being entitled to acquire something if—

(a) the entitlement arises under a security arrangement; and

(b) the person acquired the security arrangement in a transaction entered into on an arm's length basis; and

(c) the security arrangement's terms conform to generally accepted commercial practice.

No double counting

(4) Despite subsections (1) and (2), for the purpose of determining whether a foreign company is a CFC, each of the percentage holdings described in section EX 5 may be counted only once.

Defined in this Act: arrangement, CFC, company, convertible note, direct control interest, foreign company, security arrangement

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 6

EX 7 Indirect control interests

How indirect control interests arise

(1) A person has an indirect control interest in a foreign company to the extent to which the rules in this section attribute to them some or all of the direct control interests held by a CFC in the foreign company.

Attribution of CFC's direct interests

(2) A CFC's direct control interest in another foreign company is attributed under subsections (3) to (11).

Associates

(3) For the purposes of this section, the CFC is treated as also holding any direct control interests in the foreign company held by persons associated with the CFC.

Attribution to smallest controlling group

(4) Subsections (6) to (11) apply to attribute the CFC's direct control interests to the smallest controlling group, to ensure that the attribution exercise does not dilute recognition of a factual chain of control.

Attribution on basis of respective income interests

(5) If the CFC's direct control interests are attributed to more than 1 person, the direct control interests are divided in proportion to each group member's respective income interest in the CFC.

One controlling group

(6) If there is only 1 group of New Zealand residents whose control interests have caused the CFC to be a CFC under section EX 1, the CFC's direct control interests are treated as being held by that group.

More than 1 group

(7) If there is more than 1 group whose control interests have caused the CFC to be a CFC under section EX 1, the CFC's direct control interests are attributed to the smallest group.

Equal smallest groups

(8) If there are 2 or more groups that are equally the smallest, and 1 group has the greatest total control interests in the CFC, the attribution is to that group.

Equal smallest groups with equal greatest control interests

(9) If there are 2 or more smallest groups with equal greatest total control interests in the CFC, the attribution is made in full to each group.

No double counting

(10) Despite subsection (9), for the purpose of determining whether a foreign company is a CFC, a direct control interest may be counted only once.

Sequential application

(11) If a foreign company becomes a CFC under this section, this section is then applied to attribute its direct control interests.

Defined in this Act: associated person, CFC, control interest, direct control interest, foreign company, income interest, New Zealand resident

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 7

Section EX 7 list of defined terms control: repealed, on 1 April 2010, by section 594 of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

(a) section GB 9 (Temporary disposals of direct control or income interests):

(b) section GB 10 (Temporary acquisitions of direct control or income interests):

(c) section GB 11 (Temporary increases in totals for control interest categories):

Defined in this Act: CFC, control interest category, direct control interest, direct income interest, income, income interest, indirect income interest

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 8

EX 9 Direct income interests

Categories of direct income interest

(1) A person has a direct income interest in a CFC at any time if they hold—

(a) any of the shares in the foreign company:

(i) receive any income of the company for the accounting period in which the time falls; or

(d) a right to—

(i) receive any of the value of the net assets of the company, if they are distributed; or

(ii) have the net value of the assets, if they are distributed, dealt with in their interest or on their behalf.

Percentage of total is counted

(2) The person's direct income interest is the percentage of the total that the person holds.

Varying percentages

(3) However, if the percentage varies between the different categories, the person's direct income interest is the highest.

Measurement of available subscribed capital

(4) When the direct income interest in the category in subsection (1)(a) is calculated, the percentage is the total of the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule of the shares held as a percentage of the total available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule of all shares in the company.

Varying decision-making rights

(5) When the direct income interest in the category in subsection (1)(b) is calculated, if the percentage varies between the rights described in the different paragraphs of the definition of shareholder decision-making rights in section YA 1 (Definitions), the highest percentage is taken.

Income distribution rights: assumptions

(6) When the direct income interest in the category in subsection (1)(c) is calculated, it is assumed that—

(a) the income is distributed on the last day of the accounting period; and

(b) the person's entitlement is unchanged during the period; and

(c) a payment of interest on a debenture subject to section FA 2 (Recharacterisation of certain debentures), FA 2B (Stapled debt securities), or FZ 1 (Treatment of interest payable under debentures issued before certain date) is a distribution of income.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, available subscribed capital, CFC, debentures, direct income interest, foreign company, income, interest, pay, share, shareholder decision-making right, slice rule

Section EX 9(1)(d): replaced (with effect on 1 April 2008 and applying for the 2008–09 and later income years), on 30 June 2014, by section 85(2) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

Section EX 9(6)(c): amended (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 151 of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EX 10 Indirect income interests

Looking through CFCs

(1) If a person has a direct income interest in a CFC, and the first CFC has a direct income interest in another CFC, the person has an indirect income interest in the other CFC.

Calculation of indirect income interest

(2) The indirect income interest is calculated by multiplying the person's direct income interest in the first CFC by the first CFC's direct income interest in the other CFC.

Chains of CFCs

(3) If there are 2 or more CFCs in a chain of direct income interests between the person and a CFC, the person has an indirect income interest in the CFC at the end of the chain that is calculated by multiplying all the direct income interests in the chain.

Defined in this Act: CFC, direct income interest, indirect income interest

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 10

EX 11 Options and similar rights in certain cases

Increase in income interest

(1) The rules in this section apply to increase a person's income interest in a CFC (the first CFC) in some cases.

Entitlement to acquire

(2) This section applies when the person, or some other person, such as another CFC taken into account when calculating an indirect income interest of the person in the first CFC, has at any time an entitlement (the option) to acquire 1 of the things listed in section EX 9(1) in relation to the first CFC but does not hold it.

Actual holder outside CFC rules attribution

(3) For this section to apply, the actual holder of the thing subject to the option must not be—

(a) another CFC:

(b) a New Zealand resident, unless they are a New Zealand resident whose income interest in the first CFC for the accounting period in question is less than 10% under sections EX 14 to EX 17.

Terms of option indicating economic ownership

(4) For this section to apply, the option must have 1 of the following features:

(a) in the absence of this section, the effect of the option would be to defeat the intent and application of subpart CQ (Attributed income from foreign equity) or DN (Attributed losses from foreign equity) or this subpart, taking into account the economic benefit that the person gets as a result of the CFC deriving income:

(b) the consideration payable for the exercise of the option is less than the market value of the thing acquired at the time of the acquisition:

(c) the holder of the option (or an associated person) has directly or indirectly funded or assisted the actual holder to acquire or hold the thing subject to the option.

Calculation as if option exercised

(5) If each requirement for this section to apply is met, the person's income interest is calculated as if the option holder had exercised the option.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, associated person, CFC, income, income interest, indirect income interest, New Zealand resident, pay

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 11

Section EX 11(3)(b): amended, on 1 April 2008, by section 382 of the Taxation (Business Taxation and Remedial Matters) Act 2007 (2007 No 109).

EX 12 Reduction of total income interests

Application of this section

(1) This section applies when the total income interests for a CFC for an accounting period would be more than 100%, because section EX 9(3) requires the highest percentage to be taken if varying percentage shareholder rights are held.

Proportional reduction

(2) Each person's income interest for the period is reduced to the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{income interest before reduction} \times 100 \div \text{total income interests before reduction.}$$

Defined in this Act: accounting period, amount, CFC, income interest, shareholder

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 12

(b) is not a portfolio investment entity.

Portfolio investment entity

(2) A portfolio investment entity that would have attributed CFC income or loss from a CFC in the absence of subsection (1)(b) has FIF income or loss from the CFC under the FIF rules.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, attributed CFC income, CFC, FIF income, FIF rules, income interest, loss, PIE, portfolio investment entity

EX 15 Associates and 10% threshold

Associates included

(1) For the purpose of applying the 10% threshold in sections CD 45, CQ 2, EX 14, EX 21, EX 34, and EX 58, a person's income interest in a CFC is increased by each income interest in the CFC, for the relevant accounting period, of a person associated with the person.

Exception

(2) Despite subsection (1), the income interest of an associate is not counted if the associate is a CFC.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, associated person, CFC, income interest

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EX 15

Section EX 15(1): substituted, on 1 April 2008, by section 383 of the Taxation (Business Taxation and Remedial Matters) Act 2007 (2007 No 109).

(b) fixed-rate foreign equity that is issued by the CFC and held by a company that is a New Zealand resident, a CFC, or a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method:

(c) shares issued by the CFC in relation to which the CFC makes deductible foreign equity distributions to a company that is a New Zealand resident, a CFC, or a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method.

Group funding

(7) Group funding is—

(a) if paragraph (b) does not apply, zero; or

(b) if the interest holder chooses to rely on this paragraph and the item total CFC's assets is greater than the item total CFC's debts, the lesser of the item total CFC's debts and the total of amounts, each of which is the outstanding balance for a financial arrangement, a fixed-rate foreign equity, or a share giving a right to a deductible foreign equity distribution,—

(i) under which the CFC provides funds to another CFC associated with the CFC under section YB 2 (Two companies) or to a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method and that is associated with the CFC under section YB 2; and

(ii) that produces for the CFC an amount that is included in the item arrangement under section EX 20B(4) or is a deductible foreign equity distribution or a distribution for fixed-rate foreign equity.

Total CFC's non-debt liabilities

(8B) Total CFC's non-debt liabilities is the total value of the CFC's non-debt liabilities determined under generally accepted accounting practice.

Cost fraction for excessively debt funded CFC

(9) For a CFC that is excessively debt funded, the item cost fraction for the purposes of this section is the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (10) and determining the debts and assets of a CFC under sections FE 8 to FE 11 as if the CFC were—

(a) an excess debt outbound company; and

(b) the only member of the CFC's New Zealand group.

Formula for cost fraction

(10) The formula for the CFC's cost fraction is—attributable foreign company assets ÷ total foreign company assets.

Definition of items in formula

(11) The items in the formula in subsection (10) are defined in subsections (12) and (13).

Attributable foreign company assets

(12) Attributable foreign company assets is the total value of assets, consolidated under generally accepted accounting practice for the accounting period, of all the interest holder's CFCs and of all the FIFs for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method, to the extent to which each asset is—

(a) used for the purpose of deriving an attributable CFC amount or an amount that is included in net attributable FIF income or loss; and

(b) not used for the purpose of deriving an amount other than an amount referred to in paragraph (a).

Total foreign company assets

(13) Total foreign company assets is the total value of assets, consolidated under generally accepted accounting practice for the accounting period, of all the interest holder's CFCs and of all the FIFs for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method.

EX 20E Relative debt-asset ratio for CFC

What this section does

(1) This section determines the relative debt-asset ratio of a CFC for the purposes of section EX 20D(2)(b) by determining an amount (the group debt-asset ratio) for the CFC's group and comparing that amount with the debt-asset ratio of the CFC determined under section EX 20D(4).

Members of CFC's group and calculations for group

(2) For the purposes of subsections (3) to (8),—

(a) the members of a CFC's group are—

(i) the CFC:

(ii) if the interest holder is a company, the members of the worldwide group that the interest holder would have under sections FE 31B, FE 31C, and FE 32 (which relate to the determination of groups) if the interest holder were an excess debt outbound company:

(iii) if the interest holder is a trustee, the members of the trustee's worldwide group under section FE 3(1)(b) (Interest apportionment for individuals):

(iv) if the interest holder is a natural person, the person's worldwide group referred to in section FE 5(1C)(a) to (c) (Thresholds for application of interest apportionment rules):

(b) the debts and assets of the CFC's group are determined under sections FE 8 to FE 11 and FE 18 (Measurement of debts and assets of worldwide group) as if the interest holder, if a company, were an excess debt outbound company.

Formula for CFC's group debt-asset ratio

(3) The formula for the CFC's group debt-asset ratio is—total group debts ÷ (total group assets − total group non-debt liabilities).

Definition of items in formula

(4) The items in the formula in subsection (3) are defined in subsections (5), (6), and (6B).

Total group debts

(5) Total group debts is the total amount, consolidated under generally accepted accounting practice for the CFC's group and the accounting period, of the outstanding balances of—

(a) financial arrangements entered by the group's members, each of which—

(i) provides funds to a group member; and

(ii) gives rise to an amount for which a group member would have a deduction:

(b) fixed-rate foreign equity issued by a member of the group and held by a company that is a New Zealand resident, a CFC, or a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method:

(c) equity interests issued by a member of the group in relation to which the member makes deductible foreign equity distributions to a company that is a New Zealand resident, a CFC, or a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method.

Total group assets

(6) Total group assets is the total value, consolidated under generally accepted accounting practice for the accounting period, of the assets of the CFC's group.

Total group non-debt liabilities

(6B) Total group non-debt liabilities is the total value of the group's non-debt liabilities determined under generally accepted accounting practice.

Formula for CFC's relative debt-asset ratio

(7) The formula for the CFC's relative debt-asset ratio is—

CFC's debt-asset ratio ÷ group debt-asset ratio.

Definition of items in formula

(8) In the formula in subsection (7),—

(a) CFC's debt-asset ratio is the CFC's debt-asset ratio under section EX 20D(4):

(b) group debt-asset ratio is the CFC's group debt-asset ratio under subsection (3).

Calculation of branch equivalent income or loss

[Repealed]

Heading: repealed (with effect on 30 June 2009), on 6 October 2009, by section 160 of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EX 21 Attributable CFC amount and net attributable CFC income or loss: calculation rules

Calculation rules for CFC

(1) The rules in this section apply for the purposes of—

(a) calculating the attributable CFC amount for a CFC under section EX 20B:

(b) calculating the net attributable CFC income or loss for a CFC under section EX 20C:

(c) determining under section EX 21D whether a CFC is a non-attributing active CFC.

Calculation rules for test group of CFCs

(1B) For the purpose of determining under section EX 21D whether a member of a group of CFCs is a non-attributing active CFC,—

(a) the consolidated annual gross income of the group is calculated under the rules in this section; and

(b) the consolidated attributable CFC amount of the group is calculated under the rules in this section.

CFC treated as New Zealand resident

(2) The rules in this Act are applied as if the CFC were always a New Zealand resident.

Modifications to rules

(3) However, the rules in the Act are modified for the purposes of the calculation by the following subsections.

Conversion to New Zealand dollars

(4) The taxpayer must choose—

(a) for all the calculations to be done in New Zealand dollars; or

(b) for all the calculations to be done in the currency of the CFC's financial accounts; and if the CFC has no financial accounts, the currency used is that of the CFC's country of residence, the result being then converted into New Zealand dollars at the average of the close of trading spot exchange rates for the 15th day of each complete month that falls in the period.

Consent for change of currency

(5) Having chosen a currency, the taxpayer must use the same currency for calculating attributable CFC amount and net attributable CFC income or loss attributable to the CFC for each later consecutive accounting period, unless the Commissioner allows the taxpayer to choose again.

Change for commercial purpose

(6) The Commissioner may consent to a change under subsection (5) only if satisfied that—

(a) the taxpayer's main purpose in changing is a commercial one, and for this purpose, the reducing of tax is not a commercial purpose; and

(b) the change does not have an effect of defeating the intent and application of subpart CQ (Attributed income from foreign equity) or DN (Attributed losses from foreign equity) or this subpart.

New Zealand currency for financial arrangements

(7) Despite subsections (4) to (6), New Zealand currency calculations must be used to calculate that part of the attributable CFC amount and net attributable CFC income or loss arising from financial arrangements if—

(a) the total value of financial arrangements to which the CFC is a party is more than $1,000,000 at any time during the relevant accounting period, applying section EW 17(2)(b) (Straight-line method) to measure the values; or

(b) the CFC's total net foreign exchange loss attributable to financial arrangements, calculated under subsections (4) to (6) for the accounting period, is more than $100,000.

Limit to subsection (7)

(8) Subsection (7) does not apply to a financial arrangement if—

(a) it is a variable principal debt instrument; and

(b) all the rights and obligations of all the parties to the financial arrangement are expressed in the currency chosen under subsection (4)(b); and

(c) no other party to the financial arrangement is associated with the CFC; and

(d) no person enters into the financial arrangement under an arrangement that has a purpose of defeating the application of subsection (7).

Opening cost base: tangible assets: first period

(9) If the taxpayer had no attributed CFC income or loss from the CFC for the previous accounting period, the taxpayer must choose whether to measure the cost base at the start of an accounting period of premises, plant, machinery, equipment, and trading stock of the CFC at—

(a) historical cost minus any accumulated amounts of depreciation loss, or another value used by the CFC as the starting value for the period for income tax calculations in the country in which the CFC is resident, but only if the value is below market value; or

(b) the starting value that would be used under this Act if the CFC had always been a New Zealand resident.

Opening cost base: tangible assets: later periods

(10) If the taxpayer had attributed CFC income or loss from the CFC for the previous period, the cost base at the start of an accounting period of premises, plant, machinery, equipment, and trading stock of the CFC is the closing value at the end of the previous period used to calculate the income or loss.

Opening cost base: financial arrangements: first period

(11) If the taxpayer had no attributed CFC income or loss from the CFC for the previous accounting period, the taxpayer must choose to calculate the consideration under the financial arrangements rules for a financial arrangement at the start of an accounting period, at—

(a) the market value of the financial arrangement; or

(b) the absolute value calculated using the formula—

consideration paid to the CFC + expenditure − consideration paid by the CFC − income.

Definition of items in formula

(12) In the formula,—

(a) consideration paid to the CFC is the consideration paid to the CFC for all periods before the accounting period:

(b) expenditure is expenditure that would have been incurred under the financial arrangements rules for all periods before the accounting period if the CFC had been resident in New Zealand:

(c) consideration paid by the CFC is the consideration paid by the CFC for all periods before the accounting period:

(d) income is income that would have been derived under the financial arrangements rules for all periods before the accounting period if the CFC had been resident in New Zealand.

Provisions that do not apply

(13) The following provisions do not apply:

(a) the consolidation rules:

(b) section CB 27 (Income equalisation schemes) and subparts DQ (Income equalisation schemes and environmental restoration accounts schemes) and EH (Income equalisation schemes):

(c) subpart CQ (Attributed income from foreign equity) or DN (Attributed losses from foreign equity) or this subpart to the extent to which any of the subparts would result in attributed CFC income or attributed CFC loss for the CFC:

(d) section CW 8 (Money lent to government of New Zealand):

(db) section CW 9 (Dividend derived from foreign company):

(dc) section CW 10 (Dividend within New Zealand wholly-owned group:

(e) section CW 40(1) (Local and regional promotion bodies):

(i) section GB 5 (Arrangements involving trust beneficiaries):

(j) sections IA 2 to IA 9, subparts IB and IC, and sections IP 3 to IP 7, IZ 4, and IZ 5 (which relate to the use of tax losses).

Business treated as if carried on in New Zealand

(14) The following provisions apply as if the CFC's business activities were carried on in New Zealand:

(a) sections CT 1 to CT 3, CT 5 to CT 7, CX 42, CX 43, CZ 8, DT 1 to DT 15, and DT 17 to DT 19 (which relate to petroleum mining):

(b) sections DO 4 to DO 7, DO 12, DP 1 to DP 3, DP 8, and DP 11 (which relate to farming, aquacultural, and forestry expenditure):

(c) section EZ 16 (Amount of depreciation loss for plant or machinery additional to section EZ 15 amount):

(d) the definitions in subpart YA (General definitions) that specifically apply for the purposes of those sections.

Transfer pricing rules

(15) Sections GC 6 to GC 14 (which relate to transfer pricing arrangements between associated persons) apply only to a transaction that has a purpose or effect of defeating any of the jurisdictional ring-fencing rules for CFC losses and tax credits in—

(a) section DN 4 (Ring-fencing cap on deduction):

(b) section IQ 2 (Ring-fencing cap on attributed CFC net losses):

(c) section IQ 4 (Group companies using attributed CFC net losses):

(d) sections LK 1 to LK 7 (which relate to foreign tax credits and CFCs).

Dividends

(16) Dividends that are not part of the CFC's attributable CFC amount are exempt income of the CFC.

Dividends: exempt income

[Repealed]

(17) [Repealed]

Benefits from money advanced

(18) When section CC 7 (Consideration other than in money) is applied, the borrower is treated as if it carries on a business in New Zealand.

No tainting by association

(19) Sections CB 9 to CB 13 (which relate to the disposal of land) and CV 1 (Group companies) do not apply to treat an amount derived by the CFC as income merely because of the activities of a person associated with the CFC if the associate is a non-resident.

Crown acquisition of land

[Repealed]

(20) [Repealed]

Amount of depreciation loss recovered

(21) When sections EE 48 to EE 52 (which relate to disposals and similar events) are applied, the CFC is treated as having had a deduction for an amount of depreciation loss, and to have an adjusted tax value accordingly, if an amount of depreciation loss has been deducted when calculating the CFC's branch equivalent income or loss for any period and the attributed CFC income or loss of any person.

GST and value-added taxes

(22) When sections CX 1 (Goods and services tax), DB 2 (Goods and services tax), EE 45 (Consideration for purposes of section EE 44), EE 54 (Cost: GST), and EZ 17 (Additional amount of depreciation loss: between 16 December 1991 and 1 April 1994) are applied, references to output tax, input tax, or goods and services tax (GST) payable include a reference to the equivalent item arising under the value-added tax or other tax rules of a country or territory outside New Zealand if the rules have a similar intent and application to the New Zealand GST rules.

Government grants to businesses

(23) When section DF 1 (Government grants to businesses) is applied, a reference to the New Zealand government includes a government outside New Zealand but, to the extent to which section DF 1 still does not apply to a grant or subsidy to the CFC from a government, the grant or subsidy is income of the CFC.

Subvention payments

(24) If an amount is paid as consideration for the transfer of tax losses,—

(a) it is income if derived by the CFC; and

(b) it is a deduction if—

(i) paid by the CFC to a person who is resident in the same country as the CFC and not a non-attributing active CFC; and

(ii) deductible under the taxation law of that country.

Life insurers

(25) Subsection (26) applies if—

(a) the CFC itself carries on the business of providing life insurance; or

(b) shares in the CFC are held, directly or indirectly, by a foreign company (the parent company, in subsection (26)) that carries on the business of providing life insurance and those shares have to be taken into account under sections EX 8 to EX 13 to calculate the taxpayer's income interest in the CFC.

Policyholders

(26) If the test in subsection (25) is met, the net attributable CFC income or loss of the CFC is the amount actuarially determined to be the part of the CFC's net attributable CFC income or loss to which shareholders, and not policyholders in either the CFC or the parent company, are entitled.

When subsection (26) does not apply

(27) Despite subsection (25), subsection (26) does not apply if the Commissioner—

(a) considers that the amount calculated is not a reasonable reflection of the part attributable to shareholders; or

(b) has requested and not received sufficient information to enable the actuarial calculation to be reviewed.

Mineral mining activities

(28) Sections CU 1 to CU 9, DU 1 to DU 12, IS 1, and IS 2 (which relate to mineral mining) apply, with any necessary modifications, if the CFC carries on activities outside New Zealand that are substantially the same as the mineral mining activities to which those sections apply.

Petroleum mining activities

(29) Sections CT 1 to CT 3, CT 5, CX 42, CX 43, CZ 8, DT 1 to DT 15, and DT 17 to DT 19 (which relate to petroleum mining) apply, with any necessary modifications, if the CFC carries on petroleum mining activities outside New Zealand that are substantially the same as the petroleum mining activities to which those sections apply.

Finance leases and specified leases

(30) A lease entered into by the CFC before the start of the first accounting period in which the CFC is a CFC is neither a finance lease (subject to the financial arrangements rules and sections FA 6 to FA 11, which relate to finance leases), nor a specified lease (subject to sections FZ 2 to FZ 4, which relate to leases).

When subsection (30) does not apply

(31) Subsection (30) does not apply if another party to the lease is a New Zealand resident, a CFC, or a FIF for which the taxpayer uses the attributable FIF income method.

Taxable distributions from non-complying trust

(32) If the CFC gets a taxable distribution from a non-complying trust—

(a) section HC 22 (Use of tax losses to reduce taxable distributions from non-complying trusts) does not apply; and

(b) the taxable distribution is not taken into account in calculating the CFC's net attributable CFC income or loss; and

(c) section EX 19 applies.

CFCs with interest in FIFs

(33) If the CFC has rights in a FIF,—

(a) the rights are not prevented from being an attributing interest of the CFC in a FIF merely because the notional New Zealand residence of the CFC under subsection (2) causes section EX 34 to apply; and

(b) the CFC's FIF income or loss is not taken into account in calculating the net attributable CFC income; and

(c) section EX 58 applies.

Transitional treatment of cross-border reinsurance

(34) Section CZ 12 (General insurance with risk period straddling 1 July 1993) applies as if the reference to New Zealand were a reference to the CFC's country of residence.

Disclosure restrictions on grey list CFCs

(1) A person (the interest holder) who chooses to determine under this section whether a CFC is a non-attributing active CFC for the person for an accounting period must use an accounting standard (the applicable accounting standard) permitted by section EX 21C.

CFC as part of test group

(2) The interest holder may choose to apply this section for the CFC as a member of a group (a test group) if—

(a) the group consists of companies required under the applicable accounting standard to consolidate, whether or not with companies that are not in the group; and

(b) each company is subject to the laws of the same country or territory and—

(i) has a taxed CFC connection with the country or territory:

(ii) would be a non-attributing active CFC if not treated as part of a test group and would have a taxed CFC connection with the country or territory in the absence of paragraph (c) of the definition of taxed CFC connection; and

(c) an income interest of more than 50% is held in each company by—

(i) the interest holder:

(ii) companies that are all members of a wholly-owned group of companies that includes the interest holder; and

(d) each company has the same functional currency; and

(e) there are audited and consolidated financial statements that—

(i) include the accounts of the companies in the group, whether or not with accounts of companies that are not in the group; and

(ii) comply with the applicable accounting standard.

CFC as part of test group for part of accounting period

(2B) An interest holder who acquires, or disposes of, an interest in a CFC (the first CFC) after the beginning of an accounting period may choose to apply this section to group the first CFC with other CFCs as a test group for the accounting period if—

(a) the CFCs in the test group are all acquired, or all disposed of, in the accounting period by the interest holder or by members (the wholly-owned members) of a wholly-owned group of companies that includes the interest holder; and

(b) for the period in the accounting period in which the interest holder holds the interest in the first CFC, the interest holder or the wholly-owned members hold an income interest under section EX 17 of more than 50% in the first CFC and in each other CFC in the test group; and

(c) the interest holder, or the wholly-owned members, own the first CFC and each other CFC in the test group—

(i) at the beginning of the accounting period; or

(ii) at the end of the accounting period; and

(d) the requirements of subsection (2)(a), (b), (d), and (e) are met.

Threshold ratio

(3) A CFC is a non-attributing active CFC under section EX 21B(2)(b) for an accounting period and an interest holder if, under subsection (4),—

(a) the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (5) is less than 0.05; and

(b) [Repealed]

(c) the amount calculated using the denominator in the formula in subsection (5) is more than zero.

Application of formula

(4) In using the formula in subsection (5),—

(ii) adjusted so that no amount is included in the item more than once; and

(b) each item in the formula is determined—

(i) from amounts consolidated for the CFC's test group under the applicable accounting standard, if the interest holder chooses to apply the formula to the test group; or

(ii) from amounts for the CFC, if subparagraph (i) does not apply; and

(c) each item in the formula is determined after adjustment of amounts included in the item by removing amounts corresponding to minority interests not held by the interest holder; and

(d) a reference to a company that is associated is treated as being a reference to a company that is—

(i) associated with a member of the CFC's test group, although not a member of the CFC's test group, if the interest holder chooses to apply the formula to the test group; or

(ii) associated with the CFC, if subparagraph (i) does not apply; and

(e) a reference to a company that is in the same group of companies is treated as being a reference to a company that is—

(i) in the same group of companies as a member of the CFC's test group, although not a member of the CFC's test group, if the person chooses to apply the formula to the test group; or

(ii) in the same group of companies as the CFC, if subparagraph (i) does not apply; and

(f) amounts determined for a CFC other than as part of a test group are—

(i) determined in the functional currency of the CFC; and

(ii) converted between currencies under the applicable accounting standard, but ignoring exchange differences arising on a monetary item that forms part of a net investment of the CFC in a foreign operation; and

(g) amounts determined for a test group are—

(i) converted from the functional currency of the CFC to the presentation currency of the consolidated accounts for the test group using the average conversion rate for the accounting period; and

(ii) otherwise converted between currencies under the applicable accounting standard; and

(h) a numerator that is a negative number is treated as being zero.

(d) whether the change would postpone liability to income tax on attributed CFC income.

No transitional deferral

(4) If the new accounting year ends in a later income year than the year the old accounting year ends in, and that fact would result in an amount of attributed

Requirements for foreign company making payments to FIF

(4C) A foreign company making payments to a FIF meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) the person uses the attributable FIF income method for the foreign company or would be able to use that method in the absence of section EX 35; and

(b) the foreign company, if it were a CFC, would be a non-attributing active CFC under section EX 21B(2) in the absence of section EX 20B(5)(c)(i), (7)(c), and (12)(a); and

(c) a group of persons holds total voting interests of more than 50% in the FIF and in the foreign company; and

(d) the FIF and the foreign company each have a taxed FIF connection with the same country or territory.

Taxable distributions

(5) If the FIF derives a taxable distribution from a non-complying trust in the accounting period,—

(a) the taxable distribution is excluded when calculating the FIF's net attributable FIF income or loss, due to the combined effect of subsection (1) and section EX 21(32); and

(b) the person has additional attributed CFC income calculated by multiplying the taxable distribution by the person's income interest in the FIF; and

(c) the person is liable for income tax on the additional attributed CFC income at the rate in schedule 1 (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits) that applies to amounts under section HC 22 (Use of tax losses to reduce taxable distributions from non-complying trusts).

Calculation of additional FIF income or loss

(6) If the FIF has an income interest in a foreign company for the accounting period and, as a result, the person has an indirect attributing interest in the foreign company, the person has additional FIF income or loss calculated using the formula—interest × FIF's FIF income or loss.

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula in subsection (6),—

(a) interest is the person's income interest in the FIF for the period:

(b) FIF's FIF income or loss is the FIF's FIF income or loss for the period from foreign companies in which the person has an indirect attributing interest, calculated under the rules in section EX 58(4) and (5) as if—

(i) the FIF were the CFC referred to; and

(ii) the FIF's interest in the foreign company were an attributing interest, despite any application of section EX 34.

Exception to subsection (6)

(7B) A person does not have additional FIF income or loss under subsection (6) from a FIF with an interest in a foreign company if—

(a) the foreign company meets the test for a non-attributing active CFC under section EX 21B(2) and the person—

(i) [Repealed]

(ii) is able to include the foreign company in the same test group as the FIF under section EX 21D or EX 21E:

(b) the FIF would meet the test for a non-attributing active CFC under section EX 21B(2)(b) if the items added passive and reported revenue under section EX 21E(5), (8), and (10) for the FIF included the amounts given by subsection (7C)(a)—

(i) relating to the FIF's interests in each member of a grouping of one or more foreign companies including the foreign company; and

(ii) reported in the accounts of the FIF, or in the consolidated accounts of the FIF's test group under section EX 21E.

(c) [Repealed]

Requirements for test under subsection (7B)(b)

(7C) In determining whether a FIF would meet the requirements of subsection (7B)(b) for an accounting period,—

(a) the amounts required to be included in the items are—

(i) amounts recognised in profit and loss under the equity method under whichever is appropriate of NZIAS 28, NZIAS 31, an equivalent IFRSE, and an equivalent standard or principle in the generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America:

(ii) amounts recognised in profit or loss under proportionate consolidation under whichever is appropriate of NZIAS 31, an equivalent IFRSE, and an equivalent standard or principle in the generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America:

(iii) dividends and net fair value changes recognised in profit or loss in relation to investments accounted for under whichever is appropriate of IFRS 9, an equivalent IFRSE, and an equivalent standard or principle in the generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America; and

(b) an interest holder must not use the result of the test applied to the FIF and a foreign company as a member of a grouping of foreign companies if the interest holder uses for the period a result of the test applied to the FIF and a different grouping of foreign companies.

Application of CFC rules tax credit rules

(8) The rules in sections LK 1 to LK 7 (which relate to tax credits for attributed CFC income) apply to allow the person to claim foreign tax credits but on the basis of the assumptions made in subsection (9). The rules in those sections allow foreign tax credits relating to attributed CFC income but apply a jurisdictional ring-fencing approach to the use of tax credits.

Assumptions in reading tax credit rules

(9) Sections LK 1 to LK 7 are applied as if—

(a) the FIF were a CFC; and

(b) the FIF income of the person from the FIF were attributed CFC income; and

(c) the person's income interest, calculated under subsection (4) were their relevant income interest for the purposes of those sections; and

(d) any relevant person's FIF income calculated under the attributable FIF income method from a FIF that is resident in the relevant country were attributed CFC income.

Reduction in FIF loss to economic loss

(10) In the cases described in subsections (11) and (12), the amount of any FIF loss calculated under subsections (1) and (6) is reduced to be equal to the person's corresponding economic loss, if any.

Application of subsection (10): no economic loss

(11) Subsection (10) applies if the person suffers no, or substantially no, economic loss corresponding to the FIF loss, whether because of a call option, a put option, or any other reason.

Application of subsection (10): FIF loss excessive

(12) Subsection (10) also applies if the amount of FIF loss is more than any corresponding economic loss suffered by the person, whether because of the application of the rules for calculating the person's income interest or any other reason.

EX 51 Comparative value method

Formula

(1) If a person is using the comparative value method to calculate FIF income or loss from an attributing interest in a FIF, the FIF income or loss from that interest for the relevant income year is calculated using the formula—

(closing value + gains) − (opening value + costs).

Definition of items in formula

(2) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (3) to (6).

Closing value

(3) Closing value is the market value of the person's interest in the FIF at the end of the income year. The value is zero if the person has disposed of the interest or is then applying another calculation method to it.

Gains

(4) Gains is the total of all amounts that the person derives during the income year from holding or disposing of the interest. The amounts include any foreign withholding tax or other amount that the person is allowed as a credit under section LE 1 (Tax credits for imputation credits) or LJ 2 (Tax credits for foreign income tax).

Opening value

(5) Opening value is the market value of the person's interest in the FIF at the end of the previous income year, calculated using the exchange rate applying under section EX 57 for that previous year. The value is zero if the person did not hold the interest then or was then applying another calculation method to it.

Costs

(6) Costs is the total for the income year of—

(a) all expenditure, if any, that—

(i) the person incurs in acquiring or increasing the interest:

(ii) another person incurs on behalf of the person referred to in subparagraph (i) in relation to the interest:

(b) income tax on the income of the FIF—

(i) for which the person is liable under the laws of a country or territory outside New Zealand; and

(ii) paid by the person in the income year.

Losses from some attributing interests not subject to rule

(7) Subsection (8) applies to a person who calculates under subsection (1) an amount of FIF loss for an attributing interest in a FIF (the affected interest) that is not a non-ordinary share described in section EX 46(10).

No total FIF loss from other attributing interests

(8) If, in the absence of this subsection, the person would have under subsection (1) a total FIF loss for the income year from all the person's affected interests, the FIF loss for the income year for the person from each affected interest is reduced to the extent necessary for the total FIF loss from the affected interests to be zero.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributing interest, calculation method, comparative value method, FIF, FIF income, FIF loss, foreign company, foreign withholding tax, income year, loss, market value, pay, tax

EX 52A Fair dividend rate method: use of different forms

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person calculates FIF income from an attributing interest in a FIF for an income year (the current year) under the fair dividend rate method.

When person must use fair dividend rate periodic method

(2) A person must use the fair dividend rate periodic method under section EX 53 for the attributing interest for the current year if the person—

(a) is a unit trust or other entity that—

(i) makes investments for the benefit of other persons (the investors); and

(ii) assigns each investor an interest in a proportion of the net returns from the investments; and

(iii) determines the value of each investor's interests for each of a number of periods making up the income year:

(b) for the attributing interest, uses the fair dividend rate periodic method for the income year ending before the beginning of the current year and uses the fair dividend rate annual method under section EX 52 for an income year included in the period that is the shortest of—

(i) the 4-year period ending before the beginning of the current year:

(ii) the period from the beginning of the income year in which the person acquired the attributing interest and ending before the beginning of the current year:

(iii) the period from the beginning of the 2015–16 income year and ending before the beginning of the current year.

When person must use fair dividend rate annual method

(3) A person must use the fair dividend rate annual method for the attributing interest for the current year if the person uses for the attributing interest—

(a) the fair dividend rate annual method for the income year ending before the beginning of the current year; and

EX 52 Fair dividend rate annual method

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person—

(a) calculates FIF income from an attributing interest in a FIF for an income year under the fair dividend rate method; and

(b) is not required under section EX 52A to use the fair dividend rate periodic method; and

(c) does not choose under section EX 53 to use the fair dividend rate periodic method.

FIF income

(2) The person's total FIF income for the income year from the attributing interests in FIFs (the FDR interests) for which the person uses the fair dividend rate annual method is calculated using the formula in subsection (3).

FIF income formula

(3) The formula is—

(0.05 × opening value) + quick sale adjustment.

Definition of items in FIF income formula

(4) The items in the FIF income formula in subsection (3) are defined in subsections (5) to (7).

Opening value

(5) Opening value is the total of the market values of the FDR interests held by the person at the start of the income year that are not, at the start of the income year, included in a direct income interest of 10% or more in a FIF that, at the start of the income year,—

(a) meets the requirements of section EX 35(b)(i) to (iii); and

(b) does not have its liability for income tax reduced by an exemption, allowance, or relief referred to in section EX 35(c)(i) or (ii); and

(c) is not a unit trust or is a unit trust subject under Australian law to income tax on its income in the same way as a company.

Exclusion for certain managed funds

(5B) Subsection (5)(b) does not apply if—

(a) the person is a portfolio investment entity, an entity eligible to be a portfolio investment entity, or a life insurance company; and

(b) the FIF is a foreign PIE equivalent.

When quick sale adjustment required

(6) The quick sale adjustment is required, and is not zero, only if the person, in the income year,—

(a) acquires or increases an FDR interest to which this section applies; and

(b) later disposes of or reduces the FDR interest.

Quick sale adjustment

(7) Quick sale adjustment is the lesser of—

(a) the total of the amounts (the peak holding method amount) calculated for each FDR interest from the shareholding for the FDR interest using the formula in subsection (8):

(b) the total of the amounts (the quick sale gain amount) calculated for each FDR interest from the shareholding for the FDR interest using the formula in subsection (12), treating a negative total as being zero.

Peak holding method amount formula

(8) The formula is—

$$0.05 \times \text{peak holding differential} \times \text{average cost}.$$

Definition of items in formula

(9) The items in the formula in subsection (8) are defined in subsections (10) and (11).

Peak holding differential

(10) Peak holding differential is,—

(a) if no share reorganisation affecting the shareholding for the FDR interest occurs in the income year, the lesser of—

(i) the difference between the greatest shareholding in the year and the shareholding at the start of the year:

(ii) the difference between the greatest shareholding in the year and the shareholding at the end of the year; or

(b) if a share reorganisation affecting the shareholding for the FDR interest occurs in the income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the year.

Average cost

(11) Average cost is—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the income year, the total amount of expenditure that the person incurs in acquiring or increasing during the income year the attributing interest in the FIF divided by the total for the year of the shareholding increase in the attributing interest in the FIF for each acquisition or increase; or

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the year.

Quick sale gain amount formula

(12) The formula, for each acquisition or increase in the attributing interest that is disposed of or reduced in the income year, is—

$$\text{gain} - (\text{interest} \times \text{average cost}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(13) In the formula in subsection (12),—

(a) gain is the total amount that the person derives from holding or disposing of the acquisition or increase:

(b) interest is the amount of the shareholding acquisition or increase:

(c) average cost is,—

(i) if no share reorganisation occurs in the income year, the total amount of expenditure that the person incurs in acquiring or increasing the attributing interest in the FIF divided by the total for the income year of the shareholding increase in the interest for each acquisition or increase; or

(ii) if a share reorganisation occurs in the income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the year.

LIFO for identifying attributing interests disposed of

(14) For the purposes of subsection (12), attributing interests in a FIF are treated as being disposed of in the reverse order of their acquisition (last in-first out).

Treatment of transaction under section EX 63 or EX 67

(14B) For the purposes of subsection (7), if the person is treated as disposing of or acquiring an attributing interest in an income year under section EX 63(5) or EX 67, the disposal or acquisition is ignored.

Treatment of attributing interests subject to returning share transfer

(14C) For a person using the fair dividend rate annual method to calculate FIF income for an attributing interest in a FIF that is an original share subject to a returning share transfer, the attributing interest is treated as being held by the share supplier, except if—

(a) the share user is related to the share supplier:

(b) the returning share transfer is or is part of a structured arrangement.

Meaning of shareholding

(15) In this section, shareholding means the number of shares or units in an attributing interest.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributing interest, direct income interest, fair dividend rate annual method, fair dividend rate method, fair dividend rate periodic method, FIF, FIF income, foreign PIE equivalent, income year, investor, life insurance, market value, original share, portfolio investment entity, related, returning share transfer, share, share reorganisation, share supplier, share user, shareholding, structured arrangement

EX 53 Fair dividend rate periodic method

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person (the interest holder), who calculates under the fair dividend rate method the FIF income from an attributing interest in a FIF for an income year,—

(a) is required under section EX 52A to use the fair dividend rate periodic method:

(b) determines the market value of the attributing interest for each period of a day (the unit valuation period) in the income year and—

(i) is not required to use the fair dividend rate periodic method; and

(ii) chooses to use the fair dividend rate periodic method.

When this section applies: second case

[Repealed]

(1B) [Repealed]

FIF income

(2) The total FIF income for the income year of the fund or person (the interest holder) from the attributing interests in FIFs (the FDR interests) for which the fund or person uses the fair dividend rate method is the total of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for each unit valuation period.

Formula

(3) The formula is—

(0.05 × opening value × period ÷ year) + quick sale adjustment.

Definition of items in formula

(4) The items in the formula in subsection (3) are defined in subsections (5) to (15).

Opening value

(5) Opening value is the total of the market values of the FDR interests held by the person at the start of the unit valuation period that are not, at the start of the unit valuation period, included in a direct income interest of 10% or more in a FIF that, at the start of the income year,—

(a) meets the requirements of section EX 35(b)(i) to (iii); and

(b) does not have its liability for income tax reduced by an exemption, allowance, or relief referred to in section EX 35(c)(i) or (ii); and

(c) is not a unit trust or is a unit trust subject under Australian law to income tax on its income in the same way as a company.

Exclusion for certain managed funds

(5B) Subsection (5)(b) does not apply if—

(a) the interest holder is a portfolio investment entity, an entity eligible to be a portfolio investment entity, or a life insurance company; and

(b) the FIF is a foreign PIE equivalent.

Period

(6) Period is the number of days in the unit valuation period.

Year

(7) Year is the number of days in the income year.

When quick sale adjustment required

(8) The quick sale adjustment is required, and is not zero, only if the interest holder has a unit valuation period of more than 1 day and, in the unit valuation period,—

(a) acquires or increases an FDR interest to which this section applies; and

(b) later disposes of or reduces the FDR interest.

Quick sale adjustment

(9) Quick sale adjustment is the lesser of—

(a) the total of the amounts (the peak holding method amount) calculated for each FDR interest using the formula in subsection (10):

(b) the total of the amounts (the quick sale gain amount) calculated for each FDR interest using the formula in subsection (14), treating a negative total as being zero.

Peak holding method amount formula

(10) The formula is—

$$0.05 \times \text{peak holding differential} \times \text{average cost}.$$

Definition of items in formula

(11) The items in the formula in subsection (10) are defined in subsections (12) and (13).

Peak holding differential

(12) Peak holding differential is,—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the unit valuation period, the lesser of—

(i) the difference between the greatest shareholding in the period and the shareholding at the start of the period:

(ii) the difference between the greatest shareholding in the period and the shareholding at the end of the period; or

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the period, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the period.

Average cost

(13) Average cost is—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the unit valuation period, the total amount of expenditure that the interest holder incurs in acquiring or increasing during the period the attributing interest in the FIF divided by the total for the period of the shareholding increase in the attributing interest in the FIF for each acquisition or increase; or

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the period, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the period.

Quick sale gain amount formula

(14) The formula, for each acquisition or increase in the attributing interest that is disposed of or reduced in the unit valuation period, is—

$$\text{gain} - (\text{interest} \times \text{average cost}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(15) In the formula in subsection (14),—

(a) gain is the total amount that the interest holder derives from holding or disposing of the acquisition or increase:

(b) interest is the amount of the shareholding acquisition or increase:

(c) average cost is the total amount of expenditure that the interest holder incurs in acquiring or increasing the attributing interest in the FIF divided by the total for the period of the shareholding increase in the interest for each acquisition or increase.

LIFO for identifying attributing interests disposed of

(16) For the purposes of subsection (14), attributing interests in a FIF are treated as being disposed of in the reverse order of their acquisition (last in-first out).

Deemed transaction under section EX 67 ignored

(16B) For the purposes of subsection (9), if the person is treated as disposing of or acquiring an attributing interest in an income year under section EX 67, the disposal or acquisition is ignored.

Treatment of attributing interests subject to returning share transfer

(16C) For a person using the fair dividend rate annual method to calculate FIF income for an attributing interest in a FIF that is an original share subject to a returning share transfer, the attributing interest is treated as being held by the share supplier, except if—

(a) the share user is related to the share supplier:

(b) the returning share transfer is or is part of a structured arrangement.

Meaning of shareholding

(17) In this section, shareholding means the number of shares or units in an attributing interest.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributing interest, direct income interest, fair dividend rate annual method, fair dividend rate method, fair dividend rate periodic method, FIF, FIF income, foreign PIE equivalent, income year, investor, life insurance, market value, New Zealand, original share, portfolio investment entity, related, returning share transfer, share, share reorganisation, share supplier, share user, shareholding, structured arrangement

EX 54 Fair dividend rate method and cost method: when periods affected by share reorganisations

Relevant items and formulas

(1) This section provides for the calculation, for an income year or unit valuation period (the affected period) in which a share reorganisation occurs, of the following:

(a) the item peak holding differential for the purposes of the formulas in sections EX 52(8), EX 53(10), and EX 56(15):

(b) the item average cost for the purposes of the formulas in sections EX 52(8), EX 52(12), EX 53(10) and EX 56(5) and (15):

(c) the item increase for the purposes of the formula in section EX 56(5).

Identifying reorganisation periods

(2) For the purposes of calculating the items for an affected period under this section,—

(a) the affected period is treated as consisting of periods (the reorganisation periods) that do not overlap:

(b) a reorganisation period—

(i) begins with the start of the affected period and immediately before each share reorganisation in the affected period; and

(ii) ends immediately before each share reorganisation in the affected period and at the end of the affected period.

Identifying equivalent shareholdings

(3) For the purposes of calculating the items for an affected period under this section,—

(a) the amount of the attributing interest in the FIF held by the person at any time (the comparison time) in a reorganisation period, is treated as being the amount (the equivalent shareholding) of the attributing interest in the FIF that the person would hold at the end of the affected period if, after the comparison time, the person did not increase or reduce the attributing interest in the FIF except under share reorganisations occurring in the affected period:

(b) the amount of an acquisition or increase (the acquired shareholding) by the person of the attributing interest in the FIF other than under a share reorganisation is treated as being the amount (the equivalent acquired shareholding) equal to the difference between—

(i) the equivalent shareholding for the time of the acquisition or increase; and

(ii) the amount that would be the equivalent shareholding for the time of the acquisition or increase if the person were not to have the acquired shareholding.

Peak holding differential

(4) The item peak holding differential, for a person and an affected period, is the lesser of the following:

(a) the difference between the equivalent shareholding that is the greatest for the affected period and the equivalent shareholding at the start of the affected period:

(b) the difference between the equivalent shareholding that is the greatest for the affected period and the equivalent shareholding at the end of the affected period.

Average cost

(5) The item average cost, for a person and an affected period, is the total amount of expenditure that the person incurs during the affected period in acquiring or increasing the attributing interest in the FIF divided by the total for the affected period of the equivalent acquired shareholding for each acquisition or increase.

Increase

(6) The item increase, for a person and an affected period, is the difference between the equivalent shareholding at the start of the affected period and the equivalent shareholding at the start of the period before the affected period.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributing interest, FIF, income year, share reorganisation

Section EX 54(1)(b): amended (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 29 August 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2008), by section 41(1) of the Taxation (Tax Administration and Remedial Matters) Act 2011 (2011 No 63).

Section EX 54 list of defined terms unit valuation period: repealed, on 24 February 2016, by section 243 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 (2016 No 1).

EX 55 Deemed rate of return method

Formula changes if interest changes

(1) If a person is using the deemed rate of return method to calculate FIF income or loss from an attributing interest in a FIF for an income year, the FIF income or loss is calculated—

(a) by the formula in subsection (3) (the standard formula) if the person has held the interest unchanged throughout the income year; and

(b) by totalling the amounts calculated by the formula in subsection (5) (the part-year formula) for each part of the income year during which the interest is unchanged, in any other case.

When interest changes

(2) A person's attributing interest in a FIF changes during an income year if the person—

(a) acquires or increases the interest; or

(b) disposes of or reduces the interest, but merely receiving an annuity payment from the interest is not a disposal or reduction.

Standard formula

(3) The standard formula is—opening book value × deemed rate.

Definition of items in standard formula

(4) In the standard formula,—

(a) opening book value is the book value of the interest at the end of the previous income year, calculated under subsection (7):

(b) deemed rate is the rate set by the Governor-General by Order in Council for this section for the relevant income year (see subsection (15)).

Part-year formula

(5) The part-year formula is—

(opening book value + costs) × deemed rate × days ÷ 365.

Definition of items in part-year formula

(6) In the part-year formula,—

(a) opening book value is the book value, if any, of the interest at the end of the period before the part of the income year, calculated under subsection (7):

(b) costs is the total for the part of the income year of—

(i) all expenditure, if any, that the person incurs in acquiring or increasing the interest:

(ii) income tax on the income of the FIF for which the person is liable under the laws of a country or territory outside New Zealand and which is paid by the person in the part of the income year:

(c) deemed rate is the rate set by the Governor-General by Order in Council for this section for the relevant income year (see subsection (15)):

(d) days is the number of days in the part of the income year; and for this purpose, an acquisition or increase is treated as occurring at the start of a day, and a disposition or reduction is treated as occurring at the end of a day.

Closing book value formula

(7) The book value, at the end of an income year or, in a case in which subsection (5) applies, a part of an income year, of an attributing interest of a person in a FIF under the deemed rate of return method is, unless subsection (9) applies, calculated using the formula (the closing book value formula)— opening book value + costs + deemed income + top-up amounts − gains.

Definition of items in closing book value formula

(8) In the closing book value formula,—

(a) opening book value is the book value, if any, of the interest at the end of the previous income year or the part of the income year, calculated under subsection (7):

(b) costs is the total for the income year or part of the income year of—

(i) all expenditure, if any, that the person incurs in acquiring or increasing the interest:

(ii) income tax on the income of the FIF for which the person is liable under the laws of a country or territory outside New Zealand and which is paid by the person in the income year or part of the income year:

(c) deemed income is the FIF income from the interest for the year or the part of the income year calculated under subsection (3) or (5):

(d) top-up amounts is amounts, gains from holding or disposing of the interest, that are top-up FIF income in the year under section EX 60 or EX 61:

(e) gains is the total of all amounts that the person derives during the year or the part of the income year from holding or disposing of the interest; the amounts including any foreign withholding tax or other amount that the person is allowed as a credit under section LE 1 (Tax credits for imputation credits) or LJ 2 (Tax credits for foreign income tax).

Closing book value zero if changing method

(9) The closing book value is always zero if the person is using a calculation method for the interest different from the deemed rate of return method at the end of the income year or, in a case to which subsection (5) applies, the part of the income year.

Top-up income if deemed rate inadequate

(10) If the closing book value of a person's attributing interest in a FIF at the end of an income year or a part of an income year is below zero, the person has additional FIF income equal to the deficit for the relevant income year.

When subsection (10) does not apply

(11) Subsection (10) does not apply if—

(a) the person is a natural person; and

(b) at all times during the income year the total value of the person's attributing interests in FIFs is $250,000 or less, the value of each interest being—

(i) its book value, calculated under subsection (7), at the end of the previous income year, if the person held the interest then and used the deemed rate of return method to calculate FIF income for all attributing interests in the previous income year:

(ii) its market value, in any other case; and

(c) the deficit in closing book value arises only because the person disposed of some or all of the interest; and

(d) the gain that the person derived from disposing of the interest or part-interest is not income, or is income only to the extent to which it gives rise to FIF income.

Top-up income if gains more than deemed income

(12) A person calculating FIF income under the deemed rate of return method can also have additional FIF income under section EX 60.

FIF income reduced on disposal if deemed rate excessive

(13) If a person has disposed of the whole of an attributing interest in a FIF and the closing book value for the relevant income year or the part of the income year is more than zero, the excess is subtracted when the person's FIF income under the deemed rate of return method for the income year is calculated.

When subsection (13) does not apply

(14) Subsection (13) does not apply if—

(a) the person is a natural person; and

(b) at all times during the income year the total value of attributing interests in FIFs held by the person is $250,000 or less, the value of each interest being—

(i) its book value, calculated under subsection (7), at the end of the previous income year, if the person held the interest then and used the deemed rate of return method to calculate FIF income for all attributing interests in the previous income year:

(ii) its market value, in any other case; and

(c) the gain that the person derived from disposing of the interest or part-interest is not income, or is income only to the extent to which it gives rise to FIF income.

EX 56 Cost method

Cost method formula

(1) If a person is using the cost method to calculate FIF income or loss from an attributing interest in a FIF for an income year, the person's total FIF income from their attributing interests in the FIF for the income year is calculated using the formula—

(0.05 × opening value) + quick sale adjustment.

Definition of items in formula

(2) The items in the formula in subsection (1) are defined in subsections (3) to (18).

Opening value

(3) Opening value is the total of the market values of the person's attributing interests in the FIF, being—

(a) zero, if the relevant income year is the year in which the person acquires an attributing interest in the FIF; or

(ab) the amount that is shown as the net asset value of the interest in audited financial statements of the person for the relevant income year made available to the general public, if—

(i) paragraph (a) does not apply; and

(ii) the FIF makes available to the general public audited financial statements for its accounting year ending in the relevant income year; and

(iii) the person chooses that this paragraph applies; or

(ac) the amount of the cost of the interest, if—

(i) paragraphs (a) and (ab) do not apply; and

(ii) the person acquires the interest in the 2005–06 or 2006–07 income year; and

(iii) the interest was not an attributing interest for the income year before the relevant income year; or.

(b) the amount of an independent valuation of the market value of the interest at the start of the relevant income year, if paragraphs (a), (ab) and (ac) do not apply and the person holds the interest at the start of the relevant income year, and—

(i) the interest was not an attributing interest for which the person has FIF income or loss for the income year before the relevant income year:

(ii) the person chooses to use the amount of the independent valuation and there is a period of at least 4 income years between the start of the relevant income year and their last application of this paragraph to the interest, during which period they used the cost method for the interest for all income years.

(c) the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4), if paragraphs (a), (ab), (ac), and (b) do not apply and the person's shareholding (the current opening shareholding) at the start of the relevant income year is the same as the person's shareholding (the preceding opening shareholding) at the start of the preceding income year; or

(d) the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (5), if paragraphs (a), (ab), (ac), and (b) do not apply and the person's current opening shareholding is more than the preceding opening shareholding; or

(e) the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (6), if paragraphs (a), (ab), (ac), and (b) do not apply and the person's current opening shareholding is less than the preceding opening shareholding.

Opening value formula: no shareholding change

(4) The formula referred to in subsection (3)(c) is—

1.05 × preceding opening.

Opening value formula: shareholding increase

(5) The formula referred to in subsection (3)(d) is—

1.05 × preceding opening + (increase × average cost).

Opening value formula: shareholding decrease

(6) The formula referred to in subsection (3)(e) is—

(opening shareholding ÷ preceding shareholding) × 1.05 × preceding opening.

Definition of items in formulas

(7) The items in the formula in subsections (4) to (6) are defined in subsections (8) to (13).

Preceding opening

(8) Preceding opening is the opening value for the income year before the relevant income year.

FIF income

[Repealed]

(9) [Repealed]

Increase

(10) Increase is,—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the preceding income year, the difference between the person's shareholding at the start of the relevant income year and the person's shareholding at the start of the preceding income year:

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the preceding income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the preceding income year.

Average cost

(11) Average cost is,—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the preceding income year, the total amount of expenditure that the person incurs in acquiring or increasing during the preceding income year the attributing interest in the FIF

divided by the total for the preceding income year of the increase in the attributing interest in the FIF for each acquisition or increase; or

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the preceding income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the preceding income year.

Opening shareholding

(12) Opening shareholding is the amount of the person's shareholding at the start of the relevant income year.

Preceding shareholding

(13) Preceding shareholding is the amount of the person's shareholding at the start of the preceding income year.

When quick sale adjustment required

(14) The quick sale adjustment is required only if, in the relevant income year, the person disposes of or reduces their attributing interest in the FIF after acquiring it or increasing it. The quick sale adjustment is zero in any other case.

Quick sale adjustment

(15) Quick sale adjustment is calculated using the formula—

$$0.05 \times \text{peak holding differential} \times \text{average cost}.$$

Definition of items in formula

(16) The items in the formula in subsection (15) are defined in subsections (17) and (18).

Peak holding differential

(17) Peak holding differential is,—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the relevant income year, the lesser of—

(i) the difference between the greatest shareholding in the year and the shareholding at the start of the year:

(ii) the difference between the greatest shareholding in the year and the shareholding at the end of the year; or

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the relevant income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the year.

Average cost

(18) Average cost is,—

(a) if no share reorganisation occurs in the relevant income year, the total amount of expenditure that the person incurs in acquiring or increasing during the relevant income year the attributing interest in the FIF divided by the total for the year of the shareholding increase in the attributing interest in the FIF for each acquisition or increase; or

(b) if a share reorganisation occurs in the relevant income year, the amount calculated under section EX 54 for the year.

Meaning of shareholding

(19) In this section, shareholding means the number of shares or units in an attributing interest.

EX 57 Conversion of foreign currency amounts: most methods

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) an amount in a foreign currency is the market value of, or is derived from or incurred on, an attributing interest in a FIF that a person has in an income year; and

(b) the person is using one of the following calculation methods (the relevant method) to calculate their FIF income or loss from the interest for the income year:

(i) the comparative value method:

(ii) the fair dividend rate method:

(iii) the deemed rate of return method:

(iv) the cost method.

Choosing conversion rates

(2) The person must choose either that—

(a) each foreign currency amount in the income year is converted into New Zealand dollars using the exchange rate on the day for which the market value is determined or on which the amount is derived or incurred; or

(b) all foreign currency amounts in the income year are converted into New Zealand dollars at the average of the close of trading spot exchange rates for the 15th day of each month that falls in the income year.

Election applying method-wide and for future years

(3) The election by the person must be applied for all attributing interests for which they use the relevant method for the income year and each later income year.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributing interest, calculation method, close of trading spot exchange rate, comparative value method, cost method, deemed rate of return method, fair dividend rate method, FIF income, FIF loss, income year, New Zealand

EX 58 Additional FIF income or loss if CFC owns FIF

Application of this section

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a person has an income interest of 10% or more in a CFC for an accounting period under sections EX 14 to EX 17; and

(ab) as a result of an income interest of the CFC in a FIF, the person has an indirect attributing interest in the FIF for the accounting period; and

(b) FIF income and FIF loss is not taken into account in calculating the net attributable CFC income or loss of the CFC for the period for the person.

Calculation of FIF income or loss

(2) The person instead has FIF income or loss, for the income year in which the period ends, calculated using the formula—income interest × CFC's FIF income or loss.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) income interest is the person's income interest in the CFC for the period under sections EX 8 to EX 13:

(b) CFC's FIF income or loss is the CFC's FIF income or loss for the period, calculated under subsections (4) and (5), from FIFs in which the person has an indirect attributing interest.

Application of FIF rules to choice of method

(4) The person must—

(a) choose, under sections EX 44 to EX 48, the calculation method for calculating the CFC's FIF income or loss; and

(b) otherwise apply the calculation rules in sections EX 44 to EX 61 to the CFC and the CFC's interest in the FIF, for the period when the person held the indirect attributing interest; and

(c) apply the FIF loss ring-fencing rules in section DN 8 (Ring-fencing cap on deduction: attributable FIF income method) to the CFC and the CFC's interest in the FIF.

Exceptions

(5) Despite subsection (4), the CFC's FIF income or loss does not include an amount actuarially determined to be attributable to policyholders in the CFC or another company as a result of applying section EX 21(25) and (26) to the CFC.

Non-attributing Australian CFCs and non-attributing active CFCs

(6) This section applies regardless of whether the CFC is a non-attributing active CFC under section EX 21B or a non-attributing Australian CFC under section EX 22 for the period.

EX 60 Top-up FIF income: deemed rate of return method

When this section applies

(1) This section applies at any time when a person—

(a) has an attributing interest in a FIF for a period; and

(b) is calculating the FIF income or loss from the interest using the deemed rate of return method; and

(c) derives in the period, from holding or disposing of the interest, an amount that would have been income if section EX 59(2) had not applied.

Formula

(2) The gain is FIF income to the extent to which the amount calculated using the following formula is positive:

total income gains − total FIF income.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) total income gains is the total of amounts, including the amount in question, derived by the person until that time from holding or disposing of the interest that would have been income if section EX 59(2) had not applied:

(b) total FIF income is the total of FIF income, reduced by the total of any FIF losses, derived by the person from the interest until, and including, the relevant period.

Consequence of partial disposals

(4) If the person disposes of part of the interest, this section applies to the part disposed of and the part retained as if they were separate interests. If this means that an apportionment is necessary, it must be done on the basis of the respective market values at the time the part interest is disposed of.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributing interest, deemed rate of return method, FIF, FIF income, FIF loss, income, loss, market value

(d) was treated as having reacquired the interest on 1 April 1993 for an uplifted cost under section CG 23(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act 1994 or EZ 7 of the Income Tax Act 2004; and

(e) derives in the period, from holding or disposing of the interest, an amount that would have been income if section EX 59(2) had not applied.

Formula

(2) The gain is FIF income to the extent to which the amount calculated using the following formula is positive:

total income gains − total FIF income.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) total income gains is the total of amounts, including the amount in question, that the person derived until that time from holding or disposing of the interest that would have been income if section EX 59(2) had not applied:

(b) total FIF income is the total of FIF income, reduced by the total of any FIF losses, that the person derived from the interest until, and including, the relevant period.

Consequence of partial disposals

(4) If the person disposes of part of the interest, this section applies to the part disposed of and the part retained as if they were separate interests. If this means that an apportionment is necessary, it must be done on the basis of the respective market values at the time the part interest is disposed of.

(i) for a person changing from the cost method, what would have been the interest's opening value under section EX 56 if the person had applied the cost method for the income year; or

(ii) for a person changing from the deemed rate of return method, the interest's closing book value under section EX 55(7) for the preceding income year.

Changes between comparative value method and fair dividend rate method

Market value for cost-based methods

(b) reacquired it immediately after the change; and

(c) received for the disposal and paid for the reacquisition an amount equal to its market value at the time.

Calculation of reduction in FIF income or loss

(7) If the change occurs during an accounting period of the FIF and the person uses the attributable FIF income method to calculate FIF income or loss from the interest for that period, the FIF income or loss is reduced by subtracting the amount calculated using the formula—

FIF income or loss × days after change ÷ days in period.

(iii) the balance of the amount of tax remaining owing after payments made under subparagraphs (i) and (ii), in the third income year following the income year in which the disposals are treated as occurring:

EX 67B Revaluation of inherited interests in grey list companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a person inherited, before 1 April 2007, an interest in a FIF that was a grey list company when the interest was inherited; and

(b) the cost of the interest for the person is equal to zero.

Treatment as disposal and reacquisition

(2) The person is treated as having—

(a) disposed of the interest immediately before this section applied to the person and the interest; and

(b) reacquired the interest as soon as this section applied to the person and the interest; and

(c) received for the disposal and paid for the reacquisition an amount equal to the market value of the interest at the time of the disposal.

Cost of inherited interest for purposes of tax liability

(3) For determining a tax liability of the person arising from the disposal, the cost of the interest for the person at the time of the inheritance is treated as being the lesser of—

(a) the market value of the interest at the time of the inheritance:

(b) the market value of the interest at the time of the disposal.

Payment of tax liability arising from revaluation

(4) A person who is liable to pay an amount of income tax (the amount of tax) because of a disposal in an income year, and related acquisition, treated as occurring under this section—

(a) may satisfy the liability by paying to the Commissioner—

(i) at least one third of the amount of tax in the income year following the income year in which the disposal is treated as occurring; and

(ii) at least one half of the balance of the amount of tax remaining owing after payment made under subparagraph (i), in the second income year following the income year in which the disposal is treated as occurring; and

(iii) the balance of the amount of tax remaining owing after payments made under subparagraphs (i) and (ii), in the third income year following the income year in which the disposal is treated as occurring:

(b) is not liable to pay any penalty or interest for which the person would otherwise be liable for an inaccuracy in an estimate, or shortfall in the payment, of provisional tax to the extent to which the inaccuracy or shortfall arises because of the disposals.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, dispose, FIF, grey list company, income tax, income year, market value, pay, provisional tax, tax

Section EX 67B: inserted, on 7 May 2012, by section 47 of the Taxation (International Investment and Remedial Matters) Act 2012 (2012 No 34).

Measurement of cost

EX 68 Measurement of cost

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when the cost of a person's attributing interest in a FIF is being measured for the purposes of—

(a) the $50,000 threshold in sections CQ 5(1)(d) or (e) (When FIF income arises) and DN 6(1)(d) or (e) (When FIF loss arises):

(b) the comparative value method:

(c) the deemed rate of return method:

(d) the fair dividend rate method:

(e) the cost method.

FIFO cost flow identification

(2) If sections EX 52(14) and EX 53(16) do not apply and it is not possible to specifically identify the cost of the interest because of multiple acquisitions or dispositions or both by the person, the first-in-first-out (the FIFO) method of identifying cost flows is applied.

Definition of items in formula

[Repealed]

(3) [Repealed]

Share splits or similar

(4) If the person acquires the interest as the result of a share split, non-taxable bonus issue, or similar event, and the acquisition is not income for the person, subsections (5) and (6) apply.

Allocation of original cost

(5) The cost of the interest is a fair allocation, based on market values at the time of the split, of the cost of the original property that is split.

Allocation replacing original cost

(6) For the income year in which the split occurs and later,—

(a) the cost allocated to the interest is no longer the cost of the original property that was split; and

(b) the person is treated as having incurred the allocated cost amount on acquiring the interest when the original property was acquired; and

(c) the person is treated as not incurring any other cost on the interest merely because the original property ceases to exist.

Non-monetary cost

(7) If any cost is incurred in kind and not in money, the amount of the cost is equal to the market value of the cost incurred in kind, measured as at the time incurred.

Exclusion of term life insurance element of premiums

(8) If the interest is rights to benefit under a life insurance policy, the cost of the interest excludes a premium incurred in an earlier income year, or accounting period, to the extent to which the premium relates only to term life insurance for the previous period and does not increase the policy's surrender value.

Exclusion of holding costs

(9) The cost of the interest does not include any expenditure under the financial arrangements rules or interest on money borrowed to acquire it, or other holding costs, incurred after its acquisition.

Transitional rule: interests acquired before 1 January 2000

(10) Subsection (11) applies, for the purposes of the $50,000 threshold in sections CQ 5(1)(d) or (e) and DN 6(1)(d) or (e), if—

(a) the interest was acquired before 1 January 2000; and

(b) the person chooses, for the income year for which the relevant paragraph is applied or an earlier income year, that subsection (11) applies to all interests acquired before 1 January 2000.

Cost treated as half 1 April 2007 value

(11) Despite subsections (1) to (9), the cost of the interest is treated as equal to half the market value of the interest on 1 April 2007.

Optional transitional rule: interests excluded by section EX 39 until 2012–13 income year

(12) For interests that were acquired by the person before 1 January 2005 and excluded by section EX 39 from being attributing interests until the beginning of the 2012–13 income year, the person may choose to treat the cost of every interest as being the market value of the interest at the beginning of the 2012–13 income year, for the purposes of the $50,000 threshold in sections CQ 5(1)(d) or (e) and DN 6(1)(d) or (e).

Defined in this Act: accounting period, amount, attributing interest, comparative value method, cost method, deemed rate of return method, fair dividend rate method, FIF, financial arrangements rules, income, income year, interest, life insurance, life insurance policy, market value, non-taxable bonus issue, premium, share

Change of FIF's balance date

EX 69 Change of FIF's balance date

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person—

(a) has an attributing interest in a FIF; and

(b) calculates their FIF income or loss from the FIF using the attributable FIF income method; and

(c) has calculated FIF income or loss from the FIF on the basis of 1 accounting year (the old accounting year); and

(d) wants to change to use a different accounting year (the new accounting year) for the calculations.

Commissioner's consent

(2) The person may make the change only if the Commissioner agrees.

Commissioner's reasons

(3) The Commissioner may take into account any relevant factors when making the decision, including—

(a) whether the change is sought because ownership of the FIF has changed; and

(b) whether the change is sought because of taxation or other legal requirements in a country where the FIF is resident or does business; and

(c) whether the change would postpone liability to income tax on FIF income.

New accounting year

(4) If the change is approved, the person may use the new accounting year.

Limit on transitional deferral

(5) If, in order to make the transition, the transitional accounting period is more than 1 year and ends in a later income year than the old accounting year ends in, and that would result in an amount of FIF income being derived in the later income year, subsection (6) applies and section CQ 5(1)(g) (When FIF income arises) does not.

Income pro-rated over whole period

(6) For the transitional accounting period, the FIF income is divided by the number of days in the period and the resulting amount is FIF income of the person derived on each day in the period.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, accounting year, amount, attributable FIF income method, attributing interest, business, Commissioner, FIF, FIF income, income tax, income year, loss, year

Market value rules

EX 70 Market value of life policy and superannuation entitlements

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, in order to calculate a person's FIF income or loss, it is necessary to calculate the market value of a person's rights to benefit under a life insurance policy or as a beneficiary under a superannuation scheme.

Value of life insurance policy

(2) The market value of rights to benefit under a life insurance policy is equal to their surrender value.

Limit to subsection (2)

(3) Subsection (2) applies only for the purpose of calculating the cost of a person's rights to benefit from a life insurance policy under—

(a) section EX 64(4); and

(b) section EX 65(2).

Value of superannuation scheme entitlement

(4) The market value at any time of a person's rights to benefit under a superannuation scheme is equal to the total of costs incurred up to that time by or for the person on acquiring the rights if—

(a) it is not reasonably practicable to calculate the actual market value; and

(b) they have not derived any material gain from the rights up to that time.

Defined in this Act: FIF income, life insurance policy, loss, market value, superannuation scheme tive value method, the deemed rate of return method, the fair dividend rate method, or the cost method is used.

Defined in this Act: attributing interest, comparative value method, cost method, deemed rate of return method, fair dividend rate method, FIF

Commissioner's power

(2) The Commissioner may make an assessment of the amount of attributed CFC income or loss or FIF income or loss for the relevant period.

(e) the actual gains or losses of the person in the period from holding or disposing of the interest:

EX 73 Election that CFC not non-attributing active CFC or FIF not non-attributing active FIF

Election to have elective attributing CFC

(1) A person (the interest holder) may elect by notice to the Commissioner for each accounting period of the election, that—

(a) a CFC of the interest holder, in which the interest holder has an income interest of 10% or more, not be a non-attributing active CFC for the interest holder:

(b) a FIF of the interest holder, for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method, not be a non-attributing active FIF for the interest holder.

Exception

(2) The interest holder must not make an election under subsection (1) for a CFC or FIF that is—

(a) an entity carrying on a business of banking or insurance or is directly or indirectly controlled by such an entity:

(b) a non-attributing Australian CFC.

Period of election

(3) An election under subsection (1) is made for all accounting periods—

(a) for a CFC, ending in the interest holder's income years beginning on or after 1 July 2009, if the notice—

(i) specifies that the election is made under this paragraph or for that period; and

(ii) meets the requirements of subsection (4); or

(b) for a FIF, ending in the interest holder's income years beginning on or after 1 July 2011, if the notice—

(i) specifies that the election is made under this paragraph or for that period; and

(ii) meets the requirements of subsection (4); or

(c) beginning in the interest holder's income years beginning after—

(i) the date on which the notice is given to the Commissioner; or

(ii) another date agreed by the Commissioner.

Timing of retrospective election

(4) A notice of election for a period given by subsection (3)(a) or (b) is not effective unless given to the Commissioner by the later of—

(a) the end of the interest holder's income year in which this subsection receives the Royal assent:

(b) a date allowed by the Commissioner.

Currency of election

(5) An election under subsection (1) remains effective until the beginning of the earliest income year—

(a) for which the election is revoked under subsection (6):

(b) in which the election ceases to be effective under subsection (7).

Revoking election

(6) The interest holder may revoke an election under subsection (1) if—

(a) the interest holder gives notice of the revocation to the Commissioner before the beginning of the interest holder's first income year for which the notice is given; and

(b) the interest holder satisfies the Commissioner that—

(i) expenditure or loss of a CFC included, while the election is effective, in net attributable CFC income or loss for the interest holder is extremely unlikely to result after the revocation in an amount that would otherwise have been an attributable CFC amount for the CFC; and

(ii) the revocation is not made for a purpose or effect of reducing a tax liability; and

(c) the Commissioner agrees to the revocation.

Expiry of election

(7) An election by the interest holder under subsection (1) ceases to be effective in an income year if the election is for—

(a) a CFC that in the income year ceases to be a CFC in which the interest holder has an income interest of 10% or more, except if the CFC becomes at that time a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method, in which case the election becomes effective as if made for the FIF:

(b) a FIF that in the income year ceases to be a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method, except if the FIF becomes at that time a CFC meeting the requirements of subsection (8), in which case the election becomes effective as if made for the CFC:

(c) a CFC or FIF that in the income year becomes an entity carrying on a business of banking or insurance or becomes directly or indirectly controlled by such an entity:

(d) a CFC that becomes a non-attributing Australian CFC in the income year.

Requirements for CFC to be affected by FIF election

(8) For a CFC to be affected under subsection (7)(b) by an election,—

(a) the interest holder must have an income interest of 10% or more in the CFC; and

(b) the CFC must not be a non-attributing Australian CFC.

Effect of expiry or revocation of election

(9) If an election under subsection (1) ceases to be effective for a CFC or FIF,—

(a) becoming effective for a FIF under subsection (7)(a) because the CFC becomes a FIF for which the interest holder uses the attributable FIF income method, the interest holder may carry forward under section IQ 1B (Losses carried forward to tax year) attributed CFC losses of the CFC to a later tax year as if they were FIF net losses that were attributed from the FIF when the CFC losses were attributed from the CFC:

(b) becoming effective for a CFC under subsection (7)(b) because the FIF becomes a CFC of the interest holder in which the interest holder has an income interest of 10% or more, the interest holder may carry forward under section IQ 1B the FIF net losses of the FIF as if they were attributed CFC losses that were attributed from the CFC when the FIF losses were attributed from the FIF:

(c) other than under paragraphs (a) and (b), the interest holder must not carry forward under section IQ 1B an attributed CFC loss from an elective attributing CFC, or a FIF net loss from an elective attributing FIF, to an income year for which the election for the CFC or FIF has ceased to be effective.

Further election

(10) The interest holder may make a further election under subsection (1) for a period given by subsection (3)(c) after an earlier election ceases to be effective, if—

(a) the interest holder gives notice of the election to the Commissioner before the beginning of the interest holder's first income year for which the notice is given; and

(b) the interest holder satisfies the Commissioner that—

(i) the expiry of the earlier election was due to an oversight on the part of the interest holder or the CFC or FIF; and

(ii) the interest holder gave notice of the further election within a reasonable time after the expiry; and

(iii) the further election has no purpose or effect of allowing the attribution of deductions without the attribution of corresponding income; and

(c) the Commissioner agrees to the election.

Further election for entity by associate of original interest holder

(11) An interest holder may not make an election under subsection (1) for a CFC or FIF for which an earlier election by a person associated with the interest holder has ceased to be effective, unless—

(a) the interest holder gives notice of the proposed election to the Commissioner before the beginning of the interest holder's first income year for which the election is made; and

(b) the interest holder satisfies the Commissioner that the proposed election has no purpose or effect of allowing the attribution of deductions without the attribution of corresponding income; and

(c) the Commissioner agrees to the proposed election.

Form and means of notice to Commissioner

(12) A notice to the Commissioner under this section must be given in the form and by the means prescribed by the Commissioner.

Defined in this Act: attributable FIF income method, attributed CFC loss, CFC, Commissioner, elective attributing CFC, elective attributing FIF, FIF, income interest, income year, net attributable FIF loss, non-attributing active CFC, non-attributing Australian CFC, notice

Non-resident life insurers

EY 48 Non-resident life insurers with life insurance policies in New Zealand 1473
EY 49 Non-resident life insurer becoming resident 1474

Introductory provisions

EY 1 What this subpart does

Two bases

(1) This subpart provides for the taxation of life insurers on 2 separate bases, the policyholder base and the shareholder base. Sections EY 2 and EY 3 describe the general apportionment of income and deductions between the 2 bases under this Part. Section LA 8B (General rules particular to life insurers) provides some general rules for tax credits relating to the 2 bases. Parts L and O include tax credit rules and memorandum account rules specific to the 2 bases.

Schedular policyholder base income and PIE schedular income

(2) Section EY 2 uses the assessable income in a life insurer's policyholder base income, and the life insurer's policyholder base allowable deductions, to calculate their schedular policyholder base income. A life insurer's schedular income derived by their life fund PIE that is a multi-rate PIE is excluded from their schedular policyholder base income, along with deductions for that income.

Counting once

(3) Income and deductions must be apportioned to either the policyholder base or the shareholder base. There is no double-counting.

Defined in this Act: assessable income, deduction, income, life fund PIE, life insurance, life insurer, life reinsurance, memorandum account, multi-rate PIE, policyholder base, policyholder base income, schedular policyholder base income, shareholder base, tax credit

Section EY 1: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 185(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 2 Policyholder base

Policyholder base income

(1) A life insurer has policyholder base income,—

(a) for savings product policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 15:

(b) for profit participation policies, under section EY 17:

(c) under section EY 27(4).

Policyholder base allowable deductions

(2) A life insurer has policyholder base allowable deductions,—

(a) for savings product policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 16:

(ab) for consideration for services provided to policyholders by the life insurer in administering and managing funds intended for use in meeting future policyholder claims under savings product policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 16B:

(b) for profit participation policies, under section EY 18:

(c) under section EY 27(4):

(d) under section EZ 61 (Allowance for cancelled amount: spreading):

(e) under section LE 2B (Use of remaining credits by life insurer on policyholder base).

Schedular policyholder base income

(3) A life insurer's schedular policyholder base income is the amount calculated by subtracting, from the assessable income in the policyholder base income for the income year, the amounts of policyholder base allowable deductions incurred in the income year, or available in the income year under subsection (5) or (5B), in the order in which the amounts are incurred.

Cap on subtracting: ring-fencing policyholder base allowable deductions

(4) Despite subsection (3), the total amount that is subtracted under subsection (3), including an amount available in the income year under subsection (5) or (5B), is no more than the amount of the assessable income in the life insurer's policyholder base income for the income year.

Excess allocations: carrying forward and re-instating next year

(5) An amount of policyholder base allowable deductions that cannot be subtracted under subsection (3) in the current year because of subsection (4) is carried forward to the next income year and treated as policyholder base allowable deductions for that income year.

Transfer of policies with excess policyholder base allowable deductions

(5B) If a life insurer (the transferor) transfers a life insurance policy to another life insurer (the transferee) in an income year and, immediately before the transfer, the transferor has an amount (the transferred amount) of policyholder base allowable deductions for the life insurance policy and the income year, at the time of the transfer—

(a) the amount of policyholder base allowable deductions of the transferor for the income year is reduced by the transferred amount; and

(b) the amount of policyholder base allowable deductions incurred by or available to the transferee in the income year is increased by the transferred amount, which is treated as being incurred by the transferee for the life insurance policy at the time of the transfer.

Exception

(6) Despite subsections (3) to (5) a life insurer's schedular income derived by their life fund PIE that is a multi-rate PIE is excluded from their schedular policyholder base income, along with deductions for that income.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, income year, life fund PIE, life insurance, life insurer, multi-rate PIE, policyholder base allowable deduction, policyholder base income, profit participation policy, savings product policy, schedular income, schedular policyholder base income

(b) for profit participation policies, under sections EY 22 and EY 28:

(c) for the period and policies described in section EY 30, under that section:

(d) for annuities, under section EY 31.

Reserves

(3) Under sections EY 23 to EY 27, a life insurer calculates reserving amounts for life insurance policies, other than annuities, that have a life risk component and are not profit participation policies. A reserving amount may be income included in their shareholder base income, or a deduction that is included in their shareholder base allowable deduction, as provided by the relevant sections.

Defined in this Act: deduction, life insurance, life insurance policy, life insurer, life risk, profit participation policy, savings product policy, shareholder base allowable deduction, shareholder base income

EY 4 Apportionment of income of particular source or nature, and of tax credits

Default basis

(1) For a class of policies, income of a particular source or nature, and tax credits received, are apportioned between the policyholder base and shareholder base—

(a) in the same proportion as the policyholder base income relating to the particular source, nature, or credits bears to the life insurer's total gross gains relating to the particular source, nature, or credits, in the case of the policyholder base:

(b) in the same proportion as the shareholder base income relating to the particular source, nature, or credits bears to the life insurer's total gross gains relating to the particular source, nature, or credits, in the case of the shareholder base.

More equitable or reasonable basis

(2) For a class of policies, the life insurer may use a basis of apportionment that is different from the basis described in subsection (1), if that basis results in an amount, actuarially determined, that is more equitable and reasonable than an amount determined using the basis described in subsection (1).

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, class of policies, income, life insurer, policyholder base, policyholder base income, shareholder base, shareholder base income, tax credit

Section EY 4: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 185(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 5 Part-year tax calculations

Part-year tax calculations

(1) For their life insurance and for their general insurance contracts outstanding claims reserve, a life insurer does part-year tax calculations, described in subsection (2), if they do not have an early life regime application day and 1 July 2010 is not the first day of their income year.

First year part-year calculations: description

(2) For calculating their income tax liability for the tax year that corresponds to the income year that includes 1 July 2010, where 1 July 2010 is not the first day of the income year, the life insurer treats references, in the rules for life insurers, to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years (the part-years) within that first tax year, divided by 1 July 2010 (for example: a rule to calculate an amount of policyholder income for an income year under the replaced rules means the calculation is done for the relevant part-year before 1 July 2010. A rule to calculate an opening reserve amount under sections EY 23 to EY 27 at the beginning of an income year under the new rules means the calculation is done on 1 July 2010, at the beginning of the relevant part-year).

Part-year calculations: effect

(3) The part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year, but they do not create any part-year tax return obligations. The 2 part-year calculations compose 1 income tax liability for 1 income year.

Part-year calculations for transfers: application

(3B) Subsections (3C) to (5) apply where a life insurer (the transferor) transfers life insurance business to another life insurer (the transferee) and sections EY 23 to EY 27 apply to either or both of the transferor and transferee.

Part-year calculations for transfers: when non-resident transferor

(3C) If sections EY 23 to EY 27 apply to the transferee but not to the transferor, the transferee—

(a) does the calculations that would be required under this section for the transferor if sections EY 23 to EY 27 applied to the transferor; and

(b) uses the results of the calculations in the way required under this section for a transferee.

Part-year calculations for transfers

(4) A transferor to whom sections EY 23 to EY 27 apply does a part-year calculation immediately before the transfer, as described in subsection (2), for each class of policy in the transferred business, but only for their part-year ending on the day the transfer occurs. A transferee to whom sections EY 23 to EY 27 apply also does a part-year calculation for the transferred policies, as described in subsection (2), but only for their part-year starting on the day the transfer occurs. The transferee's relevant opening part-year reserve amounts under sections EY 23 to EY 27 equal the transferor's relevant closing part-year reserve amounts immediately before the transfer, and if the life reinsurance associated with a class of policies is not assigned by the transferor to the transferee, those reserve amounts are calculated without subtracting relevant life reinsurance amounts.

Class of policies transferred to insurer

(4B) If a class of policies (the class) is transferred by a transferor to whom sections EY 23 to EY 27 do not apply to a life insurer (the insurer) to whom sections EY 23 to EY 27 apply, the opening value of the reserve amounts for the class under sections EY 23 to EY 27 for the insurer is the closing value that the reserve amounts would have for the transferor if sections EY 23 to EY 27 applied to the transferor.

Part-year calculations for transfers: effect

(5) Transferor's and transferee's part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year, but they do not create any part-year tax return obligations.

Part-year calculations: end of transitional adjustments

(6) If, for a life insurance policy, the transitional adjustment under section EY 30(7) is calculated for part of an income year, because section EY 30 ceases to apply to the policy before the end of the income year, the life insurer does part-year tax calculations for the policy for the income year, as described in subsection (2), but the income year is divided by the day that section EY

30 ceases to apply. The effect of the part-year calculations is described in subsection (3).

Part-year calculations: end of transitional adjustments

No avoidance effect

(8) The fund must not have been established, and must not be being used at any time in the income year, in a way that has the effect of defeating the intent and application of the rules for life insurers.

FMA approval required

(9) The trustee of the fund must have applied to the FMA for, and the FMA must have granted, approval that the fund is for the income year one that complies with subsections (3) to (8).

(10) Subsection (7) does not apply if—

(a) the FMA is satisfied that, for the income year, subsection (7) would have been complied with but for the fund assets exceeding the accrued benefits from the fund:

(a) the fund complies with subsections (3) to (8) for an income year:

(b) the fund ceases to comply with the subsections for an income year.

EY 15 Policyholder base income: non-participation policies

What is included

(1) For an income year, a life insurer's income is included as their policyholder base income if it—

(a) relates to life insurance policies that are savings product policies and not profit participation policies; and

(b) does not relate to life risk components of premiums and claims; and

(c) is not a premium, or is a premium relating to income that is treated under subsection (5) as not relating to life risk components of premiums and claims; and

(d) is included in the amount of policyholder base income calculated under subsection (2) or (4).

Certain income: basis of apportionment

(2) If an amount of income meets the requirements of subsection (1)(a) to (c), the amount of the income that is policyholder base income is calculated using the formula—

(investment × average surrender value ÷ average savings assets)
+ de minimis amounts.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) investment is the amount of income that meets the requirements of subsection (1)(a) to (c), other than income included in the item de minimis amounts:

(b) average surrender value is, for the savings product policies to which the income relates, the average surrender value of the policies for the income year. The life insurer may determine an equitable and reasonable basis for the measurement of the average:

(c) average savings assets is, for the savings product policies to which the income relates, the average market value of assets held by the life insurer for the policies for the income year. The life insurer may determine an equitable and reasonable basis for the measurement of the average:

(d) de minimis amounts is the amount of income meeting the requirements of subsection (1)(a) to (c) that would be treated as relating to life risk components of premiums and life reinsurance claims in the absence of subsection (5).

More equitable or reasonable basis of apportionment

(4) Despite subsections (2) and (3), for income included in the item investment in the formula in subsection (2), the life insurer may use a basis of apportionment that is different from the one described in subsections (2) and (3), if that basis results in an amount, actuarially determined, that is more equitable and reasonable than an amount determined using the basis described in subsections (2) and (3).

Treatment of de minimis life risk component amounts

(5) An amount of income relating to a policy that, but for this subsection, is an amount related to the life risk of a premium or life reinsurance claim, is treated as not relating to the relevant life risk component for the purposes of subsection (1), if—

(a) the life insurer has actuarially determined that the life risk is 1% or less of the premium or life reinsurance claim; and

(b) chooses to apply this subsection for the policy.

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, claim, income, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life reinsurance, life risk, life risk component, market value, premium, policyholder base income, profit participation policy, savings product policy, shareholder base income, surrender value

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 23 Reserving amounts for life insurers: non-participation policies

Reserves

(1) This section and sections EY 24 to EY 27 apply to calculate, a life insurer's reserving amounts for life insurance policies, other than annuities, that have a life risk component and that are not profit participation policies.

Actuarial determination

(2) All reserving amounts must be actuarially determined, for each class of policies that includes life insurance policies to which this section applies.

Positive and negative amounts: shareholder base income or shareholder base allowable deduction

(3) If a reserving amount calculated under sections EY 24 to EY 27 is a positive amount, the life insurer has that amount as income included in their shareholder base income. If a reserving amount calculated under sections EY 24 to EY 27 is a negative amount, the life insurer has that amount as a deduction included in their shareholder base allowable deductions.

Which reserve can be used when?

(4) For an income year and a class of policies, a life insurer has a reserving amount described in—

- (a) section EY 24, for outstanding claims reserves (the outstanding claims reserving amount):
- (b) section EY 25, for premium smoothing reserves (the premium smoothing reserving amount) if the life insurer chooses to calculate a premium smoothing reserving amount and the PSR periods for policies in the class of policies begins, continues or ends in the income year:
- (c) section EY 26, for unearned premium reserves (the unearned premium reserving amount), if the life insurer chooses to not calculate a premium smoothing reserving amount:
- (d) section EY 27, for capital guarantee reserves (the capital guarantee reserving amount).

Choice

(5) Despite subsection (4)(b) and (c), a life insurer may not change between calculating a premium smoothing reserving amount and an unearned premium reserving amount for a class of policies once the premium smoothing reserving amount is used for the class of policies. If a policy in a class of policies does not meet the relevant requirements described in subsection (6), then a life insurer has an unearned premium reserving amount for that class of policy.

Meaning of PSR period

(6) PSR period means, for an income year and a policy in a class of policies, a period—

(a) that is a year or more in length; and

(b) that is the income year or is a period that begins, continues, or ends in the income year and begins or ends in another income year, and

(c) for which—

(i) the amounts of the life risk components of premiums payable in the period are level or substantially level:

(ii) there is a material mismatch between the timing of life risk and the timing of the life risk component of premiums payable in the period.

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, class of policies, deduction, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life risk, life risk component, premium, profit participation policy, PSR period, shareholder base allowable deduction, shareholder base income

EY 24 Outstanding claims reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has an outstanding claims reserving amount for a class of policies calculated using the formula—opening outstanding claims reserve − closing outstanding claims reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula in subsection (1),—

(a) opening outstanding claims reserve is—

(i) if subparagraphs (ii), (iii), and (iv) do not apply, the amount of the life insurer's closing outstanding claims reserve for the class of policies, for the income year before the current year (the prior year); or

(ii) if the life insurer has no closing outstanding claims reserve for the prior year, the amount that would be the outstanding claims reserve for the class of policies, using subsections (3) and (4) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the prior year, but using a basis consistent with the one that the insurer used for tax purposes in that prior year (for example, if liability for claims incurred but not reported was not accounted for, for tax purposes, in the prior year, the opening balance calculation does not take into account liability for claims incurred but not reported); or

(iii) if the current year is the first year in which the insurer adopts IFRS 17 for accounting, the amount of the insurer's reserve for outstanding claims liability for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the prior year using the basis the insurer used for tax purposes in that prior year; or

(iv) if the insurer does not adopt IFRS 17 in the current year and the current year is the first year in which the insurer applies the definition of present value (gross), the amount of the insurer's reserve for outstanding claims liability for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the prior year using the basis the insurer used for tax purposes in that prior year:

(b) closing outstanding claims reserve is the amount of the life insurer's outstanding claims reserve calculated under subsections (3) and (4) for the class of policies at the end of the current year.

Outstanding claims reserve calculation

(3) A life insurer's outstanding claims reserve is calculated for the relevant policies using the formula—life risk claims incurred but not reported + life risk claims reported + risk adjustment.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula in subsection (3),—

(a) life risk claims incurred but not reported is the actuarially determined estimate of present values (gross) for the life risk components of claims not yet reported to the life insurer before the end of the current year, but the insured-against event has occurred. The life risk components must take into account the probability of the claims being paid, and future expenses for administering the claims, but the present value (gross) of relevant life reinsurance claims must be subtracted from the total:

(b) life risk claims reported is the present values (gross) of the life risk components of claims reported but not yet paid. The life risk components must take into account the probability of the claims being paid, and future expenses for administering the claims, but the present values (gross) of relevant life reinsurance claims must be subtracted from the total:

(c) risk adjustment is the appropriate adjustment for the life risk components of claims described in paragraph (a) or (b), to the extent to which the adjustment is actuarially determined, reflects the uncertainty of the estimates that arise from the use of the relevant best estimate assumptions, and is not already included in the life risk components of the claims.

Determining the present value (gross) of life risk components of claims

(5) For the purposes of calculating a life insurer's outstanding claims reserve under this section for a class of policies, present value (gross) for the life risk component of a claim under a life insurance policy or life reinsurance policy that is part of the class means the present value of the life risk component that is included in the outstanding claims reserve of the life insurer, calculated—

(a) using the discount rates that would be used in calculating the present value, gross of tax, of the life risk component for the purposes of the financial statements of the life insurer; and

(b) gross of tax; and

(c) net of GST.

Defined in this Act: amount, best estimate assumptions, claim, class of policies, GST, IFRS 17, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life reinsurance, life reinsurance policy, life risk, life risk component, outstanding claims reserve, present value (gross), tax

(a) opening premium smoothing reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing premium smoothing reserve for the class of policies, for the income year (the prior year) before the current year; or

(ii) the amount that would be the premium smoothing reserve for the class of policies, using the principles in subsection (3) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the prior year, if the life insurer has no closing premium smoothing reserve for the prior year:

(b) closing premium smoothing reserve is the amount of the life insurer's premium smoothing reserve calculated under the principles in subsection (3) for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the current year.

Reserving amount: calculation

(3) For policies in a class of policies and for PSR periods of the policies, reserving amounts must be calculated using the principles—

(a) for an income year, the sum of a reserving amount and the life risk component of premiums equals the expected life risk proportion; and

(b) for PSR periods, the sum of a reserving amount and the life risk component of premiums equals the total life risk component of premiums recognised for financial reporting purposes; and

(c) the amount in the premium smoothing reserve does not include amounts for policies for which all obligations have ceased.

Best estimate assumptions for PSR

(4) Closing and opening premium smoothing reserve amounts must be actuarially determined, using best estimate assumptions.

Special grouping rule for the purposes of best estimate assumptions

(5) For the purposes of determining premium smoothing reserve amounts, life insurance policies may be grouped together if the policies have in common,—

(a) substantially the same contractual terms and conditions, other than their PSR periods; and

(b) substantially the same assumptions for pricing their life risk.

Meaning of expected life risk proportion

(6) In this section, expected life risk proportion means, for life insurance policies in a class of policies and an income year, the proportion of the premiums that fairly reflects the proportion of the life risk and the life risk renewal expenses, for the term of the policy, expected to be borne in the income year and is determined from the corresponding proportions calculated, for each PSR period that begins, continues, or ends in the income year,—

(a) as at the beginning of the income year or the beginning of the PSR period, whichever is later; and

(b) assuming that the policies still exist at the end of the income year or the end of the PSR period, whichever is earlier.

Defined in this Act: amount, actuarially determined, best estimate assumptions, class of policies, expected life risk proportion, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life risk, life risk component, premium, PSR period

EY 26 Unearned premium reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has an unearned premium reserving amount for a class of policies calculated using the formula—opening unearned premium reserve − closing unearned premium reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) opening unearned premium reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing unearned premium reserve for the class of policies, for the income year before the current year; or

(ii) the amount that would be the unearned premium reserve for the class of policies, using subsection (3) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the prior year, if the life insurer has no closing unearned premium reserve for the income year before the current year:

(b) closing unearned premium reserve is the amount of the life insurer's unearned premium reserve under subsection (3) for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the current year.

Unearned premium reserve

(3) A life insurer's unearned premium reserve is the amount of the premium in the current year or a prior year, for the relevant policies, that relates to life risk components and relevant costs, in income years after the current year, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums.

Defined in this Act: amount, class of policies, income year, life insurer, life reinsurance, life risk component

Section EY 26: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 27 Capital guarantee reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has a reserving amount for a class of policies calculated using the formula—opening capital guarantee reserve − closing capital guarantee reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) opening capital guarantee reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing capital guarantee reserve for the class of policies, for the income year before the current year; or

(ii) the amount that would be the capital guarantee reserve for the class of policies, using subsection (3) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the income year before the current year, if the life insurer has no closing capital guarantee reserve for the income year before the current year:

(b) closing capital guarantee reserve is the amount of the life insurer's capital guarantee reserve under subsection (3) for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the current year.

Capital guarantee reserve

(3) A life insurer's capital guarantee reserve is the net amount of credits and debits on account of a risk-linked provision for future obligations in relation to a guarantee, for the class of policies, by the life insurer that capital invested will be returned or that a minimum return on capital will be paid.

Reflex in policyholder base

(4) For the current year, if the reserving amount under this section is positive, the life insurer has that amount as a deduction included in their policyholder base allowable deductions. For the current year, if the reserving amount under this section is negative, the life insurer has that amount as income included in their policyholder base income.

Reflex in policyholder base: exception

(5) Despite subsection (4), for the current year, the life insurer does not have that amount as income included in their policyholder base income to the extent to which the amount represents payment on account of lost capital in the policyholder base.

Defined in this Act: amount, class of policies, income year, life insurer, pay, policyholder base, policyholder base allowable deduction, policyholder base income

Shareholder base other profit: profit participation policies

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 28 Shareholder base other profit: profit participation policies that are existing business

Calculation of income

(1) For an income year, a life insurer has an amount, for profit participation policies that are existing business, that is calculated using the formula—other profit × gate ÷ (1 + gate).

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula in subsection (1),—

(a) other profit is the amount calculated for the income year under subsection (4):

(b) gate is the proportion of a policyholder's share of profits from the asset base that is used in the formula that calculates a transfer to the benefit of the life insurer's shareholders from the profits of the asset base, as described in paragraph (a)(iii) of the definition of profit participation policy.

Formula: negative amounts and positive amounts

(3) If, for an income year, the formula in subsection (1) calculates a positive amount, that amount is included as income in the life insurer's shareholder base income. If it is a negative amount, then that amount is included as a deduction in the life insurer's shareholder base allowable deductions.

Other profit

(4) For the purposes of the item other profit in subsection (2), an amount is calculated, for the income year (the current year) for profit participation policies that are existing business, using the following formula:

(premiums − premiums estimate) − (claims − claims estimate)
− (closing liabilities − estimated closing liabilities).

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula in subsection (4),—

(a) premiums is the amount of premiums for policies for the current year, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(b) premiums estimate is the actuarially determined total amount of premiums that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that were in force at the start of the current year or are first entered into in the current year, after subtracting the value, net of tax and used in the life insurer's financial accounts, of relevant life reinsurance premiums for the current year:

(c) claims is the amount of claims for the current year, after subtracting relevant life reinsurance claims:

(d) claims estimate is the actuarially determined total amount of claims that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that were in force at the start of the current year or are first entered into in the current year, after subtracting the value, net of tax and used in the life insurer's financial accounts, of relevant life reinsurance claims for the current year:

(e) closing liabilities is the total amount, determined as at the end of the current year for policies that are in force at the end of the current year, of the policy liabilities including benefits that vest by the end of the current year:

(f) estimated closing liabilities is the total amount, estimated as at the beginning of the current year for policies that are in force at the start of the current year and expected to be in force at the end of the current year, of the policy liabilities including benefits that vest by the end of the current year.

Policy liability

(6) For the purposes of subsection (5), the policy liability for a policy is an amount that is actuarially determined for the policy using best estimate assumptions and that—

(a) is the total amount of future claims, future expenditure or loss, and future tax payments, reduced by the amount of future premiums; and

(b) is obtained using present values that are net of tax and used in the life insurer's financial accounts and allowing for life reinsurance premiums and life reinsurance claims; and

(c) does not include bonus declarations that vest after the current year.

Basis of best estimate assumptions in actuarially determining items

(7) The same best estimate assumptions must be used for actuarially determining amounts under subsections (5) and (6). The assumptions may be appropriate for the start of the year, or for the end of the year, but once the choice is made between start of the year and end of the year, that basis may not be changed.

Meaning of existing business

(8) For the purposes of this section and section EY 29, existing business means, for a policy, that it is—

(a) issued on or before 30 June 2009:

(b) issued after 30 June 2009, if—

(i) issued on the same substantial and material terms, conditions, and bonus entitlements as profit participation policies that the life insurer issued on or before 30 June 2009, ignoring any annual increase in life insurance cover that is less than 10% or less than annual percentage change in the Consumers Price Index (all groups):

(ii) issued as the result of conversion rights in a policy issued on or before 30 June 2009:

(c) the replacement of another policy (the replaced policy) caused by a life insurer being sold, or selling or transferring its rights and obligations under the replaced policy, and—

(i) the replaced policy was existing business under this subsection; and

(ii) the replaced policy and the policy have the same substantial and material terms, conditions, and bonus entitlements ignoring any annual increase in life insurance cover that is less than 10% or is less than the annual percentage change in the Consumers Price Index (all groups).

(9) In this section, Consumers Price Index (all groups) means the Consumers Price Index (all groups) published by Statistics New Zealand or, if that index ceases to be published, any measure certified by the Government Statistician as being equivalent to that index.

EY 29 Shareholder base other profit: profit participation policies that are new business

Calculation of income

(1) For an income year, a life insurer has an amount, for profit participation policies that are new business, that is calculated using the formula—

(other profit × gate ÷ (1 + gate)) − previous negative amount.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula in subsection (1),—

(a) other profit is the amount calculated for the income year under subsections (5) to (9):

(b) gate is the proportion of a policyholder's share of profits from the asset base that is used in the formula that calculates a transfer to the benefit of the life insurer's shareholders from the profits of the asset base, as described in paragraph (a)(iii) of the definition of profit participation policy:

(c) previous negative amount is the amount from the previous year described in subsections (3) and (4).

Formula: negative amounts and positive amounts

(3) If, for an income year, the formula in subsection (1) calculates a positive amount, that amount is included as income in the life insurer's shareholder base income. If it is a negative amount, then that amount is not included as a deduction in the life insurer's shareholder base allowable deductions, but see subsection (4).

Negative amounts: carry forward

(4) The amount by which the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (1) is less than zero is carried forward to the next income year, to be used under this section in the formula as the item previous negative amount in that next year.

Other profit

(5) For the purposes of the item other profit in subsection (2), an amount is calculated, for the income year (the current year) for profit participation policies that are new business, using the following formula:

(premiums − premiums estimate) − (claims − claims estimate)
− (closing liabilities − estimated closing liabilities).

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5),—

(a) premiums is the amount of premiums for policies for the current year, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(b) premiums estimate is the amount of valuation premiums that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that are in force at the start of the current year, or are first entered into in the current year, after subtracting the value, net of tax and used in the life insurer's financial accounts, of relevant life reinsurance premiums for the current year:

(c) claims is the amount of claims for the current year, after subtracting relevant life reinsurance claims:

(d) claims estimate is the actuarially determined amount of claims that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that are in force at the start of the current year, or are first entered into in the current year, ignoring surrenders and after subtracting the value, net of tax and used in the life insurer's financial accounts, of relevant life reinsurance claims for the current year:

(e) closing liabilities is the total amount, determined as at the end of the current year for policies that are in force at the end of the current year, of the policy liabilities including benefits that vest by the end of the current year:

(f) estimated closing liabilities is the total amount, estimated as at the beginning of the current year for policies that are in force at the start of the current year and expected to be in force at the end of the current year, of the policy liabilities including benefits that vest by the end of the current year.

Meaning of valuation premiums

(7) In this section, valuation premiums means the amount of premiums payable for a policy, actuarially determined by reference to the premium formula used when the policy was first entered into, or, if the premium formula is unavailable, by reference to mortality, expense, and other assumptions applicable to premiums for similar policies at the beginning of the income year in which the policy was first entered into. The valuation premiums must not include any allowance for future bonus declarations or future shareholder profits. The amount of the valuation premium for a policy must not change, unless significant changes to the policy justify changing the valuation premium.

Policy liability

(8) For the purposes of subsection (6), the policy liability for a policy is an amount that is actuarially determined for the policy using best estimate assumptions and that—

(a) is the greater of the current surrender value of the policy and the amount that is the total amount of future mortality and maturity claims, future expenditure or loss, and future tax payments, reduced by the amount of future valuation premiums; and

(b) is obtained using present values that are net of tax and used in the life insurer's financial accounts and allowing for relevant life reinsurance premiums and relevant life reinsurance claims; and

(c) does not include bonus declarations that vest after the current year; and

(d) does not include an allowance for surrenders or the payment of surrender values.

Basis of best estimate assumptions in actuarially determining items

(9) The same best estimate assumptions must be used for actuarially determining amounts under subsections (6), (7), and (8). The assumptions may be appropriate for the start of the year, or for the end of the year, but once the choice is made between start of the year and end of the year, the assumptions must not be changed.

Meaning of new business

(10) For the purposes of this section, new business means, for a policy, that it is not existing business under section EY 28.

Transitional adjustments and annuities

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 30 Transitional adjustments: life risk

When this section applies: treatment of old and new policies

(1) This section applies to life insurance policies described in subsections (2) to (4). For the purposes of this section, a policy (the new policy) is treated as being issued at the same time as another policy (the old policy) that the new policy replaces, if the replacement is caused by—

(a) reinstating the old policy after either a lapse in premium payments or cancellation by the insured, if the new policy comes into force within 90 days of the lapse or cancellation, and the life insurer treats the new policy and old policy the same; or

(b) the life insurer being sold, or the life insurer selling or transferring its rights and obligations under the old policy.

Separation of products into separate policies for purposes of transitional adjustment

(1B) If a life insurance policy is comprised of 2 or more life insurance product types that are capable of being sold separately, and the life insurance cover amounts for each product type are separately identified in the policy, then each of the product types may be treated as a separate life insurance policy for the purposes of this section.

Life insurance policies

(2) This section applies to a life insurance policy, excluding an annuity, a multiple life policy through which the life insurer can look to the individual lives covered, credit card repayment insurance, and a workplace group policy, if the policy is issued by the life insurer before the grandparenting start day or if the life insurer receives an application and a deposit in money before the grandparenting start day for the policy which is issued after that day, and—

(a) the life insurer has no policyholder base income or policyholder base allowable deduction for the policy; and

(b) the policy meets the relevant requirements for the relevant period described in subsection (5)(a) to (c); and

(c) the amount of life insurance cover at the finish of a cover review period, or at the finish of any shorter period, if the life insurer chooses to measure within the cover review period, has not increased by more than the greater of 10% and the percentage change in the Consumers Price Index (all groups) for the relevant period, as compared to the amount of life insurance cover at the beginning of the relevant cover review period; and

(d) no new or replacement individual life is covered for a period beginning after the grandparenting start day.

Multiple life policies

(3) This section applies to a multiple life policy through which the life insurer can look to either the individual lives covered or a relevant underlying life insurance policy, if the multiple life policy (the policy) is issued by the life insurer before the grandparenting start day or if the life insurer receives an application and a deposit in money before the grandparenting start day for the policy which is issued after that day, and—

(a) the life insurer has no policyholder base income or policyholder base allowable deduction for the policy; and

(b) the policy meets the requirements for the period described in subsection (5)(c), or, looking through to the individual lives covered or relevant underlying life insurance policy, to the extent to which the policy meets the requirements for the period described in subsection (5)(a), (b), or (c); and

(c) to the extent to which, looking through to and in relation to the individual lives covered or relevant underlying policy,—

(i) the cover was first in place before the grandparenting start day:

(ii) the multiple life policy is a life reinsurance policy that was first in place before the grandparenting start day; and

(d) the substantial and material terms and conditions of the policy do not change on or after the grandparenting start day; and

(e) either—

(i) to the extent to which, looking through to the individual lives covered, the amount of life insurance cover at the finish of a cover review period, or at the finish of any shorter period if the life insurer chooses to measure within the cover review period, has not increased by more than the greater of 10% and the percentage change in the Consumers Price Index (all groups) for the relevant period, as compared to the amount of life insurance cover at the beginning of the relevant cover review period; or

(ii) in the case of a policy that is life reinsurance, to the extent to which a relevant underlying life insurance policy is, or would be ignoring section EY 10(2), one that this subsection or subsection (2) applies to.

Credit card repayment insurance and workplace group policies

EZ 1 Life insurers acquiring property before 1 April 1988

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when section DZ 2 (Life insurers acquiring property before 1 April 1988) applies.

Amount of deduction

(2) The amount of the deduction is calculated using the formula—

(specific liability ÷ total liability) × property sum.

Definition of items in formula

(3) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (4) to (9).

Specific liability

(4) Specific liability is the amount in the life insurer's total liability on the last day of the 1987–88 income year for the following matters covered by the life insurer's Life Insurance Fund:

(a) superannuation policies; and

(b) pre-1983 mortgage repayment insurance policies; and

(c) annuities that have been granted.

Total liability

(5) Total liability is the life insurer's liability for life insurance policies on the last day of the 1987–88 income year.

Property sum

(6) The property sum is calculated under whichever is relevant of subsections (7) to (9).

Property acquired before last day of 1982–83 income year

(7) For property acquired on or before the last day of the 1982–83 income year, the property sum is calculated by subtracting the specified base cost for 1983 income year property from the market value of the property on 1 April 1988.

Property acquired after end of 1982–83 income year: not financial arrangement

(8) For property acquired after the end of the 1982–83 income year that is not a financial arrangement, the property sum is calculated by subtracting the cost price or acquisition value of the property from the market value of the property on 1 April 1988.

Property acquired after end of 1982–83 income year: financial arrangement

(9) For property acquired after the end of the 1982–83 income year that is a financial arrangement, the property sum is the base price adjustment for the arrangement, calculated as if the arrangement had matured on 1 April 1988 but using the formula in section EW 31 (Base price adjustment formula).

Timing of deduction

(10) The life insurer is allowed the deduction in the income year in which they dispose of the property.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, financial arrangement, income year, Life Insurance Fund, life insurance policy, life insurer, property, specified base cost for 1983 income year property, superannuation policy

(a) the property is land or buildings acquired on or before the last day of the 1989–90 income year; and

(b) the profit from the property's disposal on or before the last day of the 1989–90 income year, had it been disposed of then at a profit, would have been a capital profit or gain and not a profit on disposal of an investment subject to income tax under section 204 of the Income Tax Act 1976 (as that section was immediately before its repeal and substitution by section 13(1) of the Income Tax Amendment Act (No 2) 1990).

Deduction

(2) For the purposes of this Act, for property to which both the following apply, the amount of the deduction is the specified base cost for 1983 income year property:

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) an owner of livestock valued a class of livestock for the 1991–92 income year under section 86 of the Income Tax Act 1976 (as that section was in force before its repeal by section 21 of the Income Tax Amendment Act (No 2) 1993); and

(b) either—

(i) the livestock was, as at 2 September 1992, at the use of a person under a bailment, lease, or other agreement that the owner entered into on or before that date, or was, on or before that date, livestock that was subject to a binding contract to bail or lease the livestock to a person, or otherwise allow them to use the livestock; or

(ii) the class of livestock was not one that the owner had on hand in the previous income year, but was a class that, as at 2 September 1992, was at the use of a person under a bailment, lease, or other agreement that the owner entered into on or before that date.

Rolling average value

(2) The owner may value the livestock at a value equal to 70% of the rolling average value of that class of livestock.

When subsection (2) applies

(3) Subsection (2) applies for the 1992–93 income year and any later income year in which the livestock continues to be bailed, leased, or otherwise used by the person under the bailment, lease, or other agreement.

Number of livestock valued

(4) The number of specified livestock of a class that may be valued under this section is the number that is the least of—

(a) the number of livestock of the class bailed, leased, or otherwise used (or, for a binding contract entered into before 2 September 1992 but not yet applying, the number of livestock of that class provided for in the contract); and

(b) the number of livestock of the class bailed, leased, or otherwise used as at the end of the 1992–93 income year; and

(c) the lesser of the opening and closing number of stock of the class bailed, leased, or otherwise used in a later income year up to and including the income year in which the livestock is being valued.

Meaning of rolling average value

(5) In this section, rolling average value, for an income year and a class of specified livestock, means one-third of the sum of the national average market values set for that income year and each of the 2 previous income years for livestock of that class.

Defined in this Act: class, income year, lease, national average market value, rolling average value, specified livestock

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a person who owns or carries on a business has mixed-age cows on hand at the start of an income year (the cull year) before the 2028–29 income year that they—

(i) use for breeding in the ordinary course of carrying on the business; and

(ii) valued under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method in the previous income year; and

(b) in the cull year, some or all of the person's cattle (the destroyed cattle) are destroyed, because of Mycoplasma bovis, pursuant to—

(i) a power exercised under section 121 of the Biosecurity Act 1993:

(ii) a direction given under section 122 of that Act; and

(c) either,—

(i) if the cull year is before the 2019–20 income year, the number of mixed-age cows valued under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method that the person has on hand at the end of the income year following the cull year is at least 75% of the number of mixed-age cows valued under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method that the person had on hand at the start of the cull year; or

(ii) in any other case, the number of mixed-age cows valued under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method that the person expects to have on hand at the end of the income year following the cull year is at least 75% of the number of mixed-age cows valued under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method that the person had on hand at the start of the cull year.

Timing of income

(2) The person may choose to allocate the amount of income calculated using the formula in subsection (5) equally between the 6 income years following the cull year.

Timing of deduction

(3) When a person makes an election under subsection (2), part of any deduction that the person is allowed for the value that their livestock valued under subpart EC (Valuation of livestock) had at the end of the income year before the cull year, as calculated under section EC 2 (Valuation of livestock), is allocated equally between the 6 income years following the cull year. The part must reflect the value, as calculated under that section at the end of the income year before the cull year using whichever of the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method the person used in the income year before the cull year, of the same number of each class of livestock to which the amount of income allocated under subsection (2) relates.

Business ceasing

(4) If the person stops owning or carrying on the business in an income year (the cessation year) before the seventh income year following the cull year, to the extent to which it has not been allocated to income years before the cessation year,—

(a) the amount of income calculated using the formula in subsection (5) is allocated to the cessation year; and

(b) the part of any deduction allocated under subsection (3) is allocated to the cessation year.

First formula

(5) The formula referred to in subsections (2) and (4) is—

$$\Sigma(\text{number} \times (\text{sale proceeds} + \text{compensation}) \div \text{culled stock}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(6) The items in the formula in subsection (5) are defined in subsections (7) to (11).

Σ

(7) Σ is the symbol for the summation of the amounts calculated using the formula in the brackets that follow that symbol for each of the following classes of each of the beef cattle and dairy cattle types of livestock:

(a) rising 1 year heifers:

(b) rising 2 year heifers:

(c) mixed-age cows:

(d) breeding bulls.

Number

(8) Number, for a class of livestock, is the number that is the lesser of the following 2 numbers, or the first number if they are the same:

(a) the number that is the greater of zero and the number calculated using the formula in subsection (12):

(b) the number of livestock of that class that—

(i) were breeding stock or stock that the person expected to be capable of, and intended to be used for, breeding upon reaching maturity; and

(ii) the person valued under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method in the income year before the cull year.

Sale proceeds

(9) Sale proceeds, for a class of livestock, is the amount of income the person derives as consideration for the disposal of livestock of that class, including their carcasses, that are part of the destroyed cattle.

Compensation

(10) Compensation, for a class of livestock, is the amount of income the person derives that is compensation to which the person is entitled under section 162A of the Biosecurity Act 1993 and that the person receives by the end of the income year following the cull year, but only to the extent to which that compensation is for—

(a) any excess of the value of the destroyed cattle that belong to that class used in the calculation of that compensation over the amount of income described in subsection (9) for that class; and

(b) any excess of the cost of replacement cattle of the same class that the person acquires and intends to be used for breeding over the amount of income that would, in the absence of this paragraph, be described in this subsection.

Culled stock

(11) Culled stock, for a class of livestock, is the number of livestock of that class that are part of the destroyed cattle.

Second formula

EZ 23 Economic rate for plant or equipment acquired before 1 April 2005 and buildings acquired before 19 May 2005

What this section is about

(1) This section is about setting the economic depreciation rate that applies to items of a kind of depreciable property if—

(a) the kind of depreciable property is not fixed life intangible property, or excluded depreciable property, for which an economic rate cannot be set; and

(b) the items are—

(i) plant or equipment acquired before 1 April 2005:

(ii) buildings acquired before 19 May 2005:

Rate set by Commissioner

(2) The Commissioner sets the rate from time to time by—

(a) following the procedure set out in this section; and

(b) issuing a determination under section 91AAF of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Procedure for setting economic rate

(3) To set the diminishing value rate for a kind of item of depreciable property, the Commissioner—

(a) gets a figure by applying the formula in subsection (4) to items of that kind; and

(b) rounds the figure up or down to the nearest rate specified in schedule 12, column 1 (Old banded rates of depreciation); and

(c) sets the same rate for some or all of the kinds of items of depreciable property that are similar to one another, if the Commissioner thinks it is appropriate to do so having regard to—

(i) the rate calculated for each kind; and

(ii) the reduction in compliance costs that is likely to be achieved.

Formula

$$1 - ((\text{residual value} \div \text{cost})^{(1 \div \text{estimated useful life})}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) residual value is the greater of—

(i) estimated residual market value, which is defined in section EE 67 (Other definitions):

EZ 23BA Aircraft acquired before 2017–18 income year: adjusted tax value, base value, reduced; total deductions increased

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a person, before the 2017–18 income year, acquires an aircraft engine or an aircraft including an unpriced aircraft engine; and

(b) the person is required to perform aircraft engine overhauls on the aircraft engine when operating an aircraft; and

(c) for the purposes of section EE 56 (Formula), the item base value used to calculate the adjusted tax value of the aircraft engine or aircraft for income years before the 2017–18 income year includes an amount corresponding to the cost of an aircraft engine overhaul of the aircraft engine; and

(d) the person does not make an election under section EJ 26 (Allocation of expenditure on aircraft engine overhauls: election by operator of single aircraft) for the 2017–18 income year.

Base value reduced by cost of overhaul

(2) The item base value referred to in subsection (1)(c) for the aircraft engine or aircraft is reduced at the beginning of the 2017–18 income year by the included amount referred to in that paragraph.

Adjusted tax value reduced by depreciated cost of overhaul

(3) The adjusted tax value of the aircraft engine or aircraft is reduced at the beginning of the 2017–18 income year by the proportion of the adjusted tax value that corresponds to the depreciated cost to the person of the aircraft engine overhaul referred to in subsection (1)(c).

Total deductions increased by reduction in base value

(4) For the purposes of section EE 60, an amount equal to the difference between the reduction required by subsection (2) and the reduction required by subsection (3) is included as a decrease in the item total deductions for the aircraft engine or aircraft.

Fair and reasonable proportion of base value and adjusted tax value

(5) For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), the proportion of the base value or adjusted tax value that corresponds to the cost or depreciated cost to the person of the aircraft engine overhaul is the amount that is fair and reasonable, taking into consideration—

(a) the principles used in determining the amount of a deduction allowed under section DW 5 (Aircraft operators: aircraft engines and aircraft engine overhauls) for an aircraft engine or aircraft in the 2017–18 or a later income year:

(b) historical figures for the cost of an aircraft engine overhaul as a proportion of the cost of a similar aircraft and engine.

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, aircraft engine, aircraft engine overhaul, unpriced aircraft engine

EZ 23B Property acquired after depreciable property affected by Canterbury earthquakes

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person and an income year (the current year) before the 2024–25 income year when the person,—

(a) in or before the current year, receives insurance or compensation (the earthquake compensation) for items of depreciable property (the affected property), each of which is—

(i) not depreciable intangible property; and

(ii) included in 1 of the categories (an affected class) of the person's depreciable property referred to in subsection (10)(b); and

(iii) included in an affected class that is not linked with a replacement interest under section EZ 23BB; and

(b) is entitled to the earthquake compensation because each item of the affected property, as a result of a Canterbury earthquake as that term is defined in section 4 of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Act 2011, is affected by—

(i) damage meeting the requirements of section EE 47(4) (Events for purposes of section EE 44); or

(ii) a disposal and reacquisition under section EZ 23C or EZ 70; and

(c) would have, in the absence of this section, from the earthquake compensation for the affected property in the affected class, depreciation recovery income under section EE 48 (Effect of disposal or event) in or before the current year; and

(d) has a total amount of depreciation loss under section EE 48 for the affected property in the affected class that, treated as a positive amount, is less than the total amount of depreciation recovery income referred to in paragraph (c) by an amount (the excess recovery); and

(e) plans in the current year to acquire depreciable property (the replacement property) meeting the requirements of subsection (7); and

(f) notifies the Commissioner under subsection (9)—

(i) specifying the affected property and affected class; and

(ii) linking, for the purposes of this section, each item of acquired replacement property with an affected class.

Suspended recovery income

(2) For an affected class, the amount that may be depreciation recovery income of the person in or after the current year (the suspended recovery income) is the excess recovery that remains at the beginning of the current year after—

(a) adjustment under subsections (3) and (6) for an earlier income year; and

(b) attribution to an earlier income year by subsection (8).

Depreciation recovery income

(2B) The person has an amount of depreciation recovery income for the current year equal to the amount of suspended recovery income that is attributed to the current year by subsection (8).

Effect of acquiring item of replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected property not in pool

(3) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with an affected class of affected property for which the person does not use the pool method, the amount given by subsection (4)—

(a) is treated as not being included in the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item, for the purposes of determining—

(i) under section EE 16(4) (Amount resulting from standard calculation) the item value or cost for the replacement item, if the person uses the diminishing value method or straight-line method for the replacement item; or

(ii) under section EE 22 (Cases affecting pool) the cost of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item; and

(b) is a reduction in the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected class.

Amount of reduction: expenditure on replacement item and suspended recovery income

(4) The amount of the reduction under subsection (3)(a) or (b) for a replacement item and an affected class of affected property for which the person does not use the pool method is—

(a) zero, if the cost of the affected class equals or is less than the person's total expenditure in acquiring, before the replacement item, other replacement property linked with the affected class; or

(b) the amount calculated using the formula—

limited replacement cost × excess ÷ affected cost.

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) limited replacement cost is the lesser of the following:

(i) the amount by which the cost of the affected class exceeds the total expenditure in acquiring, before the replacement item, other replacement property linked with the affected class:

(ii) the amount of the expenditure on the replacement item:

(b) excess is the excess recovery for the affected class:

(c) affected cost is the total cost for the person of the affected class.

Effect of acquiring item of replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected property in pool

(6) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with an affected class of affected property for which the person uses the pool method,—

(a) the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item is treated as being reduced, by the amount equal to the lesser of the amount of expenditure on the replacement item and the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected property after the acquisition of other replacement property before the replacement item, for the purposes of determining—

(i) the adjusted tax value of the replacement item, if subparagraphs (ii) or (iii) do not apply; or

(ii) the cost of the replacement item for the straight-line method, if that method is used to determine depreciation loss for the replacement item; or

(iii) the adjusted tax value of the pool of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item; and

(b) the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected class is reduced by the amount of the treated reduction under paragraph (a).

Requirements for replacement property

(7) An item of replacement property for a person must—

(a) [Repealed]

(b) [Repealed]

(c) be included in the same category under subsection (10)(b) as the affected class with which the person links the item, if the affected class is described in subsection (10)(b)(i) or (ii); and

(d) be located in greater Christchurch as that term is defined in section 4 of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Act 2011, if the item is a building or commercial fit-out.

Attribution of suspended recovery income to income year: other events

(8) The person has, in the current year, an amount of depreciation recovery income for an affected class equal to the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected class—

(a) at the end of the current year, if that year is the 2023–24 income year and neither of paragraphs (b) and (c) apply earlier; or

(b) when in the current year the person decides not to acquire more replacement property, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (c) apply earlier; or

(c) when in the current year the person goes into liquidation or becomes bankrupt, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (b) apply earlier.

Notice of election for affected property

(9) A person choosing to rely on this section to suspend in a current year the recognition of suspended recovery income from the insurance or compensation for affected property must notify the Commissioner—

(a) for the earliest income year (the estimate year) in which the amount of the insurance or compensation for the affected property can be reasonably estimated, by the later of 31 January 2012 and the date on which the return of income is filed for the estimate year; and

(b) if the current year is after the estimate year,—

(i) for each income year between the estimate year and the current year, by the date on which the return of income is filed for that income year; and

(ii) for the current year, by the date on which the return of income is filed for the current year.

Contents of notice of election

(10) A notice under subsection (9) must—

(a) describe the items of affected property; and

(b) indicate in which of the following categories each item of affected property is included:

(i) a building not referred to in subparagraph (iii):

(ii) commercial fit-out not referred to in subparagraph (iii):

(iii) depreciable property for which the person uses the pool method:

(iv) depreciable property not referred to in subparagraphs (i) to (iii); and

(c) give details of each item of replacement property acquired in the current year and the affected class to which the person is linking the item; and

(d) give the amount of the expenditure on the replacement item and the reduction under subsection (3) or (6) of that expenditure for the purposes of determining adjusted tax value or depreciation loss; and

(e) give the amount, for the affected class, of the suspended recovery income at the end of the current year.

Disposal of replacement property: reduction in cost treated as depreciation loss

(11) For the purposes of section EE 48, the amount by which a person's expenditure on a replacement item is treated as being reduced under subsection (3) or (6) is an amount of depreciation loss for the item for which the person has been allowed a deduction.

Removal of link by election under section EZ 23BB

(11B) If a person in the current year has an amount of suspended recovery income for an affected class of buildings and has made an election under this section to link replacement property (the linked property) to the affected class and has not incurred expenditure in acquiring the linked property,—

(a) the person may choose to make an election under section EZ 23BB linking the affected class with replacement property, which may include linked property:

(b) a consequence of an election referred to in paragraph (a) is that the affected class and the linked property are treated as not being linked under this section for the current year.

Order of acquisition for items acquired at same time

(11C) If items of replacement property are acquired at the same time and the effect of this section depends on the order in which the items are acquired, the items are treated as being acquired in the order chosen by the person in the first return of income for which the order of acquisition is taken into account.

Relationship to subpart EE

(12) This section overrides subpart EE (Depreciation).

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, amount, assessable income, building, commercial building, commercial fit-out, depreciable intangible property, depreciable property, depreciation loss, depreciation recovery income, income year, liquidation, notice, notify, pool, pool method, return of income, straight-line method

EZ 23BB Interest in property acquired after depreciable property affected by Canterbury earthquakes

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person and an income year (the current year) before the 2024–25 income year when the person,—

(a) in or before the current year, receives insurance or compensation (the earthquake compensation) for items of depreciable property (the affected property), each of which is—

(i) not depreciable intangible property; and

(ii) not property for which the person uses the pool method; and

(iii) included in 1 of the categories (an affected class) of the person's depreciable property referred to in subsection (11)(b); and

(iv) not linked with replacement property under section EZ 23B or has a link with replacement property that may be removed under section EZ 23B(11B); and

(b) is entitled to the earthquake compensation because each item of the affected property, as a result of a Canterbury earthquake as that term is defined in section 4 of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Act 2011, is affected by—

(i) damage meeting the requirements of section EE 47(4) (Events for purposes of section EE 44); or

(ii) a disposal and reacquisition under section EZ 23C or EZ 70; and

(c) would have, in the absence of this section, from the earthquake compensation for the affected class, depreciation recovery income under section EE 48 (Effect of disposal or event) in or before the current year; and

(d) has a total amount of depreciation loss under section EE 48 for the affected class that, treated as a positive amount, is less than the total amount of depreciation recovery income referred to in paragraph (c) by an amount (the excess recovery); and

(e) has in the current year an interest (a replacement interest) in a voting interest in a company (the owning company) having the purpose of acquiring depreciable property (the replacement property) meeting the requirements of subsection (6); and

(f) holds the voting interest in the owning company or is the settlor of a trust of which the trustee holds the voting interest; and

(g) notifies the Commissioner under subsection (10).

Suspended recovery income

(2) For a replacement interest, the amount that may be depreciation recovery income of the person in or after the current year (the suspended recovery income) is the excess recovery, for the affected property with which the replacement interest is linked under subsections (10) and (11), that remains at the beginning of the current year after—

(a) adjustment under subsections (3), (8), and (9) for an earlier income year; and

(b) attribution to an earlier income year by subsections (8) to (10).

Effect of acquiring interest in replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected class

(3) If the person acquires a replacement interest and links the replacement interest with an affected class, the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4)—

(a) is an amount of suspended recovery income for the replacement interest; and

(b) is a reduction in the amount of the depreciation recovery income for the affected class.

Suspended recovery income for replacement interest and reduction of suspended recovery income for affected class

(4) The amount under subsection (3)(a) and (b) for a replacement interest and affected class is—

(a) zero, if the cost of the affected property in the affected class equals or is less than the total of the fractional interest values for other replacement interests acquired by the person before the replacement interest; or

(b) the amount calculated using the formula—

limited replacement cost × excess ÷ affected cost.

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) limited replacement cost is the lesser of—

(i) the fractional interest value of the replacement interest:

(ii) the amount by which the total cost for the person of the affected property in the affected class exceeds the total amount of the fractional interest values of other replacement interests acquired by the person before the replacement interest:

(b) excess is the excess recovery for the affected class:

(c) affected cost is the total cost for the person of the affected property in the affected class.

Requirements for replacement property

(6) An item of replacement property for a person or owning company must—

(a) be included in the same category under subsection (11)(b) as the affected class with which the person links the item, if the affected class is described in subsection (11)(b)(i) or (ii); and

(b) be located in greater Christchurch as that term is defined in section 4 of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Act 2011, if the item is a building or commercial fit-out.

Depreciation recovery income and suspended recovery income

(7) The amount of suspended recovery income for a person's replacement interest is not depreciation recovery income for the person arising from the replacement interest unless it is attributed to an income year by subsections (8) and (9).

Depreciation recovery income: disposal of replacement property by owning company

(8) If the owning company in which a person has a replacement interest disposes of the replacement property in an income year, and subsection (9) does not apply earlier,—

(a) the person has, in the income year for the replacement interest, an amount of depreciation recovery income equal to the fractional interest value of the replacement interest calculated under subsection (12); and

(b) the suspended recovery income for the replacement interest is reduced by the amount referred to in paragraph (a).

Depreciation recovery income: other events

(9) The person has, in an income year, an amount of depreciation recovery income equal to the suspended recovery income for a replacement interest and affected property, and the suspended recovery income for the replacement interest and affected property is reduced to zero,—

(a) at the end of the income year, if—

(i) the income year is the 2023–24 income year; and

(ii) the owning company does not acquire the replacement property relating to the replacement interest and the affected property before the end of the income year; and

(iii) neither of paragraphs (b) and (c) apply earlier; or

(b) when in the income year the person disposes of the replacement interest, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (c) apply earlier; or

(c) when in the income year the person goes into liquidation or becomes bankrupt, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (b) apply earlier.

Notice of election for affected property

(10) A person choosing to rely on this section to suspend in a current year the recognition of suspended recovery income from earthquake compensation must give notice under this section, or under section EZ 23B for years before the current year, to the Commissioner—

(a) for the earliest income year (the estimate year) in which the amount of the earthquake compensation for the affected property can be reasonably estimated, by the later of 31 January 2012 and the date on which the return of income is filed for the estimate year; and

(b) if the current year is after the estimate year,—

(i) for each income year between the estimate year and the current year, by the date on which the return of income is filed for that income year; and

(ii) for the current year, by the date on which the return of income is filed for the current year.

Contents of notice of election

(11) A notice under subsection (10) for the current year must—

(a) describe the affected property; and

(b) indicate in which of the following categories each item of affected property is included:

(i) a building:

(ii) commercial fit-out:

(iii) depreciable property not referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii); and

(c) indicate which items of affected property were linked with replacement property under section EZ 23B before the current year; and

(d) give details of each item of replacement property in which a replacement interest is held in the current year, and the affected class to which the person is linking the replacement interest; and

(e) for each replacement interest held in the current year, give the amount of the expenditure by the owning company on the replacement property, the shareholding of the person's holding entity in the owning company, and the shareholding of the person in, or the fraction of the trust corpus that has been settled by the person on, the person's holding entity; and

(f) for each category of replacement property, give the amount of the suspended recovery income at the end of the current year; and

(g) for each category of replacement property, give the amount of depreciation recovery income for the current year.

Formula for calculating fractional interest value

(12) For a person with a replacement interest in replacement property, the fractional interest value of the replacement interest for the purposes of this section is the value calculated using the formula—person's fractional interest × replacement expenditure.

Definition of items in formula

(13) In the formula,—

(a) person's fractional interest is—

(i) the voting interest of the person in the owning company; or

(ii) the fraction calculated by multiplying the voting interest in the owning company held by the trustee of a trust of which the person is a settlor by the fraction of the trust corpus that has been settled by the person:

(b) replacement expenditure is the amount of the expenditure by the owning company on the replacement property.

Order of acquisition for items acquired at same time

(14) If items of replacement property are acquired at the same time and the effect of this section depends on the order in which the items are acquired, the items are treated as being acquired in the order chosen by the person in the first return of income for which the order of acquisition is taken into account.

Relationship to subpart EE

(15) This section overrides subpart EE (Depreciation).

EZ 23BC Property acquired after depreciable property affected by Hurunui/Kaikōura earthquakes

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person and an income year (the current year) before the 2019–20 income year when the person,—

(a) in or before the current year, receives insurance or compensation (the earthquake compensation) for items of depreciable property (the affected property), each of which is—

(i) not depreciable intangible property; and

(ii) included in 1 of the categories (an affected class) of the person's depreciable property referred to in subsection (11)(b); and

(b) is entitled to the earthquake compensation because each item of the affected property, as a result of a Hurunui/Kaikōura earthquake as that term is defined in section 4 of the Hurunui/Kaikōura Earthquakes Recovery Act 2016, is affected by—

(i) damage meeting the requirements of section EE 47(4) (Events for purposes of section EE 44); or

(ii) a disposal and reacquisition under section EZ 78; and

(c) would have, in the absence of this section, from the earthquake compensation for the affected property in the affected class, depreciation recovery income under section EE 48 (Effect of disposal or event) in or before the current year; and

(d) has a total amount of depreciation loss under section EE 48 for the affected property in the affected class that, treated as a positive amount, is less than the total amount of depreciation recovery income referred to in paragraph (c) by an amount (the excess recovery); and

(e) plans in the current year to acquire depreciable property (the replacement property) meeting the requirements of subsection (8); and

(f) notifies the Commissioner under subsection (10)—

(i) specifying the affected property and affected class; and

(ii) linking, for the purposes of this section, each item of acquired replacement property with an affected class.

Suspended recovery income

(2) For an affected class, the amount that may be depreciation recovery income of the person in or after the current year (the suspended recovery income) is the excess recovery that remains at the beginning of the current year after—

(a) adjustment under subsections (4) and (7) for an earlier income year; and

(b) attribution to an earlier income year by subsection (9).

Depreciation recovery income

(3) The person has an amount of depreciation recovery income for the current year equal to the amount of suspended recovery income that is attributed to the current year by subsection (9).

Effect of acquiring item of replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected property not in pool

(4) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with an affected class of affected property for which the person does not use the pool method, the amount given by subsection (5)—

(a) is treated as not being included in the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item, for the purposes of determining—

(i) under section EE 16(4) (Amount resulting from standard calculation) the item value or cost for the replacement item, if the person uses the diminishing value method or straight-line method for the replacement item; or

(ii) under section EE 22 (Cases affecting pool) the cost of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item; and

(b) is a reduction in the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected class.

Amount of reduction: expenditure on replacement item and suspended recovery income

(5) The amount of the reduction under subsection (4)(a) or (b) for a replacement item and an affected class of affected property for which the person does not use the pool method is—

(a) zero, if the cost of the affected class equals or is less than the person's total expenditure in acquiring, before the replacement item, other replacement property linked with the affected class; or

(b) the amount calculated using the formula—

limited replacement cost × excess ÷ affected cost.

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula,—

(a) limited replacement cost is the lesser of—

(i) the amount by which the cost of the affected class exceeds the total expenditure in acquiring, before the replacement item, other replacement property linked with the affected class:

(ii) the amount of the expenditure on the replacement item:

(b) excess is the excess recovery for the affected class:

(c) affected cost is the total cost for the person of the affected class.

Effect of acquiring item of replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected property in pool

(7) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with an affected class of affected property for which the person uses the pool method,—

(a) the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item is treated as being reduced, by the amount equal to the lesser of the amount of expenditure on the replacement item and the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected property after the acquisition of other replacement property before the replacement item, for the purposes of determining—

(i) the adjusted tax value of the replacement item, if subparagraphs (ii) or (iii) do not apply; or

(ii) the cost of the replacement item for the straight-line method, if that method is used to determine depreciation loss for the replacement item; or

(iii) the adjusted tax value of the pool of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item; and

(b) the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected class is reduced by the amount of the treated reduction under paragraph (a).

Requirements for replacement property

(8) An item of replacement property for a person must—

(a) be included in the same category under subsection (11)(b) as the affected class with which the person links the item, if the affected class is described in subsection (11)(b)(i), (ii), (vii), or (viii); and

(b) if the item is a building or commercial fit-out, be located in an earthquake-affected area, as that term is defined in section 4 of the Hurunui/Kaikōura Earthquakes Recovery Act 2016, relating to—

(i) the Canterbury Regional Council (Environment Canterbury), the Hurunui District Council, the Kaikoura District Council, or the Marlborough District Council, if the affected property is located in an earthquake-affected area relating to 1 of those councils; or

(ii) the Wellington City Council, the Hutt City Council, or the Wellington Regional Council (Greater Wellington), if the affected property is located in an earthquake-affected area relating to 1 of those councils.

Attribution of suspended recovery income to income year: other events

(9) The person has, in the current year, an amount of depreciation recovery income for an affected class equal to the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected class—

(a) at the end of the current year, if that year is the 2021–22 income year and neither of paragraphs (b) and (c) apply earlier; or

(b) when in the current year the person decides not to acquire more replacement property, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (c) apply earlier; or

(c) when in the current year the person goes into liquidation or becomes bankrupt, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (b) apply earlier.

Notice of election for affected property

(10) A person choosing to rely on this section to suspend in a current year the recognition of suspended recovery income from the insurance or compensation for affected property must notify the Commissioner—

(a) for the earliest income year (the estimate year) in which the amount of the insurance or compensation for the affected property can be reasonably estimated, by the later of 31 January 2018 and the date on which the return of income is filed for the estimate year; and

(b) if the current year is after the estimate year,—

(i) for each income year between the estimate year and the current year, by the date on which the return of income is filed for that income year; and

(ii) for the current year, by the date on which the return of income is filed for the current year.

Contents of notice of election

(11) A notice under subsection (10) must—

(a) describe the items of affected property; and

(b) indicate in which of the following categories each item of affected property is included:

(i) a building not referred to in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv):

(ii) commercial fit-out not referred to in subparagraphs (v) and (vi):

(iii) buildings for which the person uses the pool method and that are located in an earthquake-affected area, as that term is defined in section 4 of the Hurunui/Kaikōura Earthquakes Recovery Act 2016, (the earthquake-affected area) relating to the Canterbury Regional Council (Environment Canterbury), the Hurunui District Council, the Kaikoura District Council, or the Marlborough District Council:

(iv) buildings for which the person uses the pool method and that are located in an earthquake-affected area relating to the Wellington City Council, the Hutt City Council, or the Wellington Regional Council (Greater Wellington):

(v) commercial fit-outs for which the person uses the pool method and that are located in an earthquake-affected area relating to the Canterbury Regional Council (Environment Canterbury), the Hurunui District Council, the Kaikoura District Council, or the Marlborough District Council:

(vi) commercial fit-outs for which the person uses the pool method and that are located in an earthquake-affected area relating to the Wellington City Council, the Hutt City Council, or the Wellington Regional Council (Greater Wellington):

(vii) depreciable property for which the person uses the pool method, other than a building or commercial fit-out:

(viii) depreciable property not referred to in subparagraphs (i) to (vii); and

(c) give details of each item of replacement property acquired in the current year and the affected class to which the person is linking the item; and

(d) give the amount of the expenditure on the replacement item and the reduction under subsection (4) or (7) of that expenditure for the purposes of determining adjusted tax value or depreciation loss; and

(e) give the amount, for each affected class, of the suspended recovery income at the end of the current year.

Disposal of replacement property: reduction in cost treated as depreciation loss

(12) For the purposes of section EE 48, the amount by which a person's expenditure on a replacement item is treated as being reduced under subsection (4) or (7) is an amount of depreciation loss for the item for which the person has been allowed a deduction.

Order of acquisition for items acquired at same time

(13) If items of replacement property are acquired at the same time and the effect of this section depends on the order in which the items are acquired, the items are treated as being acquired in the order chosen by the person in the first return of income for which the order of acquisition is taken into account.

Relationship to subpart EE

(14) This section overrides subpart EE (Depreciation).

(a) in or before the current year, receives insurance or compensation (the flood compensation) for items of depreciable property (the affected property), each of which is—

(i) not depreciable intangible property; and

(b) attribution to an earlier income year by subsection (9).

Depreciation recovery income

(3) The person has an amount of depreciation recovery income for the current year equal to the amount of suspended recovery income that is attributed to the current year by subsection (9).

Effect of acquiring item of replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected property not in pool

(4) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with an affected class of affected property for which the person does not use the pool method, the amount given by subsection (5)—

(a) is treated as not being included in the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item for the purposes of determining,—

(i) under section EE 16(4) (Amount resulting from standard calculation), the item value or cost for the replacement item, if the person uses the diminishing value method or straight-line method for the replacement item; or

(ii) under section EE 22 (Cases affecting pool), the cost of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item; and

(c) affected cost is the total cost for the person of the affected class.

(7) If the person acquires a replacement item and links the replacement item with an affected class of affected property for which the person uses the pool method,—

(a) the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item is treated as being reduced by the amount equal to the lesser of the amount of expenditure on the replacement item and the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected property after the acquisition of other replacement property before the replacement item for the purposes of determining—

(i) the adjusted tax value of the replacement item, if subparagraph (ii) or (iii) does not apply; or

(ii) the cost of the replacement item for the straight-line method, if that method is used to determine depreciation loss for the replacement item; or

(iii) the adjusted tax value of the pool of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item; and

(b) the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected class is reduced by the amount of the treated reduction under paragraph (a).

Requirements for replacement property

(b) when in the current year the person decides not to acquire more replacement property, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (c) apply earlier; or

(c) when in the current year the person goes into liquidation or becomes bankrupt, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (b) apply earlier.

(e) give the amount, for each affected class, of the suspended recovery income at the end of the current year.

Disposal of replacement property: reduction in cost treated as depreciation loss

(13) For the purposes of section EE 48, the amount by which a person's expenditure on a replacement item is treated as being reduced under subsection (4) or (7) is an amount of depreciation loss for the item for which the person has been allowed a deduction.

Order of acquisition for items acquired at same time

(14) If items of replacement property are acquired at the same time and the effect of this section depends on the order in which the items are acquired, the items are treated as being acquired in the order chosen by the person in the first return of income for which the order of acquisition is taken into account.

EZ 35 Accruals in relation to income and expenditure in respect of financial arrangements

(1) For the purpose of calculating the amount deemed to be income or expenditure of any person under subsections (2) to (7), regard must be had to,—

(a) if the person is a holder in relation to the financial arrangement,—

(i) the amount of all consideration paid and to be paid to the person in relation to the financial arrangement; and

(ii) any amount remitted and to be remitted by the person in relation to the financial arrangement; and

(iii) the acquisition price of the financial arrangement in relation to the person; and

(b) if the person is an issuer in relation to the financial arrangement,—

(i) the amount of all consideration paid and to be paid by the person in relation to the financial arrangement; and

(ii) the acquisition price of the financial arrangement in relation to the person.

(2) Subject to this section, where any person is a holder or an issuer of a financial arrangement, the amount that is deemed to be income or expenditure of that person in respect of the financial arrangement in any income year is an amount calculated using the yield to maturity method so as to result in the allocation to each income year of an amount that is fair and reasonable, and such amount so allocated to each income year is income deemed to be derived by or expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement in the income year:

provided that the Commissioner must accept an alternative method to the yield to maturity method, that has regard to the principles of accrual accounting, and—

(a) conforms with commercially acceptable practice; and

(b) except to the extent that the Commissioner may otherwise allow under subsection (8), is adopted by the person and is or will be consistently applied in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes; and

(c) results in the allocation to each income year of amounts that are not materially different from amounts that would be calculated but for this proviso.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2), but subject to the other provisions of this section, where in any income year the total value of all financial arrangements of which a person is a holder or an issuer has on no day within that income year exceeded $1,500,000 or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare for the purposes of this section,—

(a) the person may calculate income or expenditure for that income year in respect of those financial arrangements by using the straight-line method so as to result in the allocation to that income year and subsequent income years of amounts that are fair and reasonable in respect of those arrangements; and

(b) where the straight-line method is used under paragraph (a), that method must be used by the person in respect of all financial arrangements of which the person was the holder or issuer during that income year; and

(c) where the person has in accordance with this subsection calculated income or expenditure using the straight-line method in respect of a financial arrangement for any income year, the person must, unless the Commissioner notifies them that they are otherwise authorised, continue to use that method in respect of that financial arrangement for any subsequent income year, until the maturity, remittance, sale, or other transfer of the arrangement, notwithstanding that the total value of all financial arrangements of which the person is holder or issuer may at any time in any such subsequent income year exceed $1,500,000 or such other amount as may be declared for the purposes of this section,— and any amount calculated in respect of a financial arrangement in accordance with this subsection is income deemed to be derived by or expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement for the relevant income year.

(3B) An Order in Council under subsection (3) is secondary legislation (see Part 3 of the Legislation Act 2019 for publication requirements).

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3), a person must take into account financial arrangements to which subpart EW applies.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (3),—

(a) the value of any financial arrangement to be taken into account in determining whether the total value of all financial arrangements of which a person is the holder or issuer on any day exceeds $1,500,000 or such other amount as may be declared for the purposes of this section is,—

(i) in the case of a fixed principal financial arrangement, the nominal or face value of the arrangement; and

(ii) in the case of a variable principal debt instrument, the amount owing by or to the person under the arrangement on the relevant day; and

(iii) in the case of a financial arrangement to which subpart EW applies, the value determined under that subpart; and

(b) in the first income year for which income or expenditure is calculated under subsection (3) in respect of a financial arrangement that—

(i) was acquired or issued by the person in a previous income year; and

(ii) continues to be held or issued by the person at the end of the first income year for which income or expenditure is calculated under subsection (3),— the amount of income or expenditure of the person in respect of that financial arrangement for that first income year is an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$a - b - c + d$$

where—

a is the sum of all amounts that would have been income derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement if the straight-line method referred to in subsection (3) had been applied to the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired or issued by the person until the end of that first income year

b is the sum of all amounts that would have been expenditure incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement if the straight-line method referred to in subsection (3) had been applied to the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired or issued by the person until the end of that first income year

c is the sum of all amounts of income deemed to have been derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement before the commencement of that first income year

d is the sum of all amounts deemed to have been expenditure incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement before the commencement of that first income year;—

and any amount so calculated is, if a positive amount, deemed to be income derived by the person in that first income year and, if a negative amount, deemed to be expenditure incurred by the person in that first income year.

(6) Where it is not possible to calculate an amount to be deemed to be income or expenditure in respect of a financial arrangement using the yield to maturity method as provided for in subsection (2) or (in a case to which subsection (3) applies) the straight-line method as provided for in subsection (3), the amount that is deemed to be income or expenditure of the person in any income year is an amount calculated by the person—

(a) using the method, if any, prescribed by the Commissioner for the financial arrangement in a determination made under section 90(1)(c) of the Tax Administration Act 1994:

provided that the Commissioner must accept an alternative method to the method prescribed in any such determination that has regard to the principles of accrual accounting, and—

(i) conforms with commercially acceptable practice; and

(ii) except to the extent that the Commissioner may otherwise allow under subsection (8), is adopted by the person and is or will be consistently applied in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes; and

(iii) results in the allocation to each income year of amounts that are not materially different from the amounts that would be calculated, but for this proviso; and

(b) in the absence of any such determination, by applying a method that meets the requirements of subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of the proviso to paragraph (a) and that results in the allocation to each income year of an amount that, having regard to the tenor of subsection (2), is fair and reasonable;—

and such amount of income or expenditure so allocated to each income year is income deemed to be derived or, as the case may be, expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in the income year.

(7) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (6), the Commissioner must accept an alternative method for calculating the amount to be deemed to be income or expenditure of the person, in respect of a financial arrangement, to the methods provided for under subsections (2) and (6), if the alternative method has regard to market valuation, and—

(a) conforms with commercially acceptable practice; and

(b) except to the extent that the Commissioner may otherwise allow under subsection (8), is adopted by the person and is or will be consistently applied in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes; and

(c) either—

(i) the business of the person comprises dealing in such financial arrangements; or

(ii) the financial arrangement is a forward or future contract for foreign exchange, or a futures contract; and

(d) the market, the method, and the source of the information used to determine the market values have been approved by the Commissioner under a determination issued under section 90(1)(e) of the Tax Administration Act 1994; and

(e) the person and any other person who is a holder (where the person is an issuer) or an issuer (where the person is a holder) of the financial arrangement are not associated persons;—

and such amount of income or expenditure so calculated is income deemed to be derived or, as the case may be, expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement in the income year:

provided that where income or expenditure in respect of a financial arrangement has been calculated by a person under this subsection, income or expenditure in respect of that financial arrangement must, except as otherwise allowed under subsection (8), continue to be calculated on that basis by that person until the maturity, remittance, sale, or other transfer of the arrangement.

(8) Where a method of calculating income or expenditure in respect of a financial arrangement fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (b) of the proviso to subsection (2) or subparagraph (ii) of the proviso to subsection (6)(a) or (7)(b) by virtue of the fact that the method is not or will not be consistently applied by a person in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes, that method is nevertheless deemed to meet the relevant one of those provisions where the method—

(a) appropriately reflects the dominant purpose for which the person acquired or issued the financial arrangement (or each such arrangement); and

(b) has been and will be consistently applied by the person in respect of the particular financial arrangement (or each such financial arrangement) for the purposes of the old financial arrangements rules for every income year during its term (except to the extent that the Commissioner approves or may approve a change in method under the circumstances or conditions specified in a determination under section 90(1)(f) of the Tax Administration Act 1994); and

(c) is not adopted for purposes that include the purpose of tax avoidance; and

(d) has been approved by the Commissioner for adoption in the circumstances applicable to the taxpayer either by notice to the taxpayer or in a determination issued under section 90 of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

(9) Subsections (2) to (7) do not apply—

(a) to a cash basis holder; or

(b) in relation to a financial arrangement and a person, in any income year where section EZ 38 applies to that person and to that financial arrangement; or

(c) in relation to a financial arrangement where—

(i) the financial arrangement is held by a trustee upon trust for the management of compensation paid for personal injury where that compensation is paid under the Workers Compensation Act 1956 or the Accident Compensation Act 1972 or the Accident Compensation Act 1982 or the Accident Rehabilitation and Compensation Insurance Act 1992 or the Accident Compensation Act 2001 or an order of court; and

(ii) the trustee is, or if it were a natural person would be, a cash basis holder in respect of the financial arrangement.

(10) For the purposes of this section, the Commissioner may determine whether and to what extent any issuer or class of issuers is not required to comply with this section in relation to expenditure incurred or income derived in respect of any class of financial arrangements, having regard to—

(a) the nature and amount of the expenditure incurred or income derived by the issuer or class of issuers in respect of financial arrangements of that class; and

(b) the costs of the issuer or class of issuers in complying with this section in relation to the class of financial arrangements; and

(c) whether, in respect of that issuer or class of issuers and that class of financial arrangements, the application of the discretion given to the Commissioner under this subsection would result in a material difference in the amount of deductions or income allocated to any income year, in relation to the amount that would have been allocated had the discretion not been exercised.

(11) The Commissioner may at any time cancel any determination made in respect of any person or class of persons under subsection (10).

EZ 37 Cash basis holder

(1) Subject to this section, a natural person is a cash basis holder in respect of financial arrangements held by that person in any income year, where—

(a) either—

(i) the income derived by that person in that income year in respect of those financial arrangements, calculated in accordance with subpart EW or section EZ 35 or EZ 38, as the case may be, does not exceed $70,000 (or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare (see subsection (10))); or

(ii) the total value of financial arrangements held by the person in the income year does not exceed at any time in the income year $600,000 (or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare (see subsection (10))), the value in respect of each financial arrangement being,—

(A) in the case of a fixed principal financial arrangement, the greater of the acquisition price of the arrangement or the nominal or face value of the arrangement; and

(B) in the case of a variable principal debt instrument, the amount of money owing to the person according to the arrangement; and

(C) in the case of a financial arrangement to which subpart EW applies, the value determined under that subpart; and

(b) the difference between the following amounts does not exceed $20,000 (or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare (see subsection (10))):

(i) the amount of income that would be calculated by the person for the income year—

(A) using, at the option of the person, either the yield to maturity method or the straight-line method referred to in section EZ 35(3) (regardless of whether or not the person is entitled or has opted to use that method) or in accordance with subpart EW, as the case may be, or, where it is not possible to calculate an amount of income or expenditure in respect of the financial arrangements by using either of those methods, an alternative method approved by the Commissioner; and

(B) under either section EW 31 or EZ 38—

in respect of financial arrangements held by the person at the end of the income year; and

(ii) the amount of income that would be calculated by the person for the income year in respect of financial arrangements held by the person at the end of the income year if the person were a cash basis holder.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), a person must take into account financial arrangements to which subpart EW applies.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in subsection (1), the Commissioner may,—

(a) where the Commissioner is satisfied, having regard to the tenor of section EZ 35(2), that treatment of a class of financial arrangements other than under section EZ 35 results in a fair and reasonable allocation of income or expenditure among income years, deem natural persons to be cash basis holders in respect of such financial arrangements; and

(b) where the Commissioner is satisfied that a class of financial arrangements has been structured and promoted with the objective of postponing any liability to income tax which would have arisen had those financial arrangements not been so structured, deem natural persons not to be cash basis holders in respect of such financial arrangements.

(4) In any income year where a person who was a cash basis holder in the previous income year ceases to be a cash basis holder, the person must take into account, in calculating income or deductions for the income year, an accruals basis adjustment, in respect of every financial arrangement (other than arrangements that are already dealt with according to section EZ 35 or in respect of which the Commissioner has exercised the discretion given under subsection (3)(a)) acquired in a previous income year and held by the person at the end of the income year equal to an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

where—

a is the sum of all amounts which would have been income derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had not been a cash basis holder at any time during that period

b is the sum of all amounts that would have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date the financial arrangement was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had not been a cash basis holder at any time during the period

c is the sum of all amounts of income of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year

d is the sum of all amounts that have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year;—

and the person must not take into account in the income year any other amount in respect of any such financial arrangement except those calculated under the accruals basis adjustment.

(5) In any income year where a person who was not a cash basis holder in the previous income year becomes a cash basis holder, that person may take into account, in calculating income or deductions for the income year, a cash basis adjustment, in respect of every financial arrangement (other than arrangements already treated on a cash basis) acquired in a previous income year and held by the person at the end of the income year, equal to an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$a - b - c + d$$

where—

a is the sum of all amounts which would have been income derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had been a cash basis holder in respect of the financial arrangement for the whole of that period

b is the sum of all amounts which would have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date the financial arrangement was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had been a cash basis holder in respect of the financial arrangement for the whole of the period

c is the sum of all amounts treated as income of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year

d is the sum of all amounts that have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year;—

and, where the cash basis adjustment has been taken into account, the person must not take into account any other amount in respect of any such financial arrangement in the income year except those calculated under the cash basis adjustment:

provided that the person is deemed not to be a cash basis holder in relation to any financial arrangement in respect of which the person does not take into account a cash basis adjustment.

(6) The amount of the accruals basis adjustment or the cash basis adjustment in respect of any financial arrangement and any income year is,—

(a) where it is a positive amount, income deemed to be derived by the holder in the income year; and

(b) where it is a negative amount, deemed to be a deduction of the holder in the income year.

(7) For the purposes of subsection (1), but subject to subsections (8) and (9),—

(a) all income in respect of financial arrangements that is trustee income or beneficiary income under the trust rules is disregarded, as is the value of all such financial arrangements producing such income; and

(b) no person who holds such financial arrangements is a cash basis holder in relation to such financial arrangements.

(8) Subsection (7) does not apply to financial arrangements held on a bare trust, or to income in respect of such financial arrangements, and the financial arrangements held and the income derived by the trustees is treated as being held or, as the case may be, derived by a beneficiary of the trust to the extent of the beneficiary's share of the beneficial interest in the financial arrangement.

(9) Where a deceased person was at the time of his or her death a cash basis holder,—

(a) nothing in subsection (7) or in any requirement under this section that a cash basis holder be a natural person, in respect of the income year in which the death occurred and in each of the 4 immediately succeeding income years, applies to prevent the trustee of the estate of the deceased person from being a cash basis holder for the purposes of this Act in respect of financial arrangements issued or held by the estate, where the estate would otherwise qualify as a cash basis holder under this section; but

(b) if at any time during those income years the estate ceases to so otherwise qualify as a cash basis holder, it does not again qualify to become a cash basis holder by operation of paragraph (a);—

and for the purposes of subsections (4) and (5), any trustee of an estate who is a cash basis holder under this subsection is deemed to be the same person as the deceased cash basis holder.

EZ 49 Determination of core acquisition price where consideration for property denominated in foreign currency

(1) For the purposes of paragraph (c) of the definition of core acquisition price in section EZ 48, if the consideration payable under the relevant financial arrangement for the specified property is denominated in a foreign currency, the lowest price referred to in that paragraph must be the lowest price the parties would have agreed upon in that foreign currency converted into New Zealand dollars using, at the option of the taxpayer,—

(a) the rate, on the day on which the financial arrangement was entered into (in this section referred to as the contract date), available to the taxpayer from a New Zealand registered bank for the exchange of New Zealand dollars for that foreign currency on the day on which the first right in the specified property is to be transferred (in this section referred to as the rights date); or

(b) if the period between the rights date and the day on which final payment is to be made under the financial arrangement (in this section referred to as the settlement date) is not greater than 5 years, the rate, on the contract date, available to the taxpayer from a New Zealand registered bank for the exchange of New Zealand dollars for that foreign currency on the settlement date; or

(c) an exchange rate approved by the Commissioner for adoption under this subsection in the circumstances applicable to the taxpayer in a determination issued under section 90(1)(k) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

(2) The rate adopted by a taxpayer in relation to a financial arrangement under subsection (1) must be consistently applied by that taxpayer in respect of that particular financial arrangement for the purposes of the old financial arrangements rules for every income year during its term.

(3) If the terms of the financial arrangement referred to in subsection (1) are such that the actual rights date is uncertain as at the contract date, then the rights date is for the purposes of subsection (1) the date on which it is reasonably expected by the parties at the time of entering into the financial arrangement that the first right in the specified property will be transferred.

(4) If the terms of the financial arrangement referred to in subsection (1) are such that the actual settlement date is uncertain as at the contract date, then the settlement date is for the purposes of subsection (1) the date on which it is reasonably expected by the parties at the time of entering into the financial arrangement that final payment will be made.

EZ 50 Rules for non-market transactions

(1) Where the Commissioner, having regard to any connection between the parties to the issue or transfer of a financial arrangement and to any other relevant circumstances, is satisfied that the parties were dealing with each other in relation to the issue or transfer in a manner that has the effect of defeating the intent and application of the old financial arrangements rules, the Commissioner may, under section EZ 35 or EZ 37 or EZ 38 or EZ 42, deem the consideration for the issue or transfer to be equal to the consideration that might reasonably be expected for the issue or transfer if the parties to the issue or transfer were independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the issue or transfer.

(2) If at any time a person not resident in New Zealand—

(a) commences to hold, whether temporarily or otherwise, a financial arrangement, for the purposes of a business carried on through a fixed establishment in New Zealand, the person is deemed to have acquired the financial arrangement at that time; or

(b) ceases to hold, whether temporarily or otherwise, a financial arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on through a fixed establishment in New Zealand, the person is deemed to have disposed of the financial arrangement at that time; or

(c) being a holder or an issuer of a financial arrangement, becomes a New Zealand resident, the person is deemed to acquire or to issue the financial arrangement at the time at which the person becomes a New Zealand resident;—

and that acquisition or that disposal is deemed to have been made for a consideration equal to the consideration that might reasonably be expected for the acquisition or disposal if the acquisition or disposal had been made at arm's length.

(3) A financial arrangement is treated as having been sold and purchased or transferred and realised at its market value on the date of its sale or transfer if the sale or transfer, including a transfer by way of distribution to shareholders, is not for consideration in money or is for a consideration that is less than the market value of the financial arrangement.

(4) The market value of a financial arrangement is the market value for both seller and purchaser or transferor and transferee.

EZ 51 Transitional adjustment when changing to financial arrangements rules

(1) A person may elect to apply the financial arrangements rules to a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply.

(2) A person who makes an election must apply the financial arrangements rules to all financial arrangements to which the person is a holder or an issuer.

(3) Despite subsections (1) and (2), a person must apply section EZ 38 if that section applies to a financial arrangement in the income year in which the election is made.

(4) Once an election is made, the financial arrangement is subject to the financial arrangements rules and is treated in the same way as a financial arrangement that was entered into on or after 20 May 1999.

(5) A person who makes an election must calculate a transitional adjustment for the income year of election and return the resulting income or expenditure.

(6) The transitional adjustment is calculated using the formula—income (financial arrangements rules)

− expenditure (financial arrangements rules)
− income (old financial arrangements rules)
+ expenditure (old financial arrangements rules)

where—

income (financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of income that would be derived by the person from the financial arrangement if the financial arrangements rules were applied to the financial arrangement for the period beginning on the date the person acquires the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year in which this calculation is made expenditure (financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of expenditure that would be incurred by the person under the financial arrangement if the financial arrangements rules were applied to the financial arrangement for the period beginning on the date the person acquires the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year in which this calculation is made income (old financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of income of the person from the financial arrangement in all income years before the income year in which this calculation is made expenditure (old financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of expenditure incurred by the person under the financial arrangement in all income years before the income year in which this calculation is made.

(7) The result of the transitional adjustment is,—

(a) if a positive amount, income derived by the person in the income year; and

(b) if a negative amount, expenditure incurred by the person in the income year.

(8) In the income year in which the transitional adjustment is made to a financial arrangement, a person must take into account only the income derived or the expenditure incurred as a result of the adjustment for the financial arrangement.

(9) Despite subsections (2) to (8), a person is treated as transferring a financial arrangement at market value at the end of the income year of election and must calculate a base price adjustment under section EZ 38 if—

(a) the financial arrangement is an arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply; and

(b) the financial arrangement were entered into on or after 20 May 1999 and would not have been subject to the financial arrangements rules; and

(c) the person elects to apply the financial arrangements rules to a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply.

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EZ 48

EZ 52 References to new rules include old rules

(1) Subsection (2) applies if—

(c) the rewritten law is in neither subpart EW nor sections EZ 33 to EZ 51; and

(d) the rewritten law corresponds to and replaces, with or without amendments, a taxation law that applied to the old financial arrangement before 20 May 1999.

(2) The rewritten law applies to the old financial arrangement as if the rewritten law referred to, or applied to, a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply.

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply to—

(a) a definition, or parts of a definition, in section YA 1 if that definition or part refers to section EZ 48; or

(b) section GB 21, because the former taxation law to which it corresponds has been re-enacted as section EZ 50.

(4) Section FM 8(3)(b)(ii) applies to a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply as if—

(a) the reference to section EW 31 were to section EZ 38; and

(b) the words "financial arrangements rules" read "old financial arrangements rules".

Expected death strain formulas

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 53 How expected death strain is calculated

Calculation of expected death strain: steps

(1) For an income year, the life insurer calculates their expected death strain by following these steps:

(a) first, use the relevant expected death strain formula to calculate an amount for each life insured under each life insurance policy existing at the start of the income year (see: subsections (2) and (3) for guidance on the relevant expected death strain formula):

(b) second, for each such life insurance policy, add together the amounts for the lives insured under it:

(c) third, add together the totals reached under paragraph (b).

Expected death strain formula (life)

(2) Section EZ 54(1) sets out the expected death strain formula (life). This is the formula a life insurer uses for an income year, to calculate an amount for a life insured under a life insurance policy, except to the extent to which an annuity is being paid under the policy at some time in the income year.

Expected death strain formula (active annuities)

(3) Section EZ 54(2) sets out the expected death strain formula (active annuities). This is the formula a life insurer uses for an income year, to calculate an amount for a life insured under a life insurance policy, to the extent to which an annuity is being paid under the policy at some time in the income year.

Defined in this Act: business, income year, life insurance, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer, pay

Section EZ 53: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 54 Expected death strain formulas

Expected death strain formula (life)

(1) The expected death strain formula (life) is—claim probability × (opening sum assured − opening actuarial reserves).

Expected death strain formula (active annuities)

(2) The expected death strain formula (active annuities) is—claim probability × opening actuarial reserves.

Definition of items in formulas

(3) The items in the formulas are defined in subsections (4) to (6).

Claim probability

(4) Claim probability is the probability of a claim arising under the policy for the life insured's death in the income year. It is determined at the start of the income year using the same mortality assumptions as are used to calculate the life insurer's actuarial reserves at the start of the income year. It is expressed as a decimal. Variations to claim probability are in sections EZ 55(2) and EZ 57(2).

Opening sum assured

(5) Opening sum assured is the claim that would be payable under the policy for the life insured's death in the income year or, if no such claim would be payable, the claim that would be payable under the policy for the life insured's survival to the relevant date or age specified in the policy. It is determined at the start of the income year. It may be zero. Variations to opening sum assured are in sections EZ 56(2), EZ 57(3), and EZ 58(2).

Opening actuarial reserves

(6) Opening actuarial reserves is the amount in the life insurer's actuarial reserves for the life insured under the policy. It is determined at the start of the income year.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, amount, claim, income year, life insured, life insurer, pay

Section EZ 54: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 55 Expected death strain formulas: option when more than 1 life insured

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a life insurance policy covers more than 1 life insured.

Claim probability

(2) In using the relevant expected death strain formula, the life insurer may use as claim probability a common factor for all the lives insured under the policy.

Features of common factor

(3) The common factor must be a reasonable approximation of the average probability of a claim arising under the policy for each life insured's death in the income year. It must be weighted as necessary to take account of—

(a) differing claims for individual lives insured under the policy; and

(b) differing amounts in the life insurer's actuarial reserves for individual lives insured under the policy.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, amount, claim, income year, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer

Section EZ 55: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 56 Expected death strain formula (life): when annuity payable on death

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, and to the extent to which, a life insurance policy provides for the payment of an annuity the start of which is contingent on the life insured's death.

Opening sum assured

(2) In using the expected death strain formula (life), the life insurer uses as opening sum assured the present value (net) of the annuity. The present value (net) is determined—

(a) at the start of the income year; and

(b) on the assumption that the life insured died at the start of the income year; and

(c) using the same assumptions and bases of calculation as are used to calculate the life insurer's actuarial reserves for the income year.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, income year, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer, pay, present value (net)

(b) the debt security is stapled to a share in the company or to a share in another company; and

(c) the share is not a fixed-rate share.

Stapled debt treated as equity

(2) The stapled debt security is treated as a share issued by the company and—

(a) interest payable under the stapled debt security is treated as a dividend; and

(b) section DB 10B (Interest or expenditure connected to stapled debt security) may deny deductions for expenditure or loss related to the security.

Stapled securities aggregated

(3) A stapled debt security and a share to which it is stapled are treated as a single share for the purposes of applying—

(a) the definition of non-participating redeemable share in section CD 22(9) (Returns of capital: off-market share cancellations); and

(b) [Repealed]

(c) the definitions, in section YA 1 (Definitions), of—

(i) fixed-rate foreign equity; and

(ii) fixed-rate share, except for the purposes of subsection (1)(c).

Meaning of debt security

(4) In this section, debt security means a financial arrangement if—

(a) the financial arrangement provides funds to the company; and

(b) the financial arrangement gives rise to an amount for which the company would have a deduction but for this section; and

(c) the amount does not arise only from either a movement in a currency exchange rate or a non-contingent fee.

Meaning of stapled

(5) In this section, a debt security is stapled to a share if—

(a) the debt security can, or ordinarily can, be disposed of only together with the share; and

(b) the arrangement that requires the debt security and the share to be disposed of together is an arrangement to which the company that issued the debt security or the company that issued the share is a party.

(a) the payment of the dividend realises or recovers the price the person paid for the shares; and

(b) the payment is made at the person's control or direction, or is part of a scheme that includes the acquisition of the shares and the payment of the dividend.

Treatment of amount derived

(2) The dividend is treated as an amount derived on a sale of the shares to the extent to which the actual amount realised by the person on the disposal of the shares is less than the cost to the person of acquiring the shares.

Dividend

(3) Despite subsection (2), a dividend taken into account under this section remains a dividend derived by the person in the income year.

Defined in this Act: amount, dividend, income year, pay, revenue account property, share

(a) the shareholder is not regarded as having disposed of the cancelled share, except for the purpose of determining whether they have derived a dividend; and

(b) the cost to the shareholder of the cancelled share is added to the cost of the shareholder's remaining shares of the same class under subsection (6).

Below market value of shares

(3) If subsection (2) does not apply, and the amount paid by the company is less than the market value of the shares at the time when notice is first given of the cancellation either by the shareholder or the company, the following paragraphs apply:

(a) an amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4) is added to the cost of the shareholder's remaining shares of the same class under subsection (6); and

(b) the amount is excluded from the cost of the share being cancelled so that the shareholder is denied a deduction under section DB 25 (Cancellation of shares held as revenue account property) for the amount unless the share is trading stock of the shareholder; and

(c) sections GC 1 and GC 2 (which relate to the disposal of trading stock for inadequate consideration) does not apply.

Formula

(4) The formula referred to in subsection (3)(a) is—share cost − (cost pre-cancellation × amount from cancellation ÷ market value).

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) share cost is the cost of the cancelled share to the shareholder:

(b) cost pre-cancellation is the total cost to the shareholder of all their shares of the same class immediately before the cancellation:

Adding amount to cost of shares

(7) The amount referred to in subsection (2)(b) or (3)(a) must be fairly divided among, and added to, the cost of the shareholder's remaining shares of the same class.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, deduction, dividend, market value, notice, off-market cancellation, revenue account property, share, shareholder, shares of the same class, trading stock

Income

(2) If the consideration derived by the lessee for the asset is more than the cost of its acquisition, the excess is income of the lessee under section CG 7 (Recoveries after deduction of payments under lease). Subsection (3) overrides this subsection.

Adjustment to income

(3) If the total amount of the deductions referred to in subsection (1)(b) is less than or equal to the excess, the amount of income under subsection (2) is the total amount of the deductions.

Apportionment

(4) If the asset is disposed of together with other assets, the total consideration must be apportioned to reflect the respective market values of the assets.

Disposal below market value

(5) If the asset is disposed of without consideration or for a consideration that is less than market value at the date of disposal, the asset is treated as having been disposed of at its market value.

Associated persons acquiring asset

(6) Subsection (2) also applies if a person associated with the lessee acquires the asset, whether from the lessee or not, and disposes of it for an amount that is more than the amount paid to acquire it. Association is determined at the time of acquisition by the associated person. The lesser of the excess and the total amount of the lessee's deductions is treated as income of the lessee.

Acquisition treated as sale

(1) When a lessee under a finance lease acquires the personal property lease asset by the date on which the term of the lease ends, the acquisition is treated as the same sale that is treated as occurring under section FA 6.

When lessee or associated person acquires lease asset and later disposes of it

(2) If a lessee under a finance lease, or a person associated with them, acquires the lease asset and later disposes of it for an amount that is more than the consideration they paid for it, the excess is income of the lessee under section CC 11 (Lessee acquiring lease asset on expiry of term of lease).

Allocation and association

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2),—

(a) the excess is income of the lessee in the income year in which the lessee or associated person disposes of the asset:

(b) association is determined at the time of acquisition by the associated person.

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a finance lease ends by the date on which its term ends.

Acquisition by lessor at end of lease

(2) If the lessee does not acquire the personal property lease asset by the date on which the term of the lease ends, the lessor is treated as having acquired it on that date at its guaranteed residual value. If there is no guaranteed residual value, the consideration is treated as zero. In this section, the consideration is called the notional sale price.

Further sale, assignment, or lease

(3) Subsections (4) and (5) apply when the lessor sells, assigns, or leases the lease asset to another person under another finance lease on or after the date on which the term of the original lease ends.

When consideration more than notional sale price

(4) If the consideration is more than the notional sale price,—

(a) to the extent to which it is paid by the lessor to the lessee under the original finance lease, the notional sale price is increased by the amount of the difference; and

(b) to the extent to which it is not paid by the lessor to the lessee under the original finance lease, the amount of the difference is income of the lessor under section CC 12 (Lessor acquiring lease asset on expiry of term of lease) in the income year in which the original lease term ends.

When consideration less than notional sale price

(5) If the consideration is less than the notional sale price, and the lessee is required to pay the amount of the deficit to the lessor, the notional sale price is reduced by that amount.

Acquisition by lessor when lease ends early

(6) If the lease is terminated before the end of its term and the lessee does not acquire the lease asset, the lessor is treated as acquiring it for an amount calculated using the formula—outstanding balance − release payment.

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula,—

(a) outstanding balance is the amount of the outstanding balance of the loan on the date on which the lease is terminated:

(b) release payment is the amount the lessee paid to be released from their obligations under the lease.

When diminishing value chosen

(4) If the transferor had chosen to apply the diminishing value method to the valuation of the livestock, the transferee is treated as also having made that choice, and the reduction is calculated under section EC 34(3). But if the transferor had not chosen to apply the diminishing value method, the transferee may make a choice between the methods set out in section EC 34(2) and (3) only if the livestock was acquired by the transferor in the year of transfer.

Bright-line start date

(3) Person B's bright-line start date for the land is person A's bright-line start date.

Transitional rule for change in terminology

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3), person B's bright-line start date is—

(3) The disposal is treated as a disposal and acquisition, at the date of disposal, for an amount that equals the greater of the cost of the residential land to the transferor or the consideration paid by the transferee.

Bright-line start date

(4) The transferee's bright-line start date for the land is the transferor's bright-line start date.

Transitional rule for change in terminology

Interest apportionment rules

FE 5 Thresholds for application of interest apportionment rules

Threshold for excess debt entity

(1) An excess debt entity must apportion its interest expenditure for an income year under section FE 6 if,—

(a) the excess debt entity is none of an excess debt outbound company, an excess debt entity with a worldwide group given by section FE 31D, and a trustee who is described in section FE 2(1)(g), and—

(i) the debt percentage of its New Zealand group for the income year is more than 60%; and

(ii) for a company or a trustee, the debt percentage of its New Zealand group for the income year is more than 110% of the debt percentage of the worldwide group; or

(ab) the excess debt entity has a worldwide group given by section FE 31D, and—

(i) the debt percentage of its New Zealand group for the income year is more than 60%; and

(ii) the debt percentage of its New Zealand group for the income year is more than 100% of the debt percentage of the worldwide group; or

(b) the excess debt entity is an excess debt outbound company, or is a trustee who is described in section FE 2(1)(g), and—

(i) the debt percentage of its New Zealand group for the income year is more than 75%; and

(ii) for a company or a trustee, the debt percentage of its New Zealand group for the income year is more than 110% of the debt percentage of the worldwide group.

Exceptions for excess debt outbound companies

(1B) Despite subsection (1), an excess debt outbound company and a natural person or trustee who is described in section FE 2(1)(g) do not have to apportion interest expenditure for an income year under section FE 6 if, for the income year,—

(a) a ratio of 90% or greater is obtained by dividing the amount for its New Zealand group of the total group assets measured under section FE 16 and reduced by the total group non-debt liabilities, measured under section FE 16B, by the amount for its worldwide group of the total group assets measured under section FE 18 and reduced by the total group non-debt liabilities, measured under section FE 18:

(ab) the company or person is eligible to choose, and chooses, under subsection (1BB) to use the threshold test in subsection (1D):

(b) [Repealed]

Eligibility for optional threshold, apportionment method

(1BB) A company or person referred to in subsection (1B) that would otherwise be required to make an apportionment under section FE 6 may choose instead to be subject to the threshold in subsection (1D) and to the apportionment method in section FE 6B only if—

(a) for each of the New Zealand group and the worldwide group, the amount (the adjusted net profit) given by subsection (1BC) is greater than zero; and

(b) for the New Zealand group, the deductions for interest allowed to the group under sections DB 6 to DB 9 (which relate to deductions for interest) exceed the income of the group that is interest; and

(c) for the worldwide group, treating the members as residents for the purposes of this paragraph, the deductions for interest allowed to the group under sections DB 6 to DB 9 exceed the income of the group that is interest; and

(d) for the worldwide group, the amount of the total group debt, calculated for the income year as if for the purposes of determining the group's debt percentage under section FE 12, is equal to or more than 75% of the amount of total group assets, not including goodwill and reduced by total group non-debt liabilities; and

(e) for the worldwide group, the proportion of the total group debt, calculated as for paragraph (d), for which the lender is not associated with the group under subpart YB (Associated persons) is equal to or more than 80%.

Formula for adjusted net profit

(1BC) The adjusted net profit for a group is the amount calculated using the formula—net − attributed + net interest + depreciation + amortisation.

Definition of items in formula

(1BD) In the formula in subsection (1BC),—

(a) net is the net profit or loss of the group before tax using generally accepted accounting practice, treating a net loss as a negative amount:

(b) attributed, for the worldwide group, is zero and, for the New Zealand group, is the income—

(i) under generally accepted accounting practice from an interest in a FIF or CFC described in section FE 2(1)(e) to (g); and

(ii) included in the calculation of the item net profit or loss and not included in the calculation of the item net interest:

(c) net interest is the deductions for interest allowed to the group under sections DB 6 to DB 9 from a financial arrangement providing funds to the group, treating the members as residents for the purpose of calculating this item for a worldwide group, reduced by the income of the group from a financial arrangement on arm's-length terms providing funds to a person who meets the requirements of section FE 13(3):

(d) depreciation is the depreciation for the group using generally accepted accounting practice:

(e) amortisation is the amortisation for the group using generally accepted accounting practice.

Natural persons' worldwide group total assets

(1C) For the purposes of subsection (1B)(a), the total group assets and total group non-debt liabilities of a natural person's worldwide group under section FE 18 are measured on the basis that the natural person is an excess debt entity that has a worldwide group made up of—

(a) the natural person; and

(b) the natural person's New Zealand group; and

(c) all CFCs in which the natural person or a member of the natural person's New Zealand group has an income interest; and

(d) all FIFs in which the natural person or a member of the natural person's New Zealand group has an interest that meets the requirements of section EX 35 (Exemption for interest in FIF resident in Australia); and

(e) all FIFs in which the natural person or a member of the natural person's New Zealand group has an interest for which the natural person or member uses the attributable FIF income method.

Elective threshold for excess debt entity

(1D) A company or person that chooses to be subject to the threshold test in this subsection must apportion the interest expenditure for the income year under section FE 6B except if the ratio (the interest-income ratio) given by subsection (1E) for the company or person's New Zealand group is equal to or less than the lesser of—

(a) 110% of the interest-income ratio for the company or person's worldwide group:

(b) 50%.

Formula for group's interest-income ratio

(1E) The interest-income ratio for a group is calculated using the formula—

net interest ÷ adjusted net profit.

Definition of items in formula

(1F) In the formula in subsection (1E),—

(a) net interest is the deductions for interest allowed to the group under sections DB 6 to DB 9 from a financial arrangement providing funds to the group, treating the members as residents for the purpose of calculating this item for a worldwide group, reduced by the income of the group from a financial arrangement on arm's-length terms providing funds to a person who meets the requirements of section FE 13(3):

(b) adjusted net profit is the amount given for the group by subsection (1BC).

Threshold for reporting bank

(2) A reporting bank must apportion its interest expenditure for an income year under section FE 7 if—

(a) the New Zealand net equity of its New Zealand banking group for a tax year is less than its equity threshold; and

(b) its group funding debt for the corresponding tax year is more than zero.

Threshold for natural person

(3) A natural person must apportion their interest expenditure for an income year under section FE 6 if,—

(a) they are not described in section FE 2(1)(g), and the debt percentage of their New Zealand group for the income year is more than 60%; or

(b) they are described in section FE 2(1)(g), and the debt percentage of their New Zealand group for the income year is more than 75%.

Debt percentages

(4) The debt percentage of a New Zealand group is calculated under sections FE 14 to FE 16. The debt percentage of a worldwide group is calculated under sections FE 17 and FE 18.

Equity threshold, net equity, group funding debt

(5) The calculations that a reporting bank must make for the purposes of section FE 7 are set out as follows:

(a) for the banking group's equity threshold, see section FE 19:

(b) for the banking group's New Zealand net equity, see section FE 21:

(c) for the banking group's funding debt, see section FE 23.

FE 6 Apportionment of interest by excess debt entity

Who this section applies to

(1) This section applies to an excess debt entity or a natural person if section FE 5 requires the entity or person to apportion their interest expenditure for an income year under this section or the entity or person has a debt percentage equal to zero under section FE 12(3) because the relevant New Zealand group's non-debt liabilities equal or exceed its assets. A natural person is treated as an excess debt entity for the purposes of this section other than in the item threshold amount.

General formula

(2) An excess debt entity having a worldwide group that is not given by section FE 31D is treated under section CH 9 (Interest apportionment: excess debt entity) as deriving in the income year an amount of income calculated for the income year using the formula—

$$(\text{total deduction} - \text{mismatch} + \text{FRD} - \text{adjust}) \times (\text{total debt} - \text{concession}) \div \text{total debt} \times \text{group debt factor}.$$

Items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2),—

(a) total deduction is the whole amount of the excess debt entity's deduction for interest that would be allowed, in the absence of subpart FH (Hybrid and branch mismatches of deductions and income from multi-jurisdictional arrangements), under any of sections DB 6 to DB 8 (which relate to deductions for interest expenditure) less—

(i) the total amount allowed in relation to interest payable to a company that is a member of the entity's New Zealand group under sections FE 3 and FE 28, but this does not include an amount referred to in subparagraph (ii); and

(ii) the total amount allowed in relation to interest payable under a financial arrangement excluded from the total group debt of its New Zealand group under section FE 15:

(aba) mismatch is the total of amounts denied as deductions in the income year under section FH 3 (Payments under financial instruments producing deduction without income) as unrecognised amounts under section FH 3(2) and as interest under sections FH 7 and FH 11 (which provide for the matching of deductions and income from multi-jurisdictional arrangements):

(ab) FRD is the total amount of dividends paid by the excess debt entity in relation to fixed-rate foreign equity or fixed-rate shares—

(i) issued by the entity; and

(ii) held by a person resident in New Zealand who is not a company that is a member of the entity's New Zealand group:

(ac) adjust is—

(i) zero, if the excess debt entity is not an excess debt outbound company or a natural person or trustee described in section FE 2(1)(g) and is a party to a financial arrangement that is removed under section FE 18(3B) from the measurement of total group debt for the excess debt entity or that is related-party debt for which the lender is not a New Zealand resident and does not carry on a business through a fixed establishment in New Zealand; or

(ii) the amount (the group finance cost) that is the total amount for the New Zealand group found by calculating for each member of the New Zealand group the total amount (the member finance cost) of the items total deduction and FRD for the member, if the group finance cost is $1,000,000 or less and subparagraph (i) does not apply; or

(iii) the amount found by multiplying the amount by which $2,000,000 exceeds the group finance cost by the ratio obtained by dividing the member finance cost for the excess debt entity by the group finance cost, if the group finance cost is more than $1,000,000 and less than $2,000,000 and subparagraph (i) does not apply; or

(iv) zero, if the group finance cost is $2,000,000 or more and subparagraph (i) does not apply:

(b) total debt is the total amount of the debt of the excess debt entity's New Zealand group for the income year as calculated under section FE 15, before allowing for a reduction under section FE 13:

(cb) group debt factor is—

(i) 1, if the excess debt entity's New Zealand group has a debt percentage for the income year equal to zero; or

(ii) the amount calculated by subtracting from 1 the amount calculated by dividing the threshold amount in paragraph (e) for the excess debt entity by the group debt percentage in paragraph (d) for the excess debt entity:

(d) group debt percentage is the debt percentage of the excess debt entity's New Zealand group for the income year:

(e) threshold amount is, as applicable,—

(i) if the excess debt entity is none of an excess debt outbound company, an excess debt entity with a worldwide group given by section FE 31D, and a trustee who is described in section FE 2(1)(g), the greater of 60% and 110% of the debt percentage of their worldwide group:

(ii) if the person is a natural person who is not described in section FE 2(1)(g), 60%:

(iii) if the excess debt entity is an excess debt outbound company, or is a trustee who is described in section FE 2(1)(g), the greater of 75% and 110% of the debt percentage of their worldwide group:

(iiib) [Repealed]

(iv) if the person is a natural person who is described in section FE 2(1)(g), 75%.

Formula for excess debt entities with worldwide group given by section FE 31D

(3B) An excess debt entity having a worldwide group that is given by section FE 31D is treated under section CH 9 as deriving in the income year an amount of income that is the greater of zero and the amount calculated for the income year using the formula—

(related interest – mismatch + FRD2) × (total debt – concession) ÷ total debt × group debt comparison factor.

Definition of items in formula

(3C) In the formula in subsection (3B),—

(a) related interest is the whole amount of the excess debt entity's interest, incurred under financial arrangements meeting the requirements of section FE 18(3B) for removal of a financial arrangement from the measurement of total group debt for the entity's worldwide group, that would be allowed, in the absence of subpart FH, as a deduction under any of sections DB 6 to DB 8 less—

(i) the total amount of deductions allowed for interest payable to a company that is a member of the entity's New Zealand group under sections FE 3 and FE 28 and not included in the amount given by subparagraph (ii); and

(ii) the total amount of deductions allowed for interest payable under a financial arrangement excluded from the total group debt for the entity's New Zealand group under section FE 15:

(b) mismatch is the total of amounts denied as deductions in the income year under section FH 3 as unrecognised amounts under section FH 3(2) and as interest under sections FH 7 and FH 11:

(c) FRD2 is the total amount of dividends paid by the excess debt entity for fixed-rate foreign equity or fixed-rate shares that—

(i) are issued by the entity; and

(ii) are held by a person resident in New Zealand who is not a company that is a member of the entity's New Zealand group; and

(iii) would be removed under section FE 18(3B) from the measurement of total group debt of the entity's worldwide group if that provision applied to fixed-rate foreign equity and fixed-rate shares:

(d) total debt is the total amount of the debt of the excess debt entity's New Zealand group for the income year as calculated under section FE 15, before allowing for a reduction under section FE 13:

(e) concession is any reduction allowed under section FE 13 in the total group debt of the excess debt entity's New Zealand group for the income year, averaged when section FE 8(1)(a) or (b) applies:

(f) group debt comparison factor is—

(i) 1, if the excess debt entity's New Zealand group or the excess debt entity's worldwide group has a debt percentage under section FE 12(3) equal to zero for the income year; or

(ii) the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (3D), if subparagraph (i) does not apply.

Formula for group debt comparison factor

(3D) The group debt comparison factor under subsection (3C)(f)(ii) for an excess debt entity and an income year is the amount calculated using the formula—

(New Zealand group debt percentage – threshold amount) ÷ (New Zealand group debt percentage – worldwide group debt percentage).

Definition of item in formula

(3E) In the formula in subsection (3D), threshold amount is the amount that is the greater of 60% and the debt percentage of the excess debt entity's worldwide group for the income year.

Alternative calculation

(4) If a company that is in the same wholly-owned group of companies as the excess debt entity has a deduction for interest under any of sections DB 6 to DB 8, the company may choose to be treated as deriving the income that the excess debt entity would otherwise, under subsection (2) or (3B), be treated as deriving for the income year. The amount of income is not calculated using the formula in subsection (2) or (3B) but is limited as set out in subsection (5).

Limitation on election amount

(5) The amount of income for which the company may make the election under subsection (4), when added to any other income that the company chooses to treat itself as deriving under subsection (4), must not exceed—

(a) the total amount of deductions that the company has for interest in the income year, except if paragraph (b) applies; or

(b) the total amount of the company's interest, incurred under financial arrangements meeting the requirements of section FE 18(3B), if the excess debt entity has a worldwide group given by section FE 31D.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, deduction, dividend, excess debt entity, excess debt outbound company, financial arrangement, fixed establishment, fixed-rate foreign equity, fixed-rate share, income, income year, interest, natural person, New Zealand, New Zealand resident, pay, related-party debt, resident in New Zealand, total group debt, total worldwide debt, trustee, wholly owned group of companies

FE 6B Alternative apportionment of interest by some excess debt entities

Who this section applies to

(1) This section applies to a company or person that is required by section FE 5(1D) to apportion its interest expenditure for an income year under this section.

Formula

(2) The company or person is treated under section CH 9 (Interest apportionment: excess debt entity) as deriving from New Zealand in the income year an amount of income calculated for the income year using the formula—

net interest × (NZ group ratio − threshold ratio) ÷ NZ group ratio.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) net interest is the deductions for interest allowed to the company or person under sections DB 6 to DB 9 (which relate to deductions for interest) from a financial arrangement providing funds to the company or person, reduced by the income of the company or person from a financial arrangement on arm's-length terms providing funds to a person who meets the requirements of section FE 13(3):

(b) NZ group ratio is the interest-income ratio given by section FE 5(1E) for the New Zealand group of the company or person:

(c) threshold ratio is the lesser of—

(i) 50%:

(ii) 110% of the interest-income ratio given by section FE 5(1E) for the worldwide group of the company or person.

Defined in this Act: company, deduction, income, income year, interest, New Zealand

Section FE 6B: inserted (with effect on 1 July 2009 and applying for income years beginning on or after that date), on 7 May 2012, by section 54(1) of the Taxation (International Investment and Remedial Matters) Act 2012 (2012 No 34).

Section FE 6B(3)(a): amended (with effect on 1 July 2009), on 2 November 2012, by section 68 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Returns Filing, and Remedial Matters) Act 2012 (2012 No 88).

FE 7 Apportionment of interest by reporting bank

When this section applies

(1) This section applies to a reporting bank if, at the relevant measurement date referred to in section FE 8(3),—

(a) the New Zealand net equity of its New Zealand banking group for an income year is less than its equity threshold under section FE 19; and

(b) its group funding debt for the corresponding tax year is more than zero.

Income

(2) The reporting bank is treated as deriving an amount of income under section CH 10 (Interest apportionment: reporting bank) calculated using the formula—amount below threshold × (interest expenditure ÷ group funding debt) × (days in period ÷ days in year).

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) amount below threshold is the amount by which the New Zealand net equity for the New Zealand banking group is less than the equity threshold under section FE 19:

(b) interest expenditure is the financial value for the New Zealand banking group of interest expenditure measured under generally accepted accounting practice that is—

(i) incurred by a member of the New Zealand banking group in the income year; and

(ii) incurred other than in relation to a share that contributes to the item total interest in the formula in section FE 23, or is a deduction referred to in the definition of the item interest deductions in that section; and

(iii) not denied as a deduction under section FH 3 (Payments under financial instruments producing deduction without income) as an unrecognised amount under section FH 3(2) or under section FH 7 or FH 11 (which provide for the matching of deductions and income from multi-jurisdictional arrangements):

(c) days in period is the number of days in the relevant measurement period:

(d) group funding debt is the group funding debt for the New Zealand banking group for the corresponding tax year:

(e) days in year is the number of days in the income year.

Apportionment of income to part-years

(4) If an amount of income described in subsection (2) must be apportioned under this Act to a part of an income year, the amount of income for a measurement period is attributed to the part of the income year in which the measurement period falls.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, financial value, generally accepted accounting practice, group funding debt, income, income year, interest, measurement period, New Zealand, New Zealand banking group, New Zealand net equity, reporting bank, share, tax year

FE 7B Interest on public project debt for certain excess debt entities

Who this section applies to

(1) This section applies for a project to an excess debt entity that—

(a) is a person meeting the requirements of section FE 2(1)(b), (c), (e), or (f); and

(b) has an amount of public project debt for the project; and

(c) elects to apply the section to the first calculation for the excess debt entity under this subpart that includes the public project debt for the project and to which the section may apply.

Debt percentages for public project debt

(2) Debt percentages relating to the excess debt entity and the public project debt are determined under this subpart as if—

(a) the excess debt entity has no debt other than the public project debt for the project, no assets other than the public project assets for the project and assets used in performing the project, and no non-debt liabilities other than non-debt liabilities that relate to the project; and

(b) the New Zealand group of the excess debt entity is the excess debt entity.

Income

(3) If the debt percentage of the excess debt entity's New Zealand group exceeds the threshold debt percentage given by section FE 5(1), the excess debt entity is treated as deriving an amount of income under section CH 10B (Interest apportionment: public project debt) that is calculated, treating the value of a fraction with a zero denominator as being zero, using the formula—

(unrestricted interest × unrestricted excess ÷ unrestricted debt) + (member interest × member excess ÷ member debt).

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) unrestricted interest is the amount of interest expenditure incurred by the excess debt entity from the amount of public project debt referred to in the item unrestricted debt:

(b) unrestricted excess is—

(i) zero, if the amount of public project debt that is not public project participant debt does not exceed the amount (the threshold debt amount) obtained by multiplying the value of the public project assets and assets used in performing the project by the threshold debt percentage given by section FE 5(1) for the excess debt entity's New Zealand group:

(ii) the amount of the item unrestricted debt, if the amount of public project debt that is not public project participant debt and not included in the item unrestricted debt equals or exceeds the threshold debt amount:

(iii) the amount by which the amount of public project debt that is not public project participant debt exceeds the threshold debt amount, if subparagraphs (i) and (ii) do not apply:

(c) unrestricted debt is the amount of public project debt that is not public project participant debt and for which the creditor has security for repayment that is not restricted to the project:

(d) member interest is the amount of interest expenditure incurred by the excess debt entity from public project participant debt:

(e) member excess is—

(i) zero, if the amount of public project debt does not exceed the threshold debt amount:

(ii) the amount of public project participant debt, if the amount of public project debt that is not public project participant debt equals or exceeds the threshold debt amount:

(iii) the amount by which the amount of public project debt exceeds the threshold debt amount, if subparagraphs (i) and (ii) do not apply:

(f) member debt is the amount of public project participant debt.

Public projects treated separately

(5) This section applies separately to each project of an excess debt entity for which the excess debt entity has public project debt.

Public project debt, interest, assets, and non-debt liabilities, excluded for other applications

(6) Public project debt, interest on public project debt, public project assets and other assets, and non-debt liabilities, taken into account in the application of this section to an excess debt entity for a project are excluded from the debt, interest, assets, and non-debt liabilities, of the excess debt entity taken into account in the apportionment of interest expenditure for another project or under another section of this subpart.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, excess debt entity, excess debt outbound company, income, income year, interest, public project asset, public project debt, public project participant debt

FE 16 Total group assets

Meaning

(1) In this subpart, for a New Zealand group, total group assets for an income year means the total assets of a natural person, or an excess debt entity, or another member of the New Zealand group, measured under the following paragraphs, as applicable or as the person or entity chooses:

(a) of a person (the relevant person) who is—

(i) the excess debt entity:

(ii) another member of the New Zealand group; and

CFC investments excluded

(1B) The value of the total group assets calculated and measured under this section does not include the value of an investment described in subsection (1BA), except—

(i) the value of the investment represents the outstanding balances of financial arrangements to which section FE 13 applies:

(ii) the CFC or FIF derives income, other than non-resident passive income, that has a source in New Zealand and for which relief from New Zealand tax under a double tax agreement is unavailable:

(b) that the value of the total group assets is treated as being $1 if the value would otherwise be zero as a result of this subsection.

When member not resident

(1C) If the excess debt entity or another member of a New Zealand group is not resident in New Zealand, the assets of the entity or member are included in the calculation and measurement of total group assets under this section only to the extent to which the assets are for the entity or member to—

Exception: change equivalent to revaluation or arising from transaction with non-associate

(1E) A change referred to in subsection (1D) may be included in the value of the total group assets if—

(a) the change would have been permitted under generally accepted accounting practice in the absence of the transfer:

(b) the change—

(ii) includes a change in value for the company's assets in New Zealand that is a reasonable proportion of the change in value of the group's total assets.

Generally accepted accounting practice

(2) The amount of total group assets must be calculated under generally accepted accounting practice, with the exception of the values referred to in subsection (1)(c) or (d).

FE 18 Measurement of debts and assets of worldwide group

Standards applying

(1) The amount of total group debt, the amount of total group assets, and the amount of total group non-debt liabilities of the worldwide group of an excess debt entity are calculated—

(a) using a standard that is equivalent to generally accepted accounting practice for consistent and non-distorting financial reporting; and

(b) in accordance with the financial reporting standards of the country where the worldwide group's consolidated financial accounts are prepared.

Date of measurement

(2) The amount of total group debt, the amount of total group assets, and the amount of total group non-debt liabilities of the worldwide group of an excess debt entity for an income year are measured using—

(a) the average amount at the end of each day of the income year; or

(b) the average amount at the end of each 3-month period in the income year; or

(c) the amount as at the worldwide group's balance date that immediately precedes the income year.

Measurement of amounts

(3) Despite subsection (1), an excess debt entity must measure the amount of total group debt by applying section FE 15 as if—

(a) section FE 15(1)(a) excluded from the measurement a financial arrangement meeting the requirements of subsection (3B); and

(b) section FE 15(1)(a)(ii) required the financial arrangement to give rise to an amount that would be allowed as a deduction to the natural person or to the entity, or another group member, if the entity or group member were resident in New Zealand.

Financial arrangements removed from measurement of amounts

(3B) A financial arrangement is removed from the measurement of total group debt for an excess debt entity that is not an excess debt outbound company if—

(a) there is a person (the owner) who is not a member of the group and—

(i) has an ownership interest in a member of the group:

(ii) is a settlor of a trust having a trustee who is a member of the group; and

(b) the owner, or an associated person other than a member of the group,—

(i) is a party to the financial arrangement:

(ii) guarantees, or provides security for, the performance of obligations under the financial arrangement, if the worldwide group is given by section FE 3(1)(d) or FE 31D:

(iii) provides, or undertakes to provide, funds for the use of a person who agrees to provide funds under the financial arrangement; and

(c) the owner—

(i) has direct ownership interests in a member of the group of 5% or more:

(ii) has made a settlement on a trust, having a trustee who is a member of the group, of 5% or more of the value of total settlements on the trust; and

(d) the financial arrangement is not traded on an exchange that would be a recognised exchange if paragraphs (c) to (e) of the definition of recognised exchange referred to financial arrangements as well as to shares and options over shares.

Apportioning residual debt and assets after reduction under section FE 13

(3C) If the amounts of the total group debt and total group assets are reduced under section FE 13 for the New Zealand group and worldwide group of an excess debt entity, the parts of the reduced amounts that relate to financial arrangements with members of the excess debt entity's groups and the parts that relate to financial arrangements with persons outside the excess debt entity's groups are treated as being in the same proportion as the parts of the total group debt and total group assets would be in without the reduction.

Commissioner's estimate

(4) If an excess debt entity is unable to calculate the debt percentage of their worldwide group for an income year, they may apply to the Commissioner to estimate the percentage under this subpart. The estimate is then treated as the percentage applying for the purposes of this subpart.

Default percentage

(5) The debt percentage of the worldwide group of an excess debt entity is treated as,—

(a) 54.5454%, if the excess debt entity is not a trustee and not an excess debt outbound company, or is a trustee who is not described in section FE 2(1)(g), and—

(i) the entity is unable to calculate the percentage and does not ask the Commissioner to make an estimate under subsection (4):

(ii) the Commissioner cannot reasonably estimate the debt percentage under subsection (4):

(iii) all members of the entity's worldwide group, not including the entity, are resident in New Zealand and the entity's worldwide group is not determined under either of sections FE 3(1)(d) and FE 31D; or

(b) 68.1818%, if the excess debt entity is an excess debt outbound company, or is a trustee who is described in section FE 2(1)(g), and—

(i) the entity is unable to calculate the percentage and does not ask the Commissioner to make an estimate under subsection (4):

(ii) the Commissioner cannot reasonably estimate the debt percentage under subsection (4):

(iii) no member of the entity's worldwide group, other than the entity, is not resident in New Zealand.

Defined in this Act: amount, apply, associated person, Commissioner, deduction, excess debt entity, excess debt outbound company, financial arrangement, generally accepted accounting practice, income year, ownership interest, recognised exchange, resident in New Zealand, settlor, total group assets, total group debt, total group non-debt liabilities, trustee
