(1) This subpart applies, for the purposes of the NRWT rules and the Stamp and Cheque Duties Act 1971, when—

(a) an amount is made available by a foreign bank (the bank) to a business carried on in New Zealand through a fixed establishment of the bank in New Zealand (the branch); and

(b) the transaction is recorded as a loan in the accounting records of the branch for an income year; and

(c) in calculating its income tax liability for the income year, the branch is allowed a deduction in relation to the amount made available to it, treating—

(i) the amount made available as an interest-bearing loan; and

(ii) the amount allowed as a deduction as interest on the loan.

Meaning of foreign bank

(2) In this subpart, foreign bank means a non-resident that is—

(a) a registered bank; and

(b) engaged in business in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand.

Defined in this Act: amount, business, deduction, fixed establishment, foreign bank, income tax liability, income year, interest, New Zealand, NRWT rules, registered bank

Section FG 1: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 105(1) (and see section 105(2)) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

FG 2 Notional loans

Money lent

(1) The amount that the bank makes available to the branch is a notional loan and, for the purposes of the NRWT rules and the Stamp and Cheque Duties Act 1971, is treated as money lent to the branch by the bank.

Amounts excluded

(2) The amount of the notional loan does not include an amount provided as funding to the bank under a financial arrangement if NRWT or approved issuer levy is paid, in the absence of this subpart, in relation to interest that—

(a) is derived under the arrangement; and

(b) has a source in New Zealand.

Money repaid

(3) If the branch makes an amount available to the bank as a notional repayment of the amount referred to in subsection (1), recording the transaction in their accounting records for an income year, the amount is treated as a repayment of some or all of the amount of the notional loan.

Defined in this Act: amount, approved issuer, financial arrangement, income year, interest, money lent, NRWT, NRWT rules, pay, source in New Zealand

Section FG 2: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 105(1) (and see section 105(2)) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

Section FG 2 list of defined terms approved issuer: inserted, on 29 March 2018 (with effect on 30 March 2017), by section 99 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2017–18, Employment and Investment Income, and Remedial Matters) Act 2018 (2018 No 5).

Section FG 2 list of defined terms approved issuer levy: repealed, on 29 March 2018 (with effect on 30 March 2017), by section 99 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2017–18, Employment and Investment Income, and Remedial Matters) Act 2018 (2018 No 5).

FG 3 Notional interest

An amount recorded as an expense in relation to the notional loan in an income year is treated as interest that is non-resident passive income—

(a) paid by the branch to the bank on the last day of the third month that follows the balance date of the branch; and

(b) derived in the income year by the bank in relation to the notional loan.

Examples

Foreign Bank Ltd borrows AU$10b outside New Zealand from a variety of lenders and incurs an interest expense of AU$400m. The New Zealand branch of Foreign Bank Ltd is allocated NZ$1b of funding from this pool. An interest expense of NZ$42m is calculated using transfer pricing principles and is recorded in the branch's financial statements and deducted against the branch's taxable income from lending to New Zealand residents. The branch does not claim a deduction for any portion of the $AU400m paid by the non-New Zealand part of Foreign Bank. However, Foreign Bank Ltd is treated as making a loan to the branch on which it receives an interest payment of NZ$42m.

Defined in this Act: amount, balance date, deduction, income year, interest, non-resident passive income, pay

Section FG 3: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 105(1)(and see section 105(2)) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

FH 1 Subpart implements OECD recommendations for domestic law

Background, scheme, and effect of subpart

(1) This section and section FH 2 are intended to be a guide to the background and general scheme and effect of this subpart.

OECD recommendations

(2) This subpart implements recommendations, for the domestic law of countries and territories, that are made by the OECD in the hybrid mismatch report and the branch mismatch report (the reports) and are intended to be implemented as rules neutralising certain mismatches—

(a) arising from arrangements called hybrid mismatch arrangements and branch mismatch arrangements in the reports; and

(b) between income assessed and deductions against income or equivalent tax relief allowed for parties to international transactions; and

(c) resulting from differences, between the taxation laws of different countries and territories having rights to tax the parties, in the classification of financial arrangements or the tax treatment of entities or branches.

Recommendations for primary and defensive rules

(3) If 2 rules are recommended by a report for a situation, the recommended rules are called primary and defensive by the report, which states that the defensive rule should not apply to the situation except if the country or territory in the position to apply the recommended primary rule has not implemented the recommendation.

Implementation of individual recommendations

(4) In this subpart,—

(a) section FH 3 implements the primary version of the rule for recommendation 1 of the hybrid mismatch report, called the hybrid financial instrument rule in the report:

(b) section FH 4 implements the defensive version of the rule for recommendation 1 of the hybrid mismatch report:

(c) section FH 5 implements the primary version of the rule for recommendation 3 of the hybrid mismatch report, called the disregarded hybrid payments rule in the report, and the rule for recommendation 3 of the branch mismatch report:

(cb) section FH 5B gives the requirements for an exception to section FH 5:

(d) section FH 6 implements the defensive version of the rule for recommendation 3 of the hybrid mismatch report, and a defensive version of the rule for recommendation 3 of the branch mismatch report:

(e) section FH 7 implements recommendation 4 of the hybrid mismatch report, called the reverse hybrid rule in the report, and recommendation 2 of the branch mismatch report:

(f) section FH 8 implements the primary version of the rule for recommendation 6 of the hybrid mismatch report, called the deductible hybrid payments rule in the report, and the rule for recommendation 4 of the branch mismatch report:

(g) section FH 9 implements the defensive version of the rule for recommendation 6 of the hybrid mismatch report, and a defensive version of the rule for recommendation 4 of the branch mismatch report:

(h) section FH 10 implements recommendation 7 of the hybrid mismatch report, called the dual-resident payer rule in the report:

(i) section FH 11 implements recommendation 8 of the hybrid mismatch report, called the imported mismatch rule in the report, and recommendation 5 of the branch mismatch report.

Additional rules

(5) In addition to the recommended rules,—

(a) section FH 12 provides for the setting off, against amounts called surplus assessable income, of amounts called mismatch amounts that arise under several of the sections and, until set off, represent deductions denied or assessable income derived:

(b) section FH 13 provides for an election, by a borrower under a financial arrangement to which the section applies, that the financial arrangement be treated as a share issued by the borrower to the lender:

(c) section FH 14 provides for an irrevocable election, by an owner of a hybrid entity, that the hybrid entity be treated as a company.

Definitions

(6) Section FH 15 contains definitions for the purpose of the Act of some terms used in the reports and of terms used in the Act that differ from terms used in the reports, including—

(a) "deducting branch", which refers to the activities to which the recommendations of the branch mismatch report are intended to apply:

(b) "mismatch amount", which is the amount of a hybrid mismatch or branch mismatch:

(c) "mismatch situation", which is the situation giving rise to a hybrid mismatch or branch mismatch:

(d) "surplus assessable income", which performs the same function as "dual inclusion income" but is defined in a different way.

Variations of recommendations

(7) Variations of the implementing provisions from details of the recommendations in the report are intended to assist in the implementation and application of the recommendations.

Defined in this Act: arrangement, assessable income, deducting branch, deduction, financial arrangement, hybrid entity, hybrid mismatch report, income, mismatch amount, mismatch situation, share, surplus assessable income

(a) section FH 4:

(b) section FH 6.

Defined in this Act: amount, loss

Section FH 2: inserted, on 1 July 2018, by section 35(1) (and see section 35(2) for application) of the Taxation (Neutralising Base Erosion and Profit Shifting) Act 2018 (2018 No 16).

FH 3 Payments under financial instruments producing deduction without income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person (the payer) is a party to a financial instrument (the payment instrument) under which the person makes a payment and—

(a) the person incurs in an income year an amount that relates to the payment instrument and does not arise from a fluctuation in the value of a currency; and

(b) the amount of expenditure incurred in the income year (the incurred amount) relating to the payment instrument is allowed as a deduction for the payer in the absence of this section and sections FH 5 and FH 7 to FH 11; and

(c) the taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand (the payee jurisdiction) treats the payment, when made, as being received by a person or other entity (the payee) in the payee jurisdiction; and

(d) the payment instrument is or is part of a structured arrangement or the payer is related to the payee when the expenditure is incurred; and

(e) the tax treatment by the payee jurisdiction of the payment meets the requirements of subsection (2) or (3).

Amount not recognised

(2) The tax treatment of a payment under the payment instrument meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) no country or territory recognises an amount of the payment (the unrecognised amount) as giving rise to ordinary income of the payee under subsection (9); and

(b) the unrecognised amount would be recognised by the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction as giving rise to ordinary income of the payee under subsection (9) if the classification of the payment or payment instrument were varied and the payee had the usual tax status for a person or entity of the payee's class.

Delayed recognition of amount

(3) The tax treatment of a payment under the payment instrument meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) an amount of the payment is recognised as giving rise to ordinary income of the payee under subsection (9); and

(b) the amount is recognised with a timing that does not meet the requirements of subsection (6); and

(c) the duration of the financial instrument, including extensions contemplated by the financial instrument, may be more than 3 years.

Amount of deduction denied

(4) The payer is denied a deduction for expenditure incurred under the financial instrument equal to the greater of zero and the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{incurred amount} \times (1 - \text{payee tax} \div \text{ordinary tax}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula in subsection (4),—

(a) incurred amount is the amount of the expenditure incurred by the payer relating to the payment instrument and the payee:

(b) payee tax is the total of amounts—

(i) calculated by multiplying the amount of the payment that is recognised by the payee jurisdiction as ordinary income arising from the payment received by the payee with a timing that meets the requirements of subsection (6) by the rate of tax imposed by the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction on the class of income that the payee is recognised as receiving:

(ii) of income tax imposed by a country or territory outside New Zealand on a person (the CFC payee) other than the payee, on an amount of income corresponding to attributed CFC income relating to the payment and attributed to the CFC payee with a timing that meets the requirements of subsection (6) plus the amount of any credit for withholding tax on the payment taken into account in determining the amount of income tax imposed:

(c) ordinary tax is the amount calculated by multiplying the amount of the income arising from the payment received by the payee by the rate of tax imposed by the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction on ordinary income under subsection (9) received by the payee.

Timing of recognised income

(6) The timing of the recognition by a tax jurisdiction of an amount meets the requirements of this subsection if the amount is, or is reasonably expected to be, recognised as being derived—

(a) over a period of time during which the amount can reasonably be treated as accruing:

(b) in an accounting period beginning within 24 months of the end of the income year to which a deduction of the payer for the incurred expenditure would be attributed.

Effect of delayed recognition

(7) If an amount of the payment for which a deduction has been denied under subsection (4) is recognised as income of the payee derived at a time not meeting the requirements of subsection (6), the payer is allowed a deduction, when the amount is recognised, equal to the denied deduction.

Payer deriving income from financial instrument: excluded income

(8) If a payer that derives income (the affected income) in an income year from a financial instrument would, as a consequence of unrecognised amounts under subsection (2) of payments, be denied by subsection (4) a deduction for a fraction (the affected fraction) of expenditure incurred by the payer in the income year under the financial instrument, an amount of the payer's affected income, calculated by multiplying the affected income by the affected fraction, is excluded income of the payer.

Ordinary income

(9) An amount of income is ordinary income under this subsection for a country or territory and a person or entity if the income is—

(a) taxed by the country or territory at the full marginal rate of the person or other entity for the income from financial instruments; and

(b) not eligible for an exemption, exclusion, credit, or tax relief, under the laws of the country or territory, other than a credit or tax relief for a withholding tax or similar tax imposed on the amount of the income by the laws of another country or territory.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, amount, CFC, deduction, excluded income, financial instrument, income, income tax, income year, New Zealand, pay, related, structured arrangement, tax

FH 4 Receipts under financial instruments producing deduction without income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person (the payee) receives a payment under a financial instrument (the payment instrument) of an amount and—

(a) the payment would not give rise to assessable income of the payee in the absence of this section and section FH 6 or gives rise to assessable income of the payee that would not be allocated to a period meeting the requirements of subsection (7); and

(b) the taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand (the payer jurisdiction) treats the payment as being made under the payment instrument by a person or other entity (the payer); and

(c) the payer jurisdiction allows the payer or other person or entity to deduct the amount from income or allows an equivalent tax relief for the payment; and

(d) the payer jurisdiction does not have hybrid mismatch legislation corresponding to section FH 3 and applying to the payment; and

(e) the payment instrument is or is part of a structured arrangement or the payer is related to the payee when the expenditure is incurred; and

(f) the payment meets the requirements of subsection (2) or (3).

Amount not recognised

(2) A payment received by the payee meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) an amount of the payment does not give rise to assessable income of the payee; and

(b) the amount would give rise to assessable income of the payee if the classification of the payment or payment instrument were varied.

Delayed recognition of amount

(3) A payment received by the payee under a financial instrument meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) the payment gives rise to assessable income of the payee that, in the absence of this section, would be allocated to a period that does not meet the requirements of subsection (7); and

(b) the duration of the financial instrument, including extensions contemplated by the financial instrument, may be more than 3 years.

Assessable income

(4) The payee derives assessable income from the payment—

(a) equal to the amount that would be assessable income of the payee if the classification of the payment or payment instrument were varied, for a payment meeting the requirements of subsection (2):

(b) allocated under subsection (6).

Imputation credit not included and not available

(5) If the payment received by the payee is a replacement payment under a returning share transfer, the amount of an imputation credit attached to the replacement payment is not included in the assessable income under subsection (4) and is not available as a tax credit under section LE 1 (Tax credits for imputation credits).

Timing of derivation under subsection (4)

(6) The assessable income under subsection (4) is allocated to the income year in which—

(a) income from the payment would be derived if the classification of the payment or payment instrument were varied, for a payment meeting the requirements of subsection (2):

(b) the deduction or tax relief referred to in subsection (1)(c) is allowed, for a payment meeting the requirements of subsection (3).

Timing of recognised income

(7) The period to which an amount of income is allocated meets the requirements of this subsection if the income is, or is reasonably expected to be, derived in an accounting period beginning within 24 months of the end of the accounting period to which a deduction or tax credit of the payer for the incurred expenditure is attributed.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, amount, assessable income, financial instrument, hybrid mismatch legislation, imputation credit, income, income year, pay, related, replacement payment, returning share transfer, structured arrangement, tax credit

Section FH 4: inserted, on 1 July 2018, by section 35(1) (and see section 35(2) and (3) for application) of the Taxation (Neutralising Base Erosion and Profit Shifting) Act 2018 (2018 No 16).

Section FH 4(6)(b): amended (with effect on 1 July 2018), on 18 March 2019, by section 196(1) (and see section 196(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2018–19, Modernising Tax Administration, and Remedial Matters) Act 2019 (2019 No 5).

FH 5 Payments by New Zealand resident or New Zealand deducting branch producing deduction without income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person or entity (the payer) incurs an amount of expenditure in an income year relating to a payment to another person and meeting the requirements of subsection (2), or incurs in an income year a charge meeting the requirements of subsection (3), and—

(a) [Repealed]

(b) the amount or charge would be allowed as a deduction in the income year for the payer in the absence of this section and sections FH 7 to FH 11; and

(c) the taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand (the payee jurisdiction)—

(i) treats the payment or charge as not being received by a person or entity in the payee jurisdiction, because of the tax status of the payer; and

(ii) would treat the payment or charge as being received by a person or other entity (the payee) in the payee jurisdiction, if the tax status of the payer were different; and

(d) no country or territory outside New Zealand and the payee jurisdiction imposes tax on the payment or charge under taxation law that includes rules corresponding to the CFC rules and recognises the payment as the equivalent of attributed CFC income of a person in the same control group as the payee.

Expenditure relating to payment made under structured arrangement or to member of payer's control group

(2) Expenditure relating to a payment by a payer that is a New Zealand resident, or a New Zealand deducting branch of a non-resident, to a payee meets the requirement of this subsection if—

(a) the payee is a non-resident who receives the payment other than through a New Zealand deducting branch of the payee; and

(b) the payment is made under a structured arrangement or, when the expenditure is incurred, the payer is in a control group with the payee or is the same person as the payee; and

(c) the expenditure is not an amount that is—

(i) consideration for a supply of goods or services by the payee to the payer meeting the requirements of section FH 5B(1); and

(ii) excluded from being a mismatch amount by section FH 5B(2).

Charge by non-resident to New Zealand deducting branch

(3) A charge of an amount meets the requirements of this subsection if the amount—

(a) is charged by a non-resident to a New Zealand deducting branch of the non-resident; and

(b) represents amounts, relating to the activities outside New Zealand of the non-resident, allocated to the deducting branch; and

(c) is not determined by reference to the amount of a payment by the non-resident, or a member of the same control group as the non-resident, to a person other than the non-resident and the members of the control group; and

(d) exceeds expenditure or loss, incurred by the non-resident or a member of the same control group as the non-resident, that—

(i) belongs to a category of expenditure or loss equivalent to the category to which the charge belongs; and

(ii) is the reference by which the amount of the charge is determined.

Mismatch amount

(4) The payer is denied a deduction for the expenditure or for the amount of the charge that exceeds the expenditure or loss referred to in subsection (3)(d).

Deductions denied for mismatch amounts until offset

(5) The expenditure or loss for which a deduction is denied under subsection (4) is a mismatch amount from a mismatch situation until the mismatch amount is set off under section FH 12 against surplus assessable income under that section from the mismatch situation.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed CFC income, CFC, control group, deducting branch, deduction, financial instrument, loss, mismatch amount, New Zealand, New Zealand resident, non-resident, pay, structured arrangement

FH 5B Exception: when payee group not allowed deductions for supplies as prerequisites for payer supplies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when expenditure meets the requirements of section FH 5(2)(a) and (b).

Supply to payer depending on supply to payee or group

(2) For the purposes of section FH 5(2)(c), a supply of goods or services by the person who is the payee for the purposes of that section (the payee) to the person who is the payer for the purposes of that section (the payer) meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) a prerequisite for the supply is a supply of goods or services (the prerequisite group supply) received and paid for by the payee or by a person who is a member of the payee's control group and is resident in the payee jurisdiction; and

(b) the prerequisite group supply is made by a person who, at the time of the supply, is in no control group that includes the payee or the payer; and

(c) the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction allows no deduction from income, and no equivalent tax relief, for an amount (the non-deductible amount) of the payment for the prerequisite group supply because income of the payer is not taxable in the payee jurisdiction; and

(d) no country or territory outside the payee jurisdiction allows a deduction from income for the non-deductible amount or allows equivalent tax relief for the non-deductible amount.

Expenditure excluded from being mismatch amount

(3) The amount of the consideration for a supply that meets the requirements of subsection (2) (the payer supply) that is an amount excluded from being a mismatch amount (the excluded amount) and is linked for the purposes of paragraph (a) or subsection (4) to a prerequisite group supply is,—

(a) if the payer supply is the sole payer supply to the payer by the payee, or by a member of the payee's control group, that occurs in or before the income year in which the payer supply is made, and the prerequisite group supply is the sole prerequisite group supply for the payer supply, the amount that is the lesser of—

(i) the amount of the consideration for the payer supply:

(ii) the non-deductible amount for the prerequisite group supply; or

(b) if paragraph (a) does not apply, the amount that meets the requirements of subsection (4) for the payer supply and the prerequisite group supply.

More than 1 payer supply and more than 1 prerequisite group supply

(4) If the requirements of subsection (3)(a) are not met for a payer supply and a prerequisite group supply, the excluded amount for the payer supply, together with excluded amounts for other payer supplies, must meet the following requirements:

(a) for a payer supply, the total of the excluded amounts linked to prerequisite group supplies must not exceed the consideration for the payer supply; and

(b) for a prerequisite group supply, the total of the excluded amounts linked to the prerequisite group supply must not exceed the non-deductible amount for the prerequisite group supply; and

(c) for each payer supply, the excluded amount that is linked to a prerequisite group supply is the maximum amount that, together with other

excluded amounts already linked to the prerequisite group supply, meets the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b), when—

(i) the excluded amounts for each payer supply are determined for payer supplies in the order in which the payer supplies are made or, for payer supplies made at the same time, in the order chosen by the payer; and

(ii) the excluded amounts for a payer supply that are linked to prerequisite group supplies are determined in the order in which the prerequisite group supplies are made or, for prerequisite group supplies made at the same time, in the order chosen by the payer.

Defined in this Act: control group, income year, services

Section FH 5B: inserted (with effect on 1 July 2018), on 23 March 2020, by section 123(1) (and see section 123(2) for application) of the Taxation (KiwiSaver, Student Loans, and Remedial Matters) Act 2020 (2020 No 5).

FH 6 Receipts from non-resident or foreign deducting branch producing deduction without income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a non-resident, or foreign deducting branch of a New Zealand resident, (the payer) is treated by the taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand (the payer jurisdiction) as making a payment in an income year to a person or other entity (the payee) in New Zealand and meeting the requirements of subsection (2), or incurring a charge in the income year meeting the requirements of subsection (3), and—

(a) the payment or charge would not give rise to assessable income of the payee in the income year in the absence of this section; and

(b) the payer jurisdiction allows the payer or other person or entity to deduct an amount of the payment or charge against income or allows an equivalent tax relief for the payment; and

(c) the payer jurisdiction does not have hybrid mismatch legislation corresponding to section FH 5 that applies to the payment or charge and to the payer at any time in the income year; and

(d) the payment or charge would give rise to assessable income of the payee in the income year if the payer and payee were persons and separate or if the tax status of the payer were different.

Expenditure relating to payment made under structured arrangement or to member of payer's control group

(2) Expenditure relating to a payment by a payer that is not a New Zealand resident, or is a foreign deducting branch of a New Zealand resident, to a payee meets the requirement of this subsection if—

(a) the payee is a New Zealand resident; and

(b) the payment is made under a structured arrangement or, when the expenditure is incurred, the payer is in a control group with the payee or is the same person as the payee.

Charge by New Zealand resident to a foreign deducting branch

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1), the amount of a charge treated by the payer jurisdiction as being required by a New Zealand resident from a foreign deducting branch of the New Zealand resident is equal to the amount that—

(a) represents amounts, relating to the activities of the New Zealand resident in New Zealand, allocated to the deducting branch; and

(b) is not determined by reference to the amount of a payment by the New Zealand resident, or a member of the same control group as the New Zealand resident, to a person other than the New Zealand resident and the members of the control group; and

(c) exceeds expenditure or loss incurred by the New Zealand resident, or a member of the same control group as the New Zealand resident, that—

(i) belongs to a category of expenditure or loss equivalent to the category to which the charge belongs; and

(ii) is the reference by which the amount of the charge is determined.

Assessable income

(4) The payee derives assessable income from the payment or charge equal to the greater of zero and the amount that would be assessable income of the payee, if the payer and payee were persons and separate or if the tax status of the payer were different.

Timing of derivation under subsection (4)

(5) The assessable income under subsection (4) is allocated to the income year in which the payment would be derived if the payer and payee were persons and separate or if the tax status of the payer were different.

Mismatch amounts

(6) An amount that is treated as assessable income under subsection (4) for a payee and a tax year is a mismatch amount of the payee for the tax year and the mismatch situation until the mismatch amount is set off under section FH 12 against surplus assessable income under that section from the mismatch situation.

New Zealand resident becoming affected

(7) A mismatch amount under subsection (6) is not available to be carried forward beyond a time (the transition time) if the payer jurisdiction introduces from the transition time hybrid mismatch legislation corresponding to section FH 5 and applying to expenditure of the hybrid entity or foreign resident to which this section applies.

Defined in this Act: amount, arrangement, assessable income, company, control group, deducting branch, deduction, hybrid mismatch legislation, income, mismatch amount, New Zealand, New Zealand resident, non-resident, structured arrangement

Section FH 6: inserted, on 1 July 2018, by section 35(1) (and see section 35(2) for application) of the Taxation (Neutralising Base Erosion and Profit Shifting) Act 2018 (2018 No 16).

FH 7 Payments to person outside New Zealand producing deduction without income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person (the payer) incurs an amount of expenditure (the incurred amount) in an income year relating to an amount of a payment to a person (the payee) that exists under the law of a country or territory outside New Zealand (the payee jurisdiction) and—

(a) the incurred amount would be allowed as a deduction for the payer in the absence of this section and sections FH 8 to FH 11; and

(b) under the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction, the amount is treated as being—

(i) received by the payee in a country or territory outside the payee jurisdiction:

(ii) income of a person who is not the payee; and

(bb) if the amount does not meet the requirements of paragraph (b)(i) and meets the requirements of paragraph (b)(ii) by being treated as the income of a person who is not the payee, the person is in the same control group as the payer or the amount is a payment under a structured arrangement; and

(c) the payment is made under a structured arrangement or the payer is in the same control group as the payee when the expenditure is incurred; and

(d) under the taxation law of New Zealand and of the countries and territories outside New Zealand, the amount received by the payee is not subject to taxation as income and is not recognised as CFC attributed income, or the equivalent of attributed CFC income, of a person in the same control group as the payee; and

(e) if the amount meets the requirements of paragraph (b)(i), an equivalent payment by the payer would have been subject to taxation as income of the payee under the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction if the equivalent payment were treated as being received by the payee in the payee jurisdiction; and

(f) if the amount meets the requirements of paragraphs (b)(ii) and (bb), an equivalent payment by the payer would have been subject to taxation as income of the person who is treated as deriving the income under the taxation law of the payee jurisdiction if the equivalent payment were treated as being received by the person in the country or territory where that person is resident.

Amount of deduction denied

(2) The payer is denied a deduction for the incurred amount and, if the payment is made under a financial instrument denominated in the currency of a country or territory other than New Zealand, for amounts arising from a fluctuation in the value of the currency in relation to New Zealand currency.

Defined in this Act: amount, CFC, control group, deduction, financial instrument, income, New Zealand, pay, structured arrangement

FH 8 Expenditure or loss through hybrid entity or foreign deducting branch producing double deduction without double income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a New Zealand resident and an income year when the New Zealand resident is related to a hybrid entity existing under the law of a country or territory outside New Zealand, or has a deducting branch in such a country or territory, and—

(a) the taxation law of the country or territory allows expenditure or loss of the hybrid entity, or of the New Zealand resident attributed to the deducting branch, in the income year to be set off against income of another person or entity; and

(b) the income of the other person or entity, other than from a source in New Zealand, is not assessable income.

Deduction denied for expenditure or loss

(2) The New Zealand resident is denied a deduction for the amount of expenditure or loss incurred for the income year that—

(a) is attributed to the hybrid entity or deducting branch; and

(b) would, in the absence of this section and sections FH 9 and FH 10, be allowed as a deduction in the income year corresponding to the tax year.

Mismatch amounts

(3) A deduction denied under subsection (2) is a mismatch amount from a mismatch situation until the mismatch amount is set off under section FH 12 against surplus assessable income under that section from the mismatch situation.

New Zealand resident becoming affected

(4) Subsection (5) applies to a person who is a New Zealand resident and becomes liable to be denied deductions under subsection (1) at a time (the transition time) when—

(a) in a period ending with the transition time (the unaffected period), the person is related to a hybrid entity, or has a deducting branch, that exists under the law of a country or territory outside New Zealand but the person is not liable to be denied deductions under subsections (1) and (2); and

(b) the taxation law of the country or territory allows expenditure or loss of the hybrid entity, or of the New Zealand resident attributed to the deducting branch, during the unaffected period to be set off against income that is not assessable income and arises at or after the transition time.

Assessable income

(5) The person derives, at the transition time, assessable income equal to the amount of net loss, calculated for the person and the hybrid entity or deducting branch and the unaffected period as if the person's income from the hybrid entity or deducting branch were schedular income.

Mismatch amounts

(6) An amount that is treated as assessable income under subsection (5) for a person and a tax year is a mismatch amount of the person for the tax year and the mismatch situation until the mismatch amount is set off under section FH 12 against surplus assessable income under that section from the mismatch situation.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, deducting branch, deduction, hybrid entity, income, income year, loss, mismatch amount, mismatch situation, New Zealand, New Zealand resident, ring-fenced tax loss, source in New Zealand, surplus assessable income, tax year

Section FH 8: inserted, on 1 July 2018, by section 35(1) (and see section 35(2) for application) of the Taxation (Neutralising Base Erosion and Profit Shifting) Act 2018 (2018 No 16).

FH 9 Expenditure or loss of hybrid entity, or non-resident through deducting branch, producing double deduction without double income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a resident (the foreign resident) in a country or territory outside New Zealand (the foreign jurisdiction) is in the same control group as a hybrid entity resident in New Zealand, or has a deducting branch in New Zealand, if—

(a) expenditure or loss of the hybrid entity, or of the foreign resident attributed to the deducting branch, would be allowed as a deduction in an income year in the absence of this section and section FH 10; and

(b) the taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand allows expenditure of the hybrid entity or attributed to the deducting branch to be deducted in the income year against income of the foreign resident; and

(c) the foreign jurisdiction does not have hybrid mismatch legislation corresponding to section FH 8 and applying at any time in the income year to expenditure of the hybrid entity or foreign resident referred to in paragraph (b).

Deductions denied

(2) The hybrid entity or foreign resident is denied a deduction for the amount of expenditure or loss that—

(a) is incurred by the hybrid entity or attributed to the deducting branch in the income year corresponding to the tax year; and

(b) would, in the absence of this section, be allowed as a deduction.

Mismatch amounts

(3) The amount of a deduction denied under subsection (2) is a mismatch amount for the hybrid entity or foreign resident until the mismatch amount is set off under section FH 12 against surplus assessable income under that section for the hybrid entity or foreign resident.

New Zealand resident becoming affected

(4) A mismatch amount under subsection (3) is not available to be carried forward beyond a time (the transition time) if the foreign jurisdiction introduces from the transition time hybrid mismatch legislation corresponding to section FH 8 and applying to expenditure of the hybrid entity or foreign resident to which this section applies.

Defined in this Act: amount, control group, deducting branch, deduction, hybrid entity, income, income year, hybrid mismatch legislation, loss, mismatch amount, New Zealand, resident in New Zealand, surplus assessable income, tax year

Section FH 9: inserted, on 1 July 2018, by section 35(1) (and see section 35(2) for application) of the Taxation (Neutralising Base Erosion and Profit Shifting) Act 2018 (2018 No 16).

FH 10 Expenditure or loss of dual resident company producing double deduction without double income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a company that is a New Zealand resident (the dual resident) and under the taxation law of another country or territory outside New Zealand (the dual tax jurisdiction) is liable to income tax in the dual tax jurisdiction through domicile, residence, or place of incorporation.

Deduction denied for expenditure

(2) The dual resident is denied a deduction for an amount equal to the amount of expenditure that would, in the absence of this section, be allowed as a deduction in the income year reduced by the amount of the expenditure for which the dual tax jurisdiction does not allow a deduction against income or equivalent tax relief because the expenditure is not connected with income that is subject to tax under the taxation law of the jurisdiction.

Mismatch amount

(3) A deduction that is denied under subsection (2) is a mismatch amount from a mismatch situation until the mismatch amount is set off under section FH 12 against surplus assessable income under that section from the mismatch situation.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, company, deduction, hybrid entity, income, income tax, income year, New Zealand, New Zealand resident, ring-fenced tax loss, tax year

Section FH 10: inserted, on 1 July 2018, by section 35(1) (and see section 35(2) for application) of the Taxation (Neutralising Base Erosion and Profit Shifting) Act 2018 (2018 No 16).

Section FH 10(2): amended (with effect on 1 July 2018), on 18 March 2019, by section 198(1)(a) (and see section 198(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2018–19, Modernising Tax Administration, and Remedial Matters) Act 2019 (2019 No 5).

Section FH 10(2): amended (with effect on 1 July 2018), on 18 March 2019, by section 198(1)(b) (and see section 198(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2018–19, Modernising Tax Administration, and Remedial Matters) Act 2019 (2019 No 5).

FH 11 Residents, or non-residents with deducting branches, having expenditure funding overseas hybrid mismatches

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person (the funder) and an income year when the funder is—

(a) a New Zealand resident who makes a payment (the original payment) to a person in a country or territory outside New Zealand that does not have hybrid mismatch legislation and the original payment meets the requirements of subsection (1B); or

(b) a deducting branch in New Zealand of a non-resident, who is resident in a country or territory outside New Zealand that does not have legislation having the same effect as this subpart, and who makes a charge to the deducting branch that meets the requirements of subsection (1B).

Requirements for denial of deduction for original payment or charge

(1B) An original payment or a charge by a funder meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) the original payment or charge provides funds for a payment (the funded payment) from a person or other entity (the payer) in a country or territory outside New Zealand (the payer jurisdiction) to a person or other entity (the payee), in the same or another country or territory outside New Zealand (the payee jurisdiction); and

(b) the funds are provided to the payer directly, or indirectly through a series of further transactions (the intermediate transaction chain) that are each governed by the tax laws of countries or territories outside New Zealand; and

(c) for each transaction in an intermediate transaction chain, each country or territory with tax laws that govern the transaction does not have legislation having the same effect as this subpart; and

(d) a deduction for the original payment, or the charge, would be allowed for the funder in the absence of this section and sections FH 8 to FH 10; and

(e) the original payment, or the charge, is made under a structured arrangement giving rise to the hybrid mismatch referred to in paragraph (f) or the funder and the payer, when the original payment is incurred or the charge is made, are members of a control group; and

(f) the funded payment gives rise to a hybrid mismatch; and

(g) the payee jurisdiction does not have hybrid mismatch legislation.

Deduction denied for expenditure funding hybrid mismatch

(2) Subject to subsections (5) and (6), the funder is denied a deduction in a tax year for an amount that is given by—

(a) subsection (3), if the payment is made under a structured arrangement giving rise to the hybrid mismatch; or

(b) subsection (4), if paragraph (a) does not apply.

Amount denied for payment under structured arrangement

(3) Under this subsection, the amount of the denial is the lesser of—

(a) the amount of the deduction that would be allowed for the payment in the absence of this section and sections FH 8 to FH 10:

(b) the amount of the funded payment that, if hybrid mismatch legislation were applied by the payer jurisdiction, would be disallowed as a deduction against income or equivalent tax relief.

Amount denied for other payment

(4) Under this subsection, the amount of the denial is the amount of the payment by the funder that can fairly and reasonably be treated as providing, directly or indirectly, funds for an amount of the funded payment that, if hybrid mismatch legislation were applied by the payer jurisdiction, would be disallowed as a deduction against income or equivalent tax relief.

Tracing funding for funded payment, quantifying amount of deduction denied

(5) Whether a payment or charge by a funder provides funds for a funded payment under subsection (1B)(a) and, if so, the amount under subsection (4) that the funder is denied as a deduction, are determined consistently with the approaches described in chapter 8 of the hybrid mismatch report and chapter 5 of the branch mismatch report.

Deduction allowed in later income year

(6) A deduction (the denied deduction) that is for a payment or charge that provides funds for a funded payment, and is denied under subsection (2) in the income year in which the payment or charge is incurred, is allowed in a later income year to the extent to which—

(a) the payer jurisdiction would allow a deduction in the later income year for the funded payment if hybrid mismatch legislation were applied by the payer jurisdiction; and

(b) the denied deduction meets the requirements of section FH 12(8) to be carried forward to the later income year as a mismatch amount.

FH 12 Offset of mismatch amounts against surplus assessable income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person has a mismatch amount under sections FH 5, FH 6, and FH 8 to FH 10 from a mismatch situation for an income year.

Offset against surplus assessable income

(2) The total of mismatch amounts from the mismatch situation for the income year are set off against the person's total surplus assessable income from the mismatch situation under subsection (3).

Surplus assessable income

(3) The person has an amount of surplus assessable income, for the mismatch situation and the income year, equal to the greater of zero and the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{earlier} + \text{assessable} + \text{deductionless} - \text{unrecognised} - \text{protected} - \text{deductions} + \text{status}.$$

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) earlier is the amount of surplus assessable income for the person from the mismatch situation carried forward to the tax year corresponding to the income year from earlier tax years:

(b) assessable is the amount of assessable income derived from the mismatch situation by the person in the income year:

(c) deductionless is zero, except for a person that is a hybrid entity resident in New Zealand and owned by a non-resident, for which it is the amount of income of the hybrid entity that—

(i) is exempt income under section CW 10 (Dividend within New Zealand wholly-owned group) or excluded income under section CX 60 (Intra-group transactions); and

(ii) for an owner of the hybrid entity, is income subject to tax under the taxation law of another country or territory without a credit for tax, other than a withholding tax on the dividend, paid by the person paying the dividend:

(d) unrecognised is the amount of the assessable income of the person from the mismatch situation for the income year that is not subject to tax under the taxation law of the foreign jurisdiction because of the residence of another person, who is not another owner, or because of the source of the income or the tax status of the payer:

(e) protected is the amount of taxable income for which the income tax liability of the person would equal foreign tax credits under subpart LJ (Tax credits for foreign income tax) allowed for the assessable income from the mismatch situation for the income year:

(f) deductions is the amount of deductions allowed for expenditure incurred by the person in the income year in deriving assessable income from the mismatch situation, not including expenditure giving rise to mismatch amounts:

(g) status is the amount of expenditure on a payment by the person to a payee in New Zealand that is a mismatch amount under section FH 9 and that is not allowed to be deducted against income by the tax law of a country or territory outside New Zealand because of the tax status of the person and the payee.

Mismatch receipt set off against surplus assessable income from later tax year

(5) If a mismatch amount from a mismatch situation for a person is set off under subsection (2) or (10) in the tax year corresponding to an income year against an amount of surplus assessable income of the person from the mismatch situation, the person has a deduction for the income year equal to the amount of the offset.

Mismatch amounts carried forward

(6) If a mismatch amount from a mismatch situation is not an offset in the tax year corresponding to an income year, the remaining amount is carried forward to the next tax year if it meets the requirements of subsection (8) for that tax year.

Surplus assessable income carried forward

(7) If an amount of surplus assessable income from a mismatch situation is not an offset under subsection (2) or (10) in an income year,—

(a) the amount is reduced by the amount of corresponding income, that is recognised and taxed as income arising from the mismatch situation by the taxation law of a foreign country or territory, for which the income tax liability of the person would equal credits, equivalent to foreign tax credits under subpart LJ, allowed by the foreign country or territory for the income from the mismatch situation for the income year; and

(b) the amount remaining is carried forward to the next income year if it meets the requirements of subsection (8) for that income year.

Continuity requirement for carrying forward amounts

(8) A mismatch amount, or surplus assessable income, from a mismatch situation may be carried forward to a tax year corresponding to an income year (the carry year) if, for the tax year in which the amount arises (the initial year) and the carry year, a tax loss of the person could be carried forward under Part I (Treatment of tax losses) from the initial year to the carry year in the absence of offsets.

Mismatch amounts under section FH 8(3)

(9) A mismatch amount under section FH 8(3) that is available to be carried forward from a tax year corresponding to an income year is included as a tax loss component of the New Zealand resident for the next tax year (the release year) if—

(a) the hybrid entity, or the New Zealand resident with the deducting branch to which the mismatch amount is attributed, ceases to exist before the end of the income year corresponding to the release year; and

(b) expenditure or loss of the hybrid entity, or of the New Zealand resident attributed to the deducting branch, has not been set off under the taxation law of a country or territory outside New Zealand against income, for the income year in which the mismatch amount arose or for a later income year, that is not assessable income of a person or entity.

Offset of mismatch amount against surplus assessable income of group company

(10) A company (the offset company) may set off in an income year a mismatch amount from a mismatch situation against surplus assessable income of another company (the group company) from another mismatch situation (the income situation) if—

(a) the companies are in the same wholly-owned group when the mismatch amount and the surplus assessable income arise; and

(b) the mismatch amount and the surplus assessable income are available after each of the companies has all offsets permitted for the income year of amounts arising from the mismatch situation in which the company is involved; and

(c) the offset would be permitted if the offset company were substituted for the group company in the income situation.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, deducting branch, deductions, exempt income, foreign tax, hybrid entity, income year, loss, mismatch amount, mismatch situation, New Zealand resident, non-resident, resident in New Zealand, surplus assessable income, tax, tax loss, tax loss component, tax year, taxable income

(a) to determine whether a tax credit may be used to satisfy the income tax liability of a consolidated group for a tax year:

(b) when a provision sets a limit or provides a threshold, and its application depends on whether or not something is more or less than the limit or threshold.

Meaning

(2) The consolidation rules means the following:

(a) this subpart:

(b) section GB 38 (When sections GB 35 to GB 37 apply to consolidated groups):

Taxable income of consolidated group

(1) For the purposes of calculating the income tax liability for a tax year of a consolidated group under subpart BC (Calculating and satisfying income tax liabilities), the taxable income of a consolidated group for a tax year is the sum of the amounts calculated under subsection (2) for each company in the consolidated group for all or part of the corresponding income year.

Calculation for each company in consolidated group

(2) Each company that is part of a consolidated group for all or part of an income year must calculate the amount that would be its taxable income under subpart BC, as modified by this section and sections FM 4 to FM 13, for all or part of the income year in which the company is part of the consolidated group.

Returns and assessment by consolidated group

(3) The nominated company of a consolidated group must—

(a) provide a single return of income for a tax year for the companies in the consolidated group in the corresponding income year under section 33 of the Tax Administration Act 1994; and

(b) make an assessment under section 92 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 of the amount of income tax payable by the consolidated group.

No separate returns or assessment (with exception)

(4) A group company cannot make a separate assessment or return for the tax year unless it is, for part of the corresponding income year, not part of the consolidated group.

Joint and several liability

(5) Each company that is part of a consolidated group is jointly and severally liable for the amount of income tax assessed for the consolidated group in relation to its taxable income.

Individual liability

(6) The joint and several liability of each company that is part of a consolidated group is substituted for their individual income tax liability, but only to the extent—

When this section applies

(1) This section applies before the nominated company of a consolidated group makes an assessment for the consolidated group for a tax year.

Named companies bearing liability

(2) Despite section FM 3(5), the nominated company may apply to the Commissioner for approval for 1 or more named companies in the consolidated group to bear the consolidated group's income tax liability for the tax year.

Approval by Commissioner

(3) The Commissioner must approve an application under subsection (2) unless limiting the liability to the named companies will significantly prejudice the recovery, or likely recovery, of the income tax liability of the consolidated group for the tax year.

Liability limited to named companies

(4) If the notice referred to in subsection (3) does not specify an income year, the company is treated as in the consolidated group from the start of the income year following that in which the Commissioner receives the notice.

Setting out entitlement date in notice

(5) Despite subsections (3) and (4), if a company becomes eligible to join a consolidated group during an income year, and the notice is given to the Commissioner within the notice period, the company may provide that the election applies from the date they first became entitled to make an election. The company is treated as in the consolidated group from that date, and part-year financial statements under section FM 14 are required.

Notice period

(6) In this section, notice period means 1 of the following:

(a) 63 working days after the start of an income year; or

(b) if the company joining, or the companies forming, the consolidated group in the income year are incorporated or formed in the same income year, 63 working days after the latest incorporation or formation; or

(c) if the company or companies become entitled to make an election during an income year, 63 working days from the date they first became entitled; or

(d) an extended period if the Commissioner agrees that the notice could not reasonably have been provided within the 63-day period.

Anti-avoidance measure

(7) Subsection (5) does not apply if it would be reasonable to conclude that an arrangement has been entered into for a purpose of enabling the company to meet the requirements of the subsection so as to defeat the intent and application of the consolidation rules.

FM 39 Choosing to leave consolidated group

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a company chooses to leave a consolidated group and notifies the Commissioner of its election.

Deferring leaving date

(2) When the company notifies the Commissioner of its election, it may defer the date on which it leaves the consolidated group to the first day of the next income year. However, unless subsections (3) and (4) apply, if the company does not defer the leaving date, it is treated as no longer in the consolidated group from the start of the income year in which the Commissioner receives the notice.

First income year: deferral

(3) Despite subsection (2), if a company leaves a consolidated group in the same income year in which it joins the group, and defers the leaving date in the notice, it is treated as leaving the consolidated group from the start of the income year after the income year in which the Commissioner receives the notice. Sections FM 40 and FM 41 override this subsection.

First income year: no deferral

(4) Despite subsection (2), if a company leaves a consolidated group in the same income year in which it joins the consolidated group, and does not defer the leaving date in the notice, it is treated as leaving the consolidated group on the date it joined the group.

Effective date

(2) Unless subsections (3) or (4) apply, the company is treated as leaving the consolidated group from the start of the income year in which the relevant event occurs, making it no longer—

(b) if it is not the nominated company, eligible to continue as part of the same consolidated group as the nominated company.

First income year

(3) Despite subsection (2), if a company becomes no longer eligible to be in the consolidated group in the same income year in which it joined the group, the company is treated as leaving the consolidated group on the day it joined the group.

FP 4 Summary of property rollover relief provisions

Guidance

(1) This section is intended to provide guidance on sections FP 5 to FP 12. If a conflict arises between this section and another provision of this subpart, that other provision prevails.

Summary of provisions

(2) Sections FP 5 to FP 12 are intended to defer any unanticipated tax liability arising from the receipt of compensation for certain assets destroyed by an emergency event. In general, the sections do this by suspending the recognition of the amount of that compensation as income that exceeds the cost of the assets and rolling it over to use it to reduce the acquisition cost of replacement property. Any amount unused at the end of the emergency event period will be income of the person at that time. The amount will also be income of the person if they decide not to acquire replacement property or they go into liquidation or become bankrupt before the end of the emergency event period.

Suspended recovery income

(3) The definition of suspended recovery income differs depending on the type of property. For land and buildings under section FP 5, suspended recovery income is the amount by which the compensation for the damaged property exceeds the cost of the property. For depreciable property under section FP 8, suspended recovery income is the total depreciation recovery income for the affected class of depreciable property. This is the extent to which the compensation exceeds the adjusted tax value for each item of affected depreciable property in the class, capped at the amount of depreciation deductions claimed for the relevant item. For items when the compensation received is less than the adjusted tax value, the difference is deducted from the class total. For improvements to land under section FP 12, suspended recovery income is the amount of compensation that would have been income under section CG 4 (Receipts for expenditure or loss from insurance, indemnity, or otherwise), absent this subpart. Section CG 4 limits the amount of income to the deduction for the land improvement.

Reduction of suspended recovery income

(4) Suspended recovery income is reduced when a person acquires replacement property. The reduction occurs each time an item is replaced. The amount that remains at the end of the income year that is 5 income years after the income year in which the emergency event first occurs, or at the point the person decides not to acquire any more replacement property, or goes into liquidation or becomes bankrupt, is income of the person.

Impact on asset values

(5) For land, buildings, and depreciable property, spent suspended recovery income reduces the cost of the replacement property for tax purposes (see sections FP 7 and FP 11). When the replacement property is subsequently disposed of, the extent to which the difference between the cost for tax purposes and the sale proceeds is taxable is determined by normal tax rules. For land improvements, the value attributed to the replacement is zero unless the replacement cost exceeds the amount of suspended recovery income, in which case the excess is attributed.

Defined in this Act: acquire, adjusted tax value, affected class, affected depreciable property, amount, compensation, deduction, depreciable property, depreciation recovery income, dispose, emergency event, emergency event period, income, income year, land, liquidation, replacement cost, replacement property, suspended recovery income

(a) owns affected revenue property; and

(d) notifies the Commissioner of their decision to suspend recognition of the amount of their suspended recovery income in accordance with section 226H of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Suspended recovery income

(2) The person has an amount of income under section CC 2B (Compensation for land or buildings affected by emergency events) for the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected revenue property for the current year when—

(a) the current year ends, if the current year is the final income year of the emergency event period; or

(b) in the current year, the person decides not to replace the affected revenue property; or

(c) in the current year, the person goes into liquidation or becomes bankrupt.

FP 6 Meaning of suspended recovery income for affected revenue property

Suspended recovery income

(1) Subject to subsection (2), the amount of suspended recovery income a person has for their affected revenue property is the amount by which the compensation received by the person exceeds their cost deductions for that property.

When property replaced

(2) When a person replaces their affected revenue property, the amount of their suspended recovery income under subsection (1) is reduced by the amount of the replacement cost adjustment calculated under subsection (3) or (5), as applicable.

Replacement cost adjustment: compensation exceeds replacement cost

(3) If the compensation received by the person for the affected revenue property exceeds the replacement cost of the replacement property and is equal to or exceeds the amount calculated under this subsection, the replacement cost adjustment is the amount calculated under the following formula:

(replacement cost ÷ cost deductions) × (compensation − replacement cost).

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula in subsection (3),—

(a) replacement cost is the replacement cost, as defined in section FP 3, of the replacement property:

(b) cost deductions is the cost deductions, as defined in section FP 3, of the affected revenue property:

(c) compensation is the compensation, as defined in section FP 3, received for the affected revenue property.

Replacement cost adjustment: compensation less than replacement cost

(5) If the compensation received by the person for the affected revenue property is less than or equal to the replacement cost or the compensation is less than the amount calculated under subsection (3), the replacement cost adjustment is the amount of the suspended recovery income under subsection (1).

Defined in this Act: affected revenue property, amount, compensation, cost deductions, replacement cost, replacement property, suspended recovery income

Section FP 6: inserted, on 1 April 2025, by section 65 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2024–25, Emergency Response, and Remedial Measures) Act 2025 (2025 No 9).

Replacement property for which person does not use pool method

(2) If the person acquires an item of replacement property and links it with an affected class of affected depreciable property for which the person does not use the pool method, the amount of the replacement reduction is—

(a) zero, if the cost of the affected class is equal to or less than the person's total replacement costs in acquiring, before that item, other replacement property linked with the affected class; or limited replacement cost × class excess recovery ÷ affected class cost.

(b) in any other case, calculated using the formula—

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2),—

(a) the replacement cost of the item; and

(b) the amount of suspended recovery income that remains for the class of affected property after the acquisition of other replacement property but before the acquisition of the item of replacement property.

Order of acquisition for items acquired at same time

(5) If items of replacement property are acquired at the same time and the effect of this section depends on the order in which the items are acquired, the items are treated as being acquired in the order chosen by the person in their first return of income in which the acquisition is taken into account.

Replacement property linked to affected class for which person does not use pool method

(2) If the person acquires the replacement item and links it with an affected class for which the person does not use the pool method, the amount of the replacement reduction in section FP 10(2) is treated as not being included in the replacement cost of the replacement item for the purposes of determining,—

(a) under section EE 16(4) (Amount resulting from standard calculation), the item value or cost for the replacement item, if the person uses the diminishing value method or straight-line method for that item; or

(b) under section EE 22 (Cases affecting pool), the cost of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item.

Replacement property linked to affected class for which person uses pool method

(3) If the person acquires a replacement item and links the item with an affected class for which the person uses the pool method, the replacement cost of the replacement item is treated as being reduced by the replacement reduction in section FP 10(4) for the purposes of determining—

(a) the adjusted tax value of the replacement item, if paragraph (b) or (c) does not apply; or

(b) the cost of the replacement item for the straight-line method, if that method is used to determine depreciation loss for the replacement item; or

(c) the adjusted tax value of the pool of the replacement item, if the person uses the pool method for the replacement item.

Disposal of replacement property: reduction in cost treated as depreciation loss

(4) For the purposes of section EE 48 (Effect of disposal or event), when a person disposes of a replacement item, the amount by which the replacement cost on the replacement item is treated as being reduced under subsection (2) or (3) is an amount of depreciation loss for the replacement item for which the person has been allowed a deduction.

Leases

FZ 2 Effect of specified lease on lessor and lessee

Lease treated as sale

(1) The leasing of a personal property lease asset under a specified lease is treated as a sale of the asset, made at the start of the term of the lease, by the lessor to the lessee. The lessee is treated as having incurred, through the sale, capital expenditure of an amount equal to the cost price of the asset.

Loan applied to finance acquisition of asset

(2) A lessor under a specified lease is treated as having advanced to the lessee a loan of an amount equal to the cost price of the personal property lease asset. The lessee is treated as having applied the loan in the financing of the acquisition of the asset.

No deduction

(3) A lessor under a specified lease is denied a deduction under section DZ 14(2) (Deductions under specified leases) for an amount of depreciation loss for the personal property lease asset.

Asset sold to lessor

(4) At the end of the term of a specified lease, if the personal property lease asset is not acquired by the lessee under the terms of the lease or in the exercise of an option under the lease, the asset is treated as sold at the end of the term of the lease to the lessor for—

(a) an amount equal to the guaranteed residual value, if any, set out for the asset in the lease; or

(b) if no guaranteed residual value is set out in the lease, no consideration.

Treatment when lease terminated

(5) If a specified lease is terminated before the term of the lease ends, whether by cancellation, surrender, or otherwise,—

(a) the personal property lease asset relating to the lease is treated as sold on the date of the termination to the lessor by the lessee at a price equal to the amount by which the amount of the outstanding balance, at the time of termination, of a loan advance by the lessor to the lessee is more than the amount or the sum of the amounts payable by the lessee to the lessor in consideration for the release by the lessor of the lessee from the obligations of the lessee under the lease:

(b) despite paragraph (a), if, in relation to the amount of the outstanding balance and the amount or the sum of the amounts payable by the lessee to the lessor, no excess arises, the asset is treated as having been sold for no consideration:

(c) if the value of the consideration payable by the lessee to the lessor in relation to the termination is more than the amount of the outstanding balance, at the time of termination, of a loan advanced by the lessor to the lessee, an amount equal to the amount of the excess is treated as income derived by the lessor in the income year in which the lease is terminated.

Subsequent sale, assignment, or lease

(6) If, on or after the end of the term of a specified lease, the personal property lease asset relating to the lease is sold, assigned, or leased under a specified lease by the lessor to another person, and the value of the consideration on the sale, assignment, or lease—

(a) is more than the amount determined for the first specified lease under subsection (4), the amount determined is increased by a further amount that is equal to the part, if any, of the excess paid by the lessor to the lessee:

(b) is less than the amount determined for the first specified lease under subsection (4)(a), and the lessee is required to make a further payment to the lessor equal to the difference between the guaranteed residual value for the lease value, and the value of the consideration, the amount determined is reduced by the amount of the further payment.

Consideration more than amount determined under subsection (4)

(7) Despite subsection (6), if the value of the consideration on the sale, assignment, or lease is more than the amount determined under subsection (4), the part, if any, of the excess that is not paid to the lessee is treated as income under section CZ 20 (Disposal of personal property lease asset under specified lease).

Associated persons

(8) If the lessee under a specified lease, or another person who is associated with the lessee, at any time acquires the personal property lease asset, and disposes of the asset, and the value of the consideration for the disposal is more than the value of the consideration for which the lessee or other person acquired it, an amount equal to the excess is income under section CZ 20.

Meaning of outstanding balance

(9) In this section, and in section FZ 3, outstanding balance means the amount calculated using the formula—loans advanced + interest payable − instalments.

Definition of items in formula

(10) In the formula,—

(a) loans advanced is the total amount of all loans advanced under the lease by the lessor for the period—

(i) starting on the date that the lease started; and

(ii) ending on the date immediately before the start of the instalment period:

(2) The amount of interest derived under subsection (1) is treated as—

(a) during the term of the lease, derived during the initial period and each instalment period, an amount that is calculated either,—

(i) on the outstanding balance for the initial period, and each instalment period, at such a rate and in such a manner that the aggregate of all of the amounts so calculated is equal to the amount first mentioned in paragraph (b); or

(ii) for the initial period and each instalment period, under such other method commonly applied in commercial usage as, having regard to the term of the lease and to the frequency of the personal property lease payments, results in the allocation to that initial period and to each instalment period of an amount that is fair and reasonable and results in the sum of all amounts so allocated being equal to the amount first mentioned in paragraph (b):

(b) in relation to the term of the lease, an amount that is equal to the sum of the personal property lease payments under the specified lease and the amount of the guaranteed residual value, if any, under the specified lease, reduced by the cost price of the personal property lease asset.

Calculation for income year

(3) The interest derived by a lessor is, for an income year, treated as an amount equal to the sum of the amounts calculated under subsection (2)(a) as calculated for the initial period, if any, and each instalment period that ends in the income year.

(3) The attribution does not occur—

(a) if both the associated entity and the working person are non-residents at all times during the associated entity's income year:

(b) if the associated entity is a natural person and is neither a partner of a partnership nor a trustee of a trust:

(c) to the extent to which the services personally performed by the working person are essential support for a product supplied by the associated entity:

(d) if the total amount to be attributed to the working person, for the associated entity and the income year, is less than $5,000, unless—

(i) the application of this paragraph would prevent income being attributed to the working person for the income year in relation to another associated entity:

(ii) the associated entity is a CFC and a person who holds an attributing interest in the CFC files, after the date (the Royal assent date) on which the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 receives the Royal assent, a return of income in which the amount of income attributed to the working person is determined under this section:

(ii) from income that has been attributed to the working person under this section and section GB 29; and

(iii) chooses to have the dividend treated as if it were paid by a qualifying company; and

(iv) keeps sufficient records to enable the Commissioner to verify the matters referred to in paragraph (a).

Cancellation of notional imputation credits

(5) For the purposes of subsection (4), to the extent to which the dividend paid by the company would have had an imputation credit attached that arose under section OB 16 (ICA attribution for personal services) in the absence of the election made under subsection (4)(b)(iii), the credit is treated as cancelled

GB 29 Attribution rule: calculation

Amount attributed

(1) A working person is treated as deriving income in an income year equal to the least of the following amounts:

(a) the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year, calculated as if their only income were derived from personal services:

(b) the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year:

(c) if and to the extent to which the associated entity is a company or a trust that has a loss balance to be carried forward under section IA 4 (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year) arising from a business or a trading activity of supplying personal services, the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year after subtracting the loss balance carried forward from an earlier corresponding tax year.

Associated entity's net income calculated before attribution

(1B) For the purposes of calculating the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year in the application of subsection (1), section DC 8 (Attribution of personal services) is ignored.

Calculation for trustee or partnership

(2) For the purposes of calculating the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year in the application of subsection (1),—

(a) if the associated entity is a trustee of a trust, the trustees are treated as not having made a distribution of beneficiary income out of the year's income:

(b) if the associated entity is a partnership, the associated entity is treated as a taxpayer and section HG 2 (Partnerships are transparent) does not apply:

(c) if the associated entity is a look-through company, the associated entity is treated as a taxpayer and section HB 1 (Look-through companies are transparent) does not apply.

Salary paid or fringe benefits treated as deductions

(3) For the purposes of calculating the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year in the application of subsection (1),—

(a) the associated entity is allowed a deduction for employment income paid to the working person during the income year:

(b) the associated entity is allowed a deduction for the taxable value of a fringe benefit provided or granted by the associated entity to the working person during the income year, and for the fringe benefit tax payable on the fringe benefit.

Reduction of attributable income for distributions

(4) For the purposes of calculating the associated entity's net income for the corresponding tax year in the application of subsection (1), the amount of net income of the associated entity for the corresponding tax year is reduced by—

(a) in the case of a trustee of a trust, the amount of beneficiary income derived by the working person from the trust in the income year:

(b) in the case of a partnership, the share of profits allocated by the partnership to the working person:

(c) in the case of a company, a dividend paid—

(i) by the associated entity to the working person during the income year or before the end of 6 months after the end of the income year; and

(ii) from income derived in the income year.

Attribution reduced by market value of administrative services

(5) If the associated entity is a partnership that receives administrative services from another person related to their income from personal services and has not paid for the administrative services, the amount to be attributed to the working person is reduced by the market value of the administrative services provided by the other person.

Reduction of beneficiary income when rule results in trust having tax loss

(6) If the associated entity is a trustee and the amount attributable would cause the associated entity to have a tax loss for the corresponding tax year, for the purposes of this Act,—

(a) beneficiary income from the trust for the income year must be reduced to the extent to which the associated entity's taxable income for the corresponding tax year is zero; and

(b) the reduction in beneficiary income must be divided among the beneficiaries other than the working person—

(i) according to proportions determined by the trust's trustees:

(ii) if the trustees do not make the determination, according to the proportion that each beneficiary's beneficiary income bears to the total beneficiary income from the trust for the income year.

Attribution to more than 1 working person

(7) If the amount attributable is to be attributed to more than 1 working person, the share attributed to each working person must reflect the respective value of the services personally performed by each working person.

Transfer pricing arrangements

GC 6 Purpose and application of rules and nature of arrangements

Purpose of rules

(1) The purpose of this section and sections GC 7 to GC 14 is to substitute an arm's length consideration in the calculation of a person's net income if the person's net income is reduced by the conditions of a cross-border arrangement—

(a) with an associated person or with a party to a financial arrangement that is a cross-border related borrowing of the person under subsection (3B); and

(b) for the acquisition or supply of goods, services, or anything else, or that includes a financial arrangement that is a cross-border related borrowing.

Rules apply consistently with OECD transfer pricing guidelines

(1B) This section and sections GC 7 to GC 14 apply consistently with the OECD transfer pricing guidelines.

What is a transfer pricing arrangement?

(2) An arrangement is a transfer pricing arrangement if—

(a) the arrangement involves the supply and acquisition of goods, services, money, other intangible property, or anything else; and

(b) the arrangement—

(i) is between a supplier and acquirer who are associated persons or are a company and a person who is a member of a non-resident owning body that has an ownership interest in the company of 50% or more:

(ii) includes a financial arrangement that is a cross-border related borrowing; and

(c) the arrangement is a cross-border arrangement under subsection (3).

When arrangement is cross-border arrangement

(3) An arrangement is a cross-border arrangement if the requirements of any of the following paragraphs is met:

(a) the supplier and acquirer are a New Zealand resident and non-resident, unless the requirements of both of the following subparagraphs are met:

(i) the non-resident enters into the arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on by the non-resident in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand:

(ii) the New Zealand resident has not entered into the arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on by the New Zealand resident outside New Zealand:

(b) the supplier and acquirer are 2 New Zealand residents and either or both enter into the arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on by the person outside New Zealand:

(c) the supplier and acquirer are 2 non-residents, unless each enters into the arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on by the person in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand.

When financial arrangement is cross-border related borrowing

(3B) A financial arrangement is a cross-border related borrowing under this subsection if, under the financial arrangement,—

(a) a non-resident person (the lender) provides funds to another person (the borrower) when—

(i) the lender and borrower are associated persons:

(ii) a person or group of persons has a total ownership interest, determined under sections FE 38 to FE 41 (which give the measurement of ownership interests in companies), of 50% or more in each of the lender and borrower:

(iii) the funding is provided through an indirect associated funding arrangement described in subsection (3C):

(iv) the lender is a member of a non-resident owning body, or of a group of non-residents who act in concert and are each described in section FE 2(1)(a) to (db) (When this subpart applies), and the members of the non-resident owning body or of the group have a total ownership interest, determined under sections FE 38 to FE 41, of 50% or more in the borrower; and

(b) expenditure arises for the borrower for which the borrower is allowed a deduction.

When indirect associated funding arrangement exists

(3C) An indirect associated funding arrangement exists under this subsection when,—

(a) under an arrangement, a non-resident person (the indirect lender) provides funds or pays money, directly or indirectly, to another person (the direct lender) who provides funds to a third person (the borrower)—

(i) in order for the funds to be provided to the borrower, or to reimburse the direct lender or compensate them, for providing the funds to the borrower; and

(ii) with the purpose or effect that this section and sections GC 6 to GC 14 and GC 16 to GC 19 do not apply to the arrangement; and

(b) the indirect lender is associated with the borrower, or a person or group of persons has a total ownership interest, determined under sections FE 38 to FE 41, of 50% or more in each of the indirect lender and borrower; and

(c) the direct lender is not associated with the borrower and is not described in subsection (3B)(a)(iv).

Application of sections to cross-border related borrowing

(3D) If a transfer pricing arrangement includes a financial arrangement that is a cross-border related borrowing, sections GC 7 to GC 14 are applied to the transfer pricing arrangement as if the adjustments required by sections GC 15 to GC 19 had been made to the credit rating of the borrower and the conditions of the financial arrangement.

Certain preference shares excluded from calculation of ownership interest

(3E) In calculating the ownership interests in a lender or borrower (the issuer) for the purposes of subsection (3B), a preference share is not included in the calculation if the preference share—

(a) is held by a person (the creditor) who is not associated with the issuer; and

(b) was issued to the creditor with the intention of satisfying or replacing debt provided by the creditor to the issuer in the ordinary course of business.

Application of sections

(4) Section GC 7, GC 8, GC 9, or GC 10 can apply to an arrangement under section GB 2 (Arrangements involving transfer pricing).

If the amount of consideration payable by a person (the taxpayer) under a transfer pricing arrangement is more than an arm's length amount, an amount equal to the arm's length amount is treated as the amount payable by the taxpayer for the purposes of the calculation of their income tax liability for a tax year.

Defined in this Act: amount, arrangement, income tax liability, tax year, taxpayer, transfer pricing arrangement

Compare: 2004 No 35 s GD 13(3)

GC 8 Insufficient amount receivable by person

Amount receivable

(1) If the amount of consideration receivable by a person (the taxpayer) under a transfer pricing arrangement is less than an arm's length amount, an amount equal to the arm's length amount is treated as the amount receivable by the taxpayer for each of the following purposes:

(a) the calculation of their income tax liability for a tax year:

(b) [Repealed]

(c) the determination of the obligation of another person to withhold under Part R (General collection rules) from the amount.

Non-resident's exemption: deduction to payer

(2) This section does not apply when—

(a) the taxpayer is neither resident in New Zealand nor entering into the transfer pricing arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand; and

(b) the increase under subsection (1) in the amount receivable by the taxpayer—

(i) produces an increase in the amount that is a deduction of the other party, or would be a deduction of the other party in the absence of sections FH 5, FH 8, and FH 9 (which deny deductions arising from some mismatch situations); or

(ii) if the transfer pricing arrangement is an interest-free loan, would produce an increase in the income of the borrower under subpart FE (Interest apportionment on thin capitalisation) or an increase in the amount that would be a deduction of the borrower in the absence of subpart FH (Hybrid and branch mismatches of deductions and income from multi-jurisdictional arrangements); and

(c) the amount receivable is interest, royalties, or an insurance premium to which section YD 8 (Apportionment of premiums derived by non-resident general insurers) applies.

Non-resident's exemption: fixed-rate share dividend

(3) This section does not apply if both of the following requirements are met:

(a) the taxpayer is neither resident in New Zealand nor entering into the arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand:

GC 13 Calculation of arm's length amounts

Determining arm's length amounts

(1) An arm's length amount of consideration for a supply and acquisition under a transfer pricing arrangement must be determined by—

(a) identifying, as required by subsections (1B) and (1C), a transaction reproducing the supply and acquisition (the identified transaction) or the absence of such a transaction; and

(b) identifying the conditions (the arm's length conditions) that independent parties after real and independent bargaining might be expected to agree upon for the identified transaction; and

(c) applying whichever 1 or a combination of the methods listed in subsection (2) produces the most reliable measure of the arm's length amount of consideration (the arm's length amount) that independent parties after real and independent bargaining would have agreed upon as the price for the identified transaction as part of the arm's length conditions.

Determination of identified transaction

(1B) A transaction reproducing a supply and acquisition under a transfer pricing arrangement is determined by—

(a) accurately delineating the transfer pricing arrangement using the approach given in the OECD transfer pricing guidelines, chapter I, section D.1; and

(b) identifying a transaction of supply and acquisition under the transfer pricing arrangement as delineated under paragraph (a).

No transaction or differing transaction

(1C) If the requirements of the OECD transfer pricing guidelines, paragraph 1.142, are met, the approach described in the OECD transfer pricing guidelines, chapter I, section D.2 must be used to treat a transfer pricing arrangement involving a supply and acquisition as instead involving—

(a) no supply and acquisition; or

(b) an identified transaction that differs from the supply and acquisition under the accurately delineated transfer pricing arrangement.

Available methods for calculating arm's length amount

(2) The arm's length amount of consideration for a supply and acquisition under a transfer pricing arrangement is zero, if there is no supply and acquisition under subsection (1C)(a), or is the amount calculated for the identified transaction under arm's length conditions by performing a comparability analysis as required by the OECD transfer pricing guidelines, chapter III, using any 1 or a combination of—

(a) the comparable uncontrolled price method:

(b) the resale price method:

(c) the cost plus method:

(d) the transactional profit split method:

(e) the transactional net margin method.

Criteria for choice and application of method

(3) The choice and application of a method or methods must be made having regard to each of the following factors:

(a) the degree of comparability between the transactions used for comparison and the transactions of the taxpayer under the transfer pricing arrangement:

(b) the completeness and accuracy of the data relied on:

(c) the reliability of all assumptions:

(d) the sensitivity of a result to possible deficiencies in the data and assumptions.

Amendment of assessment

(6) Despite the time bar, the Commissioner may amend a taxpayer's assessment for a tax year (the assessed year) in order to give effect to this section and to sections GC 6 to GC 12 and GC 14 to GC 19 at any time in the period of 7 tax years after the tax year (the return year) in which a return of income is made for the assessed year if, at any time in the period of 4 tax years after the return year, the Commissioner notifies the taxpayer or another taxpayer that a relevant tax audit or investigation affecting them has commenced and this subsection applies.

Further amendment of assessment

(7) Despite the time bar, at any time in the period of 7 tax years after the return year for an amendment (a transfer pricing amendment) that was made under subsection (6), the Commissioner may amend an assessment if such amendment is related to the transfer pricing amendment.

(b) is not required to use a credit rating given by subsection (9) or (10).

Borrowers with restricted credit rating

(3) A borrower has the restricted credit rating given by subsection (9) if the borrower, or a non-resident that controls the borrower and has no other business activity, is controlled by a group of persons (a co-ordinated group) that is a non-resident owning body or is a group of persons that act in concert and are each described in section FE 2(1)(a) to (db) (When this subpart applies) and—

(c) the borrower's New Zealand group under subpart FE (Interest apportionment on thin capitalisation) has a debt percentage under section FE 12(3) (Calculation of debt percentages) of 40% or more or has a debt percentage equal to zero, or, for each lender on the latest calculation date,—

Borrowers with group credit rating

(4) A borrower has the group credit rating given by subsection (10) if the borrower is not controlled by a co-ordinated group referred to in subsection (3) or, on the most recent calculation date given for the loan by subsection (6) (the latest calculation date), is controlled by a co-ordinated group that includes a person who has an ownership interest in the borrower, determined under sections FE 38 to FE 41, of 50% or more, and—

Calculation dates for loan

(6) A calculation date under subsections (2) to (4) for a borrower for a loan is a date—

Approximate calculation if calculation date not balance date

(7) If a calculation date under subsection (6) is not a measurement date under section FE 8 (Measurement dates) for which the borrower measures the amounts of total group debt and total group assets, and follows a measurement date for which the borrower has made such measurements, the debt percentage may be calculated by making appropriate adjustments to the debt percentage calculated for the most recent measurement date.

Default credit rating

(8) The credit rating of a borrower under this subsection is the credit rating that the borrower has for long-term senior unsecured debt or, if the borrower does not have such a credit rating, the credit rating for long-term senior unsecured debt that the borrower would have under section GC 13 in the absence of this section and section GC 15.

GC 18 Loan features disregarded by rules for transfer pricing arrangements

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when sections GC 7 to GC 14 are applied to a borrower and a transfer pricing arrangement including a financial arrangement (the loan) that is a cross-border related borrowing, as referred to in section GC 15(1).

General rule

(2) A feature of the loan is disregarded, or adjusted as required by this section, for the purposes of applying sections GC 7 to GC 14 if—

(a) the borrower has debt under cross-border related borrowings, including the loan, of $10 million or more on the most recent calculation date given for the loan by section GC 16(4); and

(b) the feature may increase the rate of interest payable by the borrower under the loan and—

(i) is referred to in subsection (3); and

(ii) is not included in an exception under subsections (9) and (10).

Loan features disregarded or adjusted if no exception

(3) A feature of a financial arrangement that is a cross-border related borrowing may be disregarded or adjusted under this section if the feature—

(a) allows the reduction of a liability for interest or principal by a provision of value other than payment of an amount of money:

(b) allows a liability to pay interest to be deferred for a period of more than 12 months:

(c) provides for a change in the rate of interest payable that is contingent on an event within the control of the borrower or the lender:

(d) excludes the exercise of a lender's usual rights to enforce the payment of interest or repayment of principal:

(e) provides that a liability to pay interest or repay principal is contingent on an event within the control of the borrower or the lender:

(f) provides that the term of the loan from when the financial arrangement is entered is more than 5 years:

(g) provides that the borrower's obligations under the loan are subordinate to other financial arrangements of the borrower.

Term of loan

(4) A term of more than 5 years for a cross-border related borrowing (the borrowing) may be adjusted under subsection (8) if—

(a) the borrower is referred to as an insuring or lending person in section GC 15(2)(a), (b), or (c), or is associated with such a person, and the exception in subsection (10) does not apply:

(b) the borrower is not referred to as an insuring or lending person in section GC 15(2)(a), (b), or (c), and is not associated with such a person and, for the borrowing, either or both—

(i) the term of the borrowing is more than the period that is the weighted average of the terms of the financial arrangements included in the total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group under subpart FE (Interest apportionment on thin capitalisation):

(ii) the amount of the borrower's cross-border related borrowing, including the borrowing, is more than the amount that is 4 times the total value of the financial arrangements included in the total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group under subpart FE.

Quantities affecting adjustment to term

(5) Whether an adjustment is required under subsection (8), and the amount of a required adjustment, is found for the date (the calculation date) on which the loan is entered or renewed or extended using—

(a) the figure (the threshold term) calculated using the formula in subsection (6) for financial arrangements having a term of more than 5 years—

(i) included in the total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group under subpart FE; or

(ii) between members of the borrower's New Zealand group under subpart FE and persons other than associated persons excluding cross-border related borrowing:

(b) the value of the financial arrangements used in calculating the threshold term, expressed as a fraction (the threshold fraction) of—

(i) the total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group, if the threshold term is calculated under paragraph (a)(i); or

(ii) the total value of loans to members of the borrower's New Zealand group by persons other than associated persons excluding cross-border related borrowing, if the threshold term is calculated under paragraph (a)(ii).

Threshold term

(6) The threshold term for the purposes of subsection (5)(a) is the total of amounts, each of which is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{term} \times \text{term debt} \div \text{long-term debt}.$$

Definition of items in formula

(7) In the formula,—

(a) term is the period of the loan term, calculated from the most recent date on which each loan is entered or renewed or extended:

(b) term debt is the total value on the calculation date of the principal amounts of loans with the loan term:

(c) long-term debt is—

(i) the total group debt having a term of more than 5 years of the borrower's worldwide group, if the threshold term is calculated for financial arrangements described in subsection (5)(a)(i); or

(ii) the total value of loans having a term of more than 5 years to members of the borrower's New Zealand group by persons other than associated persons excluding cross-border related borrowing, if the threshold term is calculated for financial arrangements described in subsection (5)(a)(ii).

Term of loan: adjustment

(8) The term of a loan is adjusted to equal—

(a) the threshold term under subsection (5)(a), if—

(i) the term of the loan exceeds the threshold term; and

(ii) the total value of loans that are cross-border related borrowing or are to members of the borrower's New Zealand group by associated persons, and having a term of more than 5 years, expressed as a proportion of the total value of loans that are cross-border related borrowing or are to members of the borrower's New Zealand group by associated persons, does not exceed the threshold fraction under subsection (5)(b); or

(b) 5 years, if when the loan is included, the total value of loans that are cross-border related borrowing or are to members of the borrower's New Zealand group by associated persons, and having a term of more than 5 years,—

(i) expressed as a proportion of the total value of loans that are cross-border related borrowing or are to members of the borrower's New Zealand group by associated persons, exceeds the threshold fraction under subsection (5)(b):

(ii) is more than 4 times the total value of financial arrangements with the feature that are included in total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group, when the threshold fraction is determined under subsection (5)(b)(i):

(iii) is more than 4 times the total value of financial arrangements with the feature that are included in the debt that is financial arrangements between members of the borrower's New Zealand group and persons other than associated persons excluding cross-border related borrowing, when the threshold fraction is determined under subsection (5)(b)(ii).

Exceptions for features reflecting other borrowing

(9) For a borrower that is not referred to as an insuring or lending person in section GC 15(2)(a), (b), or (c) and a feature of a financial arrangement other than the term of a loan, the feature is not disregarded or adjusted if—

(a) the feature corresponds to a feature of financial arrangements with a total value that is a fraction (the feature fraction) of the total value of financial arrangements—

(i) included in the total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group under subpart FE; or

(ii) between members of the borrower's New Zealand group under subpart FE and persons other than associated persons excluding cross-border related borrowing; and

(b) the feature is included in financial arrangements, between members of the borrower's New Zealand group under subpart FE and associated persons or that are cross-border related borrowing, having a total value when the loan is included that,—

(i) as a fraction of the total value of financial arrangements between the members of the borrower's New Zealand group and associated persons, is less than or equal to the feature fraction; and

(ii) if the feature fraction is determined under paragraph (a)(i), is less than or equal to 4 times the total value of financial arrangements with the feature that are included in total group debt of the borrower's worldwide group; and

(iii) if the feature fraction is determined under paragraph (a)(ii), is less than or equal to 4 times the total value of financial arrangements with the feature that are included in the debt that is financial arrangements between members of the borrower's New Zealand group and persons other than associated persons excluding cross-border related borrowing.

Exceptions for borrowing required for some insuring or lending persons

(10) For a borrower that is referred to as an insuring or lending person in section GC 15(2)(a), (b), or (c) or is associated with such a person, a feature of a financial arrangement is not disregarded or adjusted if,—

(a) for a borrower referred to in section GC 15(2)(a), the feature reflects a requirement, applicable when the financial arrangement is entered, for an arrangement to be recognised by the Reserve Bank of New Zealand as regulatory capital for a member of the New Zealand banking group of a registered bank:

(b) for a borrower who is associated with a person (the banking associate) referred to in section GC 15(2)(a),—

(i) the financial arrangement (the funding arrangement) is entered for the purpose of providing funds for a financial arrangement or excepted financial arrangement (the funded arrangement), to be entered by the banking associate to satisfy regulatory capital requirements; and

(ii) the features of the funding arrangement reflect the features of the funded arrangement; and

(iii) the feature reflects a feature of the funded arrangement that meets the requirements of paragraph (a):

(c) for a borrower referred to in section GC 15(2)(b), the feature reflects solvency capital requirements that relate to features of loans and are imposed, when the financial arrangement is entered, on a licensed insurer as a condition of licence under the Insurance (Prudential Supervision) Act 2010:

(d) for a borrower who is associated with a person (the insuring associate) referred to in section GC 15(2)(b),—

(i) the financial arrangement (the funding arrangement) is entered for the purpose of providing funds for a financial arrangement (the funded arrangement), to be entered by the insuring associate to satisfy solvency capital requirements; and

(ii) timber or a right to take timber:

(iii) depreciable property, other than buildings:

(iv) buildings that are depreciable property:

(i) the day person A files a return of income in relation to their tax position for the purchased property:

Exception: trading stock disposed of at below market value to associate

(2B) Subsection (2) does not apply to a class of purchased property described in subsection (1)(a)(i) or (ii) if—

(a) person A and person B are associated persons at the time of the disposal; and

(b) the allocated amount for the class of purchased property is less than the total market value of the items of purchased property in the class of purchased property at the time of the disposal.

Exception: low value depreciable property

(3) Subsection (2)(b) does not apply to an item of purchased property that is an item of depreciable property, if—

(a) the original cost of the item for person A is less than $10,000; and

(b) the total allocated amount for the item and for any identical property is less than $1 million; and

(c) the allocated amount for the item is—

GC 21 Purchase price allocation required: no agreement

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) for consideration, a person (person A) disposes (the disposal), to another person (person B), items of property (the purchased property) that, for person A or for person B, fall into 2 or more of the following classes (the classes of purchased property) and the relevant person uses different income tax treatments for 2 or more of the classes of purchased property:

(i) trading stock, other than timber or a right to take timber:

(ii) timber or a right to take timber:

(iii) depreciable property, other than buildings:

(iv) buildings that are depreciable property:

(v) financial arrangements:

(vi) purchased property for which the disposal does not give rise to assessable income for person A or deductions for person B; and

(b) person A and person B have not agreed, and have not recorded in a document, amounts of the total consideration allocated to any of the classes of purchased property before the earlier of—

(i) the day person A files a return of income in relation to their tax position for the purchased property:

(ii) the day person B files a return of income in relation to their tax position for the purchased property.

When this section does not apply

(2) This section does not apply if—

(a) the total consideration for the purchased property in the disposal is less than $1 million; or

(b) the only purchased property in the disposal is residential land together with its chattels, and the total consideration for them is less than $7.5 million.

Allocated amount: person A

(3) If subsection (1)(a) applies for person A, person A may notify both the Commissioner and person B of the amounts (the allocated amounts) allocated by person A to the classes of purchased property within 3 months of the change in ownership of the purchased property. An allocated amount must reflect the greater of—

(a) the relative market value of the relevant class of purchased property proportional to the other classes of purchased property; and

(b) person A's tax book value for the relevant class of property described in subsection (1)(a)(i) to (v).

Allocated amount: person A: excess allocation

(4) If the total amounts that would be allocated by subsection (3) exceed the consideration payable for all of the classes of purchased property, then the excess is applied—

(a) first, to reduce any amount allocated to the class of property described in subsection (1)(a)(vi):

(b) second, to reduce, pro rata, any amounts allocated to the classes of property described in subsection (1)(a)(i) to (v).

Allocated amount: person B

(5) If person A does not notify person B as provided for in subsection (3), person B may notify the Commissioner and person A of the amounts (the allocated amounts) allocated by person B to the classes of purchased property within 6 months of the change in ownership of the purchased property. An allocated amount must reflect the relative market value of the relevant class of purchased property proportional to the other classes of purchased property.

Non-compliance

(6) If person A and person B do not notify the relevant people in accordance with subsection (3) or (5), the Commissioner may allocate, to the relevant classes of purchased property (the allocated amounts),—

(a) the amounts allocated by person A to the classes of purchased property:

(b) the amounts allocated by person B to the classes of purchased property:

(c) amounts that reflect the relative market value of the relevant class of purchased property, proportional to the other classes of purchased property.

Allocated amounts enforced, at market

(7) A class of purchased property is treated as disposed of and acquired for the relevant allocated amount provided by subsections (3) to (6).

No deduction until allocation

(8) Person B's deductions in relation to consideration for purchased property are not allocated to an income year, and are not included in person B's annual total deductions for any tax year, except to the extent provided by this section.

Allocation when allocation notice timely

(9) Person B's deductions in relation to consideration for purchased property are allocated to income years in accordance with section BD 4 (Allocation of deductions to particular income years), if allocation notification occurs in the income year that the purchased property is disposed of (the purchase year) or if the deductions are not pre-allocation deductions.

Allocation when allocation notice not timely

(10) If subsections (1)(a) and (5) apply to person B and if allocation notification occurs in an income year after the purchase year, then pre-allocation deductions are allocated to the earliest year (the allocation year) for which person B's return of income is not filed or due at the time of allocation notification. The allocation year may correspond to the purchase year, but the allocation year must not be earlier than the purchase year. Example: the purchase year for purchased property is 2025–26. 2027–28 is the income year that allocation notification occurs. At the time of allocation notification, person B's return of income for 2026–27 is not filed or due. Consequently, pre-allocation deductions are allocated to the 2026–27 income year.

Exception: low value depreciable property

(11) Subsection (6)(c) does not apply to an item of purchased property that is an item of depreciable property, if—

(a) the original cost of the item for person A is less than $10,000; and

(b) the total allocated amount for the item and for any identical property is less than $1 million; and

(c) the allocated amount for the item is—

(i) no greater than its original cost for person A; and

(ii) no less than its tax book value.

Exception: trading stock disposed of at below market value to associate

(11B) Subsection (7) does not apply to a class of purchased property described in subsection (1)(a)(i) or (ii) if—

(a) person A and person B are associated persons at the time of the disposal; and

(b) the relevant allocated amount provided by subsections (3) to (6) for the class of purchased property is less than the total market value of the items of purchased property in the class of purchased property at the time of the disposal.

Relationship with subject matter

(12) This section overrides a provision of this Act that expressly requires the use of the market value for purchased property, to the extent to which subsection (7) treats the relevant class of purchased property as disposed of and acquired for an amount that is provided by this section.

Definitions

(13) In this section and section GC 20,—

(a) allocation notification means the earliest of the following:

(i) the time when person B's notification of person B's allocation is provided to the Commissioner in the form prescribed by the Commissioner:

(ii) the time when the Commissioner's notification of the Commissioner's allocation under subsection (6) is provided to person B:

(b) pre-allocation deduction means person B's deductions in relation to consideration for purchased property that, ignoring this section, would be allocated to an income year before the income year that allocation notification occurs:

(c) tax book value, for a class of property, means the total amount that person A uses or would use, for purchased property in the class of property, in calculating person A's tax position for their income year in which the change in ownership of the purchased property occurs. The tax book value is adjusted, part-year, for a change in ownership that occurs part-year. Example: the tax book value of a financial arrangement is the consideration that would give an amount of income or expenditure under section EW 31 (Base price adjustment formula) equal to the income or expenditure that person A would have for the purchased property in the year of disposal for the period before the change in ownership of the purchased property (the part-year period) using the relevant spreading method for the purchased property for the part-year period, pro rata.

Definition of items in formula

(2) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (3) to (6).

Dividends

(3) Dividends is the sum of the amounts that would be dividends if the company—

(a) disposed of all its property, other than cash, to an unrelated person at market value for cash; and

(b) met all its liabilities at market value, excluding income tax payable through disposing of the property or meeting the liabilities; and

(c) was liquidated, with the amount of cash remaining being distributed to its shareholders without imputation credits attached.

Balances

(4) Balances is the sum of the following amounts:

(a) the balance in the company's imputation credit account:

Income tax and refund

(8) For the purposes of subsection (4)(c),—

(a) income tax payable is income tax that would, when paid, give rise to a credit in the company's imputation credit account under sections OB 4 to OB 29 (which relate to imputation credits):

(b) a refund of income tax due is the amount that would, when paid, give rise to a debit to the company's imputation credit account under section OB 30 to OB 59 (which relate to imputation debits):

(c) if the company pays income tax with a purpose or intention of reducing the amount of election tax, the amount of credit in the imputation credit account is reduced by the amount of the credit arising from the company's action, unless that purpose is merely incidental.

Effective interests in qualifying companies

HA 43 Meaning of effective interest

What this section does

(1) This section defines an effective interest in a company, which is the measure of a person's liability under section HA 8.

Effective interest

(2) Effective interest for a person and a company, at a particular time or for an income year, means—

(a) the person's voting interest in the company at the time or for the income year, unless paragraph (b) applies:

(b) if there is a market value circumstance for the company at the time or at some time during the income year, the average of—

(i) the person's voting interest in the company at the time or for the income year; and

(ii) the person's market value interest in the company at the time or for the income year.

Defined in this Act: company, effective interest, income year, market value circumstance, market value interest, voting interest

Compare: 2004 No 35 s OB 1 "effective interest"

Subpart YC

(1) A person's voting interest and market value interest in a company is measured under subpart YC (Measurement of company ownership). If the person is a company, the voting interest and market value interest are measured at a particular time or for an income year under those sections as if—

(a) the person were not a company; and

(b) sections YC 4 and YC 6 (which relate to corporate shareholders and certain excluded securities) did not apply.

If interests vary during income year

(2) If a person's voting interest or market value interest varies during an income year, the measure of their effective interest is the weighted average of their voting interest or market value interest, as applicable, for the income year.

If election made during income year

(3) If a shareholder makes an election under section HA 5 after the start of the income year, their voting interest and market value interest is measured from the earliest day in the income year when they became a shareholder in the company, even if the day is earlier than the date of the election.

Shareholders' interests after revocation

(4) A person who revokes an election under section HA 32 or HA 33 is treated as having no voting interest and no market value interest for the period of the income year after the revocation takes effect unless they make a later election for the same income year. In this subsection, the person is a trustee when an election is made under section HA 28 by a person other than the trustee.

When majority shareholders' liabilities excluded

(5) If a majority shareholder has made an election and agreed under sections HA 8 and HA 29 to take personal liability to the extent of a minority shareholder's effective interest in the company, any effective interest for which the minority shareholder has agreed to be personally liable under section HA 8 is excluded in measuring the majority shareholder's effective interest.

Minority shareholder's liability after revocation

(6) If a majority shareholder's election is revoked under section HA 32(1) or HA 33(1)(d), the effective interest of the minority shareholder for which the majority shareholder is liable is treated as zero for the part of the income year that follows the day on which the revocation takes effect.

Defined in this Act: company, effective interest, income year, market value interest, shareholder, trustee, voting interest

HB 1 Look-through companies are transparent

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of this Act, other than the PAYE rules, the FBT rules, the NRWT rules, the RWT rules, the ESCT rules, and the RSCT rules, for a person in their capacity of owner of an effective look-through interest for a look-through company (the LTC), for an income year, if—

(a) for the LTC, an LTC election described in section HB 13(1) and (2) has been received by the Commissioner under section HB 13(3) and (4) for the income year; and

(b) the LTC meets the requirements in the definition of look-through company at all times in the income year; and

(c) the election has not been revoked for the income year by an owner of a look-through interest for the LTC by notice received by the Commissioner before the start of the income year.

When this section applies: Commissioner's discretion as to revocation

(2) A revocation notice that is received by the Commissioner after the start of the income year is treated as received before the start of the income year if the Commissioner decides that exceptional circumstances are the sole cause of the lateness.

When this section applies: revocation ignored

(3) An owner's revocation notice for the income year is ignored for the purposes of this section and section HB 13(4)(a) if the owner stops having a look-through interest in the LTC and the new owner reverses the revocation notice before the start of the income year by notice to the Commissioner.

Look-through for effective look-through interest

(4) For a person, unless the context requires otherwise,—

(a) the person is treated as carrying on an activity carried on by the LTC, and having a status, intention, and purpose of the LTC, and the LTC is treated as not carrying on the activity or having the status, intention, or purpose:

(b) the person is treated as holding property that the LTC holds, in proportion to the person's effective look-through interest, and the LTC is treated as not holding the property:

(c) the person is treated as being party to an arrangement to which the LTC is a party, in proportion to the person's effective look-through interest, and the LTC is treated as not being a party to the arrangement:

(d) the person is treated as doing a thing and being entitled to a thing that the LTC does or is entitled to, in proportion to the person's effective look-through interest, and the LTC is treated as not doing the thing or being entitled to the thing.

Effective look-through interest

(5) For the purposes of this section, effective look-through interest means for a person and an LTC, treating the LTC as a company for the purposes of this subsection,—

(a) a person's average daily look-through interest for the company for the income year, if there is no market value circumstance for the LTC and paragraph (b) does not apply:

(b) a person's look-through interest for the relevant time of look-through under subsection (4), if there is no market value circumstance for the LTC, and—

(i) the assessable income of the LTC, ignoring this subpart, is or will be $3,000,000 or more in a 12-month period including the relevant time of look-through, and the Commissioner has notified the LTC that look-through interests for the relevant time of look-through under subsection (4) must be used under this section:

(ii) all persons with look-through interests have agreed to use their look-through interests for the relevant time of look-through:

(c) if there is a market value circumstance for the LTC and paragraph (d) does not apply, the average of the following 2 amounts:

(i) a person's average daily look-through interest for the income year:

(ii) a person's average daily market value interest for the income year:

(d) if there is a market value circumstance for the LTC, and the assessable income and notification requirements described in paragraph (b)(i) are met, the average of the following 2 amounts:

(i) a person's look-through interest for the time of look-through under subsection (4):

(ii) a person's market value interest for the time of look-through under subsection (4).

Elections and methods

(6) Inland Revenue Act elections and methods relating to an LTC are chosen by the company ignoring subsection (4), and then subsection (4) applies so that the elections and methods are those of an owner of an effective look-through interest for the look-through company.

(6) Section HB 4 overrides this section.

Defined in this Act: acquire, amount, deduction, depreciable intangible property, depreciable property, dispose, entering owner, excluded income, income tax liability, income year, look-through company, owner's interests, pay

(b) the look-through company does not have a business of holding financial arrangements.

Exiting owner: excluded payment

(2) The amount of consideration paid or payable to the exiting owner for the relevant financial arrangement or excepted financial arrangement is excluded income of the exiting owner. Exiting owner: excluded payment

(2) The amount of consideration paid or payable to the exiting owner for the short-term agreement for sale and purchase is excluded income of the exiting owner.

HB 10 Disposal of livestock

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person disposes of some or all of their owner's interests to an entering owner and section HB 4(2) applies, to the extent to which those interests include specified livestock and that specified livestock includes female breeding livestock and, for the income year, the owners use—

(a) the national standard cost scheme for specified livestock, described in section EC 22 (National standard cost scheme); or

(b) the cost price method for specified livestock, described in section EC 25 (Cost price, replacement price, or market value).

Entering owner's cost base

(2) Section EC 26B (Entering partners' cost base) may apply to the entering owner for the purposes of determining the value of the specified livestock at the end of an income year for the purposes of section EC 2 (Valuation of livestock), treating the entering owner as an entering partner and making other necessary modifications to section EC 26B to give effect to the purpose of this section (for example, references in section EC 26B to "partners" should be modified to references to "owners" and references to "section HG 10" should be modified to references to "section HB 10").

HB 11 Limitation on deductions by persons with interests in look-through companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a look-through company (the LTC) and an income year when,—

(a) but for this section, a deduction by virtue of section HB 1 or HB 12(2) or (3) would be allowed to a person who has an effective look-through interest for the LTC; and

(b) the LTC is a partner in a partnership that includes another look-through company, or the LTC is a member of a joint venture described in section HG 1 (Joint venturers) that includes another LTC.

No deduction

(2) The person is denied the deduction for an income year to the extent to which their look-through company deduction for the income year is greater than the amount (the owner's basis) calculated using the formula in subsection (3) at the end of the income year.

Owner's basis

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), the amount that is the owner's basis is calculated using the following formula:

investments − distributions + income − deductions − disallowed amount.

Definition of items in formula

(4) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (5) to (9).

Investments

(5) Investments is the total of—

(a) the market value of a person's shares in the LTC at the time that the person acquires or subscribes for them:

(b) amounts that the LTC is debtor for in relation to the person, including a loan to the LTC and a credit balance in a current account:

(c) the secured amounts, if not accounted for under paragraph (b) by the person or another person.

Distributions

(6) Distributions is the market value of distributions to the person from the LTC, including loans made to the person from the LTC and payments to which section DC 3B (Payments to working owners) does not apply.

Income

(7) Income is the total of—

(a) income that the person has by virtue of section HB 1 in the income year and previous income years:

(ab) if the person has FIF income or a FIF loss, an amount under subsection (7B):

(b) capital gain amounts under section CD 44(7)(a) (Available capital distribution amount) that the person would have by virtue of section HB 1 in the income year and previous income years, if the person were treated as a company for the purposes of section CD 44(7)(a), unless the gain is accounted for under paragraph (a):

(c) assessable income that the person has in previous income years from goods and services they contributed to the LTC, if the income is not accounted for under subsection (5) or paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection.

Formula

(7B) The amount described in subsection (7)(ab) is given by the following formula, but if the calculation returns a negative number, the amount is zero:

dividend − FIF amount.

Definition of items in formula

(7C) In the formula,—

(a) dividend is the amount that would, under section HB 1, be the person's proportion of the dividend paid by a FIF to the LTC, if section CD 36(1) were ignored:

(b) FIF amount is—

(i) zero, if subparagraph (ii) does not apply:

(ii) the amount that is the person's FIF income, for the relevant income year and FIF, if the person has such an amount.

Deductions

(8) Deductions is the total of—

(a) expenditure or loss in previous income years, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is incurred by virtue of section HB 1 in the person deriving income by virtue of section HB 1, excluding any deductions denied in those previous years under this section:

(b) capital loss amounts under section CD 44(9) that the person would have by virtue of section HB 1 in the income year and previous income years, if the person is treated as a company for the purposes of section CD 44(9), unless the loss is accounted for under paragraph (a):

(c) deductions that the person is allowed in previous income years in relation to assessable income described in subsection (7)(c), if the deduction is not accounted for under subsection (6) or paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection.

Disallowed amount

(9) Disallowed amount is the amount of investments, as defined in subsection (5), made by the person within 60 days of the end of the income year, if those investments are or will be distributed or reduced within 60 days of the end of the income year, but an amount of investment made by the person within 60 days of the end of the income year is not a disallowed amount if the total amount distributed or reduced within 60 days of the end of the income year is $10,000 or less.

Exclusion

(10) This section does not deny a person (the exiting person) a deduction that is equal to or less than the amount of net income that the exiting person has for the amount paid or payable to the exiting person for the disposal of their owner's interests, ignoring other transactions.

Relationship with subject matter

(11) This section is modified by section HZ 4C (Qualifying companies: transition into look-through companies).

Some definitions

(b) the market value of the recourse property for the secured debt to the extent of the interest that the person and their owner's associates have in it, net of higher-ranking calls whether actual, future or contingent, divided by the total number of guarantors described in paragraph (a) of the definition of guarantor who have an interest in the recourse property or have an owner's associate with an interest in the recourse property.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, associated person, company, deduction, dispose, dividend, effective look-through interest, FIF, FIF income, FIF loss, guarantor, income, income year, loan, look-through company, look-through company deduction, loss, net income, net loss, owner's associate, owner's interests, partner, partnership, pay, recourse property, secured amounts, share

HB 12 Limitation on deductions by owners of look-through companies: carry-forward

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, for an income year, a person is denied a deduction under section HB 11.

Carry-forward: conditional on continued existence of look-through company and holding of effective look-through interest

(2) The person is allowed a deduction, for an amount for which the person is denied a deduction under section HB 11, for the income year (the later year) after the income year for which it is denied under section HB 11, unless—

(a) the look-through company ceases to be a look-through company in the later year:

(b) the person ceases to have an effective look-through interest in the later year.

Carry-forward: resumption

(3) If a person would have been allowed a deduction for an amount but for the application of subsection (2)(a) or (b) for the later year, they are allowed a deduction for the amount for the first income year after the later year in which either they resume an effective look-through interest for the look-through company, or the relevant company resumes being a look-through company. However, the amount of that deduction is reduced by the total amount allowed as a deduction under subsections (4) and (5).

Exception for deductions against continuing company dividends

(4) Despite subsection (2), the person is allowed a deduction for the later year for an amount (the protected amount) for which they would have been allowed a deduction but for the application of subsection (2)(a) or (b) for the later year to the extent to which the protected amount is equal to or lesser than the dividends received by the person from the company for the later year.

Further deductions against continuing company dividends

(5) For an income year after the later year, an amount equal to the protected amount reduced by the total of deductions allowed in income years before the income year under subsection (4) and this subsection, is allowed as a deduction for the person to the extent to which the amount is equal to or less than the dividends received by the person from the company for the income year.

Relationship with subject matter

(6) A deduction allowed under this section, other than under subsection (4) or (5), is subject to section HB 11, to the extent to which that section applies to the deduction and the relevant person.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, dividend, effective look-through interest, income year, look-through company

Section HB 12: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011, and for the purposes of the Commissioner receiving LTC elections, on and after 21 December 2010), by section 78(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 130).

HB 13 LTC elections

LTC elections

(1) For the purposes of section HB 1, an LTC election (the election) is a notice that—

(a) is signed and dated by a director of the company that becomes a look-through company (the LTC) or other agent with appropriate authority; and

(b) is in the form prescribed by the Commissioner; and

(c) specifies an income year beginning on or after 1 April 2011 for which it may first operate; and

(d) has attached to it notices—

(i) signed and dated by all persons who, on the date of signing the election, own look-through interests in the LTC; and

(ii) evidence unanimous agreement of the owners in choosing to apply section HB 1.

Legal incapacities

(2) If a person owns a look-through interest in the LTC, and either they are under 18 years old with a guardian or a contract they enter into could be unenforceable, cancelled, void, or voidable due to any legal incapacity other than age, the notice requirement in subsection (1)(d) is modified so as to require a guardian, person with power of attorney, or other legal representative to sign and date the notice, instead of the person.

Time of receipt of LTC elections

(3) For the purposes of section HB 1, the election—

(a) must be received by the Commissioner before the start of the income year specified in the election; or

(b) in the case of a company that has not previously been required to file a return of income for a year before the income year specified in the election, must be received by the Commissioner on or before the last day for filing the return of income required by section 42B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 for the year specified in the election; or

(c) in the case of a company that was a qualifying company that first becomes a look-through company for the first or second income year that starts on or after 1 April 2011, must be received by the Commissioner within 6 months of the start of the relevant transitional income year described in section HZ 4C(1) (Qualifying companies: transition into look-through companies).

Income year for which LTC elections are treated as received

(4) For the purposes of section HB 1, the election is treated as received for the first relevant income year described in subsection (3) and for each income year after that one, except it is treated as not received by the Commissioner for an income year (the income year) and subsequent income years if—

(a) the election has been revoked for the income year under section HB 1:

(b) the LTC does not meet the requirements in the definition of look-through company at all times in the income year:

(c) the income year is 1 of the 2 income years straight after an income year for which either the LTC ceases to be a look-through company or the relevant election for the LTC is revoked.

Commissioner's discretion as to LTC elections

(5) An election that is late or does not have each person signing and dating as required by subsection (1)(a) and (d) is treated as an election that has been received by the Commissioner for the income year under subsection (3) but subject to subsection (4), if all relevant persons sign and date it during the income year it may first operate, and the Commissioner decides that exceptional circumstances are the sole cause of the lateness or failure to sign and date.

Valuation transfer

(6) An entity that ceases to be a company upon becoming an LTC is treated as having, as an LTC, the same status, intention, purpose, and tax book timings and values it had as a company for its assets, liabilities, and associated legal rights and obligations.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, company, director, income year, look-through company, look-through interest, notice, qualifying company, return of income

HC 15 Taxable distributions from non-complying and foreign trusts

When subsection (2) applies

(1) Subsection (2) applies for a trust that is a non-complying trust at the time a distribution to a beneficiary is made.

Taxable distributions: non-complying trusts

(2) The distribution is a taxable distribution to the extent to which it is not a distribution of—

(a) beneficiary income; or

(b) a part of the corpus of the trust; or

(c) a payment or a transaction that represents a distribution of the corpus of the trust.

When subsection (4) applies

(3) Subsection (4) applies for a trust that is a foreign trust at the time a distribution to a beneficiary is made.

Taxable distributions: foreign trusts

(4) The distribution is a taxable distribution to the extent to which it is not a distribution of—

(a) beneficiary income; or

(b) a part of the corpus of the trust; or

(c) a profit from the realisation of a capital asset or another capital gain; or

(cb) a foreign superannuation withdrawal; or

(cc) a pension; or

(d) a payment or a transaction that represents a distribution of either the corpus of the trust referred to in paragraph (b) or a capital gain referred to in paragraph (c).

Determining amount of gain

(5) For the purposes of subsection (4)(c),—

(a) the profit or other capital gain does not include a gain that must be taken into account for the purposes of determining an income tax liability:

(ab) if the trustee is not a trustee of a trust referred to in paragraph (ac), the profit or other capital gain does not include an amount of capital gain (the gain amount) that is derived by the trustee through a transaction or a series of transactions if—

(i) the transaction or series of transactions is between the trustee and an associated person who is not a natural person or corporate trustee; and

(ii) the gain amount is greater than the capital gain that the trustee would derive from a transaction at market value:

(ac) if the trustee is a trustee of a trust, for which a CFC is a settlor and no person is treated as a settlor under section HC 28(3) or (4), the profit or other capital gain does not include an amount of capital gain that is derived by the trustee through a transaction or a series of transactions between the trustee and an associated person:

(b) the amount of the profit is determined after subtracting any capital loss that the trustee incurs in the income year in which the amount was derived.

Certain capital gains for trustee of foreign trust

(5B) For a foreign trust, profit described in subsection (5)(ab) or (ac) is income of the trustee for the purposes of section HC 16.

Source of income from capital gain

(5C) The source of a capital gain that is included in a taxable distribution is determined for the trustee under section YD 4 (Classes of income treated as having New Zealand source) as if the capital gain were an amount of income.

Source of capital loss

(5D) The source of a capital loss for the trustee is given by subsection (5C), applied as if the capital loss were a capital gain included in a taxable distribution.

Amounts not subject to ordering rule

(6) To the extent to which a distribution is made from a trust that is not a complying trust by disposing of property at less than market value or providing financial assistance or services to a beneficiary at less than market value, the distribution is a taxable distribution and is not subject to the ordering rule in section HC 16.

Inadequate records

(7) If the records of a trust that is not a complying trust do not allow an accurate determination of the elements of a distribution under section HC 16, the distribution is a taxable distribution.

Defined in this Act: amount, associated person, beneficiary income, complying trust, corpus, distribution, financial assistance, foreign superannuation withdrawal, foreign trust, income, income tax liability, income year, non-complying trust, pay, superannuation fund, taxable distribution, trustee

HC 16 Ordering rule for distributions from non-complying and foreign trusts

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of the trust rules when a trustee of a non-complying trust or a foreign trust makes a distribution in an income year to a beneficiary. Subsections (6) and (7) override this subsection.

Order of elements of distribution

(2) The distribution is treated as consisting of the following elements in the following order:

(aa) first, an amount derived by the trustee that is beneficiary income of the beneficiary in the previous income year:

(a) second, an amount of income that the trustee derives in the income year:

(b) third, an amount of income, other than beneficiary income, that the trustee has derived in an earlier income year:

(c) fourth, an amount that the trustee derives in the income year from the realisation of a capital asset of the trust or another capital gain and that is not income under section HC 15(5B) for the purposes of this section:

(d) fifth, an amount that the trustee has derived in an earlier income year from the realisation of a capital asset of the trust or another capital gain:

(e) last, the corpus of the trust.

Order and elements

(3) In subsection (2),—

(a) an amount must not be treated as included in the distribution if the amount has been treated under this section as being included in an earlier or contemporaneous distribution from the trust:

(b) the paragraphs are applied in order, and the next paragraph applies only to the extent to which the amount of the distribution is more than the cumulative amounts described in that paragraph and the preceding paragraphs.

Deductions and capital losses subtracted

(4) For the purposes of subsection (2),—

(a) in paragraphs (a) and (b), the amount of income is determined after subtracting the amount of a deduction that is taken into account in the income year in the calculation of net or taxable income for the corresponding tax year:

(b) in paragraphs (c) and (d), the amount is determined after subtracting the amount of a capital loss that the trustee incurs in the income year.

Transactions that are not genuine

(5) In the determination of the elements of a distribution to a beneficiary (beneficiary A), no amount of income or capital gain derived by the trustee of the trust is treated as distributed to another beneficiary of the trust (beneficiary B) if the effect is that some or all of the distribution to beneficiary A would be treated as not being beneficiary income or a taxable distribution, unless the distribution to beneficiary B meets all the following requirements:

(a) it is a genuine transaction entered into and carried out in good faith; and

(b) [Repealed]

(c) it does not itself constitute a settlement.

Exclusions: terms of trust

(6) This section does not apply to the following distributions which are instead treated as consisting of the amount that reflects the terms of the trust or the terms of the exercise of the trustee's discretion:

(a) a distribution by the trustee of a complying trust which is treated as exempt income under section CW 53 (Distributions from complying trusts), unless an election to pay income tax on trustee income has been made for the purposes of section HZ 2 (Trusts that may become complying trusts); or

(b) a distribution from a non-discretionary trust—

(i) created by will or codicil, or by an order of court varying or modifying the provisions of a will or codicil; or

(ii) created on an intestacy or partial intestacy; or

(iii) on which no settlement has been made after 17 December 1987; or

(c) a distribution from a trust, other than a non-complying trust, that is settled by a natural person and for which an election is made under section HC 30(2).

Exclusions: taxable distributions

(7) This section does not apply to a distribution described in section HC 15(6).

Meaning of non-discretionary trust

(8) In this section, a non-discretionary trust is a trust in relation to which the trustee has no discretion as to the source, nature, and amount of distributions to beneficiaries, including but not limited to the classification of trust property as capital or income.

Defined in this Act: amount, beneficiary income, complying trust, corpus, deduction, distribution, exempt income, foreign trust, income, income tax, income year, net income, New Zealand resident, non-complying trust, non-discretionary trust, settlement, tax year, taxable distribution, taxable income, trust rules, trustee, trustee income

(1) This section applies when a non-resident trustee derives, as trustee income, in an income year a foreign-sourced amount that would be assessable income if derived by a person resident in New Zealand.

Trustee income

(2) Despite section BD 1(4)(a), (b), and (5)(c) (Income, exempt income, excluded income, non-residents' foreign-sourced income, and assessable income), the amount is assessable income of the trustee if, at any time in the income year,—

(b) the trust is a superannuation fund; or

(c) the trust is a testamentary trust or an inter vivos trust, of which—

First exception

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply if—

(i) at the date of the settlement; and

(ii) at any time between 17 December 1987 and the date of settlement.

Extent to which subsections (3) and (4) apply

(5) Subsections (3) and (4) do not—

(a) affect a settlor's income tax liability under the trust rules:

(b) apply to determine whether the tax obligations in relation to the trustee's income tax liability are met for the purposes of section HC 10(1)(a)(ii) and meeting the requirements for a complying trust.

Treatment of non-resident trustee in other provisions

(6) For the purpose only of calculating the taxable income of a trustee referred to in subsection (2), and not otherwise, the trustee is treated as resident in New Zealand for the purposes of—

Treatment of transition situations

HC 30 Treatment of foreign trusts when settlor becomes resident

What this section applies to

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section HC 15 and the definition of taxable distribution when—

(a) a settlor of a trust is a natural person who on a day (the transition date)—

(i) becomes resident in New Zealand and is not a transitional resident:

(ii) stops being a transitional resident and continues to be a New Zealand resident; and

(b) the trust would be a foreign trust in relation to a distribution if a distribution were made immediately before the settlor became resident.

Choosing to satisfy tax liability

(2) A settlor, trustee, or beneficiary of the trust may choose to satisfy the income tax liability of the trustee under section HC 33. They must make the election by the election expiry date.

Tax consequences of making election

(3) If an election under subsection (2) is made, the trust is treated as follows:

(a) as a foreign trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount derived by the trustee before the date of the election and which does not give rise after the transition date to an income tax liability that is paid before the distribution is made:

(b) as a complying trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount that is derived by the trustee—

(i) before the date of the election and gives rise on or after the transition date to an income tax liability that is paid before the distribution is made; or

(ii) on or after the date of the election, if the requirements of section HC 10(1)(a) are met for the trustee income derived on or after the date of the election:

(c) as a non-complying trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount that would not be included in a distribution described in paragraphs (a) and (b).

Tax consequences when no election made

(4) If an election under subsection (2) is not made, the trust is treated as follows:

(a) as a foreign trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount that is derived by the trustee before the election expiry date and does not give rise on or after the transition date to an income tax liability:

(ab) as a complying trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount derived by the trustee that gives rise on or after the transition date to an income tax liability meeting the requirements of subsection (4B) or section HC 10(1)(ab):

(b) as a non-complying trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount derived by the trustee that gives rise on or after the transition date to an income tax liability that is not satisfied before the distribution is made.

Tax shortfall voluntarily disclosed

(4B) An income tax liability meets the requirements of this subsection if—

(a) the income tax liability is satisfied before the distribution is made, other than for the trust as a complying trust under an election under section HC 33; and

(b) the income tax liability gives rise to a tax shortfall for the trustee for an income year ending before the distribution is made; and

(c) where a shortfall penalty arises for the tax shortfall, the shortfall penalty is satisfied before the distribution is made.

Election expiry date

(5) In this section, the election expiry date is the day that is the first anniversary of the transition date.

Calculating income derived before election or election expiry date

(6) For the purposes of subsections (3) and (4), the amount derived in the part of the income year before the person makes the election, or before the election expiry date, as applicable, is at the option of the person either—

(a) the amount actually derived in the part year; or

(b) an amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{amount derived in income year of election} \times \text{days before election date or election expiry date} \div 365.$$

Defined in this Act: amount, complying trust, distribution, election expiry date, foreign trust, income tax liability, income year, non-complying trust, resident in New Zealand, settlor, taxable distribution, transitional resident, trustee

Valuation of property, trading stock, and financial arrangements

HC 31 When existing trusts come into tax base

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if, through a change in circumstances, an amount derived by a trustee of a trust on a day in an income year is assessable income when it would not have been assessable income had it been derived before that day. Examples of a change in circumstances are—

(a) a non-resident settlor becomes resident in New Zealand, see section HC 30.

(b) [Repealed]

When this section does not apply

(1B) This section does not apply if the relevant change in circumstances is a trust that is a tax charity failing to meet the requirements to derive exempt income under section CW 41 or CW 42 (which relate to charities). Instead, see sections HR 11 and HR 12 (which relate to non-exempt charities).

Person able to make choice

(2) The choice given in subsections (3) and (4) is to be made by the person who is liable to satisfy the income tax liability of the trustee.

Establishing cost of trust property

(3) For the purposes of this Act, the cost of premises, plant, equipment, and trading stock of the trust at the date of the change in circumstances is either—

(a) the historical cost of the property or trading stock less accumulated depreciation loss, or other value, no higher than market value, that the trustee used at that date for income tax purposes in a country or territory in which the trustee is liable to pay income tax on trustee income; or

(b) the value that would be used at that date under this Act, calculated as if the trustee income derived by the trustee had always been assessable income.

Consideration for financial arrangements

(4) For the purposes of this Act, the consideration for a financial arrangement of the trust at the date of the change in circumstances is either—

(a) the market value of the financial arrangement on that date; or

(b) the value calculated using the formula—

consideration paid to person + expenditure − consideration paid by person − income.

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) consideration paid to person is the consideration that is paid to the person before the date:

(b) expenditure is the expenditure that would have been incurred under the financial arrangements rules before the date:

(c) consideration paid by person is the consideration that is paid by the person before the date:

(d) income is the income that would have been derived under the financial arrangements rules before the date.

Non-resident passive income

(b) interest paid is the total of—

(i) the amount of interest that accrues on the debt amount during the period:

(ii) the amount that would have accrued as interest on the debt amount during the period if the amount had not been included in a taxable distribution to the debtor:

(a) the trustee is a New Zealand resident; and

(b) the trust has a settlor who is a New Zealand resident.

Liability of person making election

(2) The person making the election—

(a) must satisfy the tax obligations of the trustee relating to the income tax liability of the trustee; and

No liability for penalties from increased assessments in some circumstances

Agents for purposes of notification or objection procedures

(7) In making an assessment under subsection (6), the Commissioner must nominate 1 or more persons as having the tax obligation set out in the assessment. (b) a general partner of the partnership who—

(i) was a limited partner of the limited partnership within 60 days of the last day of the income year; and

(ii) is or will be a limited partner of the limited partnership within 60 days after the last day of the income year.

No deduction

(2) The partner is denied the deduction for an income year to the extent of the lesser of—

(a) the greater of zero and the amount calculated by subtracting, from their limited partnership deduction for the income year, the amount (the partner's basis) calculated using the formula in subsection (3) on the last day of the income year; and

(b) the greater of zero and the amount calculated by subtracting, from their limited partnership deduction for the income year, the amount of assessable income that they have by virtue of section HG 2 for the limited partnership and the income year.

Partner's basis

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), the amount that is the partner's basis is calculated using the following formula:

investments − distributions + income − deductions − disallowed amount.

Definition of items in formula

(4) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (5) to (9).

Investments

(5) Investments is the total of—

(a) the market value of capital contributions made by the partner to the limited partnership at the time the relevant contribution is contributed or agreed to be contributed by them:

(b) the amount paid by the partner as an entering partner for the assignment of an interest in partnership property to them:

(c) [Repealed]

Formula

(7B) An amount described in subsection (7)(ab) is given by the following formula, but if the calculation returns a negative number, the amount is zero:

dividends − FIF amount.

Definition of items in formula

(7C) In the formula,—

(a) dividends is the amount that would be the partner's share of the dividends paid by a FIF to the limited partnership, if sections CD 36 (Foreign investment fund income) and HG 2(2) were ignored:

(b) FIF amount is—

(i) zero, if subparagraph (ii) does not apply:

(ii) the amount that is the person's FIF income, for the relevant income year and FIF, if the person has such an amount.

Deductions

(8) Deductions is the total of—

(a) expenditure or loss in previous income years, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is incurred by virtue of section HG 2 in the partner deriving income by virtue of section HG 2, excluding any deductions denied in those previous years under this section:

(b) capital loss amounts under section CD 44(9) that the partner would have by virtue of section HG 2 in the income year and previous income years, if the partner is treated as a company for the purposes of section CD 44(9), unless the loss is accounted for under paragraph (a).

(c) [Repealed]

Disallowed amounts

HM 35 Determining net amounts and taxable amounts

What this section applies to

(1) This section applies for the purposes of a calculation under section HM 36(2).

Net amounts

(2) The net amount for an investor class of a multi-rate PIE for an attribution period is calculated using the formula—assessable income − deductions.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2),—

(a) assessable income is the total amount of the PIE's assessable income attributed to the class for the attribution period in the manner referred to in subsection (8), including any tax credits received for the income but not including the amount of any supplementary dividends:

(b) deductions is the total amount of the PIE's expenditure or loss for which the PIE is allowed a deduction that is—

(i) incurred by the PIE in deriving the assessable income referred to in paragraph (a); and

(ii) attributed to the class for the attribution period.

Net income or net loss

(4) If the result of the formula is positive, the amount is net income of the class for the period. If the result of the formula is negative, the amount is a net loss of the class for the period.

Taxable amounts

(5) The taxable amount for an investor class of a multi-rate PIE for an attribution period is calculated using the formula—net income − net loss − other loss used.

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5),—

(a) net income is the amount of the PIE's net income referred to in subsection (4):

(b) net loss is the amount of the PIE's net loss referred to in subsection (4):

(c) other loss used is the lesser of the following amounts:

(i) the total amount for the class of formation loss that is attributable for the attribution period under sections HM 66 to HM 70 and any amount of land loss under section HM 65 that has not been used for an earlier period:

(ii) the total amount of net income referred to in paragraph (a).

Taxable income or tax loss

(7) If the result of the formula is positive, the amount is taxable income of the class for the period. If the result of the formula is negative, the amount is a tax loss of the class for the period.

Use of valuations or financial statements

(8) Income and deductions of the multi-rate PIE are allocated to investors and investor classes for attribution periods as—

(a) reflected in the PIE's valuation of investor interests, if the PIE makes these valuations and paragraph (c) does not apply to the income and deductions:

(b) shown in the PIE's financial statements, if the PIE does not makes the valuations referred to in paragraph (a) and paragraph (c) does not apply to the income and deductions:

(c) given by Determination G27: Swaps, Method C, if the income and deductions arise from a financial arrangement that meets the requirements for the method and the multi-rate PIE, before becoming a party to the financial arrangement, chooses to use the method for the income and deductions from such financial arrangements and does not revoke the choice.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, attribution period, deduction, formation loss, income, investor class, investor interest, land loss, multi-rate PIE, net income, net loss, PIE, tax loss, taxable income

(b) the amount—

(i) is reflected in the PIE's valuation of investor interests; or

(ii) if subparagraph (i) does not apply, is shown in its financial statements.

Future amounts

(2) For the purposes of determining a net amount under section HM 35(2) for an attribution period, a multi-rate PIE may take account of an amount of future income or future expenditure or loss that is—

(a) for future income, an amount that, when derived, would be assessable income under section HM 35(3)(a):

(b) for future expenditure or loss,—

(i) an expense likely to be incurred by the PIE in the tax year in which the attribution period falls, or within 93 days after the end of the tax year; and

(ii) an amount that, when incurred, would be a deduction under section HM 35(3)(b).

Reasonable estimation

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), the PIE must make a reasonable estimate of the amount and must be able to demonstrate, if required, the reasonableness of the estimation by—

(a) explaining why and when the income is likely to be derived or the expense is likely to be incurred, as applicable; and

(b) providing the calculation method and actual calculations used to determine the amount, with details showing why the method is appropriate.

Credit impairment provisions

(4) A multi-rate PIE may take account of a credit impairment provision under this section but only if the provision is counted as a credit impairment provision under IFRS 9. However, the time limit set out in subsection (2)(b)(i) does not apply in relation to a credit impairment provision.

Defined in this Act: amount, attribution period, deduction, IFRS 9, income, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, tax year

HM 35C Determining amounts for notified foreign investors

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of sections HM 35 to HM 47 when a foreign investment PIE determines its income tax liability and calculates an amount of attributed PIE income for a notified foreign investor in the PIE.

Single class of investors

(2) For the purposes of the calculations, the PIE must treat its notified foreign investors as a single notional investor class.

Taxable amounts

(3) In section HM 35(5), in relation to an investor class that is made up of notified foreign investors, the taxable amount for an attribution period is equal to the assessable income of the PIE for the period for each particular income source and investment type of income of the class.

Attributed amounts

(4) For the purposes of section HM 36, in the calculation of an amount attributed to a notified foreign investor,—

(a) the item loss in the formula in subsection (2) is treated as zero:

(b) the item expenses in the formula in subsection (2) is treated as zero:

(c) the item credits for fees in the formula in subsection (2) is treated as zero:

(d) if the result given by the formula is negative, the result is treated as zero.

Treatment of certain transitional residents

(5) For the purposes of this section, a transitional resident who has chosen under section HM 55D(9) to use the specified prescribed investor rate is treated as if they were a notified foreign investor.

When subsection (7) applies

(6) Subsection (7) applies for the purposes of section HM 35 for a notified foreign investor (a qualifying investor) in a foreign investment PIE who meets the requirements of section LP 2(1)(a) (Tax credits for supplementary dividends). It overrides subsections (2) and (3), and for the purposes of the calculation of amounts attributed to them, the qualifying investors are treated as a separate class.

Assessable income and supplementary dividends

(7) For the purposes of section HM 35(3)(a), the assessable income of the PIE is the total amount of the PIE's assessable income attributed to the class of qualifying investors for the attribution period, including any supplementary dividends to which the qualifying investors are entitled.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, attributed PIE income, attribution period, foreign investment PIE, income tax liability, investor class, notified foreign investor, prescribed investor rate, transitional resident

When derived or incurred

(5) The investor is treated as deriving the attributed PIE income or incurring the attributed PIE loss in the income year of the investor in which the end of the PIE's income year falls.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed PIE income, attributed PIE loss, attribution period, income, income year, investor, investor class, multi-rate PIE, pay, PIE, provisional tax, tax loss, taxable income

HM 36B Calculating PIE schedular income adjustments for natural person investors

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of calculating the income tax liability under section BC 7 (Income tax liability of person with schedular income) of a natural person who is resident in New Zealand and is an investor in a multi-rate PIE to determine whether an adjustment must be made to the person's income tax liability for a tax year for an amount of PIE schedular income.

When this section does not apply

(1B) Despite subsection (1), this section does not apply to a natural person who derives PIE schedular income in the form of beneficiary income from a trust that is not a PIE.

Making PIE schedular tax adjustments

(2) An adjustment must be made to the person's income tax liability for the tax year for a tax credit or tax liability of the person that arises under section HM 47 when—

(a) the person's prescribed investor rate for the tax year has not been applied to some or all of the person's PIE schedular income for the tax year; and

(b) the Commissioner has information described in subsection (3) that relates to the person and is available for the tax year.

What must be taken into account in making adjustments

(3) The PIE schedular tax adjustment must take into account—

(a) an amount of a tax credit used by the PIE to satisfy the person's income tax liability for the tax year:

(b) another attributed tax credit that the person has for the tax year, including an unused tax credit under section HM 52 or HM 54, or a tax credit under section LS 4 (Tax credits for certain exiting investors):

(c) an amount that has not been taken into account by the PIE in the calculation for the tax year, whether it is an amount of an adjustment for a tax credit for the person for the tax year or another identified adjustment for the person under sections HM 51 to HM 55 and subpart LS (Tax credits for multi-rate PIEs and investors), as applicable:

(d) whether—

(i) the person has an attributed PIE loss in relation to which the person's prescribed investor rate for the tax year has not been applied:

(ii) an adjustment has been made for the tax year under section HM 48 to the person's investor interest, or a distribution paid to them, or a payment required from them:

(iii) the PIE has a tax credit for the tax year under section LS 1 (Tax credits for multi-rate PIEs) in relation to the amount of loss attributed to the investor:

(iv) a rate under section HM 60(6) applies for the investor for the tax year:

(v) the person holds their investment in the PIE jointly with another person:

(e) any other circumstance of which the Commissioner is aware that affects the application of the person's prescribed investor rate to their attributed PIE income for the tax year.

Adjustment items counted only once

(3B) For the purposes of this section, if a component of an item described in subsection (3) is a component of 1 or more other adjustment items, the value of the component is counted only once.

Positive adjustment

(4) If the adjustment is positive, the amount of the adjustment is included in the investor's schedular income tax liability for the tax year under section BC 7(5).

Negative adjustment

(5) If the adjustment is negative,—

(a) the amount of the adjustment is first applied to reduce the terminal tax payable by the person for the tax year:

(b) any amount of adjustment remaining is refundable under sections RB 4, RM 2 to RM 8, and RM 10 (which relate to refunds and their use), as applicable:

(c) the investor's schedular income tax liability for the tax year under section BC 7(5) is zero.

Meaning of PIE schedular income

(6) For the purposes of this section, and sections CX 56, DB 53, and LA 6, PIE schedular income—

(a) means an amount of attributed PIE income that a natural person who is resident in New Zealand and is an investor in a multi-rate PIE derives under section CP 1 (Attributed income of investors in multi-rate PIEs) to which the prescribed rates of tax set out in schedule 6, clause 1 (Prescribed rates: PIE investments and retirement scheme contributions) apply; and

(b) includes an amount of attributed PIE loss of the person under section DB 53 (Attributed PIE losses of certain investors).

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed PIE income, attributed PIE loss, Commissioner, income tax liability, investor, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, natural person, pay, PIE schedular income, prescribed investor rate, schedular income tax liability, tax credit, tax year, terminal tax

HM 42B Part-year tax calculations for PIEs under the exit calculation option for the 2010–11 tax year

When this section applies

(1) This section applies to a PIE for the 2010–11 tax year if section HM 42 applies to the PIE for that year and the PIE chooses to apply this section by filing a return under section 57B(5) or (7) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 in accordance with this section.

Part-year tax calculations: description

(2) For calculating their income tax liability for the 2010–11 tax year, the PIE treats references to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years within that tax year, divided by 1 October 2010 (for example: an amount of income attributed to a date before 1 October 2010 is included in the first part-year and taxed using the notified investor rate advised before 1 October 2010. A notified investor rate advised on or after 1 October 2010 is applied only to the amount of income attributed to the second part-year).

Part-year tax calculations: effect

(3) The part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year and they do create part-year tax return obligations, except that the requirement for returns under section 57B(7)(a) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 and for notice in relation to investors or proxies under section 31C(4) of that Act can be met by sending returns or notices on a full-year or part-year basis. The 2 part-year calculations create 2 income tax liabilities for 2 part-years.

Foreign tax credits: special rule

(4) Despite subsections (2) and (3), tax credits under subpart LJ (Tax credits for foreign income tax) may be used in accordance with section HM 51 in either part-year, if they are attributable to the first part-year.

Defined in this Act: deduction, income, income tax liability, income year, notice, notified investor rate, PIE, tax credit, tax year

HM 43 Quarterly calculation option

Quarterly calculation

(1) A multi-rate PIE that does not choose to calculate and pay its income tax liability under the exit calculation or provisional tax calculation options, must calculate its tax liability for each quarter of the tax year using the formula set out in section HM 47. The PIE must notify the Commissioner under section 31B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 of the calculation option and of the applicable attribution period.

Quarterly payment

(2) The PIE must pay to the Commissioner the amount of its income tax liability for the quarter within 1 month of the end of the quarter.

Exiting investors: zero-rated

(3) If the investor interest of an investor in the PIE has reached the exit level, they are treated under section HM 61 as zero-rated for the exit period which includes a grace period of 5 working days after the end of the quarter. This subsection does not apply if the PIE voluntarily chooses to pay an amount under section HM 45.

Exiting investors: remaining value to Commissioner

(4) If the investor interest of an investor at the end of an exit period is more than zero, the PIE must pay an amount equal to the value of the interest to the Commissioner at the same time as the payment referred to in subsection (2).

Provisional tax rules

(5) The PIE is not required to pay provisional tax under subpart RC (Provisional tax) for the tax year.

Defined in this Act: amount, attribution period, Commissioner, exit level, exit period, income tax liability, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, notice, pay, PIE, provisional tax, quarter, tax year, working day

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(a) a foreign investment PIE—

(i) derives a dividend that is not fully imputed from a company resident in New Zealand; and

(b) the PIE chooses to calculate and pay the tax liability in relation to the amount under subpart RF (Withholding tax on non-resident passive income).

When this section also applies: supplementary dividends

(1B) This section also applies when—

(a) a foreign investment PIE—

(i) derives a dividend with imputation credits attached from a company resident in New Zealand together with a related supplementary dividend; and

(ii) has, as an investor, a notified foreign investor who meets the requirements of section LP 2(1)(a) (Tax credits for supplementary dividends); and

(iii) pays the investor an amount that represents the total amount of the dividend and supplementary dividend that would be attributed to the investor in the absence of subsection (2); and

Excluding amount from calculation

(2) In determining the net amount for notified foreign investors under sections HM 35 and HM 36, to the extent to which the amount represents either an unimputed portion of the dividend, or a dividend together with a related supplementary dividend, as applicable, the amount is not included in—

(a) the item assessable income in section HM 35(3):

(b) the item income in section HM 36(3).

Non-resident passive income

(3) The NRWT rules apply to the amount paid to the extent to which the amount represents either an unimputed portion of the dividend, or a dividend together with a related supplementary dividend, as applicable.

Relationship with section CX 56B

(4) Despite section CX 56B (Distributions to investors in multi-rate PIEs), the amount is not excluded income of the notified foreign investor.

Relationship with section HM 35(8)

(5) When a foreign investment PIE derives a dividend and related supplementary dividend as described in subsection (1B), the allocation rule set out in section HM 35(8) does not apply. The dividend and related supplementary dividend are treated as having been allocated on the date on which ownership of the shares determines a legal entitlement to the dividend.

Section HM 46: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 292(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

HM 47 Calculation of tax liability or tax credit of multi-rate PIEs

What this section does

(1) This section quantifies the amount of the tax liability or tax credit of a multi-rate PIE for a calculation period.

Calculating amount

(2) The amount of the PIE's tax liability or tax credit is the sum of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for—

(a) each investor class in which the investor has an investor interest:

(b) each investor in an investor class:

(c) each attribution period in the calculation period:

(d) each day in an attribution period.

Notified foreign investors

(2B) For the purposes of subsection (2), for a notified foreign investor in a foreign investment PIE, the amount of the PIE's tax liability for each investor is the sum of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for the amount attributed to the investor for each particular income source and investment type.

Formula

(3) The formula is—rate × amount.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) rate is—

(i) the tax rate under section HM 58 or HM 60, as applicable, that relates to the investor for each day for the period; or

(ib) the tax rates applying under schedule 6, table 1B (Prescribed rates: PIE investments and retirement scheme contributions) for an amount attributed to a notified foreign investor in relation to each income source and investment type; or

(ii) 28%, if the PIE is treated as the sole investor under section HM 37:

(b) amount is the amount calculated under sections HM 36(1) and (2) and HM 37, as applicable, for the investor.

Result of formula: tax liability or tax credit

(5) If the result of the formula in subsection (3) is positive, the amount is the PIE's tax liability for the calculation period. If the result is negative, the amount is a tax credit of the PIE under section LS 1 (Tax credits for multi-rate PIEs), see section HM 55. However, a tax credit does not arise under section LS 1 for a multi-rate PIE that chooses to use the provisional tax calculation option.

Negative result and foreign investment PIEs

(6) If the result of the formula in subsection (3) is negative and the multi-rate PIE has chosen under section HM 71B to become a foreign investment PIE, no tax credit arises in relation to an amount attributed to an investor in the PIE who is, at the time of attribution, a notified foreign investor.

Defined in this Act: amount, attribution period, calculation period, foreign investment PIE, investor, investor class, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, notified foreign investor, PIE, tax credit

HM 55C Modified source rules

Business in New Zealand

(1) Despite section YD 4(2) (Classes of income treated as having New Zealand source), income attributed to a notified foreign investor by a foreign investment PIE is not treated as having a source in New Zealand merely because the business of the PIE is carried on in New Zealand.

Contracts made or performed in New Zealand

(2) Despite section YD 4(3), income attributed to a notified foreign investor by a foreign investment PIE is not treated as having a source in New Zealand merely because the income is derived from a contract made or performed in New Zealand but only to the extent to which the income relates to the PIE's investments outside New Zealand.

Defined in this Act: business, foreign investment PIE, income, New Zealand, notified foreign investor

Section HM 55C: inserted, on 29 August 2011 (applying for the 2012–13 and later income years for a foreign investment variable-rate PIE and a notified foreign investor in the PIE), by section 79(1) of the Taxation (Tax Administration and Remedial Matters) Act 2011 (2011 No 63).

HM 55D Requirements for investors in foreign investment PIEs

What this section does

(1) This section applies to determine the treatment of a non-resident person who is an investor in a multi-rate PIE that chooses under section HM 71B to become a foreign investment PIE. This section overrides section HM 32(1).

Notification

(2) If the person meets the requirements of subsections (3) and (4), they may notify the PIE that they wish to be treated as a notified foreign investor.

Status requirements

(3) The person must not be—

(a) resident in New Zealand; or

(b) a CFC; or

(c) a FIF for which the item income interest in section EX 50(4) (Attributable FIF income method), for a person who is a New Zealand resident and the FIF, is 10% or more; or

(d) a non-resident trustee of a trust that is not a foreign trust.

Information requirements

(4) The person must provide the PIE with the information set out in section 28D(1) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Non-residents' rates

(5) If the person does not meet the requirements of subsections (3) and (4), the PIE must treat them as a non-resident person to whom schedule 6, table 1, row 2 (Prescribed rates: PIE investments and retirement scheme contributions) applies.

PIE relying on notification

(6) Despite subsection (5), the PIE may rely on the notification given by a person and treat them as a notified foreign investor in the following circumstances:

(a) the person notifies the PIE that they wish to be treated as a notified foreign investor, but they have misrepresented their eligibility for notified foreign investor status:

(b) the person is a notified foreign investor but becomes resident in New Zealand and does not advise the PIE of the change in status:

(c) the person has notified the PIE that they are a notified foreign investor but do not in fact meet the requirements for that status.

When status may be disregarded

(7) The Commissioner may advise a PIE to disregard notification by an investor under subsection (2) if the Commissioner considers on reasonable grounds that the person does not meet or no longer meets the requirements of subsections (3) and (4). As soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the advice, the PIE must treat the investor as a non-resident person described in subsection (5).

Cancelling status

(8) A notified foreign investor who wishes to have their notified foreign investor status cancelled, must notify the PIE. The status may be cancelled at any time.

Cancelling status of trustee after election under section HC 33

(8B) If a trustee of a trust who meets the requirements of subsections (3) and (4) notifies the PIE that the trustee wishes to be treated as a notified foreign investor and later becomes ineligible to be a notified foreign investor because of an election under section HC 33 (Choosing to satisfy income tax liability of trustee) for the trust, the PIE must continue to calculate the tax liability or tax credit of the PIE for the income year in which the election is made and earlier income years as if the trustee continued to be a notified foreign investor until the end of the income year.

Transitional residents

(9) Despite subsection (3)(a), a transitional resident who is an investor in a foreign investment zero-rate PIE may choose the prescribed investor rate set out in schedule 6, table 1, row 10.

Application of rate

(2) For the purposes of section HM 60(3), as soon as reasonably practicable after having been notified of the rate provided by the Commissioner, the PIE must apply the rate provided by the Commissioner as if it were the most recent notified investor rate.

Subsequent notification of rate by investor

(3) Despite subsection (2), if the Commissioner provides a tax rate for an investor to the PIE under subsection (1), and the investor subsequently notifies the PIE under section HM 60(1) of a different investor rate, the PIE must apply the rate notified by the investor.

(a) they may choose to use the market value or the accounting book value of the amounts described in section HG 11(3), as at the day the calculation is first performed, namely the last day of the first income year in which they are subject to sections HG 11 and HG 12; or

On and after the first day of the transitional year, the existence of the qualifying company or companies is ignored for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts except to the extent necessary to give effect to this section.

(3) The moving to the partnership of the assets, liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, under a QCP transitional process is treated for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts as a unique form of transference for such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations, with the following effects:

(a) the moving to the partnership of the assets, liabilities, and associated legal rights and obligations, is treated as not being a transfer of such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations:

(b) the qualifying company or companies has, before the first day of the transitional income year, the relevant tax situation in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations (the historical tax situations):

(5) For the purposes of applying sections HG 11 and HG 12 (which relate to limited partnership deduction rules) to the partners of a limited partnership described in subsection (2) for the transitional income year and later years, all of the partners must choose 1 of the 2 following methods for calculating their partner's basis under section HG 11(3):

(a) for calculating amounts under section HG 11(5)(a) for shares that were held at the end of the income year (the last year) before the transitional income year, they may choose to use the market value or the accounting book value of those shares as at the end of the last year. Calculations under section HG 11(7)(b) and (8)(b) are changed to account for the valuation under this paragraph; or

(b) they may choose to apply section HG 11(3) as if the qualifying company had always been a limited partnership and all relevant rules relating to limited partnerships had always existed, applying those rules with any necessary modifications.

Initial basis not less than zero

(6) If the application of sections HG 11 and HG 12, as modified by this section, calculates a partner's basis as less than zero, then the partner's basis is treated as being zero.

Meaning of QCP transitional process

(7) QCP transitional process means a process, for which all outcomes are achieved in an income year (the transitional income year), by which a company or companies that are all qualifying companies at the end of the income year before the transitional income year transform into a partnership. The process must have the following outcomes:

(a) the Commissioner receives a notice from the qualifying company or companies before the day that is 6 months after the start of the transitional income year, stating an intention to revoke the company's or companies' qualifying company status and to complete the QCP transitional process relating to the partnership for the transitional income year; and

(b) the partners, or in the case of a limited partnership, the partners other than a company that is a general partner, are the same persons who, at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, were the shareholders of the qualifying company or companies, ignoring any person who dies in the transitional year; and

(c) all assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, of the qualifying companies are moved to the partnership, excluding those that are inappropriate for a partnership; and

(d) each partner must have the same net position in the partnership as to relevant assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, as would arise on the winding up of the qualifying company or companies at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, treating any person who dies in the transitional year as still being a partner.

HZ 4C Qualifying companies: transition into look-through companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a qualifying company first becomes a look-through company for the first or second income year, whichever is relevant, that starts on or after 1 April 2011 (the transitional year).

Initial basis

(2) For the purposes of applying sections HB 11 and HB 12 (which relate to look-through company deduction rules) to a person with an effective look-through interest for the look-through company for the transitional income year and later years, all of the persons who hold owner's interests must choose 1 of the 2 following methods for calculating their basis under section HB 11(3):

Calculations under section HB 11(7)(b) and (8)(b) are changed to account for the valuation under this paragraph; or

(b) they may choose to apply section HB 11(3) as if the qualifying company had always been a look-through company and all relevant rules relating to look-through companies had always existed, applying those rules with any necessary modifications.

Effect of elections and methods

(5) After subsection (4) applies, section HB 1 (Look-through companies are transparent) applies, so that the elections and methods are those of an owner of an effective look-through interest for the look-through company.

HZ 4D Qualifying companies: transition into sole traderships

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a QCST transitional process is carried out for a qualifying company for the first or second income year, whichever is relevant, that starts on or after 1 April 2011 (the transitional income year).

QCST transitional process: retrospective rule

(2) From the first day of the transitional income year to the first day of existence for the sole tradership that effectively replaces the qualifying company under a QCST transitional process, the sole tradership is treated as existing and having the assets and liabilities of the qualifying company, and associated rights and obligations, for that period. On and after the first day of the transitional year, the existence of the qualifying company is ignored for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts except to the extent necessary to give effect to this section.

Taxation continuity

(3) The moving to the sole tradership of the assets, liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, under a QCST transitional process is treated for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts as a unique form of transference for such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations, with the following effects:

(a) the moving to the sole tradership of the assets, liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, is treated as not being a transfer of such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations:

(b) the qualifying company has, before the first day of the transitional income year, the tax situation in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations (the historical tax situation):

(c) the sole tradership is treated as stepping into the place of the qualifying company, and as having, on and after the first day of the transitional income year,—

(i) the qualifying company's historical tax situation; and

(ii) the tax situation in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, that it would have if it had always had the historical tax situation:

(d) the qualifying company has no tax situation in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, on and after the first day of the transitional income year:

(e) all memorandum account balances and other tax accounting amounts for the qualifying company before the first day of the transitional income year are ignored and have no effect on and after that day (for example, the qualifying company has no effective ASC on and after the first day of the transitional income year).

Meaning of QCST transitional process

(4) QCST transitional process means a process, for which all outcomes are achieved in an income year (the transitional income year), by which a company that is a qualifying company at the end of the income year before the transitional income year is transformed into a sole tradership. The process must have the following outcomes:

(a) the Commissioner receives a notice from the qualifying company before the day that is 6 months after the start of the transitional income year, stating an intention to revoke the company's qualifying company status and to complete the QCST transitional process relating to the sole tradership for the transitional income year; and

(b) the sole tradership is the same natural person who, at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, is the sole shareholder of the qualifying company; and

(c) all assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, of the qualifying company are moved to the sole tradership, excluding those that are inappropriate for a sole tradership.

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when an entity that is a look-through company (an LTC) at the end of the 2016–17 or 2017–18 income years ceases to be an LTC (the cessation)—

(a) on the first day of application for an amendment to LTC-related provisions, in section 288 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017; and

(b) because of an amendment to LTC-related provisions, in section 288 of that Act.

Exemption

(2) Section HB 4(6) (General provisions relating to disposals) does not apply to the cessation.

Company steps into place

(3) An entity that ceases to be an LTC is treated as having, as a company, the tax position it has, ignoring section HB 1(4) (Look-through companies are transparent), immediately before it ceases, and the owners are treated as not having that tax position.

Defined in this Act: company, income year, look-through company, tax position

Section HZ 4E: inserted, on 1 April 2017, by section 145 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

HZ 5 Transitional provisions for PIE rules

Intention of new law

(1) The PIE rules are the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities in rewritten form, and are intended to have the same effect as the relevant corresponding provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007. Subsection (3) overrides this subsection.

Using old law as interpretation guide

(2) Unless subsection (3) applies, in circumstances where the meaning of a PIE rule (the new law) is unclear or gives rise to absurdity—

(a) the wording of the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities that correspond to and are replaced by the PIE rules (the old law) must be used to determine the correct meaning of the new law; and

(b) it can be assumed that a corresponding old law provision exists for each new law provision.

Limits to subsections (1) and (2)

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply in the case of—

(a) a PIE rule that repeals an old law and replaces it with a new law:

(b) a PIE rule that is amended after the commencement of section 292(2) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009, with effect from the date on which the amendment comes into force.

Defined in this Act: PIE rules, portfolio investment entity

Section HZ 5: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 295(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

(a) before the commencement of this Act,—

(i) an applicant has applied for a private ruling, a product ruling, or a status ruling, on an arrangement that is entered into, or that the applicant seriously contemplates will be entered into, before the commencement of this Act:

(ii) a public ruling is issued; and

(b) the binding ruling is about a provision of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities (the old law) that corresponds to and is replaced by the PIE rules; and

(c) the PIE rules corresponding to the old law (the new law) come into force on 1 April 2010; and

(d) the binding ruling—

(i) continues to exist at the commencement of this Act:

(ii) is made after the commencement of this Act in relation to an old law before 1 April 2010:

(iii) is made in relation to an old law provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 to which section ZA 4 (Saving of binding rulings) of the Income Tax Act 2007 applies, that continues to exist at the commencement of this Act; and

(e) in the absence of this section, the commencement of this Act would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

(2) The binding ruling is treated as if it were made about the new law, so that the effect of the ruling at the commencement of this Act is the same as its effect before the commencement.

No confirmation rulings

(3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling on how—

(a) the new law applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement; or

(b) this subsection applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement.

Defined in this Act: apply, arrangement, binding ruling, Commissioner, PIE rules, portfolio investment entity

Section HZ 6: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 295(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

(a) before the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009—

(i) an applicant has applied for a binding ruling on an arrangement that is entered into, or that the applicant seriously contemplates will be entered into, before the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009:

(c) the binding ruling—

(i) is made before or after the commencement of this Act and continues to exist at the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009; and

(ii) is made in relation to a provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 to which section ZA 4 (Saving of binding rulings) of this Act would have applied but for the intended change listed in schedule 51 (Identified changes in legislation) for section HC 27(2) (Who is a settlor?); and

(d) in the absence of this section, the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

(2) The binding ruling continues to exist despite the intended change referred to in subsection (1)(c)(ii) from the commencement of this Act to the date on which the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 receives the Royal assent.

No confirmation rulings

(3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling in the period that starts on the date of the commencement of this Act and ends on the date on which the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 receives the Royal assent on how—

How elections made

(2) An originator makes an election referred to in section HR 9 (Debt funding special purpose vehicles are transparent if election made by originator) by returning income derived and expenditure incurred by the special purpose vehicle in their return of income for an income year starting on or after the date on which the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2018–19, Modernising Tax Administration, and Remedial Matters) Act 2019 receives the Royal assent.

(b) immediately before the election is made, the special purpose vehicle holds a financial arrangement or an excepted financial arrangement that was transferred to the special purpose vehicle by 1 of its originators.

Originator: stepping in

(2) For the purposes of calculating the income tax liability of the special purpose vehicle and its originators for the income year in which the election is made and later income years (the post-disposal periods),—

(a) the relevant originator is treated for the post-disposal periods as if they had acquired and held the financial arrangement or excepted financial arrangement, not the special purpose vehicle:

(b) the relevant originator is treated for the post-disposal periods as if they had paid any consideration originally paid by the special purpose vehicle for or under the financial arrangement or excepted financial arrangement, and the special purpose vehicle is treated as not having paid that consideration:

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if, in a tax year, the Commissioner amends under section 113 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 a person's assessment for an earlier tax year, and the amendment adjusts the amount of a tax loss component or a ring-fenced tax loss for the earlier tax year.

Reduced losses

(2) If the amount is reduced in the adjustment, the person must reduce their loss balance or ring-fenced tax loss for the earlier tax year by the amount of the adjustment. If the loss balance or ring-fenced tax loss has been used in earlier tax years, they must similarly apply the reduction to the use of the loss balance or ring-fenced tax loss.

IB 1 Purpose

The purpose of this subpart and sections GB 3BA to GB 3BAC (which relate to arrangements involving tax losses) is—

(a) to enable companies to carry forward tax loss components in loss balances despite not meeting the requirements for continuity of ownership of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward: continuity of ownership), in order to reduce impediments to—

(i) innovation and economic growth:

(ii) corporate reorganisations:

(iii) changes in the direct or indirect ownership of companies:

(iv) companies accessing new sources of share capital:

(v) companies adapting their business activities in order to grow or be resilient; but

(b) not to encourage tax avoidance arrangements involving the acquisition of ownership interests in companies.

Defined in this Act: business, company, loss balance, ownership interest, tax avoidance arrangement, tax loss component

Section IB 1: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2020), on 30 March 2021, by section 99(1) (and see section 99(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2020–21, Feasibility Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2021 (2021 No 8).

IB 2 Meaning of ownership continuity breach

In this subpart, an ownership continuity breach, for a company, means a breach of the requirements for continuity of ownership of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward: continuity of ownership) that, if met, enable a tax loss component of the company to be carried forward in a loss balance.

Defined in this Act: company, loss balance, ownership continuity breach, tax loss component, tax year

Section IB 2: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2020), on 30 March 2021, by section 99(1) (and see section 99(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2020–21, Feasibility Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2021 (2021 No 8).

IB 2B When subsequent ownership continuity breach regarded as occurring

For the purposes of this subpart, once an ownership continuity breach has occurred for a company that, in the absence of section IB 3, prevents a tax loss component of the company from being carried forward to a tax year in a loss balance, a subsequent change in the holders of voting interests or market value interests in the company is not regarded as resulting in a subsequent ownership continuity breach unless the company would not meet the minimum continuity requirements of section IA 5(2) and (3) for the carrying forward of the tax loss component to the tax year in a loss balance if the meaning of continuity period in that section is modified by replacing the words "the start of the income year that corresponds to the tax year in which a tax loss component is included in the tax loss" with the words "immediately after the company's last ownership continuity breach occurred that, in the absence of section IB 3, prevents the tax loss component from being carried forward to the tax year in a loss balance".

Defined in this Act: company, continuity period, income year, loss balance, market value interest, ownership continuity breach, tax loss, tax loss component, tax year, voting interest

Section IB 2B: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2020), on 31 March 2023, by section 83(1) (and see section 83(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2022–23, Platform Economy, and Remedial Matters) Act 2023 (2023 No 5).

IB 3 When tax loss components of companies carried forward despite ownership continuity breach

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when an ownership continuity breach occurs for a company.

Tax loss components for earlier income years carried forward

(2) Despite the ownership continuity breach, a tax loss component arising in an earlier income year is carried forward to a tax year in a loss balance under section IA 3(4) (Using tax losses in tax year) if—

(a) the earlier income year is the 2013–14 income year or a later income year; and

(b) the company does not cease to carry on business activities during the relevant period described in section IB 4 (the business continuity period); and

(c) no major change in the nature of the business activities carried on by the company occurs during the business continuity period, other than 1 or more major changes that are permitted under subsection (5); and

(d) subsection (3) does not apply to prevent the tax loss component being carried forward to the tax year.

Tax loss components for earlier income years not carried forward

(3) The tax loss component is not carried forward to the tax year if—

(a) before the beginning of the business continuity period,—

(i) the business activities carried on by the company have ceased; and

(ii) the business activities have not been revived:

(b) the company has had another ownership continuity breach—

(i) since the later of the beginning of the earlier income year and the beginning of the 2020–21 income year; and

(ii) in relation to which the requirements of subsection (2)(b) and (c) for the carrying forward to the tax year of the tax loss component are not met:

(c) the earlier income year is before the 2020–21 income year and the tax loss component could not be carried forward to the 2020–21 tax year in the absence of this subpart.

Major change: factor that must be taken into account

(4) For the purposes of subsection (2), without limiting the factors that may be taken into account in determining whether a major change in the nature of the business activities carried on by the company has occurred during the business continuity period, the extent to which the assets used in deriving the company's assessable income have remained the same or similar over the business continuity period must be taken into account.

Permitted major changes

(5) A major change in the nature of the business activities carried on by the company during the business continuity period does not breach the requirement set out in subsection (2)(c) if the major change is—

(a) made to increase the efficiency of a business activity that the company carried on immediately before the beginning of the business continuity period:

(b) made to keep up to date with advances in technology relating to a business activity that the company carried on immediately before the beginning of the business continuity period:

(c) caused by an increase in the scale of a business activity that the company carried on immediately before the beginning of the business continuity period, including as a result of the company entering a new market for a product or service that it produced or provided at that time:

(d) caused by a change in the type of products or services the company produces or provides that involves the company starting to produce or provide a product or service using the same, or mainly the same, assets as, or that is otherwise closely connected with, a product or service that the company produced or provided immediately before the beginning of the business continuity period.

Exclusion: mining net losses

(5B) This section does not apply to an amount referred to in section IA 7(7) (Restrictions relating to ring-fenced tax losses) that is treated by subsection (1B) of that section as if it were a tax loss component.

Avoidance arrangements

(6) Section GB 3BA (Arrangements for carrying forward loss balances: companies' business activities) may apply to treat a company as not meeting the requirements of subsection (2).

IC 10 When companies have different balance dates

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year when company A and company B do not have the same balance date.

Extensions for continuity and common ownership

(2) If company B's income year ends after the last day of company A's income year, for section IC 5 to apply to a tax loss in a corresponding tax year,—

(a) continuity of ownership in company A, or continuity of company A's business activities, under section IC 2(1) must extend to the end of company B's income year; and

(b) common ownership of company A and company B under section IC 3 or IC 4 must extend to the end of company B's income year.

Part-year tax losses

(3) This section applies for part-year calculations through section IP 2(2) (Group companies' common span).

IC 11 Reduction of amounts used by companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year if—

(a) company A has a tax loss for the tax year that is made available to, and subtracted by, more than 1 company that is part of the group of companies; and

(b) the Commissioner determines under section 113 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 that the actual total tax loss for the tax year is less than the sum of the amounts subtracted by the companies in the group, and notifies company A.

Reduced amounts

(2) The relevant companies must reduce the amounts they subtracted either in the way company A allocates under subsection (3) or, if no allocation is made, proportionately under subsection (4).

Company A's allocation

(3) Company A may choose how the amount by which the total must be reduced is allocated between or among the companies. But if company A allocates an amount to a company that is no longer part of the group at the time of the allocation, and the amount is more than a proportionate amount, the allocation is disregarded. Subsection (6) sets out the notice requirements for this subsection.

Proportionate amounts

(4) If company A does not allocate the amounts by which the total must be reduced, the amounts subtracted by the group companies are reduced in the same proportion as that by which the total amount was reduced in determining the actual total tax loss.

Subvention payments

(5) If the reduction results in a payment under section IC 5(2)(b) being treated as a dividend, the dividend is reduced to the extent to which the payment is repaid by company A within the notification period referred to in subsection (6).

Notifying Commissioner

(6) For the purposes of subsections (3) and (5), company A must notify the Commissioner of the allocation within 6 months after the date on which the Commissioner notifies company A that the reduction is required. However, the Commissioner may agree to extend this notification period.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, dividend, group of companies, notify, tax loss, tax year

(ii) for a decline in the value of shares in another company in the group; and

(b) a company (company A) in the group, other than company C, has a tax loss for the tax year that includes a tax loss component arising from a deduction—

(i) for expenditure funded by the loan referred to in paragraph (a)(i) or by the issue to company A of the shares referred to in paragraph (a)(ii); and

(ii) taken into account in calculating company A's tax loss for the 1993–94 tax year or a later tax year.

Limitation on loss grouping

(2) The amount of company A's tax loss cannot be made available to another company in the group to use except to the extent to which the amount of the tax loss is more than the total amount of the deductions referred to in subsection (1)(a). To that extent, company A may choose to make the excess amount available to a group company to use under sections IA 3(2), IA 5, and IB 3 (which relate to using and carrying forward tax losses) if the requirements for grouping tax losses are met.

Determining decline in value of shares

(3) For the purposes of this section, shares are treated as declining in value if,—

(a) on the disposal of the shares, the amount for which they were disposed of is less than the deduction for the cost of the shares; or

(b) when the shares have not been disposed of, their value as calculated under subpart EB (Valuation of trading stock (including dealer's livestock)) or otherwise declines.

ID 1 Treatment of tax losses by consolidated groups

Consolidated group's net losses

(1) A tax loss of a consolidated group of companies is treated as the consolidated group's tax loss, not the tax loss of a company that is part of the consolidated group. Subparts IA to IC (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses) and section IZ 8 (Election to use net loss for 2019–20 or 2020–21 year as tax loss in preceding year), as modified by this subpart, apply as if the consolidated group were 1 company.

Ring-fenced tax losses

(2) Nothing in this subpart applies to a consolidated group whose companies are mining companies or mineral miners.

Defined in this Act: company, consolidated group, mineral miner, mining company, tax loss

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(1A)–(3)

Section ID 1(1): amended (with effect on 1 April 2020), on 30 March 2021, by section 104(1) (and see section 104(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2020–21, Feasibility Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2021 (2021 No 8).

ID 2 Pre-consolidation losses: general treatment

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year when a company that meets the requirements of section IA 5(2) and (3) or IB 3(2) (which relate to the carrying forward of tax losses for companies) and is part of a consolidated group has a pre-consolidation loss balance carried forward to the tax year.

First use

(2) The first use of the loss balance must be to make the amount of the loss balance available to the consolidated group to subtract from its net income, so far as it extends, for the tax year.

Second use

(3) If, after subsection (2) is applied, some of the loss balance remains, the company may choose to do 1 or more of the following:

(a) subtract the remaining amount from its net income for the tax year:

(b) make the remaining amount available to another consolidated group to subtract from its net income for the tax year:

(c) make the remaining amount available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss).

Third use

(4) If, after subsections (2) and (3) are applied, a loss balance remains, the remaining amount is carried forward to the next tax year.

Relationship with sections IA 3, IA 4, IC 5, and provisions in this subpart

(5) This section overrides sections IA 3, IA 4, and IC 5 (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses). Sections ID 3 to ID 5 override this section.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, net income, loss balance, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(4), (6), (7)

Section ID 2(1): amended (with effect on 1 April 2020), on 30 March 2021, by section 105(1) (and see section 105(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2020–21, Feasibility Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2021 (2021 No 8).

ID 3 Pre-consolidation losses: use by group companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year when—

(a) a company (company A) that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies; and

(b) company A, in the continuity period relating to a tax loss component included in the loss balance, does not have the required common ownership under section IC 3 (Common ownership: group of companies) with 1 or more companies in the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

(2) The amount made available under section ID 2(2) to the consolidated group is limited as follows:

(a) if all the companies, including company A, in the consolidated group meet the requirements of section IC 6(1) (Common ownership for period): the amount available is limited to the amount of the loss balance to the extent of the net income of the consolidated group for the tax year:

(b) if some of the companies in the consolidated group meet the requirements of section IC 6(1): the amount available is limited to the total of—

(i) the amount that company A could subtract from its net income for the tax year if it were not in the tax year part of a consolidated group; and

(ii) the amount that could be made available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss) to the other group companies in the tax year, ignoring the consolidation of the companies and presuming all steps required under section IC 5 were taken in order for the section to apply.

Relationship with section FM 3

(3) In subsection (2), the calculation of the consolidated group's net income must be made in accordance with section FM 3 (Liability of consolidated groups and group companies).

Relationship with section ID 2

(4) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, continuity period, group of companies, loss balance, net income, tax loss component, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(6)

Section ID 3(1): substituted (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 300(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

ID 4 Pre-consolidation losses on entry: part-year rule

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies in a tax year when the company joins the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

(2) The amount of the loss balance to be made available to the consolidated group under section ID 2(2) is the lesser of the amount the company establishes in financial statements under subsection (3), or the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4), but in either case, it must not be more than the limit set out in section ID 3(2).

Financial statements

(3) The company may establish the amount to be made available by providing the Commissioner, at the time of providing the consolidated group's return of income, with adequate financial statements that—

(a) relate to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the consolidated group; and

(b) disclose the amount that would be the net income attributable to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the consolidated group, determined on a fair and reasonable basis of attribution.

Formula

(4) The amount that may be made available under section ID 2(2) and referred to in subsection (2) is calculated using the formula—unused amount − (part-year net income + part-year net loss).

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) unused amount is the loss balance carried forward from an earlier tax year or years that would be subtracted from the consolidated group's net income for the tax year in the absence of section ID 3 or this section:

(b) part-year net income is the company's net income for the part of the tax year before the company joins the consolidated group:

(c) part-year net loss is the amount of a pre-consolidation tax loss that must be subtracted under section ID 2 from the net income of another consolidated group of which the company was part in the tax year before joining the consolidated group referred to in subsection (1).

Relationship with section ID 2

(6) This section overrides section ID 2.

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(7)

ID 5 Pre-consolidation losses on exit: part-year rule

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies in a tax year when the company leaves the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

(2) In addition to the amount available under section IP 3(3) or IP 3B(3) (which relate to the carrying forward of tax losses for companies) but subject to the limit in section ID 3(2), the amount of the company's loss balance that is carried forward to the tax year must be no more than the consolidated group's net income for the relevant part of the tax year. For part-year calculations, see subpart IP (Meeting requirements for part-years).

Financial statements

(3) The consolidated group must provide the Commissioner with adequate financial statements that disclose the amount that would be the consolidated group's net income for the relevant part of the tax year, determined on a fair and reasonable basis of attribution. The statements must be filed with the consolidated group's return of income for the tax year.

Continuity requirements

(4) For the purposes of this section, the company must meet the threshold level set out in section IC 2(1) (Threshold levels for grouping tax losses in tax year) for the relevant part of the tax year.

Relationship with section ID 2

(5) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, consolidated group, loss balance, net income, return of income, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(8)

Section ID 5(2): amended (with effect on 1 April 2020), on 30 March 2022, by section 121(1) (and see section 121(2) for application) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2021–22, GST, and Remedial Matters) Act 2022 (2022 No 10).

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if an amalgamating company that meets the requirements of section IA 5(2) and (3) or IB 3(2) (which relate to the carrying forward of tax losses for companies) ends its existence on a resident's restricted amalgamation, and has a tax loss for a tax year that—

(a) has not, before the date of amalgamation, been used by the company; and

(b) could be made available and subtracted from the amalgamated company's net income for the part of the tax year that ends with the date of amalgamation.

(c) for a tax loss component that is an attributed CFC net loss or a FIF net loss and is made available by the amalgamated company, the tax loss component is made available to a wholly-owned group of companies.

Treatment of part years

IP 2 Group companies' common span

Common span

(1) In this subpart, the corresponding parts of company A's income year and company B's income year when the requirements for commonality of ownership under section IC 5(1)(a) (Company B using company A's tax loss) are met is called the common span.

Section IC 10(2)(b) (When companies have different balance dates) may apply to extend the period.

Calculating group companies' tax losses

(3) For the purposes of this subpart and the grouping of tax losses, the amount of a tax loss component is found after taking into account any amount of the tax loss component subtracted from the net income of any group company.

IP 3 Ownership continuity breach: tax loss components of companies carried forward

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section IA 4 (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year) if a breach occurs in the requirements for continuity of ownership of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward: continuity of ownership) that enable a tax loss component included in a company's loss balance to be carried forward to or from a tax year.

Tax loss components for earlier income years

(2) Despite the breach, a tax loss component arising in an earlier income year is carried forward to a tax year (year A) to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year of the company that corresponds to year A; and

(b) the company has net income for part of the corresponding income year; and

(c) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net income for the relevant part of the corresponding income year.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward to year A

(3) The total tax loss components carried forward under subsection (2) must be no more than the amount calculated under subsection (2)(b) and (c), although the amount may be increased if section IP 5 applies.

Tax loss components of year of breach

(4) Despite the breach, a tax loss component is carried forward to the tax year (year B) from year A to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year that corresponds to year A; and

(b) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net loss for the part of year A.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward to year B

(5) The amount of the tax loss component carried forward under subsection (4) must be the least of—

(a) the part-year net loss calculated under subsection (4)(b):

(b) if the company has net income for year A, zero:

(c) if the company has a net loss for year A, the company's net loss for year A.

IP 3B Business continuity breach: tax loss components of companies carried forward

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section IA 4 (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year) if a tax loss component of a company would have been carried forward under section IB 3 (When tax loss components of companies carried forward despite ownership continuity breach) to a tax year but for a breach or breaches, during the income year that corresponds to the tax year, of either or both of the requirements of section IB 3(2)(b) and (c).

Tax loss components for earlier income years

(2) Despite the breach or breaches, the tax loss component is carried forward to the tax year to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements of section IB 3(2)(b) and (c) would be met if the relevant period described in section IB 4 (Business continuity period) included only part of the income year of the company that corresponds to the tax year; and

(b) the company has net income for part of the corresponding income year; and

(c) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net income for the relevant part of the corresponding income year.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward

(3) The total tax loss components carried forward under subsection (2) must be no more than the amount calculated under subsection (2)(b) and (c), although the amount may be increased if section IP 5 applies.

(2) The tax loss component is included in a tax loss that company A makes available under section IA 3(2) (Using tax losses in tax year) to company B only to the extent to which the following requirements, which modify those set out in section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss), are met:

(a) the tax loss component arises in the common span; and

(ab) the amount of the tax loss component is no more than the net income that company B derives in the common span; and

Modified requirements

(2) The loss balance is included in a tax loss that company A makes available under section IA 3(2) (Using tax losses in tax year) to company B only to the extent to which the following requirements, which modify those set out in section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss), are met:

(a) the amount of company A's loss balance carried forward to the tax year in which the breach occurred is not more than the amount of—

(i) company B's net income for the common span, if no company in the group other than company B has net income for the common span of more than zero; or

(b) relates to a CFC or FIF that is resident in the jurisdiction in the loss year; and

(c) is carried forward to a tax year (the conversion year) in which this section applies to the person or is made available to the person for the conversion year by another company in the same group.

What this section does

(2) In this section, subsection (3) gives the person an option that available BE loss for a jurisdiction not be carried forward and subsections (4) to (7) give, for whichever of the 4 possible alternative situations is relevant for the person,—

(3) A person may choose by giving a notice in a form and at a time acceptable to the Commissioner that the available BE loss for a jurisdiction not be carried forward under this section.

Person not resident group member: more jurisdictional BE income

(4) For a person who is not a resident group member and has jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year that is greater than zero and greater than the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year,—

(ii) the person's available BE loss for the conversion year:

(b) the person's equivalent CFC loss is the lesser of—

(i) the person's available BE loss for the conversion year:

(ii) the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year:

(b) the person's equivalent CFC loss is equal to the person's converted BE loss for the conversion year.

(i) the person's available BE loss for the conversion year:

(ii) the greater of the person's jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year and the amount calculated by multiplying the group's jurisdictional income ratio for the conversion year by the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year:

(b) the person's equivalent CFC loss is the amount calculated by dividing the person's converted BE loss for the conversion year by the group's jurisdictional income ratio for the conversion year.

Resident group member: more jurisdictional attributed income

(7) For a person who is a resident group member and has jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year that is greater than or equal to zero and greater than or equal to the person's jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year,—

IQ 2C Effect of FIF net loss if attributed FIF income method not available

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person and a country (the jurisdiction) when—

(a) the person has an amount (the available BE loss) of FIF net loss calculated using the branch equivalent method—

(i) relating to a tax year (the loss year) before the first tax year for which this section applies to the person; and

(ii) relating to a FIF that is resident in the jurisdiction in the loss year; and

(iii) carried forward to a tax year (the current year) in which this section applies to the person; and

(b) the person is not able to use the attributable FIF income method in the current year for the person's interest in the FIF; and

(c) the person would be able to use the attributable FIF income method in the current year for the person's interest in the FIF if the interest met the requirements of section EX 46(3)(a)(ii) (Limits on choice of calculation methods); and

(d) the person does not have an income interest of 10% or more in a CFC in the jurisdiction in the current year; and

(e) the person does not have an attributing interest in a FIF in the jurisdiction in the current year for which the person can use the attributable FIF income method.

Use of FIF net loss

(2) The person's available BE loss is available to be subtracted from the person's FIF income, to the extent of the FIF income, in the current year from the FIF, if the FIF is resident in the jurisdiction in the current year.

Treatment of surplus

(3) If the person cannot use all of the available BE loss in the current year, the surplus is available to be carried forward for use under subsection (2) in another tax year.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributable FIF income method, attributing interest, branch equivalent method, CFC, FIF, FIF income, FIF net loss, income interest, tax year

Section IQ 2C: inserted (with effect on 1 July 2011 and applying for income years beginning on or after that date), on 17 July 2013, by section 67(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

IQ 3 Ring-fencing cap on FIF net losses

Limit on amount: branch equivalent method

(1) If a person's FIF net loss is carried forward to a tax year (the current tax year) or FIF net loss is made available to the person in the current tax year,—

(a) FIF net loss relating to a tax year for which section IQ 2B applies to the person is available to be subtracted under section IQ 2 from the person's net income for the current tax year; and

(b) FIF net loss relating to a tax year for which section IQ 2B does not apply to the person—

(i) is available to be subtracted from the person's net income for the current tax year to the extent of the equivalent CFC loss under section IQ 2B; and

(ii) is reduced in the current tax year by the converted BE loss under section IQ 2B.

Relationship with section CQ 5

(2) Despite subsection (1) and section IQ 2, if the person's FIF net loss is carried forward to a tax year and section CQ 5(1)(d) or (e) (When FIF income arises) applies, they may subtract the amount from their net income for the tax year, but only to the extent to which the amount is no more than their assessable income from interests that would be interests in a FIF for the tax year in the absence of that section.

Treatment of excess

(3) If the person cannot use all of the amount that is available tax loss under section IQ 2(1) because there is insufficient net income, the surplus is no longer available to them as a FIF net loss, but becomes a tax loss component under section IA 2(4) (Tax losses).

IQ 4 Group companies using attributed CFC net losses

What this section does

(1) This section supplements the general rules relating to the grouping of net losses when, for a tax year (the current tax year), a company (company A) that is part of a group of companies has an amount—

(a) of attributed CFC net loss for the current tax year or carried forward from an earlier tax year, or FIF net loss for the current tax year or carried forward from an earlier tax year; and

(b) remaining after section IQ 2 is applied for the current tax year and before any amount is made available to another company under this section.

Modifications to general rules for grouping net losses

(2) For determining whether company A may make available an amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss to another company (company B) in the group of companies, the general rules relating to the grouping of net losses are modified as follows:

(a) the group of companies must be a wholly-owned group of companies; and

(b) subpart IC (Grouping tax losses) and section GB 4 (Arrangements for grouping tax losses: companies) apply as if an amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss were a tax loss component; and

(c) subsection (3) overrides sections IC 5(1)(d) and IC 8 (which impose limits on the amount of transferred tax loss); and

(d) section IA 3(2) (Using tax losses in tax year) and subpart IP (Meeting requirements for part-years) do not apply.

Ring-fencing cap rule modified

(3) The amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss that company A may make available to company B in the tax year is limited by the following:

(a) the total amount made available by company A to group companies must not exceed the amount referred to in subsection (1); and

(b) the resulting reduction in company B's net income in the tax year must not exceed the total amount that company B derives in the tax year of attributed CFC income from CFCs, or FIF income calculated under the attributable FIF income method from FIFs, resident in the country or territory (the jurisdiction) in which the loss arose, reduced by the total of the following:

(i) the total amount of the attributed CFC income or FIF income taken into account in calculating a deduction of company B under section DN 4 or DN 8 (which relate to ring-fencing caps on deductions):

(ii) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss that company B derives in the tax year from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction:

(iii) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss, from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction, that company B carries forward to the tax year and is available tax loss for company B:

(iv) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss, from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction, that is made available to company B for the tax year under this section by a company other than company A.

(i) the person is a levy body researcher:

(ii) the tax credit is for eligible research and development expenditure on approved research providers:

(b) other wholly-owned tax is zero or, if person A is a company and is a member of a wholly-owned group of companies, is the amount of PAYE, ESCT, and FBT that the other members pay for the tax year and that is allocated to person A for the purposes of calculating person A's refundability cap for the tax year:

(c) other controller tax is zero or, if person A is a company, is the total amount of PAYE, ESCT, and FBT that companies that directly or indirectly control person A pay for the tax year and that is allocated to person A for the purposes of calculating their refundability cap for the tax year:

(d) double-dip allocation means the total amount allocated to person A under paragraphs (b) and (c) that has been allocated to a person other than person A for the purposes of calculating the other person's refundability cap for the tax year.

LB 1 Tax credits for PAYE income payments

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year when an employer provides the Commissioner with employment income information that shows an amount of tax withheld from a PAYE income payment of a person who is an employee.

Amount of credit

(2) The person has a tax credit for the tax year equal to the amount of tax shown as withheld.

Application to close companies

(3) Despite subsection (2), the amount of the tax credit must be no more than the amount of tax paid to the Commissioner if—

(a) the employer is a close company; and

(b) the employer and the person are associated persons, or the employer and the spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner of the person are associated persons; and

(c) the employer withheld the amount of tax for the PAYE income payment shown in their employment income information.

Exclusions

(4) The person's credit is extinguished if the Commissioner does not receive employment income information for the relevant amount of tax, or when the relevant particulars of the schedule are incorrect. However, the credit is restored to the person if the relevant matter is corrected and, for the purposes of this section, it is as if the error had not been made.

LJ 2 Tax credits for foreign income tax

Amount of credit

(1) A person described in section LJ 1(2)(a) has a tax credit for a tax year for an amount of foreign income tax paid on a segment of foreign-sourced income, determined as if the segment were the net income of the person for the tax year. The amount of the New Zealand tax payable is calculated under section LJ 5.

Limitation on amount of credit

(2) The amount of the person's credit in subsection (1) must not be more than the amount of New Zealand tax payable by the person in relation to the segment calculated under section LJ 5(2), modified as necessary under section LJ 5(4).

Amount adjusted

(3) The amount of the person's credit in subsection (1) may be reduced or increased if either section LJ 6 or LJ 7 applies.

When person both resident in New Zealand and another country

(4) A person described in section LJ 1(2)(a) who has, because they are a citizen or resident of, or are domiciled in, a foreign country, paid foreign income tax on their assessable income, has a credit under subsection (1). However, the amount of the credit is limited to the amount of foreign income tax that would have been paid in the foreign country if the person were treated as not a citizen or resident of, or domiciled in, that foreign country.

Multi-rate PIEs and their investors

(5) For a multi-rate PIE and an investor in a multi-rate PIE, the amount of a tax credit is limited to the extent allowed under subpart HM (Portfolio investment entities).

When subsection (7) applies

(6) Subsection (7) applies to a person who derives an amount from an attributing interest in a FIF when the amount is treated as not being income under section EX 59(2) (Codes: comparative value method, deemed rate of return method, fair dividend rate method, and cost method).

Tax credit: attributing interest in FIF

(7) The person has a tax credit under this subpart for foreign income tax paid on or withheld in relation to the amount. The calculation of the maximum amount of the tax credit is made under section LJ 5(2), modified so that the item segment in the formula is the amount of FIF income from the attributing interest that the person derives in the period referred to in section EX 59(2).

When subsections (9) and (10) apply

(8) Subsections (9) and (10) apply when a person (the associated entity) resident in New Zealand derives an amount (the attributed amount) that—

(a) is assessable income of the associated entity that is sourced from outside New Zealand; and

(b) is attributed under sections GB 27 to GB 29 (which relate to the attribution rule for income from personal services) in an income year to another person (the working person) who is resident in New Zealand when the associated entity derives the attributed amount.

Tax credit: attributed income from personal services

(9) Despite section LJ 1(2)(a), the working person has a tax credit under this subpart for foreign income tax paid on the attributed amount by the associated entity or withheld in relation to the attributed amount. The calculation of the maximum amount of the tax credit is made under section LJ 5(2), modified so that the item segment in the formula is the attributed amount for the income year.

No tax credit for associated entity

(10) The associated entity does not have a tax credit under this subpart for foreign income tax paid on or withheld in relation to the attributed amount.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, attributing interest, FIF, FIF income, foreign income tax, income, income tax liability, income year, investor, multi-rate PIE, net income, New Zealand, New Zealand tax, pay, resident in New Zealand, segment of foreign-sourced income, tax credit, tax year

LJ 5 Calculation of New Zealand tax

What this section does

(1) This section provides the rules that a person must use to calculate the amount of New Zealand tax for an income year in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income of the person that is allocated to the income year.

Calculation for single segment

(2) If the person has a notional income tax liability of more than zero, the amount of New Zealand tax for the income year relating to the allocated segment is calculated using the following formula, the result of which can not be less than zero:

((segment − person's deductions) ÷ person's net income) × notional liability.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2),—

(a) segment is the amount of the segment of foreign-sourced income for the income year:

(b) person's deductions is the amount of the person's deduction for the tax year corresponding to the income year that is attributable to the segment of foreign-sourced income:

(c) person's net income is the person's net income for the tax year corresponding to the income year under section BC 4(1) to (3) (Net income and net loss):

(d) notional liability is the person's notional income tax liability for the income year under subsection (5).

When subsection (4B) applies

(4) Subsection (4B) applies for the income year when the total amount of New Zealand tax for all segments of foreign-sourced income of the person calculated under subsection (2) is more than the notional income tax liability.

Modification to results of formula for single segment

(4B) Each amount of New Zealand tax calculated under subsection (2) in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income is adjusted by multiplying the amount by the following ratio:

person's notional income tax liability ÷ NZ tax.

Definition of item in formula

(4C) In the formula in subsection (4B), NZ tax is the amount given by adding together the result of the calculation under subsection (2), for each segment of assessable income from all sources, including assessable income sourced in New Zealand.

Person's notional income tax liability

(5) For the purposes of this section, a person's notional income tax liability for a tax year is calculated using the formula—

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5),—

(a) person's net income is the person's net income for the tax year:

(b) losses—

(i) is the amount of the loss balance carried forward to the tax year that the person must subtract from their net income under section IA 4(1)(a) (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year):

(ii) must be no more than the amount of the person's net income:

(c) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

Deductions for beneficiaries

(7) If the person is a beneficiary of a trust and has a segment of foreign-sourced income (the foreign income) that was received by the trust and is beneficiary income of the person, the person is treated for the purposes of this section as having the amount of deductions relating to the foreign income that a trustee of the trust would have had if the trustee were calculating their New Zealand tax for the foreign income under this section.

Defined in this Act: amount, beneficiary income, deduction, income tax, income tax liability, loss balance, net income, New Zealand, New Zealand tax, segment of foreign-sourced income, tax loss component, tax year, trustee

LT 1 Tax credits for petroleum miners

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for an income year if a petroleum miner or a farm-in party—

(a) has—

(2) The petroleum miner or farm-in party has a tax credit for the tax year corresponding to the income year less than or equal to the amount (the current loss credit) calculated using the formula—amount of loss × tax rate.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) amount of loss is the amount of the net loss described in subsection (1)(c) to the extent to which the amount does not exceed the total of the amounts for the deductions referred to in subsection (1)(a)(i) to (iii):

(b) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

Maximum amounts

(4) The amount of the credit must not be more than the lesser of—

(a) the amount of total tax given by subsection (4B); and

(b) the amount calculated using the formula—current loss credit – exploration abandonment excess.

Total tax

(4B) In subsection (4)(a), total tax is the amount of income tax paid by,—

(a) for a petroleum miner, the petroleum miner and any consolidated group of which they are a member on net income derived for all earlier tax years, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated:

(b) for a farm-in party, the farm-in party and any consolidated group of which they are a member on net income derived for all earlier tax years, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Current loss credit

(4C) In the formula in subsection (4)(b), the item current loss credit is the amount given by subsection (2).

Exploration abandonment excess

(4D) In the formula in subsection (4)(b), the item exploration abandonment excess is the greater of zero and,—

(a) if the amount described in subsection (1)(a)(iii) is zero or the amount of the net loss described in subsection (1)(c) is less than or equal to the total amount of the deductions described in subsection (1)(a)(i) and (ii), zero; or

(b) if the amount of the net loss described in subsection (1)(c) is equal to or exceeds the total amount of the deductions described in subsection

(1)(a)(i) to (iii) and the amount described in subsection (1)(a)(iii) is greater than zero, the amount calculated by multiplying the amount referred to in subsection (1)(a)(iii) for the income year by the tax rate referred to in subsection (3)(b) and subtracting the amount of income tax (the post-abandonment tax) paid by,—

(i) for a petroleum miner, the petroleum miner and any consolidated group of which they are a member on net income derived for tax years beginning after drilling for the purposes of exploration ceased in the exploratory well, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated:

(ii) for a farm-in party, the farm-in party and any consolidated group of which they are a member on net income derived for tax years beginning after drilling for the purposes of exploration ceased in the exploratory well, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated; or

(c) if neither of paragraphs (a) and (b) applies, the amount calculated using the formula—

Definition of items in formula

(4E) In the formula in subsection (4D)(c),—

(a) net loss is the amount of the net loss described in subsection (1)(c):

(b) decommissioning deductions is the total amount of the deductions described in subsection (1)(a)(i) and (ii):

(d) post-abandonment tax is the amount of income tax described in subsection (4D)(b).

Consolidated groups

(5) For the purposes of subsections (4B) and (4D), the amount of income tax paid by the consolidated group includes income tax paid on net income derived for tax years before the petroleum miner or farm-in party joined the group.

Treatment of trustees

(6) For the purposes of subsections (4B) and (4D), if the petroleum miner or farm-in party is a trustee of a trust, the amount of tax paid for each earlier tax year is determined—

(a) first, by reference to the amount of income tax paid under the obligations of a trustee under section HC 32 (Liability of trustee as agent); and

(b) secondly, by reference to the amount of tax paid on trustee income; and

(c) calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Calculations on year-by-year basis

(7) In subsections (4B), (4D), and (6)(c) a reference to a calculation on a year-by-year basis refers to a calculation starting with the immediately preceding tax year and working backwards to earlier tax years until the amount of tax paid is equal to or more than the current loss credit.

Treatment of tax losses

(8) To the extent to which the petroleum miner or farm-in party has a tax credit under this section, the amount of the net loss giving rise to the credit does not form part of a tax loss component for the petroleum miner or farm-in party.

Nature of tax credits

(9) The tax credit is available for use under section LA 6(2) (Remaining refundable credits: PAYE, RWT, and certain other items).

LU 1 Tax credits for mineral miners 2457

LU 1 Tax credits for mineral miners

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for an income year when—

(a) either—

(i) a mineral miner incurs an amount of mining rehabilitation expenditure in relation to a mining permit area; or

(ii) a mineral miner derives an amount under section CU 2 (Treatment of mining land) from the disposal of land or an interest in land in a mining permit area, and the amount the mineral miner derives from the disposal is less than the consideration that the mineral miner paid to acquire the land or interest in land; or

(iii) a mineral miner incurs an amount of mining development expenditure in relation to a mining permit area for which the mining permit has been relinquished, has expired, has been revoked or surrendered, as those terms are used in the Crown Minerals Act 1991, and the miner has no existing privilege for the permit area; and

(b) the mineral miner has a net mining loss for the mining permit area for the income year that is greater than the net income of the mineral miner for the income year from all other sources (the difference being the excess amount), calculated as follows:

(i) the mineral miner's net mining loss is treated as if their only income were income derived from the mining permit area:

(ii) the net income of the mineral miner from other sources is treated as if there were no income from the mining permit area.

Tax credit

(2) The mineral miner has a tax credit for the tax year corresponding to the income year for an amount calculated using the formula—expenditure or loss × tax rate.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) expenditure or loss is the excess amount referred to in subsection (1)(b) to the extent to which it consists of the amounts referred to in subsection (1)(a)(i) to (iii):

(b) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

Maximum

(4) Despite subsection (2), the maximum amount of the credit must not be more than the lesser of—

(a) the result of the formula; and

(b) the amount of income tax paid by the mineral miner on net income derived for all earlier tax years to the extent to which it relates to the mining permit area, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Treatment of trustees

(5) For the purposes of subsection (4), if the mineral miner is a trustee of a trust, the amount of tax paid for each earlier tax year is determined—

(a) first, by reference to the amount of income tax paid under the obligations of a trustee under section HC 32 (Liability of trustee as agent); and

(b) secondly, by reference to the amount of tax paid on trustee income; and

(c) calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Treatment of individuals

(6) For the purposes of subsection (4), if the mineral miner is an individual, the amount of tax paid for earlier tax years is calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated, as if their only income were income derived from the mining permit area.

Calculated on a year-by-year basis

(7) In subsections (4)(b), (5)(c) and (6), a reference to a calculation on a year-by-year basis refers to a calculation starting with the immediately preceding tax year and working backwards to earlier tax years until the amount of tax paid is equal to or more than the amount referred to in subsection (4)(a).

Treatment of tax loss

(8) To the extent to which the mineral miner has a tax credit under this section, the amount of the net mining loss giving rise to the credit does not form part of either a tax loss component or a net mining loss for the mineral miner.

Nature of tax credit

(9) The tax credit is available for use under section LA 6(2) (Remaining refundable credits: PAYE, RWT, and certain other items).

Relationship with other sections

(10) Subsection (8) overrides sections IA 2 and IA 7 (which relate to losses generally) and IS 1, IS 2, and IS 6 (which relate to tax losses for mineral mining).

Defined in this Act: amount, income, income year, interest, land, mineral miner, mining development expenditure, mining rehabilitation expenditure, net income, net mining loss, pay, permit area, tax credit, tax loss, tax loss component, tax year

Anti-avoidance

(5) Section GB 56 (Arrangements involving research and development tax credits) provides a specific anti-avoidance provision.

Expenditure or loss: GST

(6) For the purposes of calculating the amount of a person's expenditure or loss, section DB 2 (Goods and services tax) is applied to the amounts.

(a) the person's eligible research and development expenditure, together with eligible research and development expenditure for any joint venture of which the person is a member, is $50,000 or more for the year:

Calculation of tax credit

(2) A person's research and development tax credit for a tax year is calculated using the formula—

$$0.15 \times \text{total eligible R \& D expenditure.}$$

Definition of item in formula

Eligible research and development expenditure

(1) For the purposes of this subpart, eligible research and development expenditure—

(a) means expenditure or loss, described in schedule 21B, part A, if, for the income year, the expenditure or loss—

(i) directly relates to a research and development activity; and

(ii) is required for a research and development activity; and

(iii) is integral to a research and development activity; and

(ab) includes expenditure or loss, described in schedule 21B, part A, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is incurred on a supporting research and development activity conducted—

(i) in the income year immediately before the income year that this subpart first applies for the core research and development activity to which the supporting activity relates:

(ii) in the income year immediately after the income year that this subpart last applies for the core research and development activity to which the supporting activity relates; but

(b) does not include expenditure or loss, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is described in schedule 21B, part B:

(c) does not include expenditure or loss that would have been incurred in the absence of the research and development activity, if—

(i) the research and development activity is performed in the course of commercial production; and

(ii) the expenditure or loss is not in relation to an employee's contribution to a research and development activity.

Modification of eligible research and development expenditure

(2) Despite subsection (1), for an amount that is otherwise eligible research and development expenditure,—

(a) an amount that is for a research and development contractor to perform research and development activities for the person is only eligible research and development expenditure to the extent to which section LY 6 provides:

(b) an amount that is incurred on a research and development activity performed outside New Zealand, or is a payment of salary or wages to a non-resident, or is a payment for a service performed by a non-resident is only eligible research and development expenditure to the extent to which section LY 7 provides.

No double dip for contractors and others

(3) A person does not have eligible research and development expenditure to the extent to which the relevant expenditure or loss is eligible research and development expenditure of another person.

Defined in this Act: amount, eligible research and development expenditure, income year, loss, New Zealand, non-resident, pay, research and development activity, research and development contractor, salary or wages

Section LY 5: inserted, on 1 April 2019, by section 10 (and see section 3 for application) of the Taxation (Research and Development Tax Credits) Act 2019 (2019 No 15).

LY 6 Contracted research and development expenditure

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person for the purposes of section LY 5(2)(a) if the person has an amount of expenditure or loss (contracted research and development expenditure) for a research and development contractor to perform research and development activities for them.

Calculation of eligible research and development expenditure: contracted research and development expenditure

(2) For the purposes of section LY 5(2)(a), eligible research and development expenditure includes an amount of contracted research and development expenditure, described in subsection (1), to the extent of the amount calculated using the formula—contract amount − ineligible expenditure.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) contract amount means the amount of consideration paid or payable by the person to a contractor to perform research and development activities:

(b) ineligible expenditure means the contractor's expenditure or loss in relation to performing the research and development activity, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is not eligible research and development expenditure under section LY 5(1), treating the contractor as the relevant person for the purposes of that section.

Relationship with subject matter

(4) If an amount of contracted research and development expenditure, described in subsection (1), is also foreign research and development expenditure, described in section LY 7(1), then section LY 7 overrides this section in relation to that amount.

Defined in this Act: amount, eligible research and development expenditure, loss, research and development activity, research and development contractor

Section LY 6: inserted, on 1 April 2019, by section 10 (and see section 3 for application) of the Taxation (Research and Development Tax Credits) Act 2019 (2019 No 15).

LY 7 Foreign research and development expenditure

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person for the purposes of section LY 5(2)(b) if the person has an amount of expenditure or loss (foreign research and development expenditure) that—

(a) is incurred on a supporting research and development activity performed outside New Zealand:

(b) is a payment of salary or wages to a non-resident person, and the non-resident performs the relevant activity in New Zealand:

(c) is a payment for a service performed by a non-resident person, and the non-resident performs the relevant activity in New Zealand.

Calculation of eligible research and development expenditure: foreign research and development expenditure

(2) For the purposes of section LY 5(2)(b), eligible research and development expenditure includes an amount of foreign research and development expenditure, described in subsection (1), to the extent the amount is less than or equal to the lesser of—

(a) the amount given by the formula in subsection (3):

(b) the amount given by the formula in subsection (5).

Actual overseas expenditure amount

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(a), the amount is calculated using the formula—contract amount − ineligible expenditure + foreign in-house amount.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula in subsection (3),—

(a) contract amount means the amount of foreign research and development expenditure, described in subsection (1)(a) and (c), for another person (a foreign contractor) to perform research and development activities on behalf of the person:

(b) ineligible expenditure means the foreign contractor's expenditure or loss in relation to performing the research and development activities, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is not eligible research and development expenditure under section LY 5(1), treating the foreign contractor as the relevant person for the purposes of that section:

(c) foreign in-house amount means the amount of foreign research and development expenditure, described in subsection (1), under section LY 5(1) but ignoring amounts for a foreign contractor to perform research and development activities for the person.

Capped overseas expenditure amount

(5) For the purposes of subsection (2)(b), the amount is calculated using the formula—

$$0.1 \times \text{total NZ R \& D expenditure} \div 0.9.$$

Definition of item in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5), total NZ R & D expenditure means the amount of eligible research and development expenditure under section LY 5, but excluding any amount in relation to foreign research and development expenditure, described in subsection (1).

Defined in this Act: amount, core research and development activity, eligible research and development expenditure, loss, New Zealand, non-resident, research and development activity

Section LY 7: inserted, on 1 April 2019, by section 10 (and see section 3 for application) of the Taxation (Research and Development Tax Credits) Act 2019 (2019 No 15).

LY 8 Carry forward for remaining research and development tax credits

Carry forward

(1) For the purposes of section LA 5(4B) (Treatment of remaining credits), a person's remaining research and development tax credit for a tax year is carried forward to the next tax year and credited under section LY 1(3)(b) for that next tax year.

Carry forward: exception

(2) Despite subsection (1), if the person is a company, the remaining tax credit is extinguished and must not be carried forward and credited, unless the continuity rules in subsection (3) are met. This subsection is subject to subsections (4B) to (6).

Carry forward: another exception

(2B) Despite subsection (1), if a person is not a levy body researcher and the person derives exempt income for the tax year under section CW 38, CW 39, CW 40,

CW 41, CW 42, or CW 55BA (which relate to exempt income), the remaining tax credit is extinguished and must not be carried forward and credited.

Continuity rules

(3) For a company, the remaining tax credit is carried forward and credited if a group of persons exists that has, for the continuity period,—

(a) minimum voting interests in the company that total 49% or more; and

(b) when a market value circumstance exists for the company in the continuity period, minimum market value interests in the company that total 49% or more.

Some definitions

(4) In this section,—

continuity period means the period that starts on the first day of the income year that corresponds to the tax year in which the research and development tax credit first arises and ends on the last day of the income year that corresponds to the tax year to which the credit is being carried forward and credited to:

minimum market value interest means the lowest market value interest that a person has in the company for the continuity period:

minimum voting interest means the lowest voting interest that a person has in the company for the continuity period.

Breach of continuity

(4B) If a company's remaining tax credit cannot be carried forward and credited because the requirements of subsection (3) are not met, the company may apply subsection (4C), or subsections (5) and (6), to determine whether some or all of its remaining tax credit is carried forward and credited.

Carry forward of credits despite continuity breach

(4C) Despite a breach of continuity under subsection (3), a company may carry forward a remaining research and development tax credit arising in a tax year to a later tax year and credit it under section LY 1(3)(b) for that later tax year, if the remaining tax credit could be carried forward to that later tax year under subpart IB (Carrying forward companies' loss balances: continuity of business activities), treating the remaining tax credit as a tax loss component arising on the last day of the income year corresponding to the tax year in which the credit first arose.

Credits for earlier income years

(5) Despite a breach of continuity under subsection (3), a person's remaining research and development tax credit for an earlier tax year may be carried forward to a tax year (year A) and credited under section LY 1(3)(b) to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year of the company that corresponds to year A; and

(b) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements relating to the continuity period, calculating the amount of the person's income tax liability for the relevant part of the corresponding income year.

Credits for year of breach

(6) Despite a breach of continuity under subsection (3), a person's remaining research and development tax credit may be carried forward to the tax year (year B) from year A and credited under section LY 1(3)(b) to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year of the company that corresponds to year A; and

(i) to the extent to which the income is derived otherwise than under paragraph (a) or (b), it is treated as derived at a uniform daily rate during the income year; and
